Reciprocity Hearings Will Be Concluded This Week.

Washington, May 29.—Albert Rosenthal, a Philadelphia portrait painter, today startled the house committee which is investigating expenditures in the state department, with the charge that he was paid $850 for a portrait of Associate Judge William R. Hearings on Reciprocity.

Hearings on Canadian reciprocity before the senate finance committee will be completed, it is expected, by Wednesday or Thursday. He added that he hoped to see it reported out without amendments.

Representatives of the farming interests of South Dakota, who spent Friday and Saturday in opposing the bill, continued today. W. H. Lyon of Sioux Falls, S. D., James D. McKenny of Bradley and A. E. Chamberlain of the State University of South Dakota speaking for them. The farmers of the Northwest, almost to a man, they declared, are opposed to the bill.

KENNETH SELLERS.

(Makaglutokeca.)

Pierre, S. D., May 29.—Kenneth Sellers, known to the Sioux Indians as Makaglutokeca, is private secretary to Governor Vessee of South Dakota, but his ambition will probably take him to Washington before long because his experience with the Sioux Indians should make him valuable to the Indian service. Mr. Sellers was in the government service for three years before he became associated with the governor. He is only 23 years old and the youngest private secretary in the United States.

"CHUTES" AT FRISCO BURN

City's Biggest Outdoor Amusement Resort Is Destroyed.

Three Bodies Are Recovered and Others Are Being Sought.

San Francisco, May 29.—Three bodies have been recovered from the ashes of a fire that destroyed "The Chutes," San Francisco's largest outdoor amusement resort, early this morning.

Firemen are searching the ruins for bodies of others still unaccounted for.

Occupants of an adjoining lodging house, which caught fire, were roused from their beds to find that escape was cut off. Before the firemen arrived, Della Alliviso, a 19-year-old girl, and John Feist, jumped from a second story window. Both were dangerously injured.

John Boettinger and another man, whose name is not known, who were sleeping in the lodging house, are believed to have perished.

The theater of the Chutes, which was built of concrete, is the only building within the resort saved. The loss is estimated at $250,000.

NYE DEFENSE IS CRIPPLED

Judge Kinkead Rules Out Testimony of Printer's Chief Clerk.

Columbus, Ohio, May 29.—Judge Kinkead, in criminal court today, crippled the defense in the trial of Representative George B. Nye, indicted for soliciting a bribe, when just before the examination of the first witness, E. H. Clyburn, a former representative, he ruled out of the evidence the testimony of E. H. Nichols, State Printer Crawford's chief clerk, as to the substance of the conversation which had occurred in the state printer's office between the state printer and Mr. Nye.

Clyburn was called to testify that he overheard the conversation, but this was also ruled out.

Nichols testified that Nye went to Crawford's office and talked about the Adams county gerrymander bill. Crawford testified that Nye met him in the street instead of at his office.

MORE INCENDIARY FIRES IN DUBUQUE, IOWA.

Dubuque, Ia., May 29.—Three men are under arrest on suspicion that they may know something of a second incendiary fire that yesterday and last night caused $250,000 damage in the yards of the Standard Lumber company and destroyed other property worth $60,000. A reward of $5,000 had been offered for the arrest and conviction of the men who, it is thought, set fire to the lumber yard.

ANTI-MADERO PLOT BARED

Two Arrests Made at El Paso —One Prisoner Is an American.

Gen. Villjoen Tells of Effort to Draw Him Into Conspiracy.

El Paso, Tex., May 29.—Revelations of an alleged plot to start another revolution in Mexico after overthrowing the leadership of Francisco I. Madero, Jr., and preventing his journey to City of Mexico, created intense excitement throughout the insurrecto army today.

That Madero had been advised of certain facts not generally known is believed by some to explain the delay in his departure to the capital to consult with President De La Barra concerning the pressing problems connected with the reorganization of the government, although Senor Madero, himself, declared he postponed his trip merely to await the installation of the provisional governors.

American Is Arrested.

The plot, which resulted last night in the arrest of Daniel De Villiers of City of Mexico at El Paso, and of W. F. Dunn, an American, at Monterey, Mex., is said to include three insurrecto chiefs operating in the state of Coahuila. A telegram from Monterey today states that Dunn, on Madero's orders, has been placed incommunicado for seventy-two hours. De Villiers is held in the El Paso jail on charges of "conspiracy to murder Francisco I. Madero, Jr."

According to Gen. Benjamin Villjoen, the Boer veteran who is Madero's chief military adviser, the scheme was that Villjoen and Gen. Orozco were to

PASTOR IS LURED OUT AND BEATEN

Montana Methodist Minister Is Victim of Thugs' Attack.

Helena, Mont., May 29.—Lured from his home on the pretense that he was wanted to perform a marriage ceremony Rev. Dr. E. E. Fairchild, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church, was brutally and possibly fatally assaulted here.

While conscious for a few minutes he explained that he had been assaulted by two men, both of whom were masked.

That robbery was not the motive was shown by the fact that a purse containing a considerable amount of money was not taken.

MANY FAMILIES ARE MADE HOMELESS BY FIRE.

Bellefontaine, Ohio, May 29.—Many families were rendered homeless in the village of Big Springs, this county, by a fire which destroyed two-thirds of the place early today. The loss is $100,000. Three business blocks a sawmill and stone company plant were burned. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

FIREBUG IS AGAIN BUSY IN SUBURB

New Duluth Isolated By Blaze Which Destroys Long Bridge.

All Automobile and Team Traffic to Suburb Cut Off.

The maniacal firebug at whose door most of the New Duluth fires have been laid, seems to be still at large.

Early this morning the big bridge near New Duluth was burned to the ground. No doubt whatever exists in the minds of the authorities and the residents of New Duluth that it was of incendiary origin. An attempt was made about a month ago to set the big structure on fire, but it was discovered in time to prevent more than the loss of one pile at one end.

This is the second big fire in less than two weeks. A week ago Friday part of the yards of the New Duluth Lumber company was destroyed by fire, causing a loss estimated at $10,000. This, however, was caused by lightning.

It is estimated that the loss of the bridge will amount to $20,000 and it is stated that it will cost more than that sum to replace it. The bridge was built a short time after New Duluth had been started. It was a block and a half long, the full width of the street, and one of the highest bridges in the city. Its destruction will practically cut off all travel between the city and New Duluth and Fond du Lac. All teams and automobiles had to go over it. It is possible to get around the deep gulch where it spanned, but the road is extremely rough and difficult to travel. It is doubted if any big loads would be able to make it in safety.

Smoke and flames were seen shooting from the structure about 4 o'clock this morning. They were first seen by a laborer, who came running into the town yelling at the top of his voice. He

SPREADING RAILS CAUSE WRECK IN SUPERIOR YARDS

Omaha Train Leaves Track and Overturns in the Ditch.

Fireman Is Seriously Injured—Others Sustain Slight Bruises.

Passengers Cut By Flying Glass When Coaches Topple Over.

The Chicago-Duluth Omaha trains, No. 96, was derailed in the Superior yards this afternoon at 1 o'clock. By some strange trick of fate no one was killed in the smash-up, but several people were hurt, one perhaps fatally. The engine, tender, mail car, baggage car and two coaches left the tracks.

Victor Johnson, fireman, tried to jump just as the locomotive was toppling over and was thrown. He was badly bruised and sustained internal injuries.

William Walrich, engineer, went down with the engine, which turned completely over. He escaped with nothing more serious than a burned foot.

John C. McCarthy of St. Paul and L. H. Parker of Duluth, both clerks in the railway mail service, were injured, but not seriously. L. E. Swathing of Black River Falls, Wis., a passenger was also injured. All of the injured were taken to St. Mary's hospital.

The damage to the equipment is heavy. The engine is a total wreck. The observation car, chair car and sleeper did not leave the tracks. The two coaches which left the tracks turned over on their side, and many of the passengers were slightly bruised and cut with flying glass. There were about sixty on board in addition to the train crew. The wreck took place at Clough avenue, near the Northern Brewing company's plant. The train was 35 minutes late, but was running comparatively slow in the yards. A spread rail is said to have caused it. The train was in charge of Conductor Tearney.

SERVICE LAW IS SUSTAINED

Hours of Continuous Work of Railroad Employes Are Limited.

Baltimore & Ohio Loses on Appeal to Supreme Court.

Washington, May 29.—The "hours of service law" for railroad employes passed by congress in 1907 was upheld today as constitutional by the supreme court of the United States. This decision was announced by Justice Hughes in the test suit instituted by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company.

The decision of the court was unanimous.

Justice Hughes said that the words of the statute were plain that only persons engaged in interstate commerce and interstate carriers were affected by the statute. In this particular, he said it differed from the employes' liability law of 1906. Because the interstate employes sometimes engage in intrastate business did not defeat the law, he added.

As to the authority of the interstate commerce commission to issue the order putting the law into effect, the justice said that the entire question of authority had been settled by legislation in 1910. The justice found no other objection to the order or to the law itself.

Provisions of the Law.

The act made it unlawful for any common carrier engaged in interstate commerce to permit any trainman subject to the act to remain on duty for a longer period than sixteen consecutive hours, or any telegraph operator more than nine or thirteen hours, according to the time the telegraph station was opened for business. The act also created periods of rest for the employes.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company attacked the law as unconstitutional on the ground that it applied to intrastate as well as to interstate railroads and employes.

Called It Unconstitutional.

The order by which the interstate commerce commission placed the law in operation was attacked also. The railroad claimed that congress could not and did not attempt to delegate to the commission the power to require reports of violations of the law; that the labor and expense necessary to make the reports constituted a taking of the railroad's property without due process of law and therefore it was in violation of the Constitution.

The objections to the law were met with denials by the government. Both the law itself and the order drafted by the interstate commerce commission were upheld as constitutional by the circuit court of the United States for the District of Maryland, where the case originated.

GERMANY WILLING TO TALK OF PEACE

Washington, May 29.—Germany today expressed her willingness to enter into negotiations with the United States for a general arbitration treaty along the lines laid down by Secretary Knox in the tentative draft of the government's proposal, now in the hands of Great Britain and France.

Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador at Washington, conveyed this information to Secretary Knox and asked for a copy of the basic proposition of the United States.

STEEL MEN MEET TO TALK PRICES

Gary Says He Hopes There Will Be No Reductions Made.

New York, May 29.—Steel manufacturers gathered here today to attend a meeting called to discuss the trade situation following the reduction in the price of steel bars made last week by the Republic Iron & Steel company. Chairman Gary of the Steel corporation, before the meeting, expressed satisfaction with the outlook.

"It is hard to tell what the general outcome of the Republic Iron & Steel company's action will be," said Chairman Gary. "I am hoping, however, for the best, and trust that there will be no general reduction of prices."

Conditions in the West.

Referring to conditions in the West, he said:

"Everything is rosy out there and generally prosperous. Steel plants at Gary are doing nicely and the whole general outlook is for the best. With a nominal crop this year the country should again be in a prosperious condition."

Chairman Gary reached here from Chicago today.

BURN AMERICAN AT THE STAKE

San Francisco, Cal., May 29.—Refusing to comply with demands for money by a band of bandits at Ajuno, Michoacan, Robert J. Sweasey, an American, superintendent of the Central Railroad of Michoacan, was burned at the stake on May 16, according to the story of Joseph Hansfelder, one of the refugees who arrived here yesterday on the steamer Newport from Manzanillo.

Hansfelder says that the bandits have made demands for money of every American in the district. Some complied, but Sweasey refused to pay. Hansfelder declares that he made his way to Sweasey's house, three miles distant from his own home, on May 19, and found the house burned to the ground and Sweasey's body lashed to a post in the midst of the burning embers.

Mrs. Sweasey had disappeared and is believed to have been taken prisoner by bandits and held for a ransom.

Faring his own house would be attacked, Hansfelder took passage for the United States. Sweasey is believed by Hansfelder to have been a former resident of San Diego.

LOCOMOTIVE RUNS WILD IN THE YARDS

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—Running wild for more than a mile in the railroad yards here today, a Big Four engine crashed into sleepers and then overturned without injuring anyone. The engine tore off the rear end of one of the Pullmans as far as the first sleeping compartment. Passengers in this car were badly shaken up, but none was injured.

The engine, it is said, was running thirty miles an hour, and the railroad officials are unable to explain how it got away without a driver.

"Where-Rails-and-Water-Meet" Buttons Also Ordered.

Requests for badges for the delegates to the meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association Thursday and Friday are coming in to Secretary W. R. Mackenzie. Mr. Mackenzie is having the white badges printed with the name of each county stamped on the badges for the delegates from that county. He has notified the officers of the county associations to order their badges in advance, so he will know how many to have ready.

Polk county has sent for twenty-five of the white ribbons; Hubbard, fifteen; Beltrami, twenty; Pennington, ten; Cass, fifteen; Itasca, twenty-five; and Crow Wing, thirty. The other counties are expected to send along their requests for like numbers and every conuty in the northern part of the state will be well represented at the meeting.

The Duluth Commercial club has had a number of "Where Rails and Water Meet" buttons prepared and they will be furnished the delegates. The badges and buttons should be very conspicuous in Duluth Thursday and Friday and will mark the people who are entitled to special consideration, courtesy and hospitality from Duluthians. Everybody interested in the convention is anxious that Duluth should prove its hospitality, and the white-badge wearers will own the city.

Arrangements have been completed for the big meeting. All through Northern Minnesota interest is aroused to a pitch never previously known in advance of a meeting of the association. Visitors are coming from the Twin Cities and from many other points in the southern part of the state. Representatives of the Michigan and Wisconsin associations will be in Duluth to see how Northern Minnesota sets about the development of its resources. The program is a program of progress and development and is of interest, not only to Northern Minnesota, but to the entire state.

LAST ORPHEUM BILL OF SEASON

Excellent Vaudeville Program Is Offered for the Closing Week.

There is no sign of slighting the last week's bill at the Duluth Orpheum.

The bill which opened yesterday is one of the best of the entire season, and looks like one of the most expensive bills that ever played the Duluth theater. By actual count there are twenty-six performers on the bill, exclusive of the orchestra, and it is an elaborate, entertaining and smoothly running show throughout. Individual tastes differ so much in respect to vaudeville, that there is no way of judging the "best show" of the season, but a popular vote would probably place this week's bill among the first half dozen.

An acrobatic act with eleven people, all of whom are actual performers, might be considered a little too elaborate for a vaudeville bill, but that is what the Lorch Family consists of, to say nothing of the two ponies and two donkeys they carry. It is certainly the biggest acrobatic act seen in Duluth this season, and is probably the most entertaining, judged from the applause the performers drew last evening. The performers are clad in Spanish costume, and the act opens outside of a bull ring.. Some Spanish dancing is introduced as an opener, and this is followed by some wonderfully fast and clever acrobatics, tumbling and risley work. With the eleven people all working at once, the stage seems to be alive with whirling bodies. The act is kept moving at top speed for about ten minutes, and it makes a very fitting closing act and climax to a first-class show.

Probably the next best act on the bill is the featured act presented by The Four Huntings, and called "The Fool House." The Four Huntings are former musical comedy stars, and their act is taken from their musical comedy, with the musical numbers left out. The scene is laid in an asylum for the insane, and the comedy is sheer nonsense, enlivened with some tumbling, rapid and amusing "horse play" and some very good dancing. The young woman in the act, Miss Mollie Hunting makes a very attractive appearance, and on the whole the Four Huntings make about fifteen minutes pass most pleasantly.

The Empire Comedy Four probably scored the comedy hit of the bill. This quartet consists of a funny Dutchman, a lugubrious broken down actor with a very deep bass voice, a tenor, and a ladylike young man with a blonde wig. They aim at comedy effects chiefly and let the harmony take care of itself. At times it seems that they would do well to present a little less comedy and a little more singing, but the Sunday audiences took all the comedy offered and asked for more, and the Empire Four probably got more applause than any other act on the bill.

Another comedy hit was the act presented by Welch, Mealy and Montrose. Welch is a ponderous comedian, who impersonates a tough ball player of the bull dozing type. The two men with him are clever acrobats and dancers. The first part of the act consists of a melange of dancing, tumbling, and comedy, and the last part is a burlesque ball game, with Welch figuring in the role of catcher. The act got away very nicely last evening.

Two neat and dainty little "single" acts are included in this week's bill, one presented by Miss Corinne Frances, and the other by Leo Carrillo. In each case the appearance and personality of the performer has much to do with the success of the act. Miss Frances is a young woman of charming appearance, who sings a number of bright little airs in a thoroughly enjoyable manner. Mr. Carrillo tells some Chinese stories, gives some good imitations of well known sounds, and ends with a political speech in Italian dialect. Neither act is pretentious one, but both are attractive and amusing.

The opening act is singularly good. It is presented by Vittorio and Georgetto, known as "The Upside Down Boys." They dance on their hands; walk on their hands, and end up with an uproariously funny boxing match in which one of the performers wears the gloves on his hands and the other on his feet.

The moving pictures and the orchestra's overture complete the bill. It will continue with a daily matinee, until Saturday night, when the closing performance of the season will be given.

"SLIP ONE OVER" ON THE AUDIENCE

Musical Berrens Catch One Man Napping at Empress Theater.

A big stout man, sitting in a lower box at the Empress theater at the opening performance of the new vaudeville bill yesterday, was badly "stung" to his own chagrin and the amusement of the audience. The man was probably a "plant" put there by the actors, but he played his part well.

It was the musical Berrens, who, after a novel and entertaining musical act, caught the big audience unawares and slipped over a surprise on both the audience and the stout man, who had been carrying on a quiet flirtation with what had seemed to be about as dainty a piece of femininity as had ever trod the stage of the Empress theater.

To end in a cold splash the woman was not a woman after all and when his wig was removed the stout man was one of the first to look for a "this way out" sign. The laugh was on the occupant of the box although he had been taken in no more than the rest of the audience. One of the Berrens surely did make a good looking girl. There is no mistake about that. Their musical act was enjoyable, too.

Robinson and LaFavor have an act they call "barrels of fun." It consists mainly of jumping in and out of barrels. Some of the tricks are new and they provide good comedy, making their act as enjoyable as an act of this kind can be.

Watson and Dwyer have a clever singing and dancing stunt which proved to be probably the most popular number on the bill with yesterday's audiences. Their comic songs are new and they made good, the clever lines bringing many laughs. Both men have good voices and just to show that they can entertain without trying to be funny, they gave several more serious numbers and got away with them in a pleasing manner. The men are both good dancers. They so mix their different offerings and make each one so thoroughly enjoyable that their act was too short to satisfy the first nighters.

The "Makarenko Duo," a pair of singers from far away Russia, made a distinct hit. These people came direct from the Alexandria theater at St. Petersburg. They have an entertainment which is odd, new and entertaining. Patrons of the house took to them in great shape yesterday and the singers were forced to answer to several encores.

Edouard Jose and his company are presenting a very clever little one-act playlet entitled, "Father." It is full of human interest and there are moments when mingled sentiments brings from the audience both a smile and a tear. The company is composed of four people and the play is well staged and the parts are well taken.

The performance ends with the usual moving pictures. The show this week is one of the best presented in some time. There will be three performances daily, one each afternoon and two each evening every day during the remainder of the week.

CLOQUET HONORING BISHOP McGOLRICK

Many of Other Faiths Hear His Lecture—Will Give Him Banquet.

Cloquet, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of Duluth, lectured last night at the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart to a large audience. Many Protestants were present, as the bishop is known and admired by many people in Cloquet outside the Catholic parish. The bishop made a few opening remarks on the teaching of the girls of today, and expressed the wish that more might be taught the homely duties of housekeeping, saying that it was better for the girls' higher morality to be taught domestic accomplishments and that they find their employment in homes, than to fit themselves for service behind the counters in the large stores of the cities.

Spirit of Charity Not Lost.

The bishop said that the spirit of charity as embodied in the words of Christ, "Suffer the little children to come unto me," has not been lost in the world through the ages, but that it is as alive today as it was in the time that the words were spoken. Part of the bishop's mission to Cloquet yesterday was to say mass for the children, give the dwarfs to the children of the parish, and interest the people of Cloquet in the Catholic Orphans' home in Duluth.

The bishop said that he considered the Bible beyond comparison with any other book that ever existed, even though he said that the first words of the holy book, "In the beginning" may be translated in 120 different ways, and proof of its greatness was its preservation through the centuries. He paid tributes to Americans as a great and distinct people, differing from any other race that has ever existed and with a great work of their own to perform. He urged the love and true regard of the scriptures and in closing spoke of anarchism as the "abandonment of all sacred scriptures," and declared that the "church is, and and will be in time to come, the breakwater between the people and the revolution that may spread over the face of the earth."

Today Bishop McGolrick visited the mills and other industries and the state experimental station and tonight will be entertained by the citizens at a banquet at Hotel Cloquet.

Here she will have the tempting dishes of Henri, her own French chef.

Here is her palatial home on wheels Mme. Bernhardt, it is said, is treated like a queen by her entire entourage. No princess of the realm could travel more sumptuously or be surrounded by more loving and devoted retainers than is this illustrious artist.

As an instance of how much people love her, it is told that her stage manager, Peron, has been with her thirty-two years; her personal manager, who died on the last tour, Mr. Simonson, no less than twenty-five years; M. Deneugourg, a faithful member of her company, twenty-four years; while Mme. Boulanger has been with her for eighteen years and several people over ten years each. Her secretary has been with her twenty years; one of her maids twenty-six years, while two others have been in the employ for a dozen or more seasons. This is given as a fair example of how Mme. Bernhardt's associates love to be with her because of her many good qualities, notwithstanding her rigid rule of discipline both on and off the stage.

Has No Contract.

Another interesting fact is that this is her second visit with her American manager, William F. Connor, in whom she has the utmost faith, not even having required the scratch of a pen for a contract. Mr. Sullivan, the business manager of the company, who looks after her every want, is occupying the same position as he had five years ago, and the same can be said of George Murray, in advance of the company, who was with her on her last tour as were also Nick Loritz, her stage mechanician and his assistant.

It is said that one would hardly look upon the organization as a theatrical company, but more as a happy family. Those identified with her say that on the least provocation a dinner is given to madame, or one of her company, to celebrate the heundreth performance, or New Year's eve, or a trip to Niagara Falls. This with the admiration of the American public for the woman and the genius, they say, makes what she terms the happiest period of her career.

Many and varied are the tales told of Mme. Bernhardt, the actress, but few are familiar with that other side of her nature, which reveals itself only in the close and constant companionship of friendship and work.

The Bernhardt Method.

One of those who has known Mme. Bernhardt for years says:

"Ushered into her dressing room between the acts one finds her sitting deep in a comfortable chair, with an air of repose that one who is tired recuperates strength by merely looking at her. If she has to change her makeup she does it with the languid grace of one who has a whole morning to spend in her boudoir preparing for the day. Meanwhile, she is talking to half a dozen friends and strangers, betraying in her conversation a keen personal interest in them and apparently with no thought of herself or of the other acts of the drama that she must go through with before the evening is over.

"After the play it takes her two or three hours to let down from the tension of the character she has portrayed—to become, as she says, Mme. Bernhardt again. As soon as she takes off her makeup and gets into her street clothes again she climbs into her automobile, and, accompanied by several friends, goes back to the hotel. Others meet her there, and all go up to her suite for a supper. Nearly every night in this manner she holds a sort of fete, laughing, bandying wit, and coming back slowly to her composed and normal self."

From Thin to Plump—Girls.

The expressions of happiness and gratitude of several of his young lady patients for whom he prescribed, the recently successful flesh forming product, known as three grain hypo-nuclane tablets, is related by a physician in one of the medical publications and it comes as a surprise to the ordinary layman to learn the heart throbs of distress which seems to effect so many young people who are abnormally thin. Also to know that the weight can be so readily increased by the use, regularly for several months, of this peculiarly named preparation, now obtainable of the best physicians and apothecary shops in sealed packages with complete instructions for self-administration.

Water Board Recommends Purchase of Land at Minneapolis Avenue.

Preliminaries to West End Hillside Extension Are Nearly Completed.

A communication will be presented to the city council tonight by the board of water and light commissioners, recommending that the city purchase sufficient additional land at Minneapolis avenue to allow the construction of a 5,000,000 gallon reservoir. The land has been offered to the city at $1,200. The commissioners propose to acquire the property this year and construct the reservoir next season.

Representatives of the West End Hillside Improvement club appeared before the board at the last meeting and stated that more than enough money has been subscribed to guarantee the amount required by the board to make the extension to the West end hillside district. Manager Case has been instructed to order the pipe and arrange the preliminaries for the extension as soon as the guarantees are filed with him.

The extension will run back of Central park and down into the West end hillside district by Diamond street and Piedmont avenue to Seventh street.

Representatives of the Children's Home appeared before the board at the last meeting also and requested that a special rate for water be given the home. It was pointed out that the water bills have been increasing and are now a hardship on the home. The members of the board took the matter under advisement, and if the action can be taken legally, it is very likely the request for a lower rate will be granted.

OUT OF CLEARING HOUSE.

Lorimer Makes Announcement Regarding His Bank.

Chicago, May 29.—United States Senator William Lorimer, as president of the La Salle Street National bank, has issued a statement indicating the intention of the bank in the future to operate without connection with the Chicago clearing house.

The statement was issued after a committee of the clearing house had considered the advisability of admitting the bank to membership, but before any public announcement of its deliberations had been made. The Corn Exchange National bank which since the opening of the La Salle street bank on May 2, 1910, has acted as its clearing house agent, has refused to continue in that capacity after the end of this month.

"The only disadvantage of not clearing through a clearing house bank is the slight increase of the clerical force," said Senator Lorimer.

"A bank's relations to the federal government are not affected in any way by its lack of connection with a local clearing house association."

POLICEMAN SAW HOLDUP

Watched William Murphy Attempt to Rob Harry Dahl.

Interfered and Marched the Would-Be Bandit to Police Station.

William Murphy is alleged to have attempted to hold up Harry Dahl, a butcher, shortly before 1 o'clock Sunday morning on the west side of Sixth avenue west at the alley, while Patrolman Englert stood across the street watching him.

It is claimed that as Dahl was walking past the alley Murphy stepped from the dark shadow and grabbed him by the coat, demanding his money. Dahl is said to have had $49 with him, of which amount $25 was in silver which he carried in a small leather sack.

The policeman ran across the street and nabbed Murphy just as he tried to dart down the alley. He sent him to headquarters on a charge of attempted robbery. Murphy did not display any gun or other weapon, and did not succeed in getting into Dahl's pockets.

When he took hold of Dahl, Dahl pushed him away and offered fight. Murphy is said to have told him that he had better "dig up" or he would "get what was coming to him." On the way to the patrol box Murphy begged the cop to look the other direction to give him a chance to "beat it." He said that his home was at Ashtabula, Ohio, where he claims to be well acquainted with a number of sailors. He asked for an examination when arraigned in police court this afternoon. His hearing will be held later.

SALOON MEN IN TROUBLE

Police Make Arrests for Illegal Sales of Liquor Sunday.

One Man Pleads Guilty and Others Will Have Trials.

Police activity yesterday was directed against saloons which were suspected of running Sundays. One arrest was made yesterday; two were made this morning and it is stated that still others will follow as soon as warrants can be served.

Ole Larson, bartender for John Dunphy, a West end saloon keeper, who was brought in yesterday, entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning and paid a fine of $100. Sievert Hanson, bartender at the U and I saloon, 517½ West Michigan street, pleaded not guilty to selling liquor on Sunday and his trial was set for Thursday morning.

Maurice Bodin, proprietor of a lodging house over the saloon of 1625 West Superior street, pleaded not guilty to selling liquor on Sunday. It is claimed that he has been running a blind pig over the drink emporium. He will have his trial Thursday.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Henry Casmir at 202 Lake avenue south. He recently paid a fine of $100 for the same offense. It is stated at the police station that he told the man who secured the evidence against that he was arrested a short time ago for keeping open on Sunday, but that he had profited by the experience to such an extent that he was too shrewd for the police. He will probably be arraigned in police court this afternoon.

YOU CAN'T MAKE IT TOO STRONG

Says Ray McNally in Speaking of Cures Being Made By the United Doctors.

Ray C. McNally of Rogers, Neb., wrote the following letter to the United Doctors those world famous medical specialists who have their Duluth institute located on the third floor of the Columbia building:

"Rogers, Neb., March 27, 1911.

"Dear Doctors—Received your third order of medicine and am very thankful to you. Write a letter for publication and send to me and I'll approve it. You can't put it too strong for I can't begin to tell in mere words the work you have done for me since you have restored me to health as you claimed to be able to do. At the start I felt in doubt, but after the first month's treatment I felt sure of recovery for I felt so much more like I should.

"Now I would rather you would write a letter for me for publication for it is impossible for me to express the many thanks I owe you for curing me and I am anxious to help you and every person who is sick. I wish you a large practice as long as you doctor, not that I wish for sickness for there is so much now, but it is that I want people to reach you and be cured as I have been. I will certainly do all I can to induce and direct sick people to see you.

"Hoping you will write a good letter for me to sign, I am, Yours truly,

"RAY C. McNALLY."

"P. S.—If there is anything I can do for you I will be glad to favor you."

By working "unitedly," by dilligent, unceasing effort for many years, the physicians who compose the staff of the United Doctors have developed a new and more scientific system of treating disease. The many extraordinary cures which have been made throughout the whole country by this new "united" system of treatment has made the United Doctors famous and has brought to them a host of warm friends.

Such letters as the above, coming every day from all parts of the country, prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that the United Doctors are the court of last resort for sick people. When all ordinary doctors and medicines have failed, then, as a last resort, consult the United Doctors.

TEACHERS ORGANIZE

Retirement Fund Association Now in Good Working Order.

Treasury Will Contain $10,000 at End of the Year.

At a meeting of the Teachers' Retirement Fund association Saturday, by-laws were adopted, and reports were submitted showing that the association is now well organized, well financed and in good working order.

It has nearly 100 members and the membership is increasing.

At the end of the year, the treasury will contain $10,000, and $18,000 or $19,000 has been pledged in arrearages, which money will be paid in in installments. The arrearages are dues for years before the association was in existence, and will give the teachers thus paying an opportunity of taking advantage of the benefits of the association as soon as their length of service will allow.

The officers of the association are: President, R. E. Denfeld; secretary, F. N. Burrell; financial secretary, Charles A. Bronson; treasurer, E. R. Cobb; board of trustees, W. G. Crosby, S. H. Boyer, Eleanor Thompson, S. A. Foster, Annie M. Hicken.

The fund will be made up of an annual tax levy of 1-10 mill, and assessments on the members. Twenty-three years' service will give the teachers a right to retire on $333.33 yearly, and thirty years' service on $500 yearly. The total expense of the association to date has been $75. No teacher has yet tired yet, but it is expected that several will next year.

The by-laws, in part, follow:

Membership.

"Any person entitled to membership in this association shall make application for membership in the manner and upon the form of application specified by the board of trustees. Said application shall contain a statement of the amount of the teaching service claimed by the applicant to have been rendered prior to the date of application, and shall be filed with the secretary of the association. Upon receipt of the application the same shall be submitted to such officers as the trustees may designate for their approval, and when the same is approved the applicant shall be entitled to a certificate of membership.

Forfeiture of Membership.

"Failure to pay any sum or sums due this association from its members, whether the same be current dues or installments due upon payments for back dues for service rendered prior to membership in this association, at the time when the same becomes due in accordance with the articles of incorporation or of the by-laws shall operate to terminate membership in the association, provided that the failure to pay continues for the period of thirty days after any such payment is due.

"Any member whose membership ceases by reason of default in the payment of any sum due the association, shall be reinstated upon payment of all claims due the association together with a penalty of 25 per cent upon such dues so in arrears, provided, however, that if the default shall continue for a year the member shall not be reinstated without a special permission obtained from the board of trustees.

Absence.

"In case of absence on account of illness or for the purpose of study in some institution of learning, dues shall be paid the same as though the teacher were in actual service; and the time shall be counted in estimating teaching service, unless such absence shall continue for a period of five school months or more in succession. And in such event, dues shall not be collected for the period while the teacher is absent. But in the event that dues are not paid for any period whatever, such period shall not be counted in estimating the amount of teaching service which shall be placed to the credit of such teacher for the purpose of fixing the amount thereon. In the event that dues are paid during an absence of five months, and the absence continues beyond the five months, the teacher may obtain a refund of all dues paid for the period of absence. But no credit shall be given such teacher for the time of such absence without the payment of dues in estimating the amount of teaching service.

Application for Annuity.

"Any member of this association eligible for retirement upon an annuity, who ceases to be in the employ of the board of education of the independent school district of Duluth and thereby becomes entitled to receive such annuity within one year after such teacher shall become entitled to the same; and failure to apply for such annuity shall forfeit all right to be paid such annuity during the time which elapses between the time when such member became entitled to such annuity and the time when application is made; and failure to apply for such annuity within a period of five years shall forfeit all rights thereto.

Application for Rebate.

"If any teacher ceases to be a member of this association before such teacher is entitled to an annuity, application shall be made to this association for a refund of the amount to which such member is entitled, which said application shall be made within one year from the date when such member becomes entitled to such refund; and failure to make application for such refund within one year shall forfeit all right to the same.

Rates in Case of Retirement.

"In the event that any teacher is retired before such teacher has paid to the association all sums due the association, then and in that case, after such teacher has paid a sufficient amount to entitle such teacher to an annuity, the sum still due shall be paid in equal annual installments, the first of said installments becoming due within one year after the payment of annuities begins, and the final installments being due when the last payment would have become due if such teacher had not been retired; and the amount of such annual installment for back dues which shall become due and payable in one year shall be deducted from the annuity to be paid such teacher during said year.

Death or Resignation.

"In the event of the death or the resignation of any teacher before such teacher has paid to the association all sums due the association for back dues upon teaching service rendered prior to membership in the association, then in such case the following settlement shall be made:

"First—If less than one-half of the total back dues have been paid in, the claim of the association for back dues shall be cancelled, but no refund shall be made to such teacher or the estate of said teacher for payments made to the association on account of back dues.

"Second—If more than one-half of the back dues have been paid in, all sums paid as back dues in excess of one-half of the back dues shall be refunded.

Teaching Service Outside.

"In estimating the teaching service outside of the independent school district of Duluth, credit may be had for the teaching service rendered outside of the United States as well as within the United States.

Substitute Teachers.

"In estimating the service in the schools of Duluth, credit maybe had for substitute work. But in that event the actual number of days taught shall be ascertained and credit given upon the understanding that 180 days constitute a year of teaching service in the city of Duluth."

desert Madero and start a new revolutionary movement, which would be joined by certain insurrecto leaders now in the field, together with a federal general known to be friendly to the "cientifico" party. It was represented to him, Gen. Villjoen asserts, that great quantities of arms and ammunition were stored in the mines of Coahuila, in anticipation of the new outbreak, and that success was assured, as "Madero would never reach City of Mexico."

Behind the Arrest.

Behind the arrest of the two alleged conspirators last night is the story of several weeks of conferences and the exchange of many telegrams. Soon after the battle of Juarez, Gen. Villjoen received a telegram from the City of Mexico saying "The government wants to make a proposition." The telegram was signed "Villlers." Madero was informed of the telegram and it was decided to give every encouragement to those behind the overtures. Villjoen accordingly sent a reply stating that he "was open to receive propositions."

This was followed by a telegram from De Villlers instructing Villjoen "to watch the rebel chief, note by what route he comes, and when he leaves. Make friends with Orozco. There is a fortune in sight for us."

Shortly after this two men appeared in El Paso and secretly met Villjoen and Orozco, who profesed their willingness to enter the plot. Villjoen declares he was to receive $25,000 and Orozco a like amount. Money was given them for current expenses, Villjoen receiving $480 and Orozco $200.

Had Cipher Message.

Dunn, who was one of the pair, Villjoen asserts, translated to them a cipher message which read:

"Last message at hand. Rosen working fast for change of federal city. Do not worry about financial end of which will take care. Would advise direct action Diaz at early time. Be very careful slip. Continue advising and act as you think best. Mexico City man says agent Figueroa brother coming you from south.—ADOLFO."

The message, it was explained, came from the agent of the conspiracy at City of Mexico. The reference to Diaz was not explained by Gen. Villjoen.

Agreement having been reached with Villjoen and Orozco, Dunn started from City of Mexico, followed by a private detective with instructions to arrest him on Mexican soil. The arrest was made at Monterey last night. Telegrams from there last night declared that "important papers had been found on the prisoner."

According to Gen. Villjoen, a third alleged conspirator was to have been arrested at City of Mexico, but sufficient evidence could not be obtained.

Refuses to Discuss Charge.

De Villlers, when seen at the county jail today refused to discuss the charge against him.

"I am innocent of any charge and I'll be out in a few days and have a drink with you all," he said laughingly through the prison bars to the newspaper men.

Asked about the telegrams which had been found on him and which Gen. Villjoen claims were shown him, the prisoner repliled:

"None of the telegrams were addressed to me."

Though some of the messages used allases, those which Constable Brown found on De Villers, according to Brown's declaration today, are addressed to Daniel Villiers.

De Villlers declared he is a rancher and that his home is in San Antonio. He said he had fought in the Boer war and there met Gen. Villjoen. It was the intimacy arising from that meeting on which, it is believed, De Villers based his idea that the general would enter the plot or at least not disclose those who were in it.

On American Soil.

The belief also was expressed by Daniel Jackson, Gen. Villjoen's attorney, today, that De Villers and Dunn had operated so freely in American territory that they thought they could not be indicted for a political offense against another country.

Mr. Jackson stated today that the complaint against De Villers was based on a Texas statute, and as it is alleged conspiracy to murder a citizen of another land, Francisco I. Madero, Jr., it would be possible, if necessary, to secure the extradition of many important persons in Mexico said to be involved in the case.

Mr. Jackson said names of many men in Mexico known to be members of "Cientifico" party were among these. He declared he would show the connection with the plot of Rosendo Pinedo, leader of the Cientifico party in the Mexican congress

As a Mexican congressman is immune from arrest, Mr. Jackson said he did not know exactly how Senor Pinedo could be brought to trial, it is known, however, that messages have been passing from here to the City of Mexico requesting that Pinedo be kept under surveillance pending the outcome of developments here.

Quiet Day for Diaz.

Vera Cruz, May 29.—General Diaz spent Sunday quietly. He rested most of the day, denying himself to visitors, with the exception of members of his immediate party.

Crowds gathered around the house, where the former president is staying, apparently on watch for a glimpse of the former president. There were no demonstrations there, the people evidently being content merely to discuss the situation. Sentries paced the verandas and the whole neighborhood was looped like barracks, as every house is filled with soldiers.

A demonstration lauding Madero for the success of the revolution was started during a concert in the Plaza Consional last night with a menacing undertone directed towards Diaz. A portion of the crowd did start toward the house where Gen. Diaz is a guest, but were turned back by police. At the Plaza many speeches for and against Diaz were made, but the excitement died away and no further hostile demonstration was made.

Mormons Want Damages.

New Orleans, La., May 29.—Mormon settlers in the state of Chihuahua, Mex., will press claims against the Mexican government aggregating more than a million dollars for damage sustained by them at the hands of insurrectos and bandits during the recent revolution, according to Joseph Smith of Salt Lake City, who was here last night en route to Washington.

Unless these claims are settled without delay, said he, the Mormons, who are under the mother church at Salt Lake City, will take the complaint to the authorities at Washington at once.

It is estimated that the war in Mexico has cost not less than $20,000,000 in gold and that perhaps one-tenth of this is due to damages sutained by foreigners.

bumped into Patrolman Brouillette, who turned in the alarm. The fire apparatus and a crew of volunteers were at work in record time, but the blaze had so long a start that it was impossible to save it.

The residents are aroused over the acts of the firebug. They are in great fear lest he turn his attentions to the houses in the suburb. During the winter the village was comparatively free from fires, and the residents began to rest more easily, hoping that there would be an end to them. But the second attempt on the bridge, which proved successful, has again excited them and they will redouble their efforts to catch the fiend whom they believe to be starting the fires.

Meet at Northwood, N. D.

Northwood, N. D., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.) — The third annual convention of the Young People's league of the Grand Forks and Park River districts of the United Lutheran church will be held in the Norwegian Lutheran church here.

Relief Trains Sent.

Two relief trains have gone from McCook carrying physicians.

Both trains were running at high speed when the collision occurred, but the force of the collision was apparently felt more by the heavy westbound train, the Colorado Limited, which was made up of a baggage car and express car, day coach, diner, two tourist sleepers, a Pullmen sleeper and an observation car.

The day coach was reduced to splinters and in this coach most the casualties occurred. One of the tourist sleepers containing the members of the Denver Western league club was thrown on its side, and a number of the occupants, including President James McGill, injured, but none seriously.

On Its First Run.

WEST END WILL RETURN TO NEW MEXICO

West End Pastor Resigns After Short Service Here.

Rev. John H. Murray will resign as pastor of Grace M. E. church, and will return to New Mexico, from whence he came last November. This step will be taken on account of the illness of Mrs. Murray, whose physicians have recommended a change of climate. She is affected with throat trouble.

Mrs. Murray for the past four weeks has been at her old home at Columbus, Ohio, at the bedside of a sister, who is near death. She will return to Duluth in a short time and the Murrays will then move to New Mexico.

Just how soon the change will be made depends largely on Bishop McIntyre, whom Rev. Mr. Murray has asked for relief. Rev. Mr. Murray came here in November to succeed Rev. M. O. Stockland, who went to Silver City, N. M., the pastors exchanging pulpits.

Rev. Mr. Murray has some property at Alamogordo, N. M., where they will make their temporary home until he is given a charge. He was once pastor of the church at Alamogordo and at one time was president of the school board.

Prior to his work in New Mexico, Rev. Mr. Murray was a co-worker with Benjamin Fay Mills, a noted writer and evangelist. Not only was he a close friend of Mr. Mills, but he was also closely associated with him in the evangelistic work.

Mr. Murray was one of the most prominent Masons of the Southwest. At the time of his leaving Silver City, he was most excellent grand prelate of the Knight Templars of New Mexico. He is also a Scottish Rite Mason.

HAYWOOD TALKS TO WORKING MEN

Says Unions Should Welcome New Members, Not Discourage Them.

William D. Haywood, former secretary of the Western Federation of Miners, who come to Duluth to arouse interest and sympathy in the alleged kidnaping cases in which it is claimed that J. J. McNamara was taken from Indiana to California, talked to a large audience at Lincoln park pavilion Saturday evening.

"Labor, organized or unorganized, should rise in unanimous indignation and protest against this high-handed disregard of the laws of the land. Our Constitution expressly states that all men shall be protected. It says in no uncertain terms that all accused shall have a fair, speedy and impartial trial."

Laboring men should "look out for Number 1," he said. He scored the American Federation of Labor and labor organizations for closing the shops against their fellow workmen and for making agreements with the capitalistic class. He advocated the "open shop." He said that labor unions did not have the strength that they had thirty years ago. He arraigned some of the courts and legislatures as being the corrupted tools of capitalists. He advocated a union to which all laboring men could belong under one head instead of the A. F. of L., which is made up of 117 international unions and 27,000 local unions.

"What progress have the unions made?" he asked. "None. Instead of progress they have really gone back. Unions fight for a closed shop and make agreements with their employers instead of keeping the shop open in order that other laboring men might be brought into their ranks. Initiation fees are raised to exorbitant prices, making it practically impossible for the ordinary craftsman to join.

"You laboring men, unionists, what are you going to do with your sons and daughters? You refuse them the privileges of becoming proficient in a trade by limiting the number of apprentices. Is their fate to be the jails, poor farms and other institutions of public charge? There is plenty of work for all and every one should be given a chance of earning a living."

LOSES EYE WHEN SHELL EXPLODES

Park Point Boy Is Victim of Most Distressing Accident.

Percy Gilbert, 13 years of age, the stepson of L. E. Burt of 3724 Minnesota avenue will lose the sight of his right eye as the result of an accident with a rifle Saturday afternoon. The boy is at St. Luke's hospital. He and some youthful companions returned from a swim Saturday afternoon. One of the boys had a small 22-calibre rifle, and Percy brought out an old discarded rifle he had found some time previously. One of the shells which they tried to put in the chamber of the gun was too large, and to force it in, the Gilbert boy struck it with a stone. The shell exploded and the pieces flew into his face and eye. His cheek was blackened and burned by the powder. An operation was performed to remove the pieces of the shell which could be located. The boy's mother was overcome by the shock.

TURNED BACK AT THE BORDER

Young Polish Boy Is Refused Admittance to Canada.

Mike Milli, a Polish boy, but 17 years old and small for his years, was turned back by the Canadian authorities at Fort Frances because he didn't have the required $25 to enter the country.

He is now being cared for at the Y. M. C. A., until his brother in Canada can be communicated with and arrangements made for sending him there.

He had but a few cents in his pocket when picked up at Virginia, Minn., and brought to Duluth. The case was called to the attention of Brown McDonald, the local immigration inspector, but he could do nothing.

Milli landed recently at Philadelphia from Poland. He was on the way to the brother in Canada. He got as far as Fort Frances where he was turned back.

He will be cared for at the Y. M. C. A. until arrangements can be made to send him to the brother. He speaks no English which makes his situation harder.

ADOPTED SON SUES.

Farmer Living Near Karlstad Alleged to Have Beaten Youth.

Karlstad, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.) — H. H. Moen, a farmer living six miles west of here, is being sued by his adopted son for injuries sustained in alleged ill treatment. MR. MIKE WEINZIERL.

Here is another well known Minnesota man who has taken the Loughney bake oven treatments with splendid results, and like many other thankful patients who have been cured of different diseases by those remarkable men, writes the letter which follows the results of these treatments in his case.

"Loughney, 301 Christie building, Duluth, Minn.

"Gentlemen—I am writing this to tell you that I am more than well pleased at the results obtained in my case by your remarkable method of treating rheumatism and kindred ills. I wish to say that your treatments in the bake ovens have done me the world of good, also that I had been constipated; I wish to say my bowels are fine, as they move freely every day without aid. I regret that I did not hear of your method of treating sooner, but now that I am feeling fine I will gladly substatiate the above at any time. Respectfully,

H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

'Twas some day yesterday was it not? The forecaster and recorder on the hill says the highest temperature was only 64 deg., but after the frigid depths to which the mercury has sunk daily for weeks, yesterday was almost a scorcher. The parks were crowded, long walks were the order of the day and everybody was pleased with the weather man. More fairness is on the bills for tonight and tomorrow. Cool, fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:18 and it will set at 7:52 this evening, giving fifteen hours and thirty-four minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours light to copious showers fell over Western Canada, the Central valleys, Middle Western states and southwestern lake region, principally as a result of the low pressure condition central over the extreme Southwest. High temperatures combine in Ohio valley and over portions of North Atlantic districts. The weather is becoming warmer again over the Rocky mountains and Northwest. In the central portions of the lake region somewhat cooler temperatures attend an increase in barometric pressure. Generally fair weather and cool temperature may be expected at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 29.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Tuesday.

Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota—Unsettled but generally fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

Iowa — Unsettled, with probably showers tonight or Tuesday.

South Dakota—Unsettled, with probably showers in south portion tonight or Tuesday.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer tonight.

Upper Lakes—Moderate variable winds on Superior and moderate north and northeast on Michigan and Huron. Generally fair tonight and Tuesday, except unsettled on southern Michigan.

ARE REBUILDING BURNED SCHOOLS

Good Progress Being Made in Burned District of Beltrami County.

Bemidji, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—G. M. Cesander of St. Paul, assistant state superintendent of schools and County Superintendent of Schools Stewart of Bemidji, have completed a tour of inspection of the schools of the northern part of Beltrami county, where buildings were destroyed by the forest fires last fall, and new ones are being erected with the aid of $5,000 from the state.

They found that better and more modern structures are arising from the ashes. Their first stop was at District No. 55, which was located near Blackduck, and from there they went to Baudette and Spooner, inspecting the schools at those places, Pitt and Graceton are districts 122 and 74.

Pitt Has New School.

A new modern school has been established at Pitt and in District No. 74. Both are better built and furnished than the ones which they replace. Graceton will rebuild soon, putting up a modern school. All the new schools are built and carried on in such a way that they may receive state aid.

Superintendent Stewart said: "The situation is most encouraging, the residents are hustling, not only for their new schools, but along agricultural lines. They are improving their farms and adding to their crops, and such a thing as discouragement because of the disastrous fire of last fall in unknown. The energy and cheerfulness exhibited by the residents of the Spooner- Baudette country is typical of Northern Minnesota, and is the kind of determination and grit that will overcome any and all obstacles."

ST. PAUL MEETING.

Democrats to Have Pow-wow There Next Thursday.

St. Paul, Minn., May 29.—Arrangements were completed for the big Democratic gathering at the Auditorium next Thursday evening. WORK IS STARTED.

Hanna & Co. Have Begun Operations on Cuyuna Range.

Brainerd, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. A. Hanna & Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, have commenced work at its Barrows mining site by putting carpenters to work to erect its offices near where the shaft will be located. The Barrows mine, as the Hanna company has designated the shaft, will be located about a half mile northeast of the town of Barrows. The townsite is four miles south of Brainerd and the mine to be started by the Hanna company will be the first active mining to be done on the south range of the Cuyuna Iron range. The Northern Pacific railway has just completed a 600-foot spur to the site of the mine and the lumber is arriving daily for the company. I. S. Roe is the superintendent in charge of the mining operations. "We will not sink a cement shaft," said Mr. Roe. "We hardly think such a proceeding is necessary as the character of the ground is of the best and we do not anticipate any trouble sinking it." As cement will not be used it will probably be timbered. The Hanna company is working and mining ground leased from the Brainerd Mining company. The headquarters of the company will be maintained in Brainerd from which will be directed its work of mining on the Cuyuna range.

Mrs. Harriman's reported intention is to found an institution for general education, in equipment second to none in the land. The location, it is said, is not yet selected, but the founder is supposed to favor the Pacific coast.

S.S.S. CURES ALL SKIN DISEASES

Health in its magnificence appeals to everyone, and especially is this true of a clear skin, free from eruptions and disease. We instinctively realize that back of this desirable condition pure, rich blood is flowing through the system, furnishing nutriment to all the tissues.

This perfect condition of the skin exists as long as the blood is normal, but when it becomes contaminated with humors and acids its supply of nutritive properties is greatly lessened, and it becomes a sharp, acrid fluid which diseases instead of preserving the natural health and texture of the skin. Then come Skin Diseases; the character of the eruption depending upon the nature of the humor with which the blood is infected. If there is an excess of acid in the circulation the trouble is characterized by itching and burning eruptions. Other impurities produce watery blisters, rashes, etc., commonly known as Eczema, Tetter or Salt Rheum, while still other morbid matters in the circulation cause Acne, pimples and like troubles.

It is right and proper to get what relief one may from the application of washes, salves, etc., but such treatment should not be depended upon alone to produce a cure—only a thorough purification of the blood can accomplish this.

S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases of every character and kind, because it purifies the blood. It goes down into the circulation and removes the humors and acids, builds up the weak, acrid blood, and completely cures Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Acne, pimples, rashes, eruptions, and all skin affections. When S. S. S. has cleansed the blood of the impurities the skin is nourished with rich, cooling blood, the tissues and fibres are strengthened, the pores and glands are stimulated to their full duty, and every symptom passes away. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

Dear Sirs:—My body broke out with a rash or eruption which, in spite of all efforts to cure, continued to get worse. The itching, especially at night, was simply terrible; it would almost disappear at times, only to return worse than ever. I had tried many highly recommended preparations without benefit, and hearing of S. S. S. determined to give it a fair trial and was inexpressibly delighted when a few bottles cured me entirely, removing every blemish and pimple from my body. I shall not fail to recommend S. S. S. whenever an opportunity occurs to do so.

FRED SMITH NOT BADLY INJURED

Hibbing Automobilist Hurt Near Virginia Is Doing Nicely.

Hibbing, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Very many inquiries are being made here of our Fred Smith, the popular automobile man who was injured in the smash up on the Virginia road on Saturday, notice of which appeared in Saturday's Herald. Fred is very well known in Hibbing and has many acquaintances; and people have been flocking into the Smith garage inquiring if he would recover, and asking for Mrs. Smith.

Advices from Virginia are that Mr. Smith is doing nicely and his skull was not fractured as first feared. Mrs. Smith is at her husband's bedside and several Hibbing friends called on him Sunday.

Although he escaped uninjured, Dana Butchart, the 13-year-old son of Dr. B. N. Butchart, whose auto it was that overturned, had the narrowest escape of any of the party. The boy was caught under the machine in such a manner that his head was held in a pool of water and, in the confusion following the accident, his plight was not noticed for several minutes. By struggling he succeeded in getting one arm out from under the automobile and thus attracted attention and was quickly released. Probably in another minute he would have been drowned.

While the automobile was badly damaged, the engine was uninjured and a 34-inch wheel was substituted for the 36-inch one broken and the odd-looking vehicle was thus run on into Hibbing under its own power.

FOUR-LEGGED HORSE, RUNNER

Disabled Animal Gives Hibbing Poundmaster Very Merry Chase.

Hibbing, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—A big bay horse with a lame front foot led John Drappa, the pound master, a lively dance Sunday afternoon, when he tried to corral him and take him into the pound.

In spite of having to use three legs instead of four, the horse got gay and kept his game legs flying in all directions whenever the poundmaster made any attempt to get hold of his head. Finally after some trouble, however, he was caught and will be held until his owner gets him out.

Holmer, chairman of the board, handed in his resignation, as he has sold his residence property and is about to move his family to Minneapolis. Mr. Holmer also expects to make an extended visit to Sweden, leaving for the Old Country in about two weeks. The resignation was accepted, and C. E. Hendrick, general superintendent for the M. A. Hanna company, was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy. About fifty men were discharged last week at the Soudan mine. Dullness in the iron market is said to be the cause for the reduction of the working force. The Soudan is the eighth largest producer in the state.

The new hotel at Tower Junction is progressing and makes a fine appearance. It is about inclosed. When finished it will be one of the finest hotels on the ranges. Tile floors, hot and cold water, sewers, electric lights and all conveniences of a modern hotel.

FIFTEEN-INNING GAME IS PLAYED

Grand Rapids and Proctor Junior Nines in Great Tussle on Diamond.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—A 15-inning game, resulting in a 2 to 1 score in favor of the locals, was the result of the first of the series of three games played here yesterday afternoon between the Grand Rapids Juniors and the Proctor Juniors, both champions in their localities.

"Billy" Whaling pitched for the locals, and he held the visitors down to three well-scattered hits, striking out twenty-one men. Tom Erskine did the receiving for the Rapids. Renaud and Rossiter were the battery for Proctor until the ninth inning, when Rossiter was so badly hurt that he had to be taken home. His place was taken by Shaughnessey, who finished the remaining six innings. The Rapids boys collected a total of eight hits off Renaud, but they were scattered and quite effectually recovered. Both pitchers received splendid support, Proctor being charged with only two errors and the Rapids with an errorless slate.

The game was well advertised, and much interest was taken in the game, an unusually large crowd being present. All expressed great surprise at the wonderful playing of the youngsters. The teams are very evenly matched, and the games today and Tuesday are being looked forward to with great interest.

Following is the game by innings:

Both Nines Have Records.

These two teams have unique records. The Grand Rapids team has been practically composed of the same material for the past four years, during which time they were defeated only four times, only twice by a junior team, and that team was the Proctor Juniors. The boys started to play together when some of the boys were only 12 and 13 years old. The Proctor Juniors last year finished the season with a percentage of 1,000, having skun everything they went up against. Up to date this season the Rapids team has not been beaten, while the Proctor bunch won all but one game. They are about the two fastest aggregations of juvenile ball players in the state and but few changes in the lineups of the two teams could improve upon them.

Facts About Motherhood

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at the time of child-birth, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when the strain is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

It isn't as though the experience came upon them unawares. They have ample time in which to prepare, but they, for the most part, trust to chance and pay the penalty.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy, and strong.

Any woman who would like special advice in regard to this matter is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. Her letter will be held in strict confidence.

ADVICE TO GRADUATES

Rev. Mr. Akers of Crookston Warns Against Wordly Wiles and Pitfalls.

Thief River Falls Graduating Class Also Hears Baccalaureate Sermon.

Crookston, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last evening at the Grand opera house, filled to capacity, Rev. E. W. Akers preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Crookston high school, taking the text from a part of the twenty-third verse of the ninth chapter of Jeremiah: "Let not the Mighty glory in His might: let not the rich glory in his riches."

His theme was the law of the margin and he counselled the class to keep away from the danger line, to surround themselves by a safe margin and to maintain it—to always be on the safe side. He cautioned the class not to step out into the world as slaves to the law of custom, but to have self-reliance and establish standards of right and wrong with a margin about them to avoid the pitfalls that had been dangerous to all and ruinous to many. He warned them that in the business world today it often appeared as though "falsehood was in the saddle and truth in the dust." In his final charge he urged them to be truthful and exhibit a nobleness of character that would never permit them to wrong their fellowman.

Rev. W. G. Hodgeson, president ,offered the invocation and pronounced the benediction. Music was furnished by a double quartet. The stage was banked with ferns and the class colors, purple and white, was interlaced about the brass railings of the boxes.

WANTS BELTRAMI SHERIFF OUSTED

Chairman of County Board Alleges Malfeasance in Office.

Bemidji, Minn., May 29.—(Special to the Herald.)—Sheriff Alvin B. Hazen of Beltrami county must face charges preferred against him by Vigge Peterson, chairman of the county board, of malfeasance in office.

The county chairman has laid the matter before Governor Eberhart asking for the appointment of a commission to take testimony, also that Hazen be suspended from office until the matter is passed on by the governor. It is expected the commission will be named in St. Paul today.

Willful attempts to swindle the county and a "uniformly bad management of the county jail" are among the charges against the sheriff.

Corruption Alleged.

Mr. Peterson charges that during his entire tenure of office Sheriff Hazen "has consciously, systematically, willfully and corruptly practiced methods constituting gross malfeasance and nonfeasance in office" and that he has corruptly obtained large sums of money from the county for which no services have been rendered.

That Sheriff Hazen "willfully, knowingly and corruptly" made and verified claims and presented the same to the board of commissioners which claims were not true and that the management of the jail has been illegal and that lax and insecure manner of handling prosiners has been a menace to the law and order of the community.

Specific charges state that Sheriff Hazen has repeatedly failed and neglected to make personal service of subpoenas upon grand and petit jurors but that instead has mailed such subpoenas to jurymen, directly contrary to law, and has thereafter presented duly verified claims for allowance in which full mileage has been charged as if a personal service had been made.

The Boat club will be one of the chief centers for outing parties tomorrow, as both the main floor and the Oatka branch will be opened to members. The cafe at the main house will be formally opened for the season and meals will be served all day. At the branch facilities for picnic parties will be in readiness and the matron will be in attendance there. A large number of parties are being planned for both houses. Many are going up the river to the Spirit Lake branch and Fond du Lac will also receive many visitors.

The Memorial day services have been elaborately planned and promise to be one of the most interesting programs ever given in the city.

The summer cottages at surrounding lakes and rivers are many of them accommodating their owners and parties for the holiday, and many parties left Saturday to return Wednesday morning.

The schools and stores, of course, will be closed all day, and the public library will close its circulating department. The reading rooms in the library, however, will be open from 2 until 9 o'clock for all those who care to go there to read.

Lady Hadfield Is Now Traveling in America

LADY HADFIELD.

Sir Robert Hadfield and his wife are traveling through America and have spent some time in Washington receiving much social attention there. Their next visit will be to Philadelphia, where they have many friends. Lady Hadfield was Miss Frances Wickersham of Allegheny, Pa. Sir Robert Hadfield is a noted scientist, as well as a director in many gas companies, steel foundries, etc. He has received medals from the Iron and Steel institution, the Institution of Civil Engineers and French and American scientific societies and from 1905 to 1907 he was president of the Iron and Steel institution.

Use of Table Oilcloth.

Considering the trifling outlay to begin with there is nothing to compare with the table oilcloth as a labor saver. To begin with the kitchen: After you have covered your work table with it line each drawer in the kitchen and pantry.

The next day I am sure you will cover your molding board on both sides. Then get the pretty, scalloped kind, and use instead of paper on your pantry shelves. Oilcloth will make bibs for the children and napkins to put under their plates.

Pink each piece neatly. Put squares of oilcloth under the tablecloth where hot dishes are placed. If you use an oil heater have some boards fastened together, cover with dark-colored oilcloth and place castors underneath. Some pieces to place under potted plants, when you wish them on mantel, piano or window ledge, are handy to save the wood finish.

Oilcloth also makes neat washstand covers and splashers for the servants' or boys' room.

A Homemade Linoleum.

The following is an item of help that may interest some one who is needing a covering for the kitchen floor—one that will wear well and be neat and attractive.

Take an old rag carpet, darn and patch all holes and stretch tightly on the floor.

Then make a good, stiff paste, and with a brush fill the carpet as full of paste as it will take up. Let dry, then apply a second coat, which glazes the carpet.

Now give it two coats of paint and if preferred one can stripe or check it with some other color or by means of a stencil paint any kind of a design. This carpet is inexpensive, looks almost as well as linoleum and will wear as long.

A Convenient Work Table.

Get a table about three feet high and cover with zinc. There should be a drawer for knives, forks, etc., and at the back a frame on which tin cups may be hung, also spoons, egg-beaters, etc. Have a shelf put over the table covered with oil cloth, and on this keep boxes containing baking powder soda and spices, each marked according to its contents. The table being high precludes that constant stooping necessary to a tall person while working at an ordinary table.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To Make Starch.

When making starch have a kettle of boiling starch. In a clean enameled saucepan stir until smooth half a cupful of starch and one cupful of cold water. Then gradually add boiling water, stirring all the time. Boil the starch for ten minutes, stirring constantly.

Now add a little white wax or a piece of sperm candle. If wax or candle is not available use a teaspoonful of butter or lard. Cover the saucepan and let the starch simmer twenty minutes longer. Add a few drops of bluing.

The amount of boiling water added to the starch and cold water will depend upon how stiff the articles are to be made. For shirt bosoms, cuffs and collars add one quart of boiling water. For dresses, underskirts, etc., two quarts of boiling water.

Beethoven and Napoleon--The Story of the "Eroica" Symphony

Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony which will be played by the Minneapolis orchestra on Friday night was intended by the great master to be composed in honor of Napoleon.

At that time, 1799, Napoleon was known less as a soldier than as a public man, who had been the passionate champion of freedom, the saviour of his country, the restorer of order and prosperity, the great leader to whom no difficulties were obstacles. He was not then tyrant, and the scourge of Austria, and the rest of Europe, which he afterwards became.

Beethoven always had Republican sympathies, and it is easy to understand that the idea was grateful to him.

Meantime, however, a change was taking place in Napoleon of which Beethoven knew nothing. On May 2, 1804, a motion was passed in the French senate, asking him to take the title of emperor, and on May 18, the title was assumed by him. When the news was taken to Beethoven by his friend Ries, a tremendous outburst was the consequence. "After all, then, he is nothing but an ordinary mortal! He will trample all the rights of men under foot, to indulge his ambition, and become a greater tyrant than any one!" And with these words he seized his music, tore the title page in half and threw it on the ground. His admiration had turned to hatred, and he is said never again to have referred to the connection between his work and the emperor till seventeen years afterwards, when the news of Napoleon's death at St. Helena, May 5, 1821, reached him. He then said: "I have already composed the proper music for that catastrophe," meaning the "Funeral March," which forms the second movement of this wonderful symphony.

When She Says "No"

By AMANDA MOORE

Many a man has lost his chance of winning the girl he loves by the way he takes her refusal of his heart and hand. Note that sentence carefully; it is not a contradiction, nor is it a puzzle. When a man is really deeply in love with a girl he should not take her first refusal as final unless he knows that she has given her love to another man. On the contrary he should ask her again and again, not with brutal persistency, but with gallant perseverance. And in the end he will very likely succeed in winning her for his own.

It can never be pleasant for a man to have his offer of marriage refused, however gently the refusal is given. Not only is his dream of happiness dissipated, but there is the blow to his self-esteem. And it is on this last point that men are apt to give themselves away.

The very worst thing a rejected man can do, if he means to try again, is to utter any reproaches of the "you led me on" kind, even if he considers he has good grounds for such. There is not a girl in the world who would not resent such meanness, and she would resent it the more if there were any grains of truth in it. Indeed, anything in the form of temper or sarcasm should be carefully avoided, however raw the rejected one may be feeling.

What then should be his demeanor in such adverse circumstances is the natural question the reader may ask. Keen disappointment would naturally be shown, and in some cases the rejected one might indicate that he still retains some hope. But above all, he should show consideration for the girl himself. To any nice girl it must be painful to reject a man, and the true lover, when he realizes that his pleadings are in vain, should show consideration for the feelings of the girl he loves.

She will not forget his unselfishness, and should she be heart whole he will very likely take a great stride forward towards the winning of her heart.

Good Manners and Common Sense

By MARGARET E. SANGSTER

The manners of women to one another in other branches of trade are open to criticism. The dressmaker who blandly promises to finish a gown on a stated day, and mendaciously disappoints a patron, shows very bad manners indeed. Equally the lady who ignores her dressmaker's appointment, and arrives an hour too late, shows herself a person of inferior breeding.

Appointments in business must always be kept punctually, or there is a violation of courtesy. A woman may not rustle into her dentist's office a half hour late, and expect that his chair will be vacant.

Good manners between the railway officials and the traveling public exact courtesy on both sides. Superfluous questions should not be asked. Civil questions should be pleasantly answered.

Good manners forbid a passenger to storm at a forgetful conductor on a street car. The conductor if well-mannered, will, if possible, treat every passenger with politeness as a guest of the road that employs him.

In brief, good manners in business are simply condensed common sense. They minimize strain and forward the advance of the world's incessant work.

THE EVENING STORY

RALEIGH

By Joseph R. Reham.

"Admit, Captain," said the scholar, "that opportunity signifieth by the lexicon a meet or convenient time; and what is time but an abstraction? Wherefore whoso seizeth opportunity seizeth an abstraction, the which has never been held, nor ever will nor can be held, to constitute a violation of that social contract which is called the law."

Two men were seated in a bower of the "Ship Aground" at Greenwich. The bright little garden at their feet ran down to a low parapet overlooking the river, whose waters, gay with shipping, sparkled merrily in the June sunshine. Behind them the tinkle and gossip of the inn sounded pleasantly; to their left a small plantation of trees led direct to the boundaries of the Royal palace—"Placentia," or the "Manor of Pleasance," it was called—whose red roofs and bowed Italian windows were plainly visible through the green.

A flight of wooden steps in the embankment to their right constituted the public landing place; and for the rest and everywhere were climbing the wood and lawn, tumbled with houses like warm red boulders, and gathered at their summit into that Lancastrian tower which was destined in future ages to blossom into the Universal Meridian.

The men sat on either side of a rustic table, a stoup of warm ale with a toast in it between them. The soldier, strong and thickset, was Capt. Nicholas Blount, of the Earl of Sussex's guard. The other, a dissipated, whimsical looking young man, dressed in black, with a plain falling band, and on his head the scholar's biretta with embracing flaps, was Master John Sparrow, ex-graduate of Trinity and clerk to the same nobleman. The former sprawled with his doublet unbuttoned and his rapier and bonnet laid aside. He was an honest, downright soul, more of a Davur than an Oedipus, and yet with a naive humorous side to him that ingratiated. In common with some soldiers of his rare line he had a tremendous respect for learning.

"Jack Sparrow," quoth he, "Thou hast a damnable overplus of sophistication to answer a plain man withal. But I'll have thee there. Is not theft an abstraction, and yet punishable by the law?"

"Well countered, Captain," said the clerk; "but I will prove it otherwise." "How, sharp wit?"

"Why, look you; by the token that a theft is an abstraction an abstraction is a theft. But I say an abstraction is no theft, sith it steals nothing but time, which is itself an abstraction. Is he a thief therefore, who steals from himself?"

"Thou playest on the word that hath another meaning."

"God save your neck if you'll insist on't. One day you'll be caught in a reverie and hanged for an abstraction. For me, one word one meaning is enough."

"What hanged—Nickhanged" cried a voice, that of one of two gentlemen who at that moment came round the leafy angle of the bower. "What is his offense?"

Blount and the young man rose to their feet, the one with a jocund, the second with a respectful manner of salutation.

"Fair welcome, masters," said the soldier. "Your wit shall save me a halter, or I'll be hanged for it."

The two new comers were Mr. Greville and his alter ego, Mr. Phillip Sidney, the latter already the preux chevalier of his age. Tall and spare with a rather long melancholy face full of sweetness and intelligence, his whole aspect conveyed an assurance of reasonableness and liberality. His hair, warm yellow and somewhat sleek, was parted at one side into the long love lock in vogue; his doublet and trunk hose were of a sober gray, but faced with a rich frilling of gold.

"Why, Nick," quoth Sidney, "the alternative is certain. But whereby hangeth the halter?"

"Round my neck," answered Blount. "He seeks to throttle me, this learned clerk here, with his sophistications."

The three gentlemen sat down, the student remaining standing.

"How throttle?" said Sidney.

Jack Sparrow took the answer out of the soldier's mouth. "We were discussing your friend, Master Raleigh, sirs, whom the captain here will dub the very thief of opportunity."

"And hold to it," said Blount.

"Nay," said the ex-graduate. "When, as I maintain and repeat, opportunity is the common property, whereby to take it is no more offense in a man than the picking of blackberries on the highway."

"Or the picking of pockets," said Mr. Greville.

"Hold, Fulke," said Sidney; "I do perceive a flaw there, in that the seizure or prehension is by its very terms held personal to the appropriator. Thus I may take my opportunity, but not another man's."

"Well decreed, Phil," cried the soldier, with a shout of triumph, and smacked a hand to his knees. "How now, Master Quiddity? Wilt answer to that?"

"With submission, Mr. Sidney," replied the student, "is not all opportunity yours when you see it? 'Oblatam occasionem tene;' the warrant of Cicero is in the phrase."

"The very offering, my friend, implies a priority of ownership by another; wherefore, if I seize another man's opportunity uninvited, I am guilty of a moral felony."

"But, supposing he—that other—omits or refuses to make use of his own?" persisted the student, with his tongue in his cheek.

Nicholar Blount roared: "Omits, quotha! But what is mine is mine, rogue, though there be a thousand popinjays could convert the thing to their own more profitable range. Wherefore I say who takes my opportunity steals; wherefore I say this Raleigh is a thief of opportunity."

"Instance, instance!" cried the two young gentlemen, crowing; and Greville bawled for the drawer to bring wine. The soldier grunted; "I'm no man for equivoque; I hold by what I say. You shall hear and judge between us. This Walter, sirs—"

"A very proper courtier of his inches," said Greville.

"Your friend, sir," answered Blount, sarcastically, "and mine—God quit us of all such allies. He was my friend once, and took the privileges. There was little he would not take, including the wall, of any man. To do him justice, a sweet fighting Hector, full of courage as of grace. He was just home from Ireland when we met last year—fresh from the carving of the kerns. Yet a hand like milk. Nothing would ever stick to it but gold. I cry you mercy, gentles. He was my friend, I say."

Greville broke into laughter, and Sidney smiled, his lips twitching. "Castigo te non quod—eh, master clerk?" said the latter. "Perchance he chastised the captain for very love."

"You shall hear," said Blount grimly. "A proper courtier, quoth Master Greville—a very proper courtier. I doubt it not. How looked he when you saw him last?"

"It was at Whitehall," said Greville. "You know the man—the mirror of fashion, the prince of wit, the pink of assurance. One noon he met the queen just stepping from her closest. 'What time is it, good sir?' quoth she. 'What time your highness pleases,' he answered. 'Then,' says her majesty, 'I will have it the hour when men speak truth.' 'Alas, madam!' says Raleigh, 'do you seek a pretext for destroying me?' 'What pretext, sir?' she asks. 'Why,' says he, 'the enforced confession of my hopeless confession for a queen!'"

The soldier snorted alarmingly. "I warrant he'd rehearsed it, preening and curling before his glass," he said.

"Alack!" said Sidney, "his hair curls naturally — the worse for sleeker heads."

"How went he?" said Blount — "a painted popinjay."

"Always in silk and velvet," answered Greville, demurely, "white for choice, and his doublet jewelled in the seams. He becomes his dress in sooth; knows how to shadow with ambrosial fleece the high pale culture of his forehead; wears his sword as if he used it, hangs his cloak——"

The soldier roared out:

"Hold! His cloak? God's grace! It hangs — hang him, I say! So I picture him—all but the cloak. It was here we sat together, in this green arbor, but a year ago. Just home from bloody Ireland was he, yet as white and cool as swansdown. We were here, I say, we two, in this very spot, and the court at Pleazaunce. The queen was in her barge on the river. We saw her pass, and the rogue's eyes dreamed. Some caprice—some premonition bellike — engaged her majesty to land at the common steps yonder. They were wet and foul, the morning having rained, and, perceiving his chance, my comrade snatched up cloak and leaped, and joined the throng that hovered on the royal advent. I came more leisurely behind, and saw the pretty queen mount up and hesitate, pursing her lips in comical dismay before a pool of mud. And then, all in a moment—but you've heard the story?"

"He spread the cloak for her to step on?"

"Damn him!"

"Why so?"

"It was my cloak, that was all—new green velvet, and home that morning from the cutter's. Own him now a thief of opportunity."

Mr. Sidney and Mr. Greville looked at one another gravely a moment, then burst into a shout of laughter.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NEXT.
Seats, $1.50, $1 and 75c. On sale at Lyceum Theater.

The Kitchen

Codfish Balls.

But and pick dry codfish in small pieces, freed from bone and skin, and soak in cold water, while you peel and dice potatoes.

Next take two cupfuls of codfish to four cupfuls of potatoes. Put in cold water and boil until potatoes are tender, drain water off, and mash as for mashed potatoes; season with butter and pepper and beat well an egg before adding.

Drop from spoon into hot fat and fry a delicate brown. Garnish with lettuce or parsley. They are nice and light, and can be prepared in twenty minutes. This quantity will serve four persons.

Making Pastry.

The fat should be lightly but very thoroughly rubbed in with the tips of the fingers, never with the palms of the hands.

Add the water gradually but quickly to prevent hard lumps from forming, and to keep the consistency of the whole mass uniform.

Always use a knife for mixing, it being so much cooler than the hand. Pastry should never be rolled backwards and forwards, but in short forward rolls, lifting the rolling pin between the rolls. Puff paste is allowed to stand between the turns in order that the butter may harden, and thus keep the layers of pastry and butter separate.

Paste to which baking powder has been added should be put into the oven speedily, otherwise some of the effect of the baking powder is wasted.

Chocolate Layer Cake.

Beat to a cream half a cupful of butter and a cupful of sugar. When this is light, beat in, a little at a time, half a cupful of milk and a teaspoonful of vanilla; beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth. Sift together a teaspoonful of baking powder and two scant cupfuls of pastry flour and the whites of eggs alternately into the mixture.

Have three deep cake tins well buttered and spread two-thirds of the batter in two of them. Into the remaining batter, stir an ounce of chocolate, melted, and spread on the third plate. Bake in a moderate oven for about twenty-five minutes. Put one of the white layers on plate and spread with white icing. Put the dark cake on this one, spread with icing; on this put the third cake and spread with either white or chocolate icing.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH."

There can be no plainer economic proposition than that of patronizing home industries.

When you buy at home, your money stays at home and gets back to you. When you buy abroad your money goes abroad and never comes back.

When you buy at home you build up home industries that give employment to your neighbors and increase the number of paid workers that patronize your grocery store, your butcher shop, your dry goods store, your clothing store, your doctor, your lawyer, your church, your home enterprises of all sorts.

When you buy away from home you do this service for some other community.

That The Herald's campaign, running through a number of years, for the encouragement of home industries has borne fruit in the shape of an awakened realization of the benefits to all and to each from buying home manufactured products, is becoming more and more evident. Lately one of the largest local stores, upon its reorganization, announced that its motto would be "Do It For Duluth," and that its policy would be to furnish goods made and handled in Duluth wherever possible.

All that a newspaper can do to forward this vital movement The Herald has done. The Commercial club has co-operated through its valuable "Seeing Duluth" excursions, which have opened the eyes of many to the extent of the manufacturing industries already established here, and which undoubtedly will lead to increased patronage of home manufactures.

However, there is much that the Commercial club, with the co-operation of the local manufacturers, could and should do in this respect. Recently The Herald told what Des Moines is doing along this line through a local organization which corresponds to the Commercial club. A neat certificate has been printed which is given with every purchase of a home-made product. Later valuable prizes will be given to those who acquire the largest quantities of these certificates. The prizes are in money and in manufactured articles from Des Moines factories. Already this plan is working a marked increase in the patronage of home industries.

Duluth might well borrow this device from Des Moines as an aid to the campaign for the encouragement of home manufacturing industries.

Des Moines is following this plan up with another. Late in June it is to have a "factory day" for which preparations are well advanced. It is being carried out by the joint efforts of the Greater Des Moines committee, the Des Moines Manufacturers' association and the advertising men of the local newspapers and stores.

On that day there will be special sales of goods made in Des Moines. Special window displays will be made in all the stores of goods of local manufacture, and every effort will be put forth to show the people of Des Moines what is manufactured in that city. The local merchants have been asked to co-operate, and they are doing so to a man.

That's another good idea which it is worth Duluth's while to consider.

THE TAX ON SUGAR.

When you buy a pound of sugar from your grocer at, say, 5¼ cents, here is what you pay for: Cost to New York refiners, including insurance and freight, 2.315 cents; refiners' margin, .80 of a cent; wholesaler's margin, .15 of a cent; retailer's gross profit, .3 of a cent; TARIFF DUTY, 1.685 cents; total, 5.25 cents.

The duty on raw sugar amounts to 78.87 per cent ad valorem. Sugar is a necessary of life. The duty on a few luxuries will be interesting by way of comparison: Champagne, 70 per cent; automobiles, 45 per cent; furs, 50 per cent; paintings and statuary, 15 per cent; diamonds, 10 per cent.

What the tariff does with the consumer on the price of sugar is shown by this fact: Refiners, when exporting refined sugar made from raw sugar which has paid the full duty, quote prices 1.85 cents lower than their quotation in the domestic market. In other words, the refiners sell American-refined sugar abroad nearly 2 cents a pound cheaper than they sell it in this country.

Last year this country consumed 3,350,355 tons, or 6,700,710,000 pounds, of sugar. The duty on this sugar at 1.685 cents per pound was $112,906,963.50. That was part of the consumer's share of running the government; and the difference between the share paid by the millionaire and the laborer was very small indeed. The average family of five persons consumed last year 408 pounds of sugar, and paid a tariff tax of nearly 2 cents on every pound.

Neither the retailer nor the wholesaler makes much money on sugar. The margin is closer on this staple than on anything else; and if the average grocer's profit were no greater on other commodities than it is on sugar he would go bankrupt in a month. The cost comes in through the tariff tax, which is more than the profit of the refiner, the wholesaler and the retailer put together. A reduction in the tariff tax would be felt immediately by the consumer.

The sugar industry needs no protection. C. A. Spreckels, president of the Federal Sugar Refining company, an independent concern, told the ways and means committee of the house on Nov. 17, 1908, that the domestic sugar refining interests need no protection provided they are supplied with free raw sugar, and that he favored the admission of both raw and refined sugars free of duty.

The sugar duty is an enormous producer of revenue, and it is often defended on that ground. Yet it is hard to see the justice in raising nearly half the nation's tariff revenue from one necessary of life taxed nearly 80 per cent, while diamonds are taxed 10 per cent, furs 50 per cent and automobiles 45 per cent.

THE SHORT BALLOT.

Additional reason for being glad that Governor Woodrow Wilson has the ear and the confidence of the American people is furnished by the fact that he is taking the occasion of his wide hearing to urge consideration of the short ballot reform.

In one of his Western speeches Governor Wilson said that the best governed cities are those which have the necessary features of the commission plan of government. The essential feature of this plan is identical with the short ballot idea: it concentrates public attention upon a few offices instead of scattering it so widely among many offices that the best results are impossible.

"The short ballot," said Governor Wilson, "is a departure from the commonly accepted doctrine that the way to make the people supreme was to put every choice for office, whether the office were great or small, in the hands of the people."

Though that practice looked like popular government and was pursued with that thought in mind, never was anything devised that worked more surely away from real popular government and into the hands of the bosses. "We now see," said Dr. Wilson, "that making every office elective was exactly the way not to make popular control effective."

The aim in extending the lists of elective offices was to avoid centralizing power. The people feared that if a few elective officers controlled, too much power would come into their hands. So they made as many offices elective as they possibly could. The result was the long ballot of today. The average voter, when he goes through that ballot, knows as much about two-thirds of the candidates as he knows about the men on a ticket in Texas. This unavoidable ignorance leaves the choice to professionals.

The short ballot plan takes the back track, and centralizes power freely. Instead of many elective officers and a diffusion of power and responsibility, there are only a few elective officers and a concentration of power and responsibility.

How does it come that there is no longer need of fearing centralized power? Because the people have discovered something that is much better, much simpler and much more effective than the old device of diffusing responsibility among so many offices that nobody ever could locate it and few could know who was filling those offices or who ought to be there. The new device is the recall. Under it there can be no abuses of this centralized power, because at any time the people can withdraw the officer who attempts to abuse his power and put another in his place.

At present the short ballot movement is confined to the cities, where it is working out under the commission plan. Under this scheme a few men are picked and given full power and full responsibility. The people safeguard themselves against abuses of this power by the initiative, under which they can institute public projects, the referendum, under which they can pass on any projects instituted by their officers, and the recall, under which they can supplant any unfaithful officer at any time.

Later, it is believed, the movement will extend to the states. In a state campaign everybody knows—or thinks he knows—all about the candidates for governor, and pretty nearly nobody knows about the many other candidates. Some time the governor will be required to appoint these other men and become responsible for their acts, and then the people will be voting on no more offices than they can know about.

Trying to elect eight or ten minor state officers is about as sensible as it would be to submit the selection of the president's cabinet to popular election.

DECORATE TOMORROW.

Every home, every store and every public building should have a flag. Every flag should fly tomorrow, in honor of the soldiers, the living and the dead.

Probably it isn't necessary to suggest this. Probably every home and every store and every public building has a flag, and will fly it tomorrow. It is a duty which every citizen owes to his patriotism and to his sense of the indebtedness the nation is under to those who fought, fifty years ago, that it might remain a nation in fact as well as in name.

Decorate your home, your store, your office building tomorrow in honor of Memorial day and the veterans of the Civil war.

A STRAW.

A very interesting local item in The Herald the other evening gave convincing testimony that the campaign for the agricultural development of St. Louis county is bearing rich fruit. It was related that a carload of farm machinery had been ordered for Iron Junction, this county.

Iron Junction is on the outskirts of the Mesaba iron range. A few years ago that section was a wilderness, almost appalling in its desolation. Now, like many other similar sections hereabouts, it is being cleared and cultivated, and there is a market for separators, binders, mowers, plows and other farm machinery. Now that the process is well begun, the passing of the wilderness will be rapid.

SPECIFICATIONS, PLEASE.

Now comes the Perham Enterprise and informs the world about the Northern Minnesota Development association as follows: "The association was formed for a very laudable purpose, but it seems to have been captured, body and boots, by a gang of designing Republican politicians. Politics, not patriotism, was the keynote of the Brainerd meeting; and unless all signs fail the politicians will run the Duluth meeting."

Maybe that's true. The declaration is made with all the assurance that certitude could give it. Of course, to those who have attended every meeting of the N. M. D. A. from its splendid birth up to this time, the statement is supremely ridiculous. But maybe the editor who made it has inside information on which to base it. Maybe, in that case, he would be glad to answer a few questions:

Where, when and how did that "gang of designing politicians" capture the association? For what purpose have they used it? Who are members of that gang, and how is the association serving them? Where, at the Brainerd meeting, was any note of politics struck? Where did the Brainerd meeting fail in patriotism?

This is the second charge of this sort that has lately come to the notice of The Herald, and like the first it is absolutely and unqualifiedly false. Politicians have buzzed around each meeting like typhoid flies around a germ culture; but they haven't got inside, and they are not going to get inside.

TELL THE FOLKS BACK HOME

By The Carnival Publicity Committee.

When the mistress is getting ready to give "a party," whether it is just high-jinks at bridge with a few fellow bridgerines and very special eats or whether it is a function including an "elegant collation," the whole family sniffs around with interest and the details are sure to be written to the folks back home. Duluth is bustling around preparing to give a beautiful party. The Midsummer Water Carnival will be a great big civic entertainment, lively with exciting sports, beautiful displays and clever comedy stunts. No other city in the country could give a party so beautiful and distinctive. It will be different.

This party is worth writing about. It will interest the folks back home. A Midsummer Water Carnival at Duluth will sound cool and delicious in July to folk sizzling east, south and west of us. It will be a kindness to send word that there is an oasis from heat suffering at Duluth, also a delightful party.

Here is a chance for every mother's son and daughter of us to help. "Let George do it," is the popular idea about civic boosting in most places. Duluthians are different when aroused to some one interest like the coming carnival. Every one does his share. An effective part of that share just now will be to write letters to outside friends telling of the party Duluth is to give. The Duluth Commercial club has a good many thousand attractive cards, envelope size, printed with the essential information about the Midsummer Water Carnival. You can get these free by writing or calling at the Commercial club.

You will be doing a good substantial share of Duluth boosting if you write and tell the folks at home about it.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

FROM MISSOURI.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A little space in your Open Court, please. When I went to pay my taxes this week I was assessed $7.91 for a sewer. I called up the city clerk, board of public works and city comptroller to find out when that assessment was made on the Woodbridge addition, Duluth Proper, and none of them knew. Can some of your readers tell me where or how I can find out, or is it just that they need some money? If the city officers don't know when or why assessments are made, who is going to tell us, or are we to pay out money just because they want it? Last year I paid $38.00 for a sanitary sewer on Third street, over $1.00 a front foot. What is the balance for? Yours,

A HOME OWNER.

Duluth, May 27.

Are You Getting Anywhere?

You are rushing after riches, with a grim look on your face;
You are spurred by one ambition, in your breast peace has not place;
You have turned away from others whom you clung to, long ago.
You have ceased to find contentment in the nooks you used to know;
You are straining, you are striving, through the dark days and the fair,
But, oh restless, eager brother, are you getting anywhere?

In your haste you have forgotten how to linger or to smile
When a child looks up and greets you you would claim your care awhile;
Though the wild rose sheds its petals in the lonely pasture still,
And glad breezes sway the blossoms in the orchard on the hill,
You are too much in a hurry, too much occupied to care,
But, with all your eager efforts, are you getting anywhere?

You have turned away from pleasure, trouble haunts you in your dreams;
It is long since you have lingered on the shores of shaded streams
That go singing to the pebbles they have made so clean and white
And have polished at their leisure and their pleasure, day and night;
You have ceased to know the solace that is in a sweet, old air,
But, with all your greedy grasping, are you getting anywhere?

You have given up old fancies; you have left old friends behind;
You are getting rich in pocket, but you're poor in heart and mind;
You have lost the sense of beauty in your haste to get ahead,
And along the ways you travel grief and bitterness are spread;
You no longer care how others bend beneath the woes they bear,
But, with all your cruel crowding, are you are getting anywhere?

Out beyond you there is darkness that no morning's light shall break;
In the distance there is silence that no song shall ever wake;
At the journey's end dishonor waits for them that day by day
Cheat their souls and starve their senses while they hurry on their way;
You are passing may pleasures that you have the right to share,
As you rush to fill the hollow men will dig for you somewhere.

A Sorry Slander.

Lincoln State Journal: "Popular sentiment is proverbially variable and is subject to constant alterations; today the multitude cry 'Hosanna!' and tomorrow 'Crucify Him!'"

This quotation is embodied in an article in the current North American Review by Albert Fink, specifically written to oppose popular election and recall of judges but in general an argument against democracy. The reference he makes has become a standard for opponents of direct legislation. One of the first recorded uses of the referendum, they tell us, was when Pilate "referred" the question of Jesus' guilt to the people and they shouted "Crucify Him!"

It is time this silly and cruel slander were nailed. If the disturbed worshippers of representative government will trouble to look into the circumstances of Jesus' life and death they will find the facts exactly contrary to their assertion. It was not "the people" who cried "Crucify Him." It was a packed convention, "representatives" of the Jewish hierarchy gathered together for the purpose, that intimidated Pilate into pronouncing the sentence of death. The people who yesterday cried "Hosanna" had nothing to do with it. The common people, we read, always "heard Him gladly."

Speaking of Pilate's action the Britannica says: "He did not therefore venture to refuse the cry of the mob—hounded on as they were by the priests and Sanhedrists." Clearly this was not government by "the people," nor even of the mob—a very different thing—but by their rulers, "the priests and Sanhedrists" who gathered and directed the mob.

In every society, as now and in the past constituted, there is a sediment of ignorance and brutality that is ever a potential mob. The actions of this element have always been held up as a warning against democracy, just as in the case here questioned. Yet oftener than not this mob is the creation and agent of despotism, as in Jerusalem it represented the special interest bent on the death of Jesus. It is no more fair or reasonable to hold "the people" responsible for "the mob" than to judge all opponents of democracy by Pilate and by Caiaphas, the high priest.

A Face That Fitted.

Saturday Evening Post: Joseph Jefferson and Wilton Lackaye were one season in the same company. It was the custom of Mr. Jefferson to take curtain calls and make a speech to the audience. He liked it, the audience liked it, and everybody but Lackaye liked it. Lackaye contended that no actor should step out of his part and make a curtain speech. One night Mr. Jefferson made his speech, and afterwards happened to pass Lackaye as he was going to his dressing rooms.

"Well, Wilton," Jefferson said, "how did I do tonight?"

"Oh," replied Lackaye, "it was the same old story. You went out there and made the usual blunder."

"Blunder?" Jefferson exclaimed. "What blunder did I make?"

"Why," Lackaye replied, "you said: 'As I look into your faces I feel that I should like to shake hands with each and every one.'"

"What's wrong with that?" demanded Jefferson.

"Wrong with it?" retorted Lackaye. "It's absurd. John Drew's face is the only one I ever saw that you could shake hands with."

Child Labor in Germany.

W. H. Dooley in the May Atlantic: The most stringent regulations passed by the German government are those affecting children and women, and it is in this respect that the state has clearly in view the interests of the community as represented by its workers. The total number of children under fourteen years employed for special reasons and exempt by law in the manufacturing industries in Germany is about 1,630. These children are between 13 and 14, and the hours of employment are restricted to six, with half an hour interval for meals. Between 14 and 16 they may work not more than ten hours, they must have an hour's pause at midday, and half an hour both in the forenoon and afternoon, unless their working day is not more than eight hours; no continuous period exceeds four hours. During the rest periods, any participation in work is forbidden, even remaining in the room is allowed only when their own department of the work is brought to a complete standstill. When past 18, they cease to be youthful workers and are under no special regulations except that all under 21 must be provided with a 'work-book or register, containing name, age, birthplace, nature of employment, date of engagement, discharge, and other particulars. All boys under 18 are obliged to attend a continuation school for nine or ten hours during the week, where they receive instruction in the technical knowledge of their trade, and religious instruction from their own clergyman. Some time is taken out of the regular work-day without loss of pay. In a number of larger engineering and machine-shops the writer saw no youthful workers.

Taft's Unique Position.

Mark Sullivan in Collier's: In his speech opening the debate on reciprocity, Claude Kitchin made this point:

"The administration of President Taft will stand out to the future in unique solitude. It is the first in the history of government that has been forced, in the exercise of the power given the president by the Constitution, to convene on extraordinary occasions two sessions of congress in one term."

Equally surprising is this fact:

"It is the first time in our history that a president has felt the necessity of calling an extra session when the popular branch of the government was in the hands of an adverse party."

Because it has come about so gradually, few realize how strange Taft's position is. Long ago he alienated the insurgents in congress, and the progressive wing of the Republican party, by the aid he gave Cannon and Aldrich in the making of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, by his repeated public approval of that measure, by his denial of patronage to the insurgents in congress, and by his efforts to harm them in their states. Lately, he has alienated the standpatters by his attitude on reciprocity. Cannon, Dalzell, Fordney, all the Old Guard, spoke and voted against his bill, and privately denounce him. The American Protective Tariff league, whose membership is very potent in standpat circles, because it is the most prolific source of funds, is conducting an active campaign to prevent Taft's renomination. Meantime, Taft has done nothing to placate the insurgents; indeed, at a time when the standpatters in the senate had given promises to meet the insurgent demands in the recent contest on committee assignments, Taft is reported to have interfered and caused the defeat of the insurgents. Within the party organizations the only element now devoted to Taft's renomination consists of the Federal machines in the South and those sections of the party that are dominated by office holders.

My Ma, She Knows.

My Pa, he scolds me jes, becuz
He says I'm gettin' "tough;"
He says my face is never clean,
I'm not behavin' like I should,
An' goin wrong, I 'spose.
But Ma, she takes an' pats my head
An' smiles, becuz she knows!

My Pa hain't got no use for boys,
He wants 'em always men;
I wonder if he's clean forgot
The boy he must 'a been;
Fer Ma, she says they're all alike,
'Bout face an' hands an' clothes,
An' says I'll learn to be a man;
An' Ma, I guess, she knows!

My Pa, he says I ain't no good
At doin' anything;
I'd ruther fool away the time
An' whistle, play an' sing;
But Ma, she smiles an says I'm young,
An' then she up an' goes
An' kisses me an' shows me how;
For Ma, you bet, she knows!

My Pa, he shakes his head and sighs,
An' says he doesn't see
Where I get all the careless ways
That seem jes born in me;
An' Ma, she laughs, an' laughs, an' laughs,
Till Pa's face crimson grows,
An' then she says, "'Tis very queer;"
But somehow, Ma, she knows!

My Ma she knows most everything
'Bout boys an' what they like,
She's never scoldin' bout the muss
I make with kites and bike;
She says she wants me to be good
An' conquer all my foes,
An' you bet I'm goin' to be,
'Cuz my sweet Ma, she knows!

DULUTH, JUNE 1 AND 2.

Just Try It.

St. Peter Free Press: Soon there will be a big blowout at Duluth. On June 1 and 2 the Northern Minnesota Development association will hold a grand rally at the Zenith City, to discuss the agricultural possibilities and advantages of that section of the country. But while the name of the association would impress outsiders as a local affair the object of the meeting is broad enough to include the whole Northwest. The resources of Northern Minnesota are of such vast proportions that practically everybody in the state, not already in possession of a good homestead, can be accommodated right here, if he cares to "go back to the farm." Then there will also be boat excursions, trolley and automobile rides on the side. And the citizens of Duluth know how to entertain visitors. Just try it.

A Big Boost for Minnesota.

Montevideo Leader: The fourth convention of the Northern Minnesota Development association will be held at Duluth June 1 and 2. There will be delegations from nearly forty of the Northern Minnesota county associations, also from kindred associations in Wisconsin, Michigan and other states. It will be a big boost for Minnesota and especially the northern and western portion that has more land than is used and needs more settlers. Among the many matters to be discussed will be state development, the development of state lands, the conservation of soil ferttility, the coming land show in St. Paul, the national corn show, the drainage question and many other practical and important matters. Duluth will take good care of those who attend and you are urged to go.

It's for Everybody.

Deer River News: It will be a poor hamlet of the thirty-five counties that will not be represented at the Northern Minnesota Development convention in Duluth, since the invitation has been extended to ladies.

Will be a Great Success.

Stillwater Gazette: The Northern Minnesota Development association that is to meet at Duluth June 1 and 2 is attracting much attention and will be a great success. What is good for Northern Minnesota is good for us. A boost for the northern part of the state means a boost for the whole state. Some of the best men in the country will tell what they know about lands and how to develop the same. The farmers are particularly invited to visit Duluth on the above dates.

Duluth as a Host.

Spooner News: Duluth has been chosen for the next meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association and the city is preparing for the event by the distribution of advertising matter in an effort to make this the best and biggest meeting yet held by the association. Duluth's name as a host has been long since well established and it is safe to state that the coming convention will mark the greatest gathering the Zenith City has ever had the pleasure to welcome.

Everybody Boost.

Gheen Record: Boost for Minnesota. The Northern Minnesota Development association convention to be held at Duluth June 1 and 2 is going to make history for Minnesota. Duluth is preparing to care for and entertain the great number of delegates and visitors who will flock there the first of June, and she will welcome and entertain them royally. On to Duluth the first of June and boost for Minnesota.

A Rebuke to Legislators.

Cass Lake Times: The larger attendance at Duluth June 1 and 2, the greater rebuke to legislators, who covered themselves with ignomy. Everybody be there.

Will Not be Forgotten.

Deer River News: The last session of the legislature was the first to be told what Northern Minnesota wanted. At Duluth on June 1 and 2 results will be summed up, and the next legislature will not be forgotten nor permitted to forget.

Mac Is the Dynamo.

Little Falls Transcript: The Northern Minnesota Development asociation will hold its fourth convention in Duluth June 1 and 2, at which time a campaign of education will be inaugurated to place information as to the state's possibilities before prospective settlers of Northern Minnesota. The association has made rapid strides since its inception in Beundidi in February, 1910, and will make further progress along lines looking to the development of the richest section of the United States. W. R. MacKenzie, secretary of the association and the man who was responsible for its organization, is convinced of the state's richness and has the courage of his convictions. He is shouting for Northern Minnesota at all times and the effect of his energetic campaign for that section's development is being felt.

Try It Yourself, Moyle.

Breckenridge Gazette: Everybody in this section of the state who possibly can, should make it a point to attend the meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association, to be held in Duluth June 1 and 2. These development meetings, of which the Duluth gathering will be the fourth, are something more than mere junkets. They are meetings of representative men from all over the state, who assemble with a definite object, and that object the development of an empire. Boost for the Duluth meeting, and better yet, go yourself. You will meet a live bunch of people and in all probability learn a good many things about the northern half of your state that will be of value to you.

A Rich Section.

Campbell News: Next week Thursday and Friday, June 1 and 2, the Northern Minnesota Development association will meet at Duluth and exploit the many advantages and attractions of the northern portion of the state. There is no doubt of the natural richness of the soil up that way, the plentitude of timber for fuel and building purposes, the abundance of game and fish, and the close proximity of one of the best markets in the country.

Bocker—"Yes; but the church choirs wouldn't."

Isaacs— "Yes. I got to buy one; valking vas too exbensive!"

"Owns the finest diamond in the world, eh? That seems a shame when she doesn't play baseball."

Washington Star: "You were strong for a safe and sane Fourth of July last year."

"Yes," replied Mr. Growcher; "but I'm not going to say any more about it. I got so excited over the matter a year ago that my friends said I was both dangerous and irresponsible."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Never mind, old man. Nobody will buy your pictures now, but some future collector may pay hundreds of thousands of dollars apiece for them."

"Yes; but what good will that do me?"

"Well, you can at least have the satisfaction of knowing that if any man ever does pay big prices for them he will be getting the worst of it."

Life: Somewhat Superior Young Minister—"No, dear lady, frankly, I cannot persuade myself that it would be safe to let women vote."

"And what, may I ask, is your reason for opposing it?"

"Well, dear lady, I cannot but think that if women were to vote it would make them, let us say—a little, er—er masculine."

"Oh, I don't know. It has never had that effect upon the clergy."

STRUCK BY N. P. TRAIN

Teamster Found Bleeding and Unconscious in Ditch Near Tracks.

Probably Lay All Night With a Huge Gash in Head.

Unconscious, bruised and bleeding, Thomas J. Vint, 38 years old, teamster, was found lying near the Northern Pacific tracks back of the Duluth Brewing company's plant, Twenty-ninth avenue west, at 4:15 this morning. He had an ugly gash on top of his head and a long cut across the temple. It is thought a train struck him.

Vint lives at 115 South Fifty-eighth avenue west and is a driver for the Duluth Brewing company. He left home yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and started for the brewery barn. When he did not return later in the evening, his wife became anxious and as time went on, she grew hysterical.

John Vint, a brother, and John Fife, a brother-in-law, went in search of Vint last evening. The police were notified and patrolmen were also instructed to keep a watch for the man. When John Vint called at the brewery barn, he was informed that the missing man had not shown up there.

After searching for several hours, the two men finally discovered Vint lying in the ditch about six feet from the main line of the Northern Pacific. Besides the bruises on his head, he also had scratches on his face and hands and his clothing was torn in places. He was picked up and taken home. Dr. W. A. Coventry was called and administered medical aid.

There is a touch of mystery to the affair, says John Vint, the brother, who is of the belief that the man could not have sustained such a gash directly on top of his head from being struck by a train. On the other hand, the theory of his being slugged is discarded when it was found that Vint had $21 and a gold watch on his person, which were not molested.

Vint was picked up about 150 feet from the brewery barn, to which he was going. It was his custom on Sunday afternoons to go to the barn and feed his team. Vint is a married man and has one child. He will recover, it is thought.

CHURCHES WILL MEET ON DIAMOND.

The annual baseball game between the men of Westminster Presbyterian and Merritt Memorial M. E. churches will be pulled off tomorrow evening at 6 p. m. at the Fifty-second avenue west grounds. Rev. H. J. P. Selinger and L. A. Barnes will umpire the contest. The line-up follows:

CLAIM DISTRICT IS LARGEST IN STATE.

That West Duluth, comprising the Seventh and Eighth wards, and the large additional territory in the forty-ninth legislative district, suffers more than any other section of the state in the matter of legislative apportionment will be the contention of the West Duluth delegation at the Northern Minnesota Development association, which will meet in this city June 1 and 2.

The Forty-ninth district, it is claimed, is by far the largest, in point of population in the state. As compared with some of the districts, which have a population of not more than 20,000, the district embraces 90,000 people. The West Duluthians assert that this end of the district, which includes West Duluth and the neighborhood tributary has a population of 20,000 represented by a man from the ranges.

No personal reflections are cast on the ability and integrity of the present representatives from the district, but reapportionment is what the West Duluthians will urge at the development congress. The West Duluth delegation will consist of the following: A. G. Macauley, M. J. Murray, C. M. Cruikshank, L. Ramstad, D. Sang, C. M. Brooks, P. H. Martin, E. J. Zauft, Thomas Olafson, J. J. Frey, A. H. Merriman, Dr. C. R. Keyes, A. Myles, F. M. Jolitz and W. B. Getchell.

The delegation will also assist the Duluth club in welcoming the visitors to the city.

MOTOR BOAT OWNERS HAVE BUSY SUNDAY.

Yesterday was the first real summer day for the motor boat enthusiasts and the river was crowded with pleasure seekers all day.

Several new boats were dipped yesterday for the first time. Many launch parties took trips up the St. Louis and spent the day returning in the evening.

Fishing is said to be good. Many sturgeon are being caught. Charles Ilitis returned this morning with two large ones.

Building at Gary.

There is much building in progress in the new Gary addition, near New Duluth. Recently three new frame houses were completed. Each was two stories and valued at about $1,500. Their owners are D. Darick, Frank Darick and B. N. Mires.

West Duluth Briefs.

West Duluth barber shops will be closed tomorrow afternoon for the rest of the day in observance of Memorial day.

Fire broke out in a slab pile behind the National Iron works at about 200 feet east of the foot of Ramsey street. The blaze, which was started from a spark from a locomotive, was easily put out by No. 8 fire company.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver S. Olsen have returned to West Duluth from Chicago, where Mr. Olsen has been attending the College of Physicians and Surgeons. They will spend the summer in the city.

Mrs. William Smart of Chisholm, who has been the guest of friends the past week, left yesterday for Wilmar, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pekonney of 120 North Fifty-seventh avenue west are the parents of a daughter, born yesterday.

The Sunday school of the Westminster Presbyterian church will hold Children's day exercises, Sunday, June 18. A special program is being arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sequin, who have resided for the past two years at Seattle, Wash., have again taken up their residence at West Duluth.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson of Boscobel, Wis., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Marie Nelson of 4925 Oneota street.

Rev. M. H. Morill of Superior preached yesterday morning at Asbury M. E. church.

CUMMINGS CASE GOES TO THE JURY

The case of James Cummings against the Duluth Telephone company for $15,260 for damage to his reputation which he claims to have been caused when he was falsely charged with stealing a quantity of copper wire, went to the jury this afternoon. The trial of the case took place before Judge Dibell of the district court.

About a year ago Cummings was charged with stealing 300 pounds of copper wire by the telephone company, and was finally dismissed after the case had hung fire for some time.

It was claimed that while working on the Carlton extension, Cummings shipped 300 pounds of the wire to a fellow workman in Duluth and that he later took possession of the wire and attempted to sell it to a junk dealer.

Cummings claims that there was no case against him, that he was acquitted and that the injury to his reputation is more than worth the amount asked.

LAYBOURN IS ELECTED

Succeeds B. P. Neff as Head of Anti-Tuberculosis Committee.

Visiting Nurse Reports on Work Done in Last Two Years.

George R. Laybourn was elected chairman of the Duluth anti-tuberculosis committee at a meeting held at the Commercial club today. Mr. Laybourn succeeds Bentley P. Neff, who was chairman from the first organization of the committee and who felt compelled to resign on account of pressure of other business.

One of the features of today's meeting was a report by Mrs. Florence Lee, the visiting nurse of the committee. Mrs. Lee reported effective work and co-operation and pointed out the necessity of an additional nurse to obtain the best results.

Dr. W. N. Hart told of the dispensary work and Courtenay Dinwiddie, secretary of the Associated Charities, spoke of the opportunities for co-operation in the work of the Associated Charities and the anti-tuberculosis committee. Jean Poirier, state factory inspector, said that there is good work to be done among the children and pledged her support.

L. N. Dickerson spoke on the failure of the last legislature to appropriate additional money for anti-tuberculosis work and urged that steps should be taken now so that the failure does not recur at the next session of the legislature.

Dr. Braden and Dr. Robert Graham commended the work of the visiting nurse. Dr. Graham told of the work of the Masonic order in employing a visiting nurse to assist in caring for children. Dr. E. L. Tuohy urged the necessity of having another visiting nurse as soon as the funds of the committee will allow. He said there would be work enough for Mrs. Lee in supervising the campaign against tuberculosis and that result should be brought about as soon as possible.

The treasurer of the committee reported that on May 1 the treasury held $1,635.36, with all bills paid.

Mrs. Lee's report follows:

"My committee desire to me to tell you of the work of the visiting nurse for the past two years, from May, 1909 to date.

"Since the first call was made at a patient's house in May, 1909, 338 individuals are recorded as having been visited by the nourse—thirty or forty more names can with truth be added to this number, as the records were not kept with accuracy for the first three or four months of the work.

"The first six months of the nurse's time was spent in digging out, in securing the co-operation of the doctors and laymen, and in becoming thoroughly familiar with local conditions, with a view to obtaining as thorough a survey of the situation as possible.

Cases Increase.

"At the close of the first six months the nurse's report shows 120 patients under supervision and a total of 700 calls, showing that the "digging-out" aforesaid had met with some returns:

"June 1, 1910, report for the first year, reads, 160 individuals under supervision with 1,250 calls, and 175 letters written.

"There has been a marked increase in the calls made upon the nurse's services in the past ten months. The one-hour spent each day in the office at Room I, city hall, is a pretty busy one. The phone is not idle, and, at last, citizens seemed to have learned thoroughly that, if they want the nurse, she is at home for calls only from 9 to 10 a. m.

"She is out on the road the rest of the day, trying to keep in touch with her 140 patients. This keeping in touch with a patient simply means that the individual cannot be left to work out his own salvation. When actual visiting at the home seems unnecessary, then letters and phone calls must bridge the distance between the patient's home and nurse's office. Only when a patient is located in a good sanatarium is the nurse at liberty to sit back and think; and her thinking usually resolves itself into the knowledge that, with the removal of the patient to the sanitarium her work has just begun. Following closely the safe placing under institutional care of any one member of the family, comes the need for educational work for all the others.

"Until Feb. 1, 1911, a special arrangement with Father Time, enabled the nurse to keep up with the demands made upon her. Since that time, an office assistant (at a sliding-scale salary of from $3 to $5 a week, according to the merit of the worker), has been engaged. There have been no other expenses connected with the nursing department except the monthly rental of a typewriter, and bills for printing, etc. Free office quarters with light and phone service have been secured.

"Perhaps, as evidence of the interest being taken in the work during the past year, it may be said that over $300 has been contributed for all kinds of relief, by private citizens, fraternal orders, churches and small circles of people who care a great deal to help their fellow-citizens. The various amounts under this total have been always used for a specific purpose, and have been the result of personal appeal on the part of the nurse.

"Patients have been sent to the state hospital at Walker, to the Thomas hospital in Minneapolis, and the smaller amounts donated have meant to the individual sufferers much-needed comfort, often actual relief, and what is perhaps the most difficult situation to meet, the securing of proper care at home for many who cannot avail themselves of institutional care. Until the state makes proper provision for the advanced case of tuberculosis, this miserable makeshift of home-care must be rendered as adequate as possible. Providing a proper caretaker (intelligent) in the homes of those who need it is surely an economic as well as a humane relief measure. Improper and unskilled care of the consumptive at home simply means that the chances are excellent for further infection.

Physcians Help.

"Speaking of co-operation, the nurse feels that this may be the only occasion to express to the physicians of Duluth what their generous responsiveness has meant. In not one instance in the past two years have the doctors refused to make any call when requested to do so by the nurse. Needless to say, that the majority of these calls did not increase the physician's income.

"But better far than the charity call willingly made, has been the active sympathy shown by the profession towards the nurse in her uphill, and somewhat discouraging work. Uphill is all right, here in Duluth, I think. With a northeaster blowing at thirty-five miles an hour, and the thermometer 16 deg. below, and a weary nurse trying to reach Twelfth street (West end), a hurried hand-shake, and hearty greeting from some medical doctor, (trying to reach some equally inaccessible point) has meant a great deal. And this comradeship has never been lacking.

"The board of health is aggressively interested in the campaign, and has incorporated in its regular monthly report, the nurse's report. Premises are fumigated every time a report of the removal of any family having tuberculosis is turned in. Anti-spitting signs are now in evidence in all public buildings. In this connection, the nurse's office was not forgotten.

"The Duluth Anti-Tuberculosis committee is happy in the knowledge that their nurse can call upon the health department for assistance at any time.

"The tubercular pavilion at the county poor farm, open since February, 1910, has relieved the pressure somewhat by receiving men without means, in an advanced stage of the disease. The women and children must remain at home until provision is made for them. There are now on the records fifteen children under 16 years of age needing institutional care.

"The free clinic at the court house, with Dr. W. N. Hart at its head, has been of the utmost help in the fight for the last twelve months, and may be looked upon very properly as the educational headquarters of the work.

Since the work of the nurse began, in May 1909, sixty of the patients under the care of the anti-tuberculosis committee have received treatment and care in some institution in the state of Minnesota. Letters from the neighboring states of Wisconsin and Michigan in relation to patients show the extension of the work. The teachers in the public school have been very responsive and very alert in helping on with the work, wherever the interests of the children were involved.

"Probably a conservative estimate would give 300 or more as the number of cases still unlooked after in Duluth. These uncared-for cases are the best carriers of infection—they have generally drifted out of the supervision of their own medical attendant, and are being victimized by quacks—spending large sums of money in a hopeless quest for relief, and living without the slightest regard for the welfare of their neighbors.

"Another visiting nurse for anti-tuberculosis work is needed. Effective and adequate care cannot be given to 150 patients by one woman. The free clinic at the courthouse would require the services of a nurse three entire days each week to look after the cases on record there. Conscious of neglect on the part of the visiting nurse, a patient soon ceases to care as to his manner of living, and therefore becomes a menace to public health.

"If there has been any slight measure of result in the two years the visiting nurse has been in Duluth, the merit must rest with the committee under whom the nurse has served. A generosity of personal service, sympathy of the best kind, and unlimited confidence in the nurse, have made the work easier, more far-reaching, and infinitely more vital than would have been possible under any other policy. The support of intelligent personal service, and continued financial aid must characterize the campaign of the third year, if good is to accrue. Will the citizens of Duluth help?"

The "Siphon System" of Seeger Refrigerators permits keeping all the provisions in the refrigerator without some of them absorbing the odor of others. Melons, onions and fruits may be kept in the same compartment without affecting milk, cream and butter.

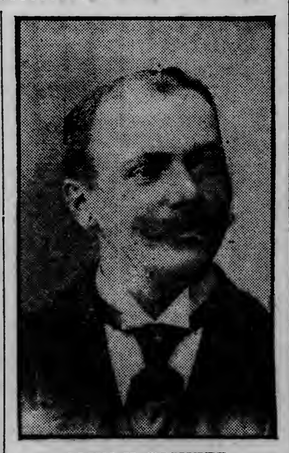
JOHN K. RICHTER IS VICTIM OF HEART DISEASE

The funeral of John K. Richter, 42 years of age, who died Saturday at his home, 319 South Nineteenth avenue east, of heart disease, will take place at 8 o'clock this evening from the Masonic temple, Lake avenue and Second street.

The ritual of the order, of which he was a member, will be followed at the services. Tomorrow evening the body will be sent to Chicago, his former home, for interment.

Mr. Richter was a resident of this city for about twelve years and had a host of acquaintances and friends, who were shocked to hear of his death.

He took a deep interest in the affairs of the city. Although never a candidate for political offices, he followed political matters closely and was a student along that line. He is survived by his wife.



JOHN K. RICHTER.

MYSTERY MAY BE SOLVED

A son of Deputy Sheriff Frank Magie, who is camping with some other boys a few miles from Lakeside, may have solved the identity of the man, whose body was found on the lake shore, early this spring.

Some distance from the shore the boys found an old and deserted shack. In the shack they found an old note book in which some one had evidently kept a daily record. On the last page was a notation which says: "I am tired of living. I may drown myself in the lake."

There was no name on the book but the authorities may be able to get at the facts in the case from the book, the contents of the shack and what those living near can add. The book will be turned over to the authorities as soon as the boys come to the city.

The man was found in the water early this spring. He was frozen in the ice and it was necessary to chop the body out.

He was evidently of Finnish nationality and about 30 years of age. He had apparently shot himself for he had a bullet hole through his head.

After the body was held at a local undertaking establishment for some time it was buried at the expense of the county for no one could be found to identify it.

DULUTH FIRM LANDS JOB

The Duluth Marine Contracting company was the successful bidder for the dredging work to be done for the government at Ogdensburg, N. Y.

There are about 710,00 yards to be taken out. The bid of the Duluth firm was between $90,000 and $100,000. Dredging firms from all over the Great Lakes submitted bids on the work. The bid of the Duluth firm was lowest of all. The engineer at Ogdensburg recommended that the Duluth bid be accepted and this morning a message from New York confirmed the fact that the Duluth company had been awarded the contract.

The Duluth Marine Contracting company will begin work on the new contract soon. A fleet of two tugs, two dump scows and a dry scow will be taken down the lakes at once.

It is estimated that they will be busy all the present and a part of the next season on the job.

WHITE SOX TAKE FINAL

Rochester Beaten in Last of Series By Score of 8 to 4.

Contest Is Marked By Hitting of Leber and Sam Meneice.

Yesterday's game went the way of the White Sox, by the score of 8 to 4. The contest was a give and take affair, with one team leading and then the other, doing the most gracious hanging back for the other to proceeed with runs. As in the game Saturday, the Sox succeeded in totalling four errors, which seems to be getting quite a habit.

Without the services of O'Brien the team appeared somewhat handicapped. Cummings made three misplays and in general weakened the defense of the infield. The pitcher naturally is not to be blamed for this, as he is not a second baseman. If O'Brien is to be out of the game very long, it might be humbly suggested that an infielder be secured.

Woodburn started the game yesterday, but in the fifth inning a liner struck his finger and he retired from the game, to be followed to the hurling hill by Red Robert Worman, as steady as the brook that Al Tennyson wotted of.

Rochester scored in the first inning, when Eddie Foy walked, was sacrificed to second and was scored on a hit and infield out. Duluth came back with two in our handsome half. Leber hit for two bags full and advanced when Cummings singled to the left pasture. Leber came across on a sacrifice on the part of Johnson and Cummings scored when Kernan made an error on Holstrom's offering.

In the third we counted on Leber's single, a sacrifice by Cummings and a single by large Sam. In the fourth after one was dead, Miller singled and went clear to third on Hardgrove's single. Woodburn Gus Hilled but Leber singled and the fourth run was over.

In the maddening fifth the enemy put three nasty runs over the pan.

Foy doubled to left and the sky looked black. The comedian was shunted along by suicidal means and scored on a single through short. Dunn hit to Col. Altermott and the colonel threw to second to get Nye. Cummings dropped the ball and the situation was like a cook mutiny in a boarding house. Schuman hit one hard to first that Sam had to travel to grab with his meat hand, the visiting right gardener beating the return of Sam to the bag. Nye coming over on the play. Dunn was resting on third when the smoke cleared, and scored a minute later when Woodburn made a wild throw to first.

With the score tied up things were even to the eighth, when we put four runs over the plate. Altermott hit for two bases and Miller stopped one with himself, though Mister Lang held his hand for the heave. Hargrove singled through Cy Young the sixteenth. Lang made a circus catch of Worman's foul, but Leber singled, sending Altermott and Miller over. Leber tried to stretch the clout into two and was nipped at second.

Kramer hit for two, scoring Hargrove and Meneice's single sent Kramer over with the last run of the game, which proved quite sufficient.

The result follows with laughter:

SURGEONS GO HITLESS IN SATURDAY'S GAME.

Duluth won the Saturday game through the masterly twirling of Mike Kramer, who held the Surgeons hitless. Not even a sign of a bingle was gathered off the underhand shoots of the Teuton. Errors gave the Doctors two runs and for a while it looked as if the second game of the second series would be tossed away. But the Sox rallied and coupled hits with the miscues of the enemy, winning the contest in the ninth on two hits, a wild throw and a passed ball.

TAYLORITES WIN AND LOSE

Superior Drops Saturday and Wins From Indians Sunday.

Superior took yesterday's game from Red Wing by the score of 1 to 0. It was a pitching duel between Dahlgren and Weidel and the Superior (Wisconsin) twirler won out.

Hits were scarce, the Indians getting only three scattered blows during the matinee. Dahlgren also made ten of the visitors hit nothing but the atmosphere.

While Weidel was not hit hard, he was hit at the critical time when hits meant runs, and lost.

In the game of Saturday the Red Wings took the contest by the score of 7 to 4. The game was a free hitting one, in which both teams did some hard clouting.

WINONA WINS LONG GAME FROM CHAMPIONS.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 29.—Winona won a game yesterday afternoon that went for fourteen innings. Up to Winona's half of the fourteenth it was a pitcher's duel between Dauss and Baillies of Winona and Delave of the locals. In the first of the final inning Moore misjudged a hit to deep center. The hit went for a home run, the bases being full at the time.

Delave pitched a wonderful game and with any kind of support would have won the game. The result:

CHAMPIONS HERE TODAY FOR THREE-GAME SERIES

Tommy Schoonhoven brings his band of champion Eau Claire sluggers here this afternoon for a series of three games. To date the Angels have been playing a very fast article of baseball and the series here promises to be a very interesting one.

Thomas Heine Schoonhoven is one of the most capable and energetic managers in the league. Though he has lost Kading, Callahan and one or two other players, from the present indication his team has struck its gait.

The Angels grabbed two out of three from Winona, losing out yesterday in a 14-inning contest after one of the best and hardest games of the season. We have seen Red Wing and Rochester in action, but from the way the Angels are traveling at the present time we will see some very good baseball in the three contests scheduled with the aggregation from the Wisconsin village.

Just at the present time the Sox are going along nicely. They have won nine of the fifteen games they have played so far, winning all but one on the home grounds. The fans look for a winning of at least two of the three games scheduled with Eau Claire.

Woodburn and Kramer are going fine. Worman has shown good in the games played so far, and on the road Al Cummings has been pitching good ball. With the exception of the injury that O'Brien suffered in the Rochester contest the members of the team are in excellent shape.

The fans generally are pleased with the showing the Sox have made. In Johnson, Miller and Holstrom, especially the clever lad in left, the Sox have the best outfield a Duluth team has had since Bennett, Neighbors and Meneice played in the daisy path.

While the playing of Col. Altermott at short has been far from what it might be of late, most of us hope the colonel's booting of the ball is merely a passing whim, something temporary, and that he will come back to fielding cleanly and hitting the pill.

Leber is going nicely at third and big Sam Meneice is playing a corking game at the initial sack, in addition to pounding the pellet for timely swats. Sam has been getting his two and three hits nearly every game and right at the present time is holding a high average.

Derby was going well at second, and his return to the infield will strengthen the team. In all-round work the team has shown strength and should win the majority of its games from now on.

In addition to the game this afternoon the Angels will be seen here tomorrow in a double-header. A game will be played in the morning and in the afternoon. A clean sweep over the champions would be a result most gratifying, and that is what the Sox are going after.

RAIN ENDS GAME WITH SCORE A TIE.

Chicago, May 29.—Rain and darkness put an end to the second game of the Cleveland and Chicago series yesterday, with the score 5 to 5 in the tenth inning. The visitors hit Walsh hard in the seventh and looked like sure winners. A batting rally by Chicago in the ninth inning, including two singles and a base on balls filled the bases. Bodie tripled to right center, clearing the bases, and scored on Collins' hit. Gregg relieved Harkness and the battle was checked. With a man on second and two out, rain came down in torrents, and the game was called. Three ticket scalpers were arrested for operating outside of the grounds. Score:

Cavet, who proved so effective against the locals Saturday, the last of three Minneapolis pitchers to be used, was batted hard. Jack Pfeister, while hit hard, kept the hits scattered. The batting of Howard, Grimshaw, Cravath and Williams and Stanley's fielding were the features.

WOLGAST CUTS BURNS TO BITS

San Francisco, Cal., May 29.—Champion Ad Wolgast gave Frankie Burns of Oakland such an unmerciful beating in their scheduled twenty round fight in this city Saturday that the challenger's seconds mercifully intervened and at the end of the sixteenth round, before the bell called the men up for the seventeenth. The towel was shied in the ring.

It was a ferocious battle throughout and was characterized chiefly by Burns' ability to stave off inevitable defeat, which seemed imminent in many of the preceding rounds. Although constantly under fire and with blood flowing from his nostrils and mouth, Burns never lost his head and fought back strongly, and at one time as if he would turn the tide and capture the championship. In the sixteenth round Wolgast cut loose like a tiger and so terribly did he punish his man that the crowd almost to a man arose and importuned the referee to stop the fight. Welsh remained obdurate, but Burns handlers realizing the hopelessness of permitting their charge to combat further, tossed a towel into the ring and Wolgast was proclaimed the winner.

Time called, 3:15.

There were approximately 7,000 persons crowded into the arena when it was closed at 3:16 p. m.

KRAMER WINS NATIONAL BICYCLE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Newark, N. J., May 29.—Frank Kramer, the national bicycle champion, yesterday won the national championship one-mile race, taking two of three heats, respectively, in 2:50 and 3:01 4-5. The odd heat went to Joe Fogler. Floyd MacFarland won the one-mile handicap, starting from 60 yards, in 1:56 4-5.

COSTER GETS DECISION

Frankie Conley No Match for the Clever Brooklyn Featherweight.

New Orleans, La., May 29.—Joe Coster of Brooklyn administered a severe beating to Frankie Conley of Kenosha, Wis., in a 20-round bout at the West Side Athletic club yesterday afternoon. Three judges were unanimous in awarding the Brooklyn boy the honors and he is now slated to meet Abe Attell for the featherweight championship.

Conley was a 7 to 5 favorite with the crowd. Both boys appeared to be in excellent condition. They weighed 122 pounds.

Coster led off with a left to the chin, a short vicious jab which he used almost at will after the eighth round, cutting the Kenosha boy's lips until they were raw. The continued hammering developed a swelling on Conley's right cheek almost as large as a baseball and huge welts over both eyes by the time the bout had ended.

Only in the seventh round did Conley make much of a showing. He forced the fighting, and in clinches landed on Coster's mouth and nose.

In the first, fifth, sixth, fifteenth and nineteenth rounds, the honors were about even, but with the exception of the seventh Coster had the fighting all his own way, beating Conley at his own game of in-fighting. It was the first time Coster had engaged in a 20-round bout and was his first appearance here.

The bout was refereed by Dr. Wallace Woods. The judges were T. S. Wallace of Milwaukee, W. R. Hamilton, sporting writer, and Frederick Buckowitz of this city.

CORNELL WINS BIG TRACK MEET

Cambridge, Mass., May 29.—The fleet and enduring runners of Cornell did their part Saturday for their university's athletic supremacy when they captured the intercollegiate track and field championships for the fourth time in eleven years. Hubert d'Autremont of Duluth tied with Yale's man for third in the pole vault. The meeting was made historic by the breaking of five intercollegiate records, and the equaling of three others.

One of the new marks, the mile run, made by J. P. Jones of Cornell, stands for the world's amateur record. His time, 4 minutes, 12 2-5 seconds, is one-fifth of a second better than the record which has stood for sixteen years.

Other events in which former efforts were surpassed were the half-mile, and two-mile, the shot-put and the pole vault, while those equalled were the two dashes and the quarter-mile.

Everywhere was a grand fight for honors between Cornell, Yale, Michigan and Pennsylvania, but the first two colleges left the others behind and came down to the 220-yard dash, the final event, with Cornell leading by three points. In this event Ford of Cornell finished second to Craig, the Michigan sprinter, while Thatcher of Yale was shut out.

The colleges finished as follows:

Cornell 30½; Yale, 24½; Michigan, 24; Pennsylvania, 18 2-3; Dartmouth, 9; Princeton, 8; Harvard, 6; Amherst, 5; Columbia, 5; M. T. 3 1-3; Williams, 2; Rutgers, 2; Pennsylvania state, 2; Brown, 1.

BARROW IS AFTER ROWDIES

New York, May 29.—President Edward Barrow of the Eastern league, is swinging the big stick in an effort to suppress the rowdyism that has characterized some of the recent games in that organization.

Today players Corridan, Pierce, Scheim, Breckendorf and Stallings of the Buffalo club, were fined $50 each for their part in the batting of Umpire Kerin at Rochester Saturday, and Pitcher Speer of the same team, who threw the ball at Kerin, was suspended for five days in addition to being fined $50. Manager Joe Kelly of Toronto, was fined $50 and suspended for abusing Umpire Hart in the Toronto-Montreal game Saturday.

Manager McGinnity of Newark was fined $50 for disputing a decision of Umpire Murray in Newark yesterday, and Second Baseman Nee of the same team was both fined and suspended. There was almost a riot when Murray called Nee out at home for not touching the plate and both Nee and McGinnity were banished from the field for the vigor of their objections.

ST. PAUL EASY FOR WISCONSIN VARSITY.

Madison, Wis., May 29.—The Wisconsin varsity eight-oared crew ran away from the rowers of the Minnesota Boat club of St. Paul in a three-quarter mile race pulled off on Lake Mendota after dark Saturday, the Badger oarsmen finishing with four lengths of open water between themselves and the Gopher oarsmen.

MARTIN SHERIDAN SETS NEW DISCUS RECORD.

New York, May 29.—A world's record of 141 feet, 4⅜ inches for throwing the discus, was established yesterday by Martin J. Sheridan, of the Irish-American A. C., at Celtic park. The previous record was set by him two years ago at 139 feet, 10½ inches. In a new contest—throwing instead of putting a thirty-five-pound-weight from a seven-foot circle—Mat McGrath set the mark at 53 feet, 11 inches. In the 100-yard dash Gwynn Henry, the Texas sprinter, starting from scratch negotiated the distance in ten seconds flat.

Cloquet Wins.

Cloquet, Minn., May 29—(Special to The Herald.)—Cloquet "nosed" outa victory over the T-C-D team of Superior in a ninth inning rally, winning by a score of 6 to 5. Heavy hitting on both sides featured throughout the contest, although both Bonneville and Arnold pitched steady ball, the former being substituted by Carlson in the ninth. With the score a tie in the ninth with bases full, Standstrom hit over short scoring in the winning run. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Cloquet	0 0 0 0 0 0 1 4 1—6	10	4
T-C-D	0 0 0 0 1 0 0 4 0—5	8	7

Batteries—Bonneville, Carlson and McKenna; Arnold and Rhue. Umpire—Medley.

FORTY-THREE WILL START

Indianaupolis, Ind., May 29.—With the exception of preliminary tests of ten cars, the morning of the last day before the big 500-mile automobile race found everything in readiness for the firing of the starting bombs tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. In all probability forty-three cars, the largest field in the history of automobile racing, will be lined up for the start.

The principal event at the speedway today is "Wild Boy" Burman's attempt to lower the world's record for the mile, half mile, quarter mile and kilometer. Burman will drive the "Blitzen" Benz, in which Barney Oldfield set a world's record for the mile at the Speedway last Memorial day.

Promptly at 10 o'clock tomorrow, Carl G. Fisher, president of the Speedway company, will take the starters in the 500 mile race around the track for one lap, acting as pacemaker and giving the racers a flying start. The first lap will not exceed forty miles an hour and will not count.

The race, once started, will not be stopped until finished, it is understood, no matter what the weather. If it is raining tomorrow, however, the race may be postponed until Wednesday.

During the race, seven warning stations will be maintained about the course. By means of flag signals, the drivers will be warned if there is any trouble ahead, just where the trouble is located and its nature. If any car in the race shows signs of giving trouble that may cause an accident or if any driver becomes so worn out or so disabled by the long grind that he is not capable of managing his car, it will be flagged from the course.

Hundreds of homes have been thrown open for the accommodation of the overflow crowds from the hotels and there is little doubt but that the 100,000 visitors will be well cared for while in the city.

As a preliminary to the big event, the Indianapolis Automobile Athletic association has arranged a boxing carnival to entertain the visitors tonight. The card will be put on at the American association baseball park in this city, where there will be accommodations for 15,000 people. Paddy Lavin of Buffalo will meet Jimmy Clabby of Milwaukee in a ten-round bout, and Young Saylor of Indianapolis and Matty Baldwin of Boston will go the same route in the feature events of the card. Tommy Dillon of Indianapolis and Young Sweeney of Chicago will box ten rounds as the preliminary.

FITWELLS WIN FROM IRON RIVER

Iron River, Wis., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fitwell team played Iron River Sunday and won by a score 4 to 3. The game was fast and exciting all through the nine innings. Iron River imported a pitcher and outfielder in yesterday's game, the pitcher having worked against the Colored Gophers of St. Paul and shut them out in a game at Hayward. The battle yesterday was a pitchers' duel, in which Johnson, the clothiers' slab man had a shade better, striking out fourteen men, five successive batters in the first two innings, and the three in succession in the eighth frame. He also fielded his position well, having five assists.

The winning run was scored in the eighth, with two down. Nelson, who had featured in his brilliant fielding, doubled to left, and Johnson won his own game by doubling to center.

Iron River made a slight rally in the ninth. After the first man hit he was sacrificed to second, stole third, and the Fitwells made a pretty double play when the ball was hit to short and thrown to first and home. It was the third out and the game was over. Score by innings:

Iron River	0 0 0 1 0 2 0 0 0—3	8	1

WICHITA FRANCHISE WILL BE TRANSFERRED.

Omaha, Neb., May 29.—The transfer of the Wichita franchise in the Western league to Pueblo will take place today and the new schedule will be announced. President Tip O'Neill spent the day in Omaha and left last night for St. Joseph. The meeting Saturday night at Sioux City was not concluded until 4 o'clock Sunday morning. Tentative plans were made for the transfer of the franchise and final approval will probably be made when President O'

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, May 29.—The sensational cut of $3 per ton in the price of soft steel bars inaugurated by the Republic Steel company last week, has brought to the steel mills thus far little but trouble. Contracts placed at the lower level were small in number and in tonnage. Even the 25,000 tons secured by the Republic company from western implement manufacturers at the decline, before the reduction was openly made, yielded no specifications to help out the lean mill rollings.

The drop in the bar price is also operative on small steel shapes under three inches which take the bar classification, but not on plain structural shapes, over three inches, which are used in building and bridge construction. Fabricated structural steel prices, however, are now, and have been for months, at relatively the lowest point ever touched taking into consideration the present high wage scale. Instead of stimulating business in other lines, than bars, the break in harmonious relations of the steel companies has caused a contraction of nearly 50 per cent in orders booked in the last three days.

The cuts of $2 to $3 per ton in the price of steel sheets, made by smaller mills several weeks ago, are about to be recognized by the larger companies, it is reported, who will announce a general reduction on blue annealed, galvanized and black sheets.

Railroad buying was very light, domestic rail orders amounting to less than 10,000 tons. Export business was more encouraging including railroad orders for rails in the West Indies and bridge orders for Japan.

Pig iron was more active at the expense of prices which declined 25 to 75 cents per ton in all sections. The Virginia Iron & Coal Co. secured orders for 20,000 tons at a drop of 75 cents per ton. Eastern and Buffalo furnaces took orders aggregating 20,000 tons for gray and malleable foundry and basic. Lake Superior charcoal furnaces also dropped prices sharply and secured more business.

GO SWIMMING IN LAKE SUPERIOR.

Yesterday, "The Barrens," on Park Point, midway between the two ship canals, was the scene of perhaps the first outdoor swimming this season at the Head of the Lakes.

A small crowd of young men took to the lake for short periods, and with much splashing and many expressions of "Gee, it's cold," essayed a few fancy strokes and then hustled to the hot sandbanks to thaw out. There was little or no wind, the sun was hot and the water clear and quiet.

Over on the bay smaller boys were wading in the warmer water, but no one attempted to swim in it.

Mexican Refugees Starving.

El Paso, Tex., May 29.—United States mounted inspectors at Marfa, Texas, report 4,000 Mexican refugees on the American side of the river in Presidio county. They will have to be provided for by the United States or they will starve.

STORMS WORK GREAT HAVOC

Four Deaths and Many Injuries Recorded—Property Damaged.

High Temperatures in This Country—Sleighing in Canada.

Peoria, Ill., May 29.—A cyclone struck Pekin, Ill., ten miles south of this city, at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, killing two people and causing property damage amounting to several thousand dollars. The dead:

CLYDE SAKERS, aged 14.
FRANK WOODELY, aged 15.

Seriously injured: Louis Schaefer, aged 21, both legs broken.

The storm came from the northwest. The pumping station on the east bank of the river was first to feel the storm and was completely demolished. The storm then jumped across the Illinois river and the plants of the Boley Ice company were completely destroyed.

Trees were uprooted, roofs blown from houses and plate glass windows smashed in the business section of Pekin.

The storm followed the river and the residence part of the city escaped. Telephone and telegraph wires are down and further details are not obtainable.

Ammonia Fumes Fatal.

Columbus, Ohio, May 29—Edwin I. Hopkins was killed by ammonia fumes Sunday afternoon when a bolt of lightning caused the explosion of a fifty-gallon tank in the ice plant of the Fulton market, Fourth and Town streets. Harry Miller and John Thomas, working with him, were overcome, but were rescued and will recover. Eight firemen, in successive relays of four, also were knocked out, trying to recover Hopkins' body, but were soon resuscitated and are in no donger. Fire started by the bolt did little damage. Hopkins is survived by a widow and three children.

Killed in Church Doorway.

Bloomington, Ill., May 29.—Thomas Haig was killed by lighning Sunday at the Baptist church at Benson. He was standing in the door preparatory to attending a Sunday school convention when struck.

Score Hurt at Ball Game.

Granite City, Ill., May 29.—Twenty persons at a baseball game were more or less seriously injured Sunday afternoon when the grandstand collapsed under the force of a heavy wind.

Sidney Mangus, 22 years of age, of Granite City, was the most seriously injured, receiving a broken leg and internal injuries. It is said he will die. Twelve of the twenty persons injured were baseball players. Most of the spectators fled at the approach of the storm. The grand stand was picked up bodily by the storm and hurled upon a crowd of players who were huddled behind it, seeking refuge from a bombardment of hail.

Stripped Nude by Lightning.

St. Louis, Mo., May 29.—A storm which almost attained the dimensions of a tornado in parts of this city Sunday afternoon wrought considerable damage to residences and in the parks.

A physician, Dr. J. J. Meredith, who sought shelter under a tree during the height of the storm in the West end, was stripped nude by the lightning, though he was practically unhurt.

Among the buildings damaged by lightning was the Hyatt Wasbin church.

Varieties in Temperature.

Washington, May 29.—More season high temperature records were broken Sunday in the lower Ohio valley region, where Louisville, Ky., and Evansville, Ind., tied for first honors at 98 degrees. Even in Mountainous Vermont 90 was common, for a hot wave stretched all over the Atlantic states, the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, the lower lake region and in the Eastern Gulf of Mexico states, while it was freezing in Northern Oregon and frosts cropped out in the Dakotas.

Barlow, N. D., Damaged.

New Rockford, N. D., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Acme elevator was blown over and completely demolished, the Congregational church was moved from its foundations, about ten barns and twenty-five other small buildings were reduced to kindling, practically every plate glass window in the town was smashed, and hardly a residence escaped damage in a fierce tornado and cloudburst, breaking over the little town of Barlow, this county, at 3 o'clock in the morning. The storm occurred Friday, but by reason of the fact that all the wires were down, information of it has just been received. Nobody was injured.

In the rural districts great damage was also done, reports indicating that between fifteen and twenty good sized barns were destroyed, together with a large number of smaller buildings. Barlow is a town of only about 100 population.

BRYAN NOT TO BE A CANDIDATE

Nebraskan Asks to Be Left Out of Political Plans.

Washington, May 29.—William J. Bryan, during a brief stay in Washington last night, held a conference with Representative Burton Harrison of New York, Representative Hamil of New Jersey and about twenty other politicians. The participants in the conference would not discuss its purpose.

In an interview Mr. Bryan, on being asked about the rumors that he might be the next Democratic nominee for president, said:

"I am not a candidate and will not be; leave me out of it."

He refused to express any choice between Woodrow Wilson and Champ Clark, or to confirm a report of his opposition to Governor Harmon of Ohio.

THREE BOYS DIE IN FIRE.

Flames Overcome Them While They Sleep in Barn.

Kittanning, Pa., May 29.—Three boys were burned to death early Sunday when the livery stable of Vance Jewart of Sagamore, near here, was destroyed by fire. The dead are:

EARL JEWART, aged 12.
JESSE JEWART, aged 10.
HUGH FLANIGAN, aged 14, a companion of the Jewart boys.

The lads spent Saturday night in Pittsburg. Returning home late they went to sleep in the livery stable. Fire was discovered at 4 o'clock Sunday morning and the boys were cremated before it was known they were in the stable. Twelve horses also were burned.

SEVEN DIE IN AUTO WRECKS

Two Others Probably Will Not Recover From Injuries.

Accidents at Rivers, Cal., Crawfordsville, Ind., and Bradner, Ohio.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29.—Five persons were killed and one injured fatally Sunday at a railroad crossing near Rivers, in this county, in a collision between a Pacific electric car and an automobile.

JERRY KAUFMANN and wife, Long Beach, Cal.
HARRY S. HOLLINGSWORTH, railroad telegrapher and wife, Los Angeles.
HARRY KAUFMANN, aged 8.

Fatally injured, Hazel Kaufmann.

The Kaufmanns formerly lived in Kearney, Neb., and the Hollingsworths at Denver.

The automobile party attempted to cross the tracks and the electric car was running at such high speed it was impossible to stop in time to prevent the collision.

Killed on Sad Mission.

Montmorency, Ind., May 29.—While hurrying to the bedside of her dying father, J. E. Fleming, at Crawfordsville, Mrs. W. P. McMahon, wife of a wealthy Benton county farmer, was killed in an automobile accident two miles east of here Sunday. Her husband, who was driving the car, and Mrs. W. S. Minier, sister of Mrs. McMahon, were badly injured.

Plunged Over Embankment.

Bowling Green, Ohio, May 29.—While going at a high rate of speed, a passenger touring car plunged over an embankment near Bradner Sunday, killing one of its occupants and injuring two others, one probably fatally.

The machine took fire, and Albert Ebersole, of Arcadia, was burned to a crisp. Willis Hakes, succeeded in extricating himself from beneath the wreckage and rescued Henry Ries, but not until the latter had received what is believed to be fatal injuries.

PASTOR SELLS ALL TO HELP CHILD'S PARENTS.

Glens Falls, N. Y., May 29.—Rev. Thomas Grieves, pastor of the Methodist-Episcopal church in Greenwich, announced Sunday that he would sell all his possessions and turn over the proceeds to the parents of little Mary Maginn of Saratoga Springs, whom he recently ran down and killed with his automobile. The car already has been sold and the rector's cottage at Riverside is on the market. A coroner's jury held Mr. Grieves blameless for the accident.

OUR LADY OF SORROWS CONVENT IN AMERICA.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 29.—The first convent in the United States of Our Lady of Sorrows, was dedicated Sunday at Carryck, a suburb, in the presence of prominent clergymen from various parts of the country. Eight nuns, composing the American Passionist sisterhood, are in charge of the convent. Five came here a year ago from Italy, two are from Pittsburg and one from Baltimore. The order of Passionist nuns was founded in 1770.

Keep Tab on the Comet.

San Jose, Cal., May 29.—W. W. Campbell, director of Lick observatory, in a report on Halley's comet just issued, said:

Halley's comet, which was nearest to the sun and the earth and at its greatest brilliancy more than a year ago, has been followed on its journey into distant space with the telescopes of the Lick observatory.

The comet is now a little farther than Jupiter is from the sun—that is 500,000,000 miles—but Astronomer Curtis has photographed it with the Crossley reflector on two nights this week exactly in the predicted position. The comet is now 60 per cent farther from the sun than it was when its appearance was discovered, photographically, in September, 1909.

NATIONS INTERESTED IN ARBITRATION PLAN.

Washington, May 29.—Other nations than France and Great Britain are awaiting with keen interest the developments of the negotiations looking to a general arbitration treaty, and already Secretary Knox has received a number of applications from diplomatic representatives in Washington for copies of the draft of the treaty. Among them is one from the Netherlands, the home of the arbitration principle.

The secretary has declined to grant requests inspired by mere curiosity, but has let it be known that any nation professing a willingness to enter into negotiations for arbitration will be furnished a copy.

Other purposes will be sufficiently served in the secretary's opinion, by reference to the general outline of the proposed treaties made public by the state department when they were submitted to the French and British ambassadors for the consideration of their respective governments.

CELEBRATE FIELD MASS FOR SPANISH WAR DEAD.

Washington, May 29.—Military field mass for the Spanish war dead, was celebrated in the shadow of the Washington monument Sunday before an audience of fully 25,000 persons. President Taft, members of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps and of congress, were among the participants in the mass, which was preceded by a parade of the local veterans' associations, the National Guard companies of Washington and members of Catholic organizations. About 9,000 men marched in the parade, 2,000 of these being Spanish war veterans and local militiamen. President Taft was accompanied by Mrs. Laughlin, his sister-in-law, Major Butt and Gen. Clarence R. Edwards.

Monsignor Rossi conducted the mass, while a trained chour of 125 voices sang the service. A special box had been erected for the president and his party.

Mail Clerk Found Dead.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 29.—The mystery in the disappearance of Homer W. Messenger, a trustee of the National Order of Railway Mail Clerks, who left home last Tuesday to go fishing, was partly cleared up Sunday when his body was found in Rocky river. Messenger was alone on the fishing trip and how he was drowned remains unexplained.

Drown in Lake Erie.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 29.—David McGraw, aged 39, and Daniel Carroll, aged 38, were drowned Sunday when their rowboat overturned in Lake Erie. Several of the bathers on the beach had narrow escapes from drowning.

POACHERS ARRESTED

Game Warden Storey Takes Six Men Into Court for Illegal Fishing.

Determined to Clear River and Bay of Nets and Set Lines.

The recent activity of the game wardens has not stopped illegal fishing on the St. Louis river. Despite the fact that several arrests have been made and severe penalties imposed the poachers are using set lines and nets.

At daylight yesterday morning Game Warden Thomas J. Storey rounded up six men whom he placed under arrest on a charge of illegal fishing. He made the arrests single handed after an all night wait, screened on an advantages lookout on a small island a short distance from the mainland.

The men had a net work of set lines strung across the bay a short distance from Seventy-first avenue west. Most of the net were well loaded with fish, which the men were dumping into their boats as fast as they could take them from the hook, when the game warden came out on them.

The men gave their names as Charles Johnson, F. Johnson, Alex Shannon, Oscar Wickstrom, Nels Shannon and Ed Brarea. The first two entered pleas of not guilty and the others pleaded guilty. They paid fines of $12.50 each. Thus far no one has been arrested for the second offense of this kind, but should there be the penalty will be very severe, possibly a jail sentence without the option of a fine.

Game Warden Storey declares that he is going to clear the river and bay of set lines and nets. He is working on the proposition steadily, and his work has met with the hearty approval of fishermen, who declare that they are getting better fishing this year than they have enjoyed for years. Several nice strings were brought to the city last night and this morning. They were mostly wall-eyed pike, one of the best of fresh water fish, but several big sturgeon were also landed.

MARINE

SHIPPING FROM NEW SOO DOCKS

Cuyuna Range Ore Is Now Going Forward Steadily.

Ore is being shipped regularly from the Soo docks these days. For the first time the name of the Soo dock has been written in the registry book at the office of the Union Towing company. Several vessels in the past twenty-four hours have taken ore from the Soo docks.

The Shenandoah, and Montezuma, the Chieftain and Sacramento were the vessels that have loaded at the docks in the last twenty-four hours. The ore is coming down from the Cuyuna very rapidly, and it is expected that the movement from these docks will figure actively in the ore figures.

MOVEMENT LIGHT.

Not Enough Package Freight in Sight to Keep Boats Busy.

Scarcely enough package freight is on the market to keep the package freighters busy. The line boats are carrying the greater part which is offered, but are complaining of the light movement of both east and westbound freight. Vessel agents are tieing up some of the excess tonnage so as to cut down expenses.

Several of the largest steamers on the lakes have been withdrawn temporarily until the situation improves. The Cleveland & Buffalo and the Detroit & Buffalo boats are carrying but a small part of the capacity of package freight. The east-bound freight movement amounts to little or nothing, while there is but little improvement in the west-bound movement.

No definite reason is given for the decrease in shipments which seems to be general. There is very little activity in the ore trade and while the movement from the furnaces is fair, it is not as heavy as usual during this season.

COAL CONTRACTS ARE CLOSED.

Lake freight contracts covering about 2,000,000 tons of coal to be delivered at Milwaukee will be signed this week. The tonnage has been lined up at 30 cents, which is the same rate that the shippers to the other leading Lake Michigan ports paid on season contracts. Including the Milwaukee deal, vessel capacity to move something more than 5,000,000 tons of soft coal has been tied up for the season. That does not include the coal that is covered by longtime contracts.

Some of the shippers report that offerings of coal tonnage are more liberal than they were last week, and that they are in better shape than they were last week. Shippers to Lake Michigan ports are not having any trouble getting big tonnage, but small cargoes were on the market Saturday at 35 cents with no takers. Small boats, of course, cannot run light in the coal trade and break even, and there will be a scarcity of tonnage of that class until there is a better movement of down freight. A number of big steamers have been taken down light for coal, and the indications are that many of the vessels that are tied up for the season will have to run light part of the time in order to carry out their coal contracts. More figuring for season tonnage is being done, and more contracts may be made before the end of the week.

The down freight market is quiet with no change in sight. The supply of tonnage at the upper lake ports is in excess of the demand, and some of the wild carriers will have to go to the dock or go down light. The grain trade is taking care of very little tonnage, and wild ore cargoes are as scarce as ever.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS FROM DULUTH HARBOR.

The government has just issued a compilation of imports and exports of merchandise by customs districts for the ten years from 1900 to 1910, showing the following fluctuations in the Duluth district:

Imports, 1900, $96,400,; 1901, $72,188; 1902, $95,490; 1903, $125,375; 1904, $132,-884; 1905, $165,077; 1906, $100,978; 1907, $92,347; 1908, $139,778; 1909, $119,410; 1910, $199,666.

Exports, 1900, $2,659,241; 1902, $2,268,-538; 1903, $2,632,318; 1904, $2,394,916; 1905, $1,471,500; 1906, $3,130,250; 1907, $4,322,454; 1908, $5,358,468; 1909, $4,660,-097; 1910, $4,959,373.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO RAISE RICHARDSON.

Capt. Baker, who with Capt. Reid, has the contract for raising the Richardson, is expected to reach Buffalo this week to start building the cofferdam which will be used in an attempt to raise the vessel. It is the plan of the wreckers to build a cofferdam similar to the one washed away by shifting ice last spring inside the breakwater at Buffalo. When it is completed it will be towed to the Richardson and set in place. In this way it is the plan of the wreckers to get the boat in shape to put pumps at work.

Breakwater Completed.

The Ludington breakwater, the largest timberwork pier ever constructed by the government on any of the Great Lakes, was completed last Tuesday afternoon when the last boatload of sand was placed in the crib and the final bolt was driven to hold fast the mammoth timbers. The contract price for the work totaled about $676,000.

The work of building the breakwater has been carried on eight months every year since 1906. The breakwater consists of two arms protecting the harbor pier entrance. Each arm is 1,300 feet long and is made up of eighteen cribs, each 100 feet long. Each crib is from eighteen to twenty-seven feet deep. They are built on piles below this depth and are filled in with rubble stone held in place by great rocks, weighing nearly two tons each.

More than 4,000 foundation piles from forty to fifty-eight feet in length were driven in the bottom of the lake as a foundation for the cribs. A total of 200,000 feet of square oak timbers, 3,000,000 feet of pine, 6,500,000 feet of hemlock, 650 tons of iron, 160,000 tons of stone, besides tons of other materials were used in the construction of the breakwater. The work was under the direction of Charles H. Greiling of Green Bay, Wis.

POSTOFFICE NOT IN DEBT

Department Has No Deficit for First Time in History.

Hitchcock Returns $3,000,000 to Federal Treasury.

Washington, May 29.—For the first time in the history of the service, it is said, the deficit in the postoffice department has been entirely wiped out and $1,000,000 surplus for the current fiscal year ending June 30 next, is in the treasury to the department's credit.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has signed a warrant returning to the secretary of the treasury $3,000,000, the last of the amount set apart from the public funds to assist in defraying the expenses of the postoffice department for the present year.

An accounting plan, which was adopted about a year ago, insures the prompt deposit in the treasury of postal funds not required immediately for disbursement at postoffices, thus making available for use by the postoffice department several millions of dollars that under the former practice would be tied up in postoffices.

Under the old system it required approximately $10,000,000 to finance the postal service.

In making the refund to the treasury Mr. Hitchcock said he was satisfied that the postal revenues would be more than sufficient to defray the postal deficiency during the remainder of the fiscal year and that July 1 would show a surplus considerably over $1,000,000.

ATTRACTED BY FINE WEATHER

Crowds Throng Parks on First Warm Summer Sunday.

The fine weather of yesterday was not to be resisted, so hundreds of Duluthians thronged the many parks and beauty spots in and near the city.

It was the first real day of summer, in point of weather, at least, and Zenith City people celebrated it. With the coming of the fine warm sun early in the morning, many picnic baskets were packed with appetizing lunches and many families spent the day under the trees on Park Point, at Lincoln, Fairmont, Chester, Lester and the other parks of the city.

The liveries did a rushing business and early in the afternoon it was not possible to hire an auto in the city.

Many made the first trip to the boat club this season. The ferry boats to Superior were crowded during the afternoon.

There were more people on the streets than in many months. Everybody was enjoying the day in his own particular way and it was being celebrated because it was Duluth's first real summer Sunday.

Immense banners have been hung across Arch stret and Cloquet avenue announcing, in letters that may be seen for blocks, that the campaign is now on. The teams and their captains take dinner at 6:45 each night at the Y. M. C. A. during the campaign, and bulletins are posted there each night, giving the result of the day's work, and plans are discussed that will further the efforts of the membership committees.

MONTANA WOOL CLIPS BRING GOOD PRICES.

Billings, Mont., May 29.—The highest price for wool in Montana thus far this season was paid for the 100,000-pound clip of Miller Bros., of Merrill, when 18½ cents was accepted from Silverman Bros., of Chicago, who bought the short clip of 50,000 at 18 cents. Hecht Leibmann & Co. of Boston secured a 60,000-pound clip at Miles City at 16 cents. J. H. Barnard, buyer for Hecht Leibmann & Co., is authority for the statement that 2,975,000 pounds of wool already have been contracted for on the sheep's back in Montana at prices ranging from 16 to 18 cents. Wool growers report demand strong, and good prices are looked for, at least as high as those ruling last year.

CLOQUET YOUTH LOSES ONE EYE

Explodes Dynamite Cap, Badly Injured and Sent to Duluth.

Cloquet, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—An 8-year-old son of John Vills of the East end lost an eye from playing with a dynamite cap. The Vills boy and several other boys broke into the city's storehouse at the east end of Cloquet avenue and stole several caps. Some of them were electric caps, requiring an electric spark to produce an explosion, but they got hold of one of the other kind and pounded it on a stone to make it explode. There was a trail of blood for companions say that the little fellow ran with his head down and tried to throw the spurting stream of blood onto them. He was rushed to a hospital in Duluth to be taken care of.

The city rock crusher stands at the east end of the avenue, isolated from any homes, and near it is a small frame storehouse where the city keeps tools and various supplies. The building is set on a low foundation of flat stones, which are unmortared, but the place is substantial and is always locked and thought to be perfectly safe from depredations. The youngsters dug out the stones of the foundation until they could lie down flat and crawl under.

HUGHES WINS FIRST PLACE

Washington, May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Raymond M. Hughes of Aitkin, Minn., private secretary to Congressman Miller, last night won first honors as a debater. It is the third such honor he has secured during the junior law class year of Georgetown university, which closed last night. In winning this honor Mr. Hughes carried away a cash prize of $50 as the best all around debater of his class.

The theme of the debating quartet was: "Shall Immigration Further Be Restricted?" Mr. Hughes and his teammate, Horace Hogan of Oklahoma, contended in the affirmative, while Joseph Walsh of California and James O'Leary of West Virginia upheld the negative of the proposition.

The judges were Rev. M. N. O'Neill, professor of oratory and English, Georgetown university; R. M. Roache, a local attorney, and Judge Delacy of the juvenile court. The assembly hall, in spite of the prevailing oppressively hot weather, was well filled with classmates of contestants and their friends.

An "Easy" Speaker.

It was apparent from the start that if presence and the ease with which they carried themselves counted, Hughes and Hogan would be winners upon that point alone. Aside from this their arguments were convincing, indicating a close and exhaustive study of the immigration problems now confronting the United States.

The contestants were given fifteen minutes each on the main proposition and five minutes each for rebuttal. The judges were not long in coming to a decision.

Rev. O'Neill announced that the judges were unanimous in the opinion that Hughes had won the prize and Hogan of Oklahoma was given second honors.

Mr. Hughes left this morning for home and will remain in charge of Representative Miller's congressional affairs at his Duluth office during the summer.

They are authorized to wire ahead to have an officer meet the train and arrest the offenders.

MOISTURE IN SOUTHWEST

Kansas and Oklahoma Soaked —Russia Gets Rains Also—Cooler.

Wheat Declines—Chicago Shorts Spanked, May Bulging—Big Receipts.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 29.—Wheat eased off today. July declined 1⅛c and September ⅛c. May lost ⅞c. Cash wheat was ½c over July. Oats lost ⅛c. Rye was unchanged. Barley was not quoted. July durum lost 1¼c. The cash demand was slow. Some of the big Minneapolis mills were closed down until Wednesday.

Linseed was slightly weaker. May and July were unchanged. September lost 3c and October declined similarly. Cash was on a par with May. Plata seed at Antwerp for June-July delivery was $2.12 a bu, including 4 per cent for impurities.

The wheat market was mixed today. The Chicago May was the feature of the situation, the short interest endeavoring to cover. The shorts were badly punished. Quotations jumped ¾c on several occasions. In the Northwest values were moderately strong after the weak opening. The Chicago July declined from the opening until around noon when it firmed and showed indications of going higher. Shorts began to evince a disposition to cover and the general market was firmer than any period in the morning session. Values were about ½c under Saturday.

The chief bearish news was from the Southwest. Western Kansas and Northern Oklahoma were soaked by heavy rains Saturday night and Sunday. Temperatures in the Northwest and Southwest moderated, the back of the not spell being broken. General rains also fell in the Southern region of Russia which were beneficial for the crops.

The visible supply of wheat increased 1,013,000 bu, chiefly on account of the heavy shipments to Chicago. The stream of wheat toward Chicago is in full volume and the bulls are being swamped with it but thus far they are managing to hold their heads above the tide.

Hessian fly reports were sent from Indiana. The trade did not pay any attention to them.

The wheat movement of the world fell off slightly. World's shipments were larger tha nexpected, howevtr, being slightly more than 13,000,000 bu last week.

Flour Situation.

Attempts to rouse buyers from their lethargy are being made by millers, prominent producers in Minneapolis and other centers cutting prices 20 to 25 cents a barrel. But the cuts are useless so far as encouraging trade is concerned and they have not resulted in any large volume of business at first hands. It is doubtful if any mill has increased its sales to above the normal even though $5.40 is an acceptable price for first patent which is nominally held at $5.60 per barrel.

An outside selling price today for first patent is $5.40 and some of the most prominent mills are seeking orders on that basis, while others not quoting that price openly it is certain would not let an opportunity pass if an offer on that basis was made for prompt shipment. Good flour can be bought at $5.20 in wood and there are offerings, it is said, of first patent at as low as $5.10 per barrel, while interior mills in several cases are quoting in sacks at $5.

Buyers are indifferent and find no inducement for buying ahead of their actual requirements. These can be filled quite readily at practically the buyers' figure as the competition between millers is keen and promises to continue so until the necessities of the trade become urgent or more confidence in the situation encourages them to lift stocks. At present the artificial conditions resulting from the manipulation of the May delivery in Chicago cause buyers to hesitate.

In Minneapolis September wheat is selling several cents under May, so that, outside of the feed situation, millers can afford to cut prices of flour 25 cents or so. Crop conditions are also encouraging buyers in holding off. The conditions could hardly be better, leaving little room for betterment in any direction. In the winter wheat section the weather has been entirely seasonable and the indications at present are for a unusually early harvest if weather conditions continue favorable during the next three or four weeks.

In the Northwest the long drouth is broken, as there have been abundant rains several times within the past fortnight, so that the spring wheat crop, under normal temperature, could probably run along for a month without serious damage even if there were no more rain during that period.

The market for winter wheat flour holds fairly steady, but is quiet on the whole, pastry flour selling in a moderate way as needed at prices ranging from $4 to $4.30 per barrel for New York and similar straight and fancy clears. Good pastry flour can be had at $4 and the nicest at $4.15 to $4.30 in wood, but no good quality is offered at less than $4 per barrel. Winter wheat patents are quiet at prices in the range of $4.40 to $4.75, the quotations covering the prices asked by most Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and New York state millers.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Considerable Rush to Sell Wheat Follows Rain News.

Chicago, May 29.—There was considerable of a rush to sell wheat today. Mainly, the reason that actuated the trade was found in the lower temperature and the widespread rain. The map showed an especially heavy downpour in Kansas, with an outlook for more showers tonight. Furthermore, shipments from Russia were heavier than expected, and the crop prospects there had improved, owing to an increased supply of moisture. France also reported a gain in condition. Opening prices were ¼c to 1@1⅛c down. July started at 88⅝@88⅞c, a loss of ⅝@¾c to 1@1⅛c, but recovered to 89c. May, though relatively inactive, displayed remarkable steadiness at the outset, and then made a sudden advance to $1.01 after an initial dip to 99½c.

Later May reached $1.03, a net gain of 3¼c, due to excited covering by a few shorts. Other options were not affected, and instead continued to decline. The close was steady, with July at 88¾c, a net loss of ⅜@⅝c.

Corn dropped abruptly on account of general unloading by cash houses. There was a quick rally later, however, when wheat turned upward. July opened ⅜@⅝c off at 53@53¼c, and reacted to 53⅝c.

Country offerings and consignments were heavy, and there was apparently no Eastern demand. The close was weak at 52⅞@53c for July, a net loss of ⅞@1c.

Both longs and shorts participated in throwing oats overboard. Breaking of the drouth furnished the incentive. July started ½@⅝c to ⅝@¾c lower at 35½@35¼c, touched 35⅜c and fell back to 35⅝c.

Provisions eased off because of the slow market for hogs. First sales were a shade to 5c down, with July delivery $14.90 for pork, $8.20 for lard and $7.95 @7.97½ for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Chicago May Wheat News Stops Selling Pressure on July Option.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 29.—Chicago's excitement in May wheat had only slight effect here as to quotations, but it stopped a pressure of selling in July that probably would have put that option lower. The rains in the Southwest and lower Liverpool close coupled with good Northwestern crop news and a very dull flour market operated against the price of wheat. The Chicago advance in May, checked the decline but the tone remained heavy. Receipts, 279 cars, year ago, holiday; shipments, 67 cars. May opened, 94¾c; high, 95⅝c; low, 93⅞c; closed, 94c. July opened, 95⅝@95¾c; high, 96¼c; low, 95½c; closed, 95¾@95⅞c. September opened, 91⅛@91¼c; high, 91⅜c; low, 91c; closed, 91⅛@91¼c; December closed, 91¼c.

Cash wheat sold about even with Saturday to a trifle better. Premiums were the same, ½@2c over July, but more of the wheat brought the higher premiums than was the case Saturday. Close: No. 1 hard, 98¾c; No. 1 northern, 96¼@98¼c; to arrive, 96¼@98¾c; No. 2 northern, 93¾@96¾c; to arrive, 93¾@96¾c; No. 3 wheat, 91¾@94¾c; No. 1 durum, 97c; No. 3 yellow corn, 51¾@51½c. No. 3 white oats, 33⅞@33¾c; No. 2 rye, 91@92c.

Millstuffs—Easy in tone and today there were moderate price changes on the red dog and middlings with quotations about 25c off. Bran in 100-lb sacks is quoted $20.50@21.00. Shipments, 1,549 tons.

Flour—Market was dull again with sales very light and no signs of improvement for the near future. Shipments, 36,149 bbl. Second patents, $4.60@4.90; first clears, $3.20@3.50; second clears, $2.20@2.85.

Barley—Receipts, 38 cars; shipments, 19; barley slower and duller than at any time last week. On sales of a few choice cars of malting barley prices nearly equal to Saturday were obtained but the bids for the remainder of the stuff on sales were away down, 2c to 3c off or more. Most of such stuff was carried over. Matling barley, 70@91c; feeding barley, 60@70c.

Cotton Market.

New York, May 29.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 3@6 points on better cables than due and on overnight buying orders which have probably been inspired by the renewal of old crop bull support and the firmer turns in the local market late Saturday. Crop advices, however, continued favorable and prices eased off during the early trading with active months soon showing a net loss of from 1@4 points under scattering liquidation and bear pressure. Leading bull brokers again came to the support of July on the decline and with tomorrow a holiday, sellers became less aggressive with prices during the middle of the morning ruling fairly steady and about unchanged to 4 points higher.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Traders Reluctant to Do Business Pending Court Decision.

Selected Issues Make Advances and the Close Is Irregular.

New York, May 29.—United States Steel was slightly lower at the opening of the stock market today, 10,000 shares being sold in the first five minutes at a decline of ⅜. Most of the other active stocks were firm. Canadian Pacific was the strongest, advancing 1⅜.

The general run of fluctuations did not amount to much, and the market was not influenced by the buoyancy of Canadian Pacific and several industrials. Canadian Pacific touched 237½, its best record.

Heaviness of United States Steel, which sold down nearly a point, held the stock market in check this morning and the tone became dull and hesitating. Holders of United States Steel were led to sell by fears of further unsettlement of the steel and iron trade and by uncertainty as to whether more price reductions would follow today's meeting of manufacturers. Trading also was restricted by the belief that the supreme court would announce its decision in the American Tobacco case today and there was also the usual curtailment of operations preceding a holiday. Reading sold off with United States Steel but there was no sign of weakness elsewhere, prices holding close to Saturday's final figures. Renewal of the upward movement in Canadian Pacific was attributed to the excellent crop prospects over the border. Bonds were irregular.

The market made quite a show of strength after midday on light dealings. The Erie stocks were lifted 1@1½, Union Pacific 1 and United States Steel and Reading sold a fraction over last week's close.

Trading was quiet and firm during the late session. Specialties generally were reluctant to do any business until they learned from Washington whether the decision in the American Tobacco suit would be made known. American Tobacco 6's were heavily bought and rose over a point and on the curb the stock jumped 26 points to 510.

The market closed irregular. The announcement that a recess would be taken by the supreme court until 3 o'clock did not interfere with the marking up of selected stocks. Canadian Pacific and the Electric group were heavily bought, but the tone of the active list was somewhat easier. Canadian Pacific reached 238¼, a rise of 3¾. General Electric gained 4, Allis-Chalmers preferred 2½, Westinghouse Electric 1½.

DEMOCRATS NOT TO BACK MARTIN

Washington, May 29.—By a vote of 14 to 11 the Democratic senators in caucus today rescinded their former decision to support the Martin resolution providing for a reinvestigation of the Lorimer case by the committee on privileges and elections. This action left the Democrats uncommitted to any program when the Lorimer case came up in the senate today.

DEFECTIVE EYE CAUSES ARREST

Theron Bartholomew has a defective left eye. A man with a good memory espied that eye when he helped Theron get an automobile out of a rut in which it was stuck a few days ago. Theron didn't know how to run it and when the man learned that there was no gasoline in the machine he quit instructing Theron how to operate it.

When the papers printed a story about the theft of an automobile belonging to R. S. Gaylord of 5409 Oneida street and its recovery the next day the man notified the police of the help he had given three young men, one of whom had a defective eye.

Theron was arrested today. He is said to have confessed to the theft of the machine. He implicated Hjalmer Bergerson and Roy Gonyeau. All are 17 years of age and have about as much knowledge of running a benzine buggy as a 2-year-old baby.

COPPERS ADVANCE; SPECIALTIES ACTIVE

Today's market was a specialty affair in which the Cole-Ryan issues were the leaders. The market was quiet until toward the close, when shorts covered freely in order to even up their lines before the Tobacco decision was announced. The metal market is firm, with sellers diffident about selling. The Tobacco case was not expected to be a disturbing factor. The stock of that corporation was buoyant and advanced 16 points in the early hours of the session.

The local market was fairly active and was broader than for some time. Butte-Alex Scott sold at $4.87½, Denn at $5.50, Butte & Superior at $8.87½, Summit at 50c, Warren at $2.37½, Carman at 80c, 81c and 82c, Calumet & Montana at 42c and 43c, Keating at $4, Tuolumne at $4.87½, North American at 55c.

Amalgamated at $67.25, $67, $67.75 $67.50 and $67.75, Calumet & Arizona at $57, $56.37½, $58.50 and $58.25, Giroux at $7, $7.12½ to $6.87½, Greene at $7.12½, $7.06¼ to $7.12½, North Butte at $33.50, $35.25 to $34.75, Superior & Pittsburg at $16.25, $16 and $16.50, Ojibway at $7.50 and Shattuck at $19.

H. B. Hovland, Duluth mining man, has returned from a six weeks' stay in the Southwestern mining camps. He will go to New York in a few days. The Warrior, he said is shipping steadily from 3,000 to 3,500 tons of 9 and 10 per cent copper ore monthly.

At the Live Oak five new drill holes have been started and a large tonnage is being proven up. The two latest holes, the Savanna penetrated ninety-five feet of commercial ore. The ore body has been followed for 700 feet by exploratory work. The average copper content of the disseminated ore body is 2 9-10 per cent.

PRINT A HERALD WANT AD That Will Tell Employers Exactly What You Can Do—and You'll Soon Find Work.

To Buy Household Goods

the Want Ad pages of THE HERALD is a most satisfactory way of furnishing all parts of a home as necessity arises.

For instance, Mrs. A. or Mrs. B. or Mrs. C. are from day to day advertising in this paper individual items of furniture, stoves, etc., that are not worn out nor are they even old or out of date. They dispose of certain household goods about every so often, that they may make room for other things that have in some way met their fancy and which have bought—or, as often is the case, the party selling is moving out of town.

You can pick up the very best of bargains from among these advertisements and then furnish your home like new at the very smallest cost.

THE HERALD publishes all the "money saver's" ads of Duluth. Always read the "For Sale" column. It offers you everything you can think of at LOW prices.

If you want to sell, quit watching, and USE a "For Sale" ad yourself. You will be agreeably surprised by a quick sale.

STEADY DOWNPOUR FAILS TO DAMPEN MEMORIAL DAY SPIRIT

MAY ACCUSE TOBACCO MEN

Criminal Prosecutions Are Considered By the Government.

Wickersham Says Case Differs From Standard Oil Affair.

Washington, May 30.—The possibilities of criminal prosecutions of the individual members of the tobacco trust, which was ordered dissolved by the supreme court yesterday, are being carefully considered at the department of justice.

Neither Attorney General Wickersham nor any of his assistants on the big case would make any statement today as to the probable course of the government, and no decision on that point is likely to be made for several days.

In respect to criminal prosecutions, however, the tobacco case is said to differ somewhat from the Standard Oil case. In the latter, Attorney General Wickersham said that no criminal prosecutions were under way, but declined to say positively that none was contemplated.

PLAN CHAIN OF GAME PRESERVES

Michigan Man Interested in Series From Gulf to Artic Region.

New Orleans, La., May 30. — A chain of game preservers, extending from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic regions, is an ambitious plan revealed by the recent gift to the state of Louisiana of a preserve of twenty square miles of marsh meadow lands by Charles Willis Ward of Michigan and Edward Avery McIlhenny of Avery Island, La.

"The plans devised by McIlhenny and myself," said Mr. Ward here today, "is to establish zones of refuge along the coasts in lines of migratory flights, extending all the way to the Arctic circle, and sub-Arctic breeding grounds of water fowls. The Nippigon forest and game preserve, comprising about 4,000,000 acres, affords a handsome beginning in Western Canada and it is expected that the Dominion will establish another mammoth fowl breeding preserve west of Hudson bay. It thus remains for the states in the Mississippi watershed to establish preserves connecting the gulf and Canada."

IRONWOOD PAYING TRIBUTE TO DEAD

A. L. Ruggles and Rev. Mr. McManus Are the Speakers.

Ironwood, Mich., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Memorial day is being observed here as usual. Prof. John V. Brennen is president of the day. A. L. Ruggles and Rev. J. H. McManus delivered addresses. On Sunday the members of the G. A. R., the Relief Corps, and Spanish War Veterans attended services at the First Presbyterian church. Rev. Mr. Frazer of Bessemer delivered an appropriate sermon in the absence of Rev. G. M. Fourtelott. This morning at 9 o'clock the G. A. R., Relief Corps and Spanish War Veterans met at the postoffice block and arranged flowers and from there went to Riverside cemetery and placed flowers on the graves of dead soldiers. The usual G. A. R. services were then held. At 1 o'clock the procession will form on Curry street, with J. W. Oxnam, grand marshal. The Norrie band will lead the procession, then the Boy Scouts, these will be followed by the mayor and speakers of the day. G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans, Ladies' Relief Corps, in carriage. The Boys' Glee club of the high school furnishes the music.

Marshalltown, Iowa, May 30.—Chicago & Northwestern passenger train No. 7, the Los Angeles Limited, went into a ditch at Chelsea, twenty-five miles east of here, at 5:30 o'clock this morning. It is said that no one was killed, but that several passengers were injured. Surgeons went to the scene from here on a special train. The wreck was due to a broken journal on one of the cars.

EIGHTEENTH VICTIM DIES

Two More of Those in Burlington Wreck May Not Recover.

Failure to Issue an Order Said to Have Caused Collision.

Lincoln, Neb., May 30.—Eighteen persons are dead and two more will die as a result of the Burlington wreck near Indianola yesterday, according to a special received by the Star today.

Grace Dean of Minden, Neb., Hiram Feekin of McCook, Neb., and an unidentified Italian, who were injured, died early today.

Mrs. Lena Feekin, wife of Hiram Feekin, and H. H. Culbertson of Brimfield, Ill., whose wife was killed, are so badly hurt that they cannot recover, it is said.

CUYUNA RANGE MALT SHOP MEN INDICTED

Twenty-four Keepers of Such Places Caught in Crow Wing County Dragnet.

Brainerd, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The grand jury has completed its labors and in a report stated that the courthouse, county and city jails and the buildings and arrangements at the poor farm were in reasonably good condition.

Assistant Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith of St. Paul, secured new indictments in the so-called Allen township cases which had been brought against officials charged with various delinquencies. The defendants, H. G. Butterfield, H. U. Butterfield, W. H. Jenkins, Levi Frink and E. O. Franks when arraigned pleaded not guilty. Former indictments drawn by County Attorney W. A. Fleming, with the exception of one indictment, were dismissed on demurrer. Twenty-four indictments were brought against malt shop keepers of the Cuyuna range and one of them pleaded guilty and was fined $75 and sixty days in jail by Judge B. F. Wright, the jail sentence being suspended on promise of good behavior.

GARROS IS IN THE LEAD

Frenchman Flying in American Machine Heads Big Race.

Italian Battleships Ready to Aid Aviators From Paris.

Genoa, Italy, May 30.—Roland G. Garros, the French aviator, took the lead this morning over Andre Beaumont, his nearest rival, on the flight from Nice to Rome, the second stage of the Paris-Rome-Turin aviation race for prizes aggregating $100,000.

Garros, though a Frenchman, is entered in the present 1,300-mile event under American management and in an American designed machine. He arrived at this city at 8:31 o'clock this morning from Nice, and at 10:45 a. m. resumed his flight toward the Italian capital.

Though the weather was still threatening it was somewhat better toward noon, and Garros expects to reach Rome this afternoon. If he does he will gain a prize of $20,000.

Andre Beaumont again met with motor trouble today, but succeeded in making repairs and was seen flying over Alassio on the Riveria, in the direction of this city.

Frey, representing Germany, left Avignan at 5:31 a. m. and reached Nice at 8:11.

Garros reached Pisa at 35 minutes

LITTLE EFFECT ON LONDON PRICES

Tobacco Decision Does Not Influence That Market.

London, May 30.—The decision of the United States supreme court, holding the American Tobacco company to be a combination in restraint of trade and a monopoly in violation of law, had little effect on American securities here today and prices opened a fraction higher. Other influences, however, affected specialties. The cut in steel prices sent United States Steel shares 1 point below parity, but these losses were partly recovered by noon.

New York buying of Canadian Pacific shares caused a spurt of 3 points, while Union Pacific jumped 1½ points. The rest of the market hardened in sympathy.

At noon the market was steady with prices ranging from 2¾ above to ½ below yesterday's New York closing.

VETERANS ON LAST PARADE

Chicago Grand Army Men Probably Will Not March Again.

Many Ride in Automobiles in Memorial Day Celebration.

Chicago, May 30.—Veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, 1,000 strong, marched today in what may be the last Memorial day parade in Chicago in which they will join. Many of the old soldiers were unable to stand the strain of marching and occupied automobiles.

The ranks were reviewed by Governor Deneen and Mayor Harrison. Col. Lewis B. Ind was marshal of the day.

Eighty-six cemeteries were visited by detachments of the G. A. R. and 6,700 graves of Union soldiers decorated. The graves of the Confederate dead in Oakwood cemetery also were decorated.

Foraker the Speaker.

Columbus, Ohio, May 30.—Memorial day was more generally observed here than for some years. Ex-Senator J. B. Foraker was the speaker of the day. There was a parade of veterans in the morning to the cemetery, where graves were decorated. At 9 o'clock, the McKinley monument in the state house yard was adorned with flowers and later a salute fired from the same place. The big parade was scheduled for 1:30 p. m.

GOETHALS GETS AWFULLY PEEVED

Chief Engineer of Panama Canal Has Fuss With Customs Men.

New Orleans, La., May 30. — Col. George W. Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama canal, who arrived here from the isthmus aboard the steamer Atenas this morning from Colon, was worsted in an argument with customs officials, who refused to let him leave the dock with his luggage. He returned thoroughly displeased to his cabin, where he remained until after breakfast.

The immigration officers, apprised of his coming by wireless, sent a special officer to meet the Atenas and to assist Col. Goethals getting ashore. The customs men, however, not recognizing the colonel, requested him to await the arrival of Capt. Miles of the customs office, with instructions. When the official arrived the colonel was so angry he refused to leave his berth.

He was taken to the field hospital, where physicians say his injuries are fatal.

Motor Speedway, Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—Eighty-five thousand persons massed about a two and one-half mile oval on the grounds of the Indianapolis motor speedway today, ran the gamut of emotions in response to the thrilling feats of forty speed-mad automobile pilots, racing 5000 miles for fame and gold.

Trains last night brought into the already overcrowded city added thousands. The hotels were inadequate and many a motor enthusiast with a roll in his pocket spent the night in the parks.

Many parties motored to Indianapolis from nearby cities and perforce sat in their cars all night in Monument Place or drove through the boulevards.

At daybreak the downtown streets were alive with a sleepy throng on foot and in automobiles. The restaurants were packed and turned hundreds away hungry. At 6 o'clock the multitude began moving on to the speedway by train, street car and motor car. The road leading from the city to the speedway was soon choked with automobiles and at the entrances to the big race course struggled a good natured mob. The crowd moved slowly because impeded by thousands of motor cars.

Son of Col. Ward Declares He Is Afraid of Himself.

San Francisco, Cal., May 30.—John M. Ward, a son of Col. Francis M. Ward, commissioner of public works of Buffalo, N. Y., has applied for admission to the insanity division of the receiving hospital. Ward said he lost his memory while en route from Buffalo to Seattle and that he had no knowledge of how he had reached Oakland. He feared that in another lapse of memory he might do harm to himself or others.

Ward was advised that there was no means by which he could be received at the hospital unless a complaint were sworn to.

PARADE HELD IN SPITE OF THE SHOWER

3,000 Men and Boys Honor Memory of the Soldier Dead.

Citizens Line Streets to Pay Tribute to Surviving Heroes.

Armory and Auditorium Are Filled for Two Mass Meetings.

Under a leaden canopy that veiled the sun, and through a steady downpour of rain, 3,000 men and boys marched through the downtown streets of Duluth today to auditoriums where services were held to honor the living and in memory of the dead soldiers and sailors who fought to preserve the Union and obliterate the crime of human slavery north of the Rio Grande.

In automobiles the veterans of the internecine conflict were given the place of honor at the rear of the parade. Men peered here and there for a face that was missing or marked the touch of the passing hand of time on the countenances of the living. Eyes that half a century ago beheld the armed cordons of the enemy as brother rushed upon brother and friendship was transmuted to hate, today gazed at vigorous ranks of civilian soldiers, sons and grandsons of men who fought in blue and men who warred in gray.

After paying homage to the warriors of the Rebellion who included several survivors of the famous Minnesota First and other fighting regiments that made history fifty years ago, the military organizations and citizenry proceeded to the Auditorium, First street and Third avenue east, where honor was paid to the memory of the heroic dead. The Memorial day oration was delivered by the Rev. Dr. E. C. Clemans, formerly superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church in this district, now superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

Overflow Meeting.

While several thousand people were listening to the address of Dr. Clemans an overflow meeting, which was attended by hundreds of school children, was held in the Armory, First street and Second avenue east. The principal addresses were given by the Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, and Watson S. Moore.

The head of the parade swung into

NEW GOVERNMENT FOR PITTSBURG

Old City Councils Give Way to Single Smaller Organization.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 30. — Smiling, seemingly with no regret at being deprived of office, Pittsburg councils last night went out of existence. The meeting was the passage of the old regime of the large two-chamber councils composed of representatives from each ward, now to give way to a small compact body of nine men, appointed first for seven months, then to be elected by the people of the city at large. This was made possible by the passage of an act in the closing days of the legislature last week.

Webster, Pa., May 30.—When John Stevenson was awakened at 1 o'clock this morning and went downstairs to ascertain the cause, he fell over the dead body of his stepdaughter, Mrs. Susan Wentz, aged 28, which was lying across the foot of the stairs with the throat cut.

A door leading to the outside stood ajar, but there was no trace of the supposed murderer. A physician said the woman had been dead several hours.

Stevenson said that Mrs. Wentz was all right when he and his wife retired, but the couple are being held pending an investigation.

NEW ORDINANCE GOVERNING EMPLOYMENT OFFICES

Any Connection With Saloon Prohibited — All Memoranda in Duplicate.

Resolution Introduced Calling for Improvement in Street Car Service.

The city council last night received a new employment ordinance, which conforms with the state law and places strict regulations upon all employment offices. It received its first reading and went to the committee on ordinances and resolutions.

Under the provisions of the ordinance no employment office can be located in the same building as a saloon, nor can there be any connection in the interior with any saloon. Even the placing of a partition separating the two is forbidden.

The men in charge of the office are required to furnish the men they hire with a duplicate memorandum giving them full information as to the location of the camp, the wages to be paid, the requirements as to railroad fare, and the charges which will be assessed against them for any purposes, such as hospital fees, etc. They are also required to have written copies of the orders they receive for men filed in their office.

They are required to furnish a bond of $2,000. The license for an employment office for men and women is $150; for men only, $100, and for women only, $75. For jobs not paying over $45 per month they are allowed to charge $1 for the job, and for jobs paying over that sum, not more than $2.50.

G. G. Hartley sent in a communication notifying the council that he will not pay for the building of any part of the mile and a quarter sidewalk which has been ordered laid on Woodland avenue between Luther and Austin avenues. He explained that the walks are broken down by cows; that there are but three houses on the avenue, and suggested that if the city has any money to spend from the general fund, it be used to improve the roadbeds leading to farms near the city limits.

He also advised the purchase of a "sheepsfoot" roller and volunteered to pay one-third of the purchase price. The roller is studded with heavy prongs and is said by those who have seen it used, to pack and roll roads much better than the old style rollers.

Alderman Barnes introduced a resolution calling for better street car service. The resolution stated that the cars are "insufferably crowded during the rush hours and that the public is not properly served." It called for extra cars on the Grand avenue, West Duluth, East end and Garfield avenue lines, or for "trailers" during the hours of heavy travel. Better connections and stops were also asked for. The resolution was laid over for one week on motion of Alderman Curren.

The council approved the purchase by the board of water and light commissioners of property on Minneapolis avenue for a reservoir for the Woodland system. The price is $1,200.

A resolution was passed giving it as the sense of the council that if the owners of the property near First avenue west and Superior street did not need the space which had been granted them for a stairway to the basement, the city would revoke the license, as it was needed for sidewalk uses. The proprietors of the store on the corner had rented it to a fruit vendor for a stand at $25 a month. The council takes the stand that it is city poperty and cannot be leased or rented by private parties to anyone. The owners will be given a hearing later to show cause why the space in question should not be again devoted to use as a sidewalk.

A number of Fond du Lac residents petitioned against allowing a sanitary sewer outlet into the St. Louis river at One Hundred and Thirty-third avenue west. They state that the city dock is located at that place and that they are interested in keeping their suburb the most healthful in the city limits.

J. A. Nelson was granted a license to operate a dancing pavilion at 362-64 Sixty-first avenue east. "Artie" O'Dea, former ball player, was granted a license to run a pool hall at 109 Lake avenue south.

* * *

W. S. McCormick, city comptroller and vice president of the National Association of Comptrollers, was allowed $150 to defray his expenses to the annual meeting of the organization, which will be held at Washington, D. C., June 8, 9 and 10.

The council approved the award of the contract let to E. A. Dahl for the construction of a sanitary sewer in East Superior street between Twenty-sixth and Thirty-second avenues, the bid price being $3,316.10. The contract to the same man for paving Wyoming street between Fifty-fourth and Sixtieth avenues with tarcon was also approved. The cost will be $6,275.

The plat of Spirit Lake, Second division, was approved. The plat is the first filed which complies with the recent resolution of the council calling for the setting aside of a tract for park purposes.

A waiting room was provided for on the south side of the canal, $25 being appropriated for that purpose for five months.

The New Duluth fire department was alowed $100 with which to secure needed material. The department has been given several appropriations of this kind in recognition of the efficient work which it has done. Most of the force is composed of voluteers.

The purchase of an automobile for the board of works and the city engineer was postponed for a week. It was stated that a machine, which would give satisfaction could not be secured for the money allowed.

The saloon license of Dunlap & Thatcher at 228 Lake avenue south was transferred to M. Lynch with but two dissenting votes.

P. McDonnell was granted his last estimate for the paving of Garfield avenue, amounting to $5,527.27. The street was paved last summer.

* * *

The Northern Pacific was allowed to lay a second track in St. Croix alley with the understanding that it would pave the alley from Railroad street to the end, and maintain it.

FAREWELL TO BERNHARDT

Duluth Sees Famous French Actress Probably for the Last Time.

She Thrills Large Lyceum Audience in Rostand's Play, "L'Aiglon".

What is it that enables a woman 65 years of age to play the role of a young romantic, dreaming boy of 15; to speak in a language that not ten people in her audience understood thoroughly, and yet hold that audience tense for three hours; to breathe into the role the very spirit of Napoleon, making itself felt in the frail body of this stripling; to make the audience forget her age, her weakness, and almost the fact that they could not understand the language she was speaking?

It is something more than the mere technique of the player; something more than the posings and mouthings of a mere actor; something more than the wonderful, rich, thrilling voice of the artist Bernhardt. It is the personality behind it all—the personality that will allow a woman of her age to start out on a tour of the world, when she has all the comforts that money can buy for her; the personality that finds her learning new roles and producing new plays at 65, and not merely producing them, but producing and playing them better than anybody else could. It is the indomitable spirit of this wonderful French woman—the very spirit of Napoleon himself—a spirit that keeps her ever young. The fire of youth is still there. The physical vigor may be impaired, but the mental vigor is there—the spirit to undertake, to accomplish things.

To attempt to criticise Madame Bernhardt, even if one had the inclination, would be the height of folly. She asks no allowances for the fact that she is 65 years of age; she wants no consideration for the fact that she has been the leader of her profession for a quarter of a century or more. Five years ago, when she visited Duluth, and played in a tent at Twelfth avenue east, while the northeast winds flapped the canvas, and whistled through the wings, some allowances may have been necessary. To play "Camille" when one's teeth chatter, and one's nose is blue with the cold, is a little too much to ask of even Bernhardt. But last evening at the Lyceum, before an audience which filled the theater, she had a fair field, and such a handicap as the fact that her audience spoke a foreign tongue, was swept aside, and her "L'Aiglon" carried conviction—yes more than that—gave a genuine thrill to many an old time theater goer who has grown a little hardened and blase.

Her voice is wonderful, and her French must be a joy and a delight to a real Parisian. So clear and distinct is it, that even one with a very superficial knowledge of the language can follow her.

Rostand's drama 'L'Aiglon" has been one of her favorite vehicles in recent years.

Briefly, it is an historical play which tells the story of the young Duke of Reichstadt, son of Napoleon I., who is known as L'Aiglon or the Eaglet, and who, when the play opens, is living in a state of "half servitude and moral bondage" at the Viennese court with his mother Maria Louisa, second wife of Napoleon I.

Metternich, chancellor of Austria, "to whom after England had seized the Eagle, the Eaglet had been given in charge," conceals from the boy all knowledge of the history which Napoleon has made; yet the young duke is haunted by visions of his father's fame. He feels the force of a great incentive which urges him to live up to this inheritance, yet shrinks from initiative because fearing a personal incapacity to perform the tasks awaiting him.

The play exposes an enterprise which had for its object the abduction of the youthful prisoner on whom the eyes of Europe rested so anxiously, and it is an historical fact that such an attempt was made.

There are many strong scenes. Perhaps none are more impressive than the one in the fourth act where L'Aiglon stands on the battlefield of Wagram, which stretches out before the eye, half lost in the mist and half discernible; a plain of darkness and of desolation from which the dying voices of the victims of war arise confused and awful. There is here a great scope for imagination and feeling; a situation which is taken advantage of to the utmost by Bernhardt.

In the company one figure in addition to that of the famous star stands out pre-eminently. It is that of Flambeau as played by Monsieur Decoeur. The fiery old grenadier of Napoleon fairly makes the blood leap as he appeals to the young Eaglet to remember the glories of his father's rule, and to cast off the helpless indecision which keeps him in Austria eating his heart out, when he should be in France in the place left vacant by the "petit Caporal." His fiery appeal brought one of the few real outbursts of applause last evening. Otherwise the audience sat in almost perfect silence—curious at first, but with steadily growing appreciation of the artists before them, and many a handkerchief was in evidence when the frail youth half lifted himself on his elbow and uttered his last appeal—"Mama!" "Napoleon!" "Vive Bernhardt!"

It is probably the last time Duluth will see her, but it will be many years before those who saw her last evening will forget her.

Green Room Gossip.

The Four Huntings, who are appearing at the Orpheum this week, are former musical comedy stars. The members of this clever family were featured in a musical comedy called "The Fool House," and they took their present vaudeville act from it. The scene of the sketch is laid in an asylum for the insane, and it consists merely of a lot of amusing horseplay and tomfoolery, with a little dancing mixed in for variety.

The company consists of Miss Mollie Hunting, her two brothers, and her father. Incidentally the present tour of the Orpheum circuit is a wedding trip for Tony Hunting, one of the brothers. He married Miss Corinne Frances, who is also appearing on this week's bill, last August in New York, and the two acts are traveling over the circuit together.

Duluth theater-goers are offered a number of good things at the Empress this week. The feature attraction is the dramatic sketch, "Father," which is being presented by Edouard Jose and a very capable company. "Father" is purely dramatic and it requires the work of an artist to handle the title role. Mr. Jose, who appears in the leading role, is a well-known French actor and has made a big reputation for himself, both on this side as well as the other side of the Atlantic.

"Father" deals with the experiences of an old man who has lost his little daughter and who, on finding her, did not want to reveal his identity, as he was poor and was afraid she would not care to claim him as father. The sketch is well written, is full of heart interest, and is very well presented. The Makarenko Duo are also big favorites this week. They come to Duluth direct from St. Petersburg and sing their native songs. Both the lady and gentleman possess very beautiful voices and are well received. The Berrens have a musical act that is novel and at the same time possesses real merit. They present selections from the different grand operas and some popular music on the piano and violin. Robinson and La Favor open the show with a comedy barrel jumping act. Another act that is proving a favorite is Watson and Dwyer. They present a mixture of singing, dancing and rapid-fire patter that wins them instant favor.

The new programs of photoplay at the Odeum and Lyric are drawing well-pleased crowds of those who enjoy good amusement of this kind.

"The Baby of the Boarding House" is a comedy film. It tells of a young man who tried to care for a baby and at the same time shave and dress himself for the theater. Many people can appreciate this film. It is one of the funniest ever presented in the city.

"Prejudice of Pierre Marie" tells the story of two men of entirely different temperament, who are in love with the same girl. The love story is interesting throughout.

The bills at both theaters are of more than ordinary merit. They were made especially interesting for the holiday crowds which will throng these theaters today.

At both theaters there is good music, illustrated songs and other features.

What Is Pure Gold?

People generally regulate purity by comparison. Nearly every one thinks that 18-carat gold is pure, but it is not. It is the purest gold that an be used without wearing out too rapidly. Virgin gold is 24 carats fine, therefore 18 carat has one quarter base metal melted in it. There is no such gradation in golden grain belt beers, which are true virgin beers, without alloy. That is why they are a favorite with people of good taste everywhere. If you have not done so, give them an opportunity to prove their virtues. TOBACCO TRUST IS FOUND TO USE UNREASONABLE TRADE RESTRAINT

BIG SUIT IS SENT BACK

Lower Court Ordered to Hear Parties and Aid in Readjustment.

"Rule of Reason" Again Applied By the Supreme Court.

Wickersham Says Government Won Complete Victory.

Washington, May 30.—The United States supreme court declares in a decision handed down late yesterday that the tobacco trust is a combination in restraint of trade—a monopoly in violation of law.

The decision affects 65 American corporations, 2 English corporations and 29 individual defendants.

An opportunity is given the trust to disintegrate and recreate a condition of transacting business not repugnant to law. If at the end of six to eight months the corporations fail to bring themselves within the law, a receivership and dissolution by court decree will follow.

The trust is held to have been guilty of intimidation and clearly to have shown a purpose to stifle competition.

Chief Justice White announced the decision, which was practically unanimous, although Justice Harlan dissented on several points. As in the Standard Oil case, Justice Harlan resents the application of the "rule of reason" to the Sherman anti-trust law. The court having held the defendant corporations guilty of conscious wrongdoing, Justice Harlan "is not at all anxious" to perpetuate any new combination growing out of them.

"Complete Victory" for Government.

A statement from Attorney General Wickersham characterizes the supreme court's opinion in the tobacco case as a complete victory for the government.

"It is scarcely to be conceived," says the attorney general, "that any more comprehensive and effective application of the statute to the vast combination could possibly have been decreed."

Chief Justice White's opinion may be grouped into three parts. First, he gave a detailed statement of the history of the case and dwelt upon what he designated as the "undisputed facts." Next, he took up the meaning of the Sherman anti-trust law and its application to the case at bar, and lastly he considered the remedies to be applied.

At the outset of his statement of facts, he classified the sixty-five American corporate defendants into three groups. The American Tobacco company, "because of its dominant relation to the subject matter of the controversy," was designated as the "primary defendant." The American Snuff company, the American Cigar company, the American Stogie company, MacAndrews & Forbes company and the Conley Foil company were named as "accessory defendants." The fifty-nine other American corporations were denominated the "subsidiary defendants." The two English corporations, the Imperial Tobacco company and the British-American Tobacco company, as well as the twenty-nine individual defendants headed by James B. Duke, remained unclassified.

The "Undisputed Facts."

The "undisputed facts" in the case were divided by the chief justice into two periods, the one being from the time of the organization of the first or old American Tobacco company in 1890 to the organization of the Continental Tobacco company in 1908, and the other being from the date of that organization to the beginning of the case under review.

The chief justice dwelt at length upon the organization of the old American Tobacco company in January, 1890, just before the Sherman anti-trust law was passed. He described the organization of the American Tobacco company to carry on the business of five distinct concerns, which at the time were manufacturing 95 per cent of all the domestic cigarettes produced in the United States. Prior to the organization of this company, the chief justice said that the five concerns had been engaged in "fierce and abnormal" competition.

He told, with much detail, how the American Tobacco company expanded.

Acquiring More Companies.

Not only did the American and Continental Tobacco companies continue to acquire other companies, but the chief justice referred to the other companies as acquiring still more companies.

"It is of the utmost importance" said the chief justice, "to observe that the acquisition made by the subsidiary corporations in some cases likewise show a remarkable fact, that is, the disbursement of enormous amounts of money to acquire plants which on being purchased were not utilized, but were immediately closed."

The chief justice described the organization of the American Snuff company at the end of an "aggressive competition in the snuff business between the American Tobacco company, with the force acquired from the vantage ground resulting from the dominancy of its expanded organization," and independents. As a result, he said, the American Tobacco company came virtually to have the dominant control as a manufacturer of that product.

The organization of the Conley Foil company, manufacturers of tin-foil, an essential for packing tobacco products; the American Cigar company; MacAndrews & Forbes company, manufacturers of licorice, another essential ingredient in the manufacture of tobacco, and the American Stogie company, were considered at length.

American Tobacco Company.

Finally he came down to the merger in 1904 of the old American Tobacco company, the Continental Tobacco company and the Consolidated Tobacco company into the new American Tobacco company. Through the method of distribution of the stock of the new company, the chief justice said that J. B. Duke, Thomas F. Ryan, William C. Whitney, Anthony N. Brady, Peter A. B. Widener and Oliver H. Payne were able to continue the control in the new company that they had exercised in the old.

A few words were said concerning the trade war between the big British tobacco company and the American Tobacco company and finally the organization by these two companies of the British-American company to carry on a tobacco business outside of England and the United States.

In taking up the construction and application of the Sherman anti-trust law, Chief Justice White said that if the law was applicable to the entire situation presented in the tobacco case, and was adequate to afford relief, "it can only be because that law will be given a more comprehensive application than has been affixed to it in any previous decision."

Some New Questions.

Questions not hitherto considered by the court were included in the case at bar. In this connection the chief justice said:

"Thus, even if the ownership of stock by the American Tobacco company in the accessory companies and the ownership of stock in any of those companies among themselves were held, as was decided in the Standard Oil company case, to be a violation of the act and all relations resulting from such stock ownership were therefore set aside, the question would yet remain whether the principal defendant, the American Tobacco company, and the five accessory defendants, even when divested of their stock ownership in other corporations, by virtue of the power which they would continue to possess, even although thus stripped, would amount to a violation of both the first and second sections of the act.

"Again, if it were held that the corporations, the existence whereof was due to a combination between such companies and other companies, was a violation of the act, the question would remain whether such of the companies as did not owe their existence and power to combinations, but whose power alone arose from the exercise of the right to acquire and own property, would be amenable to the prohibitions of the act.

Organized Before the Act.

"Yet further: Even if this proposition was held in the affirmative, the question would remain whether the principal defendant, the American Tobacco company, when stripped of its stock ownership, would be in and of itself within the prohibitions of the act, although that company was organized and took being before the anti-trust act was passed.

"Still further, the question would yet remain whether particular corporations which, when bereft of the power which they possessed as resulting from stock ownership, although they were not inherently possessed of a sufficient residuum of power to cause them to be in and of themselves either a restraint of trade or a monopolization or an attempt to monopolize, should nevertheless be restrained because of their intimate connection and association with other corporations found to be within the prohibitions of the act."

The necessity of relief for so many aspects, the chief justice said, has evidently led the government to resort to methods of construction which were incompatible and at the same time the defendants had not been able to do much better with the situation.

The difficulties which arose, according to the chief justice, grew out of a plain misconception of both the letter and spirit of the anti-trust act. He added that the obscurity and resulting uncertainty which had enshrouded the Sherman anti-trust act had been removed by the consideration given the down by the court in the Standard Oil decided.

Defended Oil Decision.

The chief justice then launched forth in a defense of the rule of law as laid down by the court in the Standard Oil case. He said:

"In that case it was held, without departing from any previous decision of the court, that as the statute had not defined the words "restraint of trade," it became necessary to construe those words, a duty which could only be discharged by resort to reason. We say the doctrine thus stated was in accord with all the previous decisions of this court, despite the fact that the contrary view was sometimes erroneously attributed to some of the expressions used in two prior decisions (the trans-Missouri and joint traffic cases); that such view was a mistaken one was fully pointed out in the Standard Oil case and is additionally shown by a passage in the opinion in the joint traffic case as follows: 'The act of congress must have a reasonable construction or else there would scarcely be an agreement or contract among business men that could not be said to have, indirectly or remotely, some bearing on interstate commerce, and possibly to restrain it.'"

"Applying the rule of reason to the construction of the statute, it was held in the Standard Oil case that as the words restraint of trade at common law and in the law of this country at the time of the adoption of the anti-trust act only embraced acts or contracts or agreements or combinations which operated to the prejudice of the public interests by unduly restricting competition or unduly obstructing the due course of trade or which, either because of their inherent nature or effect or because of the evident purpose of the acts, etc., injuriously restrained trade, that the words as used in the statute were designed to have and did have a like significance.

Must Use Normal Methods.

"It was therefore pointed out that the statute did not forbid or restrain the power to make normal and usual contracts to further trade by resorting to all normal methods, whether by administration or otherwise, to accomplish such purpose.

"In other words, it was held that acts which the statute prohibited could be removed from the control of its prohibitions by finding that they were unreasonable, but that the duty to interpret which inevitably arose from the general character of the term 'restraint of trade' required that the words 'restraint of trade' should be given a meaning which would not destroy the individual right to contract and render difficult, if not impossible, any movement of trade in the channels of interstate commerce—the free movement of which it was the purpose of the statute to protect.

"The soundness of the rule that the statute should receive a reasonable construction after further mature deliberation, we see no reason to doubt. Indeed, the necessity for not departing in this case from the standard of the rule of reason, which is universal in its application, is so plainly required in order to give effect to the remedial purposes which the act under consideration contemplates, and to prevent that act from destroying all liberty of contract and all substantial right to trade, and thus causing the act to be at war with itself by annihilating the fundamental right of freedom to trade, which, on the very face of the act, it was enacted to preserve, is illustrated by the record before us.

Reaffirms Rule of Reason.

"In truth, the plain demonstration which this record gives of the injury which would arise from and the promotion of the wrongs which the statute was intended to guard against, which would result from giving to the statute a narrow, unreasonable and unheard of construction, as illustrated by the record before us, if possible serves to strengthen our conviction as to the correctness of the rule of construction, the rule of reason, which was applied in the Standard Oil case, the application of which rule to the statute we now in the most unequivocal terms, re-express and reaffirm."

The court next took up the problem of determining whether the acts, contracts, combinations, etc., complained of were of such "an unusual and wrongful character as to bring them within the prohibitions of the law." On this point the chief justice said:

"The history of the combination is so replete with the doing of acts which it was the obvious purpose of the statute to forbid, so demonstrative of the existence from the beginning of a purpose to acquire dominion and control of the tobacco trade, not by the mere exertion of the ordinary right to contract and to trade, but by methods devised in order to monopolize the trade by driving competitors out of business, which were ruthlessly carried out upon the assumption that to work upon the fears or play upon the cupidity of competitors would make such success possible.

"Conclusions Are Inevitable."

"We say these conclusions are inevitable, not because of the vast amount of property aggregated by the combination, not because alone of the many corporations, which the proof shows were united by resort to one device or another.

"Again, not alone because of the domination and control over the tobacco trade which actually exists, but because we think the conclusion of wrongful purpose and illegal combination is overwhelmingly established.

"Indeed when the results of the undisputed proof are fully apprehended and the wrongful acts which they exhibit are considered, there comes inevitably to the mind the conviction that it was the danger which it was deemed would arise to individual liberty and the public well-being from acts like those which the record exhibits which led the legislative mind to conceive and enact the anti-trust act, considerations which also serve so clearly to demonstrate that the combination here assailed is within the law as to leave no doubt that it is our plain duty to apply its prohibitions."

STORY OF THE SUIT.

The American tobacco corporations were made the target of the second big "trust" prosecution of recent years. The first was the Standard Oil. Because the testimony taken in the tobacco case was not so extensive as that in the Standard Oil, the two cases were before the supreme court for consideration at the same time.

The attempt of the government to dissolve the tobacco corporation as violating the Sherman anti-trust law took shape in 1907. In that year a petition was filed in the United States circuit court at New York. The government asked that the American Tobacco company, its officers, directors and affiliated corporations, be prevented and enjoined from restraining and monopolizing commerce in tobacco.

Began in 1890.

The restraints and monopolies alleged by the government were said to have been obtained by an intricate system of corporate organization. It began in 1890, when the first American Tobacco company was organized. The new company took over the business of five independent cigarette concerns.

In 1898 the Continental Tobacco company was incorporated to take over the plug tobacco business of the American Tobacco company and that of five independent plug manufacturers.

In 1900 the American Snuff company was incorporated to take over the snuff business of the American Tobacco company, of the Continental Tobacco company, and of two other independent manufacturers.

In 1901, the American Cigar company was incorporated to take over the business of the American Tobacco company and other manufacturers and sellers of cigars, cheroots and stogies.

In the same year the Consolidated Tobacco company was incorporated to take over in exchange for its bonds substantially all of the stock of the American Tobacco company and the Continental Tobacco company.

In 1903 the American Stogie company was incorporated to take over the stogie business of the American Cigar company, the American Tobacco company and the Continental Tobacco company.

In 1904 the American Tobacco company, the Continental Tobacco company and the Consolidated Tobacco company were merged into the present American Tobacco company.

To Destroy Competition.

The government claimed that all these organizations were created with the definite purpose to destroy competition and that they accomplished that purpose. Each step was attacked as a part of an unlawful plan, whose development and progress was advanced, it was charged, by duress, oppression, and unfair methods intended to drive out and keep out competitors and secure monopolies.

The defendants claimed that nothing was to be found in the organization of these corporations, but the orderly, natural and legitimate development of a great business. They said the acquisitions had been proper and that no intent to restrain trade or monopolize trade had prompted the creation of corporations.

In addition, it was charged that the American Tobacco company acquired control of the United Cigar Stores company, which conducted retail stores in large cities, and thereby was seeking dominion in the retail business, an avenue absolutely necessary to effective competition.

Licorice Paste and Tin Foil.

The tobacco organization was charged with having a monopoly of the licorice paste required in the manufacture of tobacco, the MacAndrews & Forbes company, organized by the Continental, having no competitor, it was said.

It was also said that the defendants had a monopoly in the tin foil business, the Conley Foil company, of which the American Tobacco company held a majority of the stock, producing 75 per cent of the tin foil manufactured in this country. Both the licorice and tin foil monopolies were said to have been obtained in vollation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Another phase of the litigation concerned the foreign trade.

The circuit court found that there existed restraint of commerce, but said nothing about the charges of monopolizing. In this decree the court dismissed the petition as to the Imperial company and the British-American company, and from this feature of the decree the government appealed to the supreme court. It dismissed the petition as to the United Cigar Stores company, and from this, too, the government appealed.

The circuit court decreed that the American Tobacco company, the American Snuff company, the American Cigar company, the American Stogie company and MacAndrews & Forbes company were unlawful combinations and restrained them from engaging in interstate or foreign commerce. From this, the defendants appealed to the supreme court. So did the government. The government objected because the Conley Foil company and the individual defendants, headed by James B. Duke, were not made parties to the conspiracy to restrain, and because all were not held to be attempting to monopolize.

Verdict on Broad Ground.

In so far as the decision of the United States circuit court was against the tobacco men, it was against them on the broad ground that there was a combination which interfered with competition in trade, and all such combinations were declared to be prohibited by the Sherman law. The law was conceded to be "drastic," and little doubt was left that it did not meet the approval of that court.

The government's proceeding was against the American Tobacco company and sixty-five allied concerns and their officers. All of them were charged with forming and maintaining a trust. The suit was based on allegations of violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and also of some of the provisions of the Wilson-Gorman tariff law.

The purpose of the government was to force the dissolution of the combination and the destruction of what was declared to be a monopoly of the tobacco business in restraint of commerce, not only in the United States, but throughout a large part of the tobacco using world.

Judges All Differed.

Four judges sat in the hearing of the case in the trial court, and while three of them ultimately found common ground for a verdict, they were so divided in their respective lines of reasoning that each propounded an opinion of his own.

In general terms the verdict was a declaration of guilt for a majority of the corporations on the ground that they constituted a combination contrary to the law; and while an injunction against these combinations was granted, there was no pronouncement on the subject of monopoly, which the government had especially sought to obtain.

Certain Bills Dismissed.

The bill as to the United Cigar Stores company, a domestic corporation, was dismissed, as were also the bills against the Imperial and British-American companies, English corporations, and their subordinate American concerns, notwithstanding the contention by the government that the Cigar Stores company was the retail instrument of the trust in this country, and the English companies the foreign divisions of it.

The dismissal in the case of the Cigar Stores company was due to a failure on the part of the circuit court to find that there had been any exercise of control over it by the trust restricting the freedom of trade, and in the case of the two foreign corporations to the circumstance that the contract for the distribution of foreign business was made in England.

In Unlawful Combinations.

Disregarding the plea of the government on the point of monopoly, the circuit court adjudged the American Tobacco company and many of the subordinate general companies to be parties to an unlawful combination; to be each in itself an unlawful combination, and each to be a holder of shares in other companies. They were enjoined generally from continuing in the combination or from doing anything in furtherance of it; from engaging in interstate and foreign commerce, and from acquiring the plants or business or exercising control over issuing companies.

The issuing companies also were enjoined against permitting such control.

The bills against the officials of the various companies who were included in the original complaint were dismissed.

Both Sides Appealed.

Both the government and the tobacco companies appealed the case to the supreme court—the former because of the failure to include all defendants in the prohibition and also because of the limited scope of the verdict as to the others, and the companies on the general ground that there should have been no verdict at all against them.

The argument of the case in the supreme court consumed three times as much time as is ordinarily allowed for the presentation of cases. The government, which was represented in the hearing by Attorney General Wickersham and Special Assistant Attorney General McReynolds, made the most sweeping charges concerning the combination.

They sought especially to have the exempted organizations included in the prohibition, declaring that the Imperial company and the British-American company had been so manipulated as to provide for a complete monopoly and division of the tobacco business of the world.

Wanted Verdict Extended.

An effort also was made to have the entire combination declared a monopoly in restrain of trade.

On behalf of the companies it was contended that no effort had been made by them to restrict the production of tobacco or to work a hardship to independent tobacco dealers.

It was charged by the government that ever since 1902 there has been an apportionment of the tobacco business of the world between the American company and the Imperial company and a practical monopoly of most of the important branches of the business. The British-American company was alleged to be an outgrowth of this arrangement, that company having been organized by the other two to carry on the business outside of the United States and Great Britain. It was especially contended that no judgment would be effective that did not prohibit their continued operation, even as purchasers, in the United States.

Veto Bill Must Wait.

London, May 30.—With the passing of the second reading of the veto bill in the house of lords last night, that measure is shelved until after the coronation, when the lords will amend it in committee. The bill was passed without division.

Lighting Talks

NUMBER 17 DULUTH, MAY 30, 1911

FACTS Which YOU Should Know

The Duluth-Edison Electric Company is NOT opposed to any investigation of the subject of Electric Lighting in Duluth. This Company welcomes a full and fair investigation, the most thoroughgoing investigation, of this whole subject and of this Company's affairs. There are no secrets about our business. We have nothing to conceal. We are glad to give to the City's officers or accredited agents at any time any information in our possession.

The question of a Municipal Electric Light Plant is the most important question before this community, the right solution of which vitally concerns the future welfare of Duluth. How can YOU form an intelligent opinion even, let alone commit yourself on this great question, without hearing BOTH sides?

THIS COMPANY IS NOT OVERCAPITALIZED. It would have cost the City JUST AS MUCH as it cost us to build the present Lighting System—and this Lighting System is the most economical that could be built to give Duluth the adequate and excellent Service the City is entitled to and is now getting.

This Company is NOT "paying dividends on watered stock." Our preferred stock receives 6 per cent a year. On our common stock NO dividends at all are paid. This Company's capital stock is owned by some 600 investors, mostly in very small "blocks" of from one to five or six shares only. Does the fact that some of these people live in Massachusetts, or New York, or Michigan or California destroy their right to receive a fair return on their investment for the benefit of Duluth?

Where do the investors live who own the bulk of the bonds issued by the City of Duluth? How many of this City's bonds are owned here in Duluth? YOU know that extensive public improvements of any kind are impossible to this City without financial help from outside. Do YOU believe in the policy of repudiation—of taking a man's money and then kicking him out?

Do the out-of-town holders of the City bonds control Duluth's City government? You see, a little COMMON SENSE is necessary for any FAIR discussion of this question of Municipal Lighting.

This Company is entitled to a new City Lighting contract because it can and will provide the BEST OF SERVICE AT A LOWER PRICE THAN WOULD BE POSSIBLE WITH A MUNICIPAL PLANT.

In view of that all-important FACT, you may not care very much about capital stock, or dividends, or company control; but we want you to know the WHOLE TRUTH.

Be sure to read the next "Lighting Talk" in next Thursday's Herald.

I can truthfully say that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is a very good medicine, not alone for kidney trouble, but also for weak and sore back, as well as for rheumatism.

About a year ago I became ill and unable to work, my trouble being a lame back. I read of your Swamp-Root in the newspaper and in an Almanac. Believing it would do me good, I went to my druggist, Mr. Skinner, and purchased a bottle. TIRED, FRETTED MOTHERS REST

Skin-Tortured, Disfigured Infants Sleep.

This is what happens when Cuticura soap and ointment enter homes distracted by the sufferings of little ones from eczemas, rashes, itchings and irritations. Sleep follows a hot bath with the soap and a single application of the ointment and rest and peace fall for the first time perhaps in weeks, on a distracted household. To those who have tried and found wanting the usual remedies and who have lost faith in everything, a liberal sample of Cuticura soap and ointment, with 32-page book on the treatment of the skin, may be obtained, post-free, on application to "Cuticura," Dept. C, Boston, notwithstanding that these pure, sweet and gentle emollients are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere.

He was bleeding all over, and could not rest. We could get nothing to relieve him until we got the Cuticura ointment, and the first application put him to sleep. Then we used Cuticura soap, and he continued to improve till cured."

GRANDMOTHERS' BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Color and Beauty of the Hair Preserved with a Harmless Remedy Made from Sage.

Druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair, making it fluffy and beautiful and restoring its natural color.

The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

THOUSANDS GATHER TO SEE AUTO-RACING HISTORY MADE

oft the heat in which the city had sweltered for two weeks. The sky was hazy, but there was no indication that the day would be marred by rain.

The free seats in the great bleachers were filled at 8 o'clock and the grandstand crowd began to arrive on trains. The parking spaces were lined with touring cars.

At 7 o'clock the pits along the track edge swarmed with mechanics and tire men laying out their tools where they could be snatched up in an emergency.

All the drivers were busy about their cars examining every part for a possible defect. Starter Wagner was the first of the course officials to appear and he strictly enforced the rule that no car should be permitted on the course before the race was called.

Many of the pilots and team managers had slept with their cars, fearing that their weeks of patient testing might through some mishap come to nothing when the great trial of endurance should put its strain upon the motors.

The farm houses for miles about the speedway had entertained hundreds of men interested in one way or another in automobiles, and accessories, and some of them were as eager that some certain carburetor or magneto or tire should "win" the race as was any fan that his favorite driver should finish first. The brick track stretched away clean as a floor. At the turns it had been spread with alkali powder to cut the oil that will drip from the cars and otherwise make the curves dangerously slippery.

Militia on Duty.

Carl G. Fisher, millionaire sportsman, president of the Speedway association, superintended the posting of the militia and the 1,000 special policemen, who will be on guard duty.

At 8:30 o'clock, all the cars were ready for the start of the race. It was announced that they would be sent away promptly at 10 o'clock. Mechanics and drivers nervously paced about the pits, eager for the call of the starter, the signal for the beginning of the greatest race in the history of the development of the automobile, a test of skill and endurance in which the victor will win fame and fortune.

At Starter Wagner's order at 9 o'clock the cars' drivers and mechanicians took their seats and the cars were lined up in the infield back of the repair pits, ready for the call to the track.

An Animated Scene.

The speedway now offered an animated scene. The heavy fusilade of the exhausts of the forty high power motors punctuated the music of half a dozen bands. The stands were filled and in the boxes was a display of the latest fashionable wear for women motorists.

A tumult of applause arose from the crowd when Bob Burman in the Blitzen Benz drove up before the grandstand to be crowned "Speed King." A heavy gold, bejeweled crown, presented by a manufacturer of tires, was placed on Burman's head after a speech, which was drowned in the noise of the thousands of spectators, had been made. Encircled by photographers and operators of moving picture machines, Burman posed, and then drove off the track.

A parade of all the starters in the race ensued. Starter Wagner announced the names of the drivers and cars as they passed in review. Each speed hero bowed to the cheers of his adherents in the stands as he sent his car around the track.

Change Tires in Pits.

Shortly before the race started, the contest board of the American Automobile association, upon recommendation of the manufacturers' contest committee, ruled that tire changes during the race be restricted to replenishments at the pits. Several of the drivers had prepared to change tires at various other points on the course, and were forced to change their plans.

Referee Pardington at 9:30 o'clock conducted a test of the brakes of all the cars, in front of the grandstand. The cars were speeded up to the wire, the clutch thrown out and the brake suddenly set. It was desired to make sure that in case of accident the cars were in form for as quick a stop as their momentum would permit.

At 9:50 o'clock Starter Wagner called the cars to the wire. They were ranged in ranks of five in the order in which they had filed their entries in the race. President Fisher and Secretary Allison of the Speedway, in an automobile, took a position at the head of the greatest assemblage of cars and pilots the motor racing game has ever known.

All Drivers Lined Up.

All the drivers lined up for a photograph, and then, clapping each other on the back, they wished good luck and returned to their cars to await the starting signal.

Not until Fisher and Allison had led the cars around the two and a half mile course once and to the wire was the race to start.

At every minute a bomb was cast into the air, the final bomb at 10 o'clock to announce the beginning of the race. Sharply at 10 o'clock the cars got away for the starting lap.

At the rate of forty miles an hour, they jockeyed for position. As they came slowly around to the judges' stand, Aitken (National) led. He passed under the wire at 10:03 and the race was on.

The First Lap.

In the first lap the cars strung out all around the course. Aitkin (National) held the lead, with De Palma (Simplex) second and Wishart (Mercedes) third.

The leaders, pressing the tail-enders of the preceding lap, made the race right at its beginning an enormous and desperate whirligig. The thousands of spectators leaned forward in their seats and yelled wildly as the favorites passed. The great bowl of the speedway was filled with the deafening roar of the explosions of the forty motors as the hooded drivers, bending low over their steering wheels, pushed their engines to the farthest.

Buick First to Stop.

The first car to stop at the pit for repairs was Arthur Chevrolet in his Buick. He had tire trouble and lost a few minutes making a change.

At the end of twenty miles, when he was in the lead, Wishart (Mercedes) blew a front tire and went to the pit. He was off again in a minute.

At the end of fifty miles Aitken was leading. His time was 41 minutes and 7 seconds. Bruce-Brown, (Flat) was second and Ralph De Palma (Simplex) third.

CHILDREN FIND WORK

Little Vaudevillians Allowed to Present Act in Local Theater.

Factory Inspector Investigates Case and Will Interview Their Mother.

Gertrude and Clara Lindsay, the child actresses, who were stranded without money or an engagement in Duluth, will be allowed to work at the Savoy theater until their story can be investigated and their age determined.

They claim to be over 16 years old, but they do not look to be over 14. Miss Jean Poirier, deputy state factory inspector, is going to Minneapolis tonight and while there will visit the mother, who is said to be ill in a hospital and learn from her the age of her daughters.

Without money and no job in sight the two girls were picked up in the corridor of an office building a few nights ago by a policeman.

Charles Ellison, manager of the Savoy theater, after hearing their story, decided to give them a chance at his theater. They appeared there last night and scored a decided hit. They will be there for a week, at least, unless Miss Poirier finds that they are under age.

Miss Poirier says that the children are very clever entertainers. She visited with them in their dressing room at the theater last night and they told her of their stage experiences. They stated that they had been stranded at least three times. This is the fault of the booking agent, they claim.

They have been on the stage doing the smaller vaudeville circuits for several years. They have traveled all over the country and talk entertainingly of the places at which they have visited.

MARINE

MAY USE THEIR DISCRETION

Steamboat Inspectors Will Not Follow Department Ruling Literally.

George Uhler, supervising inspector general at Washington, has notified steamboat inspectors on the lakes that they are to use their own discretion in the matter of inspecting vessels after they have been loaded, as a permanent ruling could not cover all the cases brought to their attention. About a year ago, the department made a ruling that only vessels carrying no cargo shall be inspected, and the enforcement has caused trouble.

On account of the ruling, several boats cleared this spring without being inspected and $500 fines have been levied. The cases are now under consideration by Charles Nagel, secretary of the department of commerce and labor. It is said that some of the vessel owners allowed their boats to clear without inspection, as they would rather pay the fine than unload the boats. That disposition on the part of the vessel owners is probably responsible for the new order of the supervising inspector general.

SUPERIOR

MEMORIAL DAY IS OBSERVED

Special Train Takes Veterans and Others to Greenwood Cemetery.

Memorial Day is being observed in fitting style today in Superior. Business houses closed in honor of the soldier dead and many people turned out this morning for the parade and exercises.

The members of Alonzo Palmer post, G. A. R., the Women's Relief corps, a detail of Company I and the Salvation Army band made up the parade, which formed at 8:45 this morning at the post headquarters in the Odd Fellows' temple and marched to the union station. A special train took the crowd to Greenwood cemetery.

At the cemetery Judge L. K. Luse delivered an address, in which he paid a beautiful tribute to the nation's dead. The graves of sixty Union soldiers and one Confederate are at Greenwood cemetery.

The special train returned at noon and the veterans and families were served with a dinner at post headquarters by the Women's Relief corps. This afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, memorial exercises will be held at the Blaine school auditorium, Rev. F. L. Roberts is the principal speaker.

MANY IDLE MEN ARE IN SUPERIOR.

The labor market in Superior is very dull with little relief in sight, according to William O'Carroll, manager of the Superior branch of the Wisconsin Free Employment bureau. Mr. O'Carroll says that there are many idle men in the city and that there is scarcity of common laboring jobs such as for section men, dock workers, etc. The railroad companies are hiring very few men at this time as compared with last year. There is, however, a scarcity of girls for housework, and Mr. O'Carroll says that he cannot meet the demand.

OLD RESIDENT OF CITY DIES SUDDENLY.

Christ Peterson, 65 years old, dropped dead from a stroke of apoplexy at his home, 2118 Pennsylvania avenue, Billings Park, at 7 o'clock last evening. Mr. Peterson was a resident of Superior for the past thirty years and is survived by a wife and six children. All live in Superior with the exception of James, who is in the government service in the Philippines. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Council Meeting.

A special meeting of the common council has been called by Mayor Crumpton for tomorrow night for the purpose of passing on resolutions for the paving of Belknap street between Oakes and Clough avenues and John avenue between Third and Belknap streets. The councilmen will also be asked to pass on a resolution relative to the paving of Main street.

Wimbledon, N. D., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fourteen stitches had to be taken to close a wound inflicted upon Wm. Treitline of this place when he was kicked by a horse. Treitline and several others were engaged in an effort to capture the horse which had broken lose, and he received the kick.

THE WEATHER

The weather man has a habit of discouraging those who would make Memorial day a holiday of pleasure. When the nation should weep, and nature usually weeps on Duluth May 30. Today is no exception. However, the weather might let up for tonight and tomorrow, if he were sociable, but he is not. Showers are on the bills.

As an exception, fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:18 and it will set at 7:53 this evening, giving fifteen hours and thirty-five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Low pressure areas central over Saskatchewan and Arizona caused showers and warmer weather over the Northwest during the last twenty-four hours. The high temperatures continue over Ohio and the lower Mississippi valley. The light showers in St. Louis and Douglas counties today will continue tonight and Wednesday, with warmer weather Wednesday."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 30.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Upper Michigan—Showers tonight or Wednesday.

Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa—Unsettled weather with showers tonight or Wednesday.

North and South Dakota—Generally fair weather tonight and Wednesday, except unsettled in east portions tonight.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday.

Upper Lakes — Moderate easterly winds, with unsettled weather.

past 12 and immediately left that city for Rome.

Anxious About Beaumont.

Anxiety was felt at Genoa as the morning passed without the arrival of Beaumont. From several quarters his passage across the French frontier had been announced, but after being sighted flying along the Riviera in the neighborhood of Alassio, all trace of the French aviator was lost.

The Italian battleships Regina Elena, Vittorio Emanuele III, and Umberto and a number of torpedo boats are scattered along the coast from Genoa to the French frontier and to Pisa for the purpose of aiding the aviators if necessary.

The mayors of the villages along the coast have ordered boatmen to be ready to render assistance should any of the airmen fall into the sea. Everywhere along the coast the greatest excitement prevails. Large crowds are gathered at [illegible] where the flyers can best be [illegible] greet them on their arrival.

The distance from Genoa to Rome, the second stage of the contest, is 600 kilometres (372 miles).

Second avenue east from First street shortly after 10 o'clock. The procession moved south on Second avenue east to Superior street, along Superior to Fifth avenue west, north to First street, then east on First street to the Auditorium and the Armory.

The crowd that lined First street and which had been curiously but respectfully watching the formation of the parade began to separate, a part drifting toward the Auditorium, the other regiment following the city's "finest" as the platoon of police moved down Second avenue east. Then came John G. Rakowsky, the honorary grand marshal and his staff, and the grand marshal, Lieut. Col. F. E. Resche of the Third regiment, M. N. G., who sat on his horse as though he were fastened to the saddle. Capt. Fred D. Knowlton of the Minnesota National Guard was chief of staff. The aides included citizen-soldiers, veterans and members of the official staff of Adolph O. Eberhart, governor of Minnesota. The aides were: Col. C. M. Wilson, G. A. R.; Col. S. F. White, G. A. R.; Col. M. M. Gasser, M. N. G.; Col. John Uno Sebenius, M. N. G.; Col. Gust Carlson, M. N. G.; Capt. Christian Briand, U. S. A.; Capt. Don Carlos W. Musser, U. S. W. V.; Past Commander W. B. Butchart, U. S. W. V.; Lieut. R. M. Weaver, M. N. G.; Ensign T. H. Jones, M. N. G.; Col. A. H. Paul, I. O. O. F.; Capt. C. M. Phillips, U. R. K. P.; Capt. C. R. Fossett, S. V.; W. I. Prince, Dr. R. W. Bowden, B. P. Neff, T. F. Upham.

The bugle sounded at 10 o'clock and within fifteen minutes after the call the entire procession was moving. The first division was commanded by Capt. Christian Briand, U. S. A. It marched into First street from First avenue east and was led by the Third regiment band. In the division was the First batallion, Third infantry, Minnesota National Guard, commanded by Maj. H. V. Eva. Capt. K. A. Franklin was at the head of Company A. Capt. G. W. Stiles led Company E and Capt. W. O. Flodin marched with Company C. The natty citizen soldiers received considerable applause from spectators. As usual, the naval militia was warmly received. It marched with Commander Guy A. Eaton at its head. The first division was led by Lieut. E. G. Smith and the second by Lieut. Rene T. Hugo.

The Second Division.

The feature of the second division which swung into First street from First avenue east was the equipment of the Duluth fire department and the firemen under Assistant Chief Wilson. The order of this division, which was commanded by Capt. Don Carlos W. Musser, U. S. W. V., was as follows:

Citizens' Staff, government and city employes.

Davidson; Kosciuko Polish Benevolent society; Independent Order of Red Men, Mesaba Tribe No. 25; L'Union St. Jean Baptiste de Duluth.

For the first time in the history of Memorial day parades in this town there were real boy soldiers dressed in uniforms. The boy scouts of the Trinity pro-cathedral marched behind the boys' band from the same church. Following was a sturdy band of uniformed scouts from the Y. M. C. A. With heads high and chests out, the boys swung along at a fast clip and gave evidence of having been well drilled.

The Fourth Division.

The fourth division was commanded by Col. C. M. Wilson of the Grand Army of the Republic. It was divided into sections as follows:

School boys—Gen. M. W. Bates in command.

First section—Frank T. Phillips in charge of the boys from high school, Washington, Jefferson, Endion, Lakeside, Washburn and Lester Park schools.

Fourth section—Jacob Laux in charge of boys from all the parochial schools.

The G. A. R. Division.

Col. S. F. White, Grand Army of the Republic, led the fifth division which was the most interesting of all because it included the three score of men whom the thousands had come forth to honor. The division was led by Capt. Asa Dailey and his drum corps. The Sons of Veterans were led by Lieut. J. J. Clark. The United Spanish War Veterans were commanded by Department Commander J. B. Gibson, Camp John G. McEwen, No. 6, was led by Commander W. L. Pierce. Camp Maj. A. M. Diggles, No. 13, was in charge of Commander C. G. Howard. At the end of the procession were the members of Gorman and Culver posts, Grand Army of the Republic, in automobiles.

When the parade reached Third avenue west and First street as it proceeded east toward the Auditorium, the procession was halted while the veterans in automobiles were driven by. The soldiers of '61 sat in their machines at Third avenue west while the parade passed in review. They then were taken to the Auditorium where seats had been reserved for them.

After services were held in the Armory and the Auditorium in memory of the martyred soldier dead and in honor of the living, the members of the Woman's Relief Corps conducted an impressive ceremony on the water front to honor the sailor-soldier dead. The services were held under the solemn ritual of the relief corps.

The members embarked in boats at the foot of Fifth avenue west and were taken to a place north of the north channel pier where the services were under the auspices of the naval training ship, Gopher. The beautiful ceremony of casting flowers upon the water was observed.

Under the direction of Asa Dailey the graves of veterans in Duluth cemeteries were decorated early this afternoon. Flags were placed on the graves yesterday.

At the Auditorium.

An immense audience greeted S. S. Williamson, president of the Citizens' Staff, when he introduced Mayor M. B. Cullum as the presiding officer of the meeting in the Auditorium. The drum corps of Gorman post, Grand Army of the Republic, played and the Rev. H. J. P. Selinger, pastor of the West Duluth Baptist church, asked the invocation.

The audience sang "America," and John H. Norton, county attorney, recited the address delivered by Abraham Lincoln on the battlefield at Gettysburg. Charles O. Applehagen of Diggles camp, U. S. W. V., sang "Star Spangled Banner." Miss Effie Brotherton, daughter of Willis A. Gorman post, G. A. R., read "Prince." Mr. Applehagen then sang "Marching Through Georgia."

The roll call of the dead for the last year was read by the adjutant of the camps of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Spanish War Veterans. Miss Maude Matteson sang "Taps" to the bugle accompaniment of Charles Helmer. Prof. A. F. M. Custance was the accompanist. The Very Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele, dean of the pro-cathedral, pronounced the benediction.

The oration was delivered by the Rev. Dr. E. C. Clemans. His address was eloquent and forceful.

At the Armory.

At the Armory the boys' band from the pro-cathedral furnished the music. H. L. Dresser, vice president of the Citizens' Staff, introduced the presiding officer, Gen. Marcus W. Bates, member of Culver post, G. A. R. The band played "Dixie" and the children sang several patriotic songs, after which they were dismissed.

MOST DELIGHTFUL AND LUXURIOUS RESTAURANT IN DULUTH.

WOMAN'S REALM.

The program for the alumni night to be held at the high school Friday evening, June 9 by members of the alumni association of the school, will be a pleasing one as now planned. The musical contributions will be of the highest order by well known and popular singers and the musical society of the school will sing a number of selections which the members have been preparing during the season under the direction of A. F. M. Custance. Mr. Custance will also have charge of the entire program.

An orchestra has been engaged to play during the evening and a number of monologues and a sketch by John Kendrick Bangs will be given.

In many schools alumni night is one of the biggest events of the graduation exercises and school spirit is fostered and deepened with each reunion of the graduates and those who have attended the school. This is the first alumni night ever held at the Duluth Central high school and it is hoped that the school spirit in all graduates of the school will be awakened and that all who are in the city will add their share to the pleasure of the evening. Besides the program the committee hopes to make the affair a social one which will be attractive. Not only those who have joined the alumni association but every graduate of the school should do his or her part to make this first formal reunion a success.

SEAT SALE LARGE.

Orchestra Concerts Promise to Be Big Success.

It is not surprising to music lovers to be told that the concerts of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra on Friday and Saturday will be a big success, and if the demand for seats continues today, tomorrow and Thursday, they will be a phenomenal success.

Generally the operatic night has gained the capacity house with the symphony night and the matinee following just a little behind. On Friday night Beethoven's great Eroica symphony will be the chief feature. Composed as it was in the first instance in honor of Napoleon, those who saw Mme. Bernhardt last evening, will be especially interested in it. Besides this symphony there will be other splendid numbers and the soloists will be Marcus Kellerman, who has made quite a sensation by his singing during the tour and the concert meister, Richard Czerwonky. His solos in Duluth with the orchestra have been gems, and Czerwonky is greater today than ever before. Friday night's program appeals to all in the diversity of the different numbers.

The matinee program on Saturday will draw a larger audience than usual, no doubt, due to the many charming numbers to be played. The ballet music from Massenet's "Le Cid," Hayda's Austrian hymn, with its glorious variations, and the overture to Der Freischutz, are a great attraction and as played by the Minneapolis orchestra they are given a perfect rendition.

Club Dance.

The members of the Nitche Social club were hosts last evening at a dancing party at Columbia hall. About 100 couples enjoyed the evening. Blewett's orchestra played and the hall was artistically decorated with purple and gold. The committees in charge of the affair were composed as follows:

Floor committee — Ed Gallagher, Charles Kremer, Mike McMahon, James Wade, Ernest Robinson, John Garvey.

Arrangement committee—F. Bordeau, Ben Owens, Al Balduc, Walt Emerson, Luke Flood, George Orease.

The officers of the club are W. A. Padden, president; J. J. Miller, vice president; L. P. Drohan, treasurer; J. Rowland, secretary; J. A. Schiltz, sergeant-at-arms.

GRACEFUL DANCING.

H. S. Girls Give Pretty Exribition at Gym.

The girls of the high school gymnasium classes gave a very pretty exhibition of fancy dances yesterday afternoon in the gym under the direction of the physical training instructor, Miss Edith Smith. A large audience of parents and friends was quite charmed with the graceful lightness and preciseness which the girls displayed in performing the various program of intricate folk and fancy dances, and the little bit of dancing which Miss Smith did in the last number with the girls was a delightful bit which the audience would have liked to see prolonged.

The program contained the following dances which were danced by groups of the different classes.

Ace of Diamonds, Danish origin; Four Little Blackberries; Vafva Vadmal, Swedish origin; Dancing Topsy; Gavotte; Schottische; Ox Dance, Swedish origin; Dainty Step; Cinderella, American School dance; Board Walk; Mountain March, Norwegian origin; Duchess; Pop Goes the Weasel; Minuet; Sylphette (Gilbert dance); Shoemakers' dance, Swedish origin; Omaha and the Minuet.

RAIN STOPS ALL PICNICS

Weather Puts a Damper on All Memorial Day Outings.

The rain which commenced to fall shortly after 10 o'clock this morning, just as the Memorial day parade was starting, put a literal damper on holiday outings, although it failed to affect the patriotic spirit shown in the parade. The parks were deserted and people who did not go to the theaters in the afternoon generally remained at home.

Banks, business houses and the grain and stock exchanges were closed. Only those commercial institutions which must be conducted because of public necessity transacted business.

Business houses and residences were liberally decorated with the national colors.

GILBERT OF GILBERT & SULLIVAN DROWNS.

London, May 30.—W. S. Gilbert, the noted dramatic author and libretist, who in collaboration with Arthur Sullivan, wrote the famous Savoy operas, including "H. M. S. Pinafore," "Patience," "Iclanthe" and the "Mikado," and who was knighted in 1907 by King Edward, met a tragic end yesterday. He spent the morning in London, and on returning to his residence at Harraw went to the lake in his grounds to enjoy a swim. He dived in and was a long time in coming to the surface. Women friends who had accompanied him to the lake observed that he was in difficulty and was struggling. They rushed for help and Sir William sank again. Servants came as quickly as possible to the scene, but when the body was recovered life was extinct.

VIGOROUS DISSENT BY HARLAN

Associate Justice Says Supreme Court Is Amending the Law.

Arraigns "Rule of Reason" in Tobacco Case Decision.

Declares It Makes Congress Say What It Never Intended to Say.

Washington, May 30.—Associate Justice Harlan delivered a vigorous dissent to part of the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the tobacco case, although he agreed that the American Tobacco company and its accessory and subsidiary corporations were members of an unlawful combination in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

His dissent, as expressed from the bench, centered around two points. First he took issue with the court for sending the case back to the lower court.

"I have found nothing in the record," he said, "which makes me at all anxious to perpetuate any new combination among these companies which the court concedes had all the time exhibited a conscious wrong-doing."

Objects to Rule of Reason.

In the second place he relterated the objections he expressed in the Standard Oil decision of two weeks ago to the adoption of the "rule of reason" as a standard for ascertaining what restraints of trade violate the Sherman anti-trust law. He said his views at present must necessarily be oral, because the court's opinion was not delivered to him until late Saturday evening. However, he said, he will hereafter prepare and file a written opinion expressing his views fully.

"I concur with some things said in the opinion just delivered by the court, but some observations are made in the opinion from which I am compelled to withhold my assent," declared Justice Harlan.

Then, after agreeing with the court that the company and its subsidiary companies are members of an unlawful combination and "should be decreed to be in restraint of interstate trade and an attempt to monopolize and a monopolization of part of such trade," he says:

"The evidence in the record is, I think, abundant to enable the court to render a decree containing all necessary details that will effectually suppress the evils of the combination in question. But the court sends the case back with directions to further hear the parties so as to ascertain whether a new condition canont be recreated in harmony with the law. I have found nothing in the record which makes me at all anxious to perpetuate any new combination among these companies, which the court concedes had at all times exhibited a conscious wrong-doing.

Quotes the Court.

"The court says 'the history of the combination is so replete with the doings of acts which it was the obvious purpose of the statute to forbid, so demonstrative of the existence from the beginning of a purpose to acquire dominion and control of the tobacco trade, but by methods devised in order to monopolize the trade by driving competitors out of business, which were ruthlessly carried out upon the assumption that to work upon the fears or play upon the cupidity of competitors would make success possible.' I will not now say what, in my opinion, should be the form of the decree, nor speculate as to what the details ought to be. It will be time enough to speak upon that subject when we have the decree before us. I will, however, say now that in my opinion, the decree below should be affirmed as to the Tobacco company and its accessory and subsidiary companies, and reversed on the cross-appeal of the government.

"But my objections have particular reference to those parts of the court's opinion which reaffirm what it said recently in the Standard Oil cases about the former decisions of this court touching the anti-trust act. We are reminded again, as we were in the Standard Oil case, of the necessity to apply the 'rule of reason' in the construction of the act of congress, which is, I think, expressed in language so clear that there is no room whatever for construction.

Inserts Word in Law.

"Congress, with full and exclusive power on the subject, has signified its purpose to forbid every restraint of interstate trade, in whatever form, or to whatever extent, but the court has assumed to insert in the act, by construction merely, words which made congress say that it means only to prohibit 'undue' restrain of trade.

"If I do not misapprehend the opinion just dellvered, the court says that what was said in the opinion in the Standard Oil case was in accordance with our previous decisions in the trans-Missouri and joint traffic cases, if we 'resort to reason.' This statement surprises me quite as much as would a statement that black was white or white was black. It is scarcely for the court at this late day to say or intimate that Justice Peckham and his colleagues, who agreed with him, interpreted the act of congress without regard to the 'rule of reason', or to assume that the act was for the first time in the Standard Oil case, interpreted in 'the light of reason'. The rule of reason,' I am sure, does not justify the perversion of the plain words of an act of congress, in order to defeat the will of congress.

Justice Peckham's Decision.

"By every conceivable form of expression, Justice Peckham and his associates in the trans-Missouri and joint traffic cases said that the act of congress did not allow restraint of interstate trade to any extent or in any form, and three times distinctly rejected the theory that the act should be construed as if it had in it the word 'unreasonable' or 'undue.' But now the court, in accordance with what it denominates the 'rule of reason,' in effect inserts in the act the word 'undue,' and makes congress say what it did not say, what it plainly did not intend to say, and what since the passage of the act, it has explicitly refused to say.

"In short, the court now, by judicial legislation, in effect amends an act of congress, relating to a subject over which that department of the government has exclusive cognizance.

"Without intending, in the slightest degree, to under-rate the ability of my brethren, I beg to say that in my judgment Justice Peckham and his associates in the former cases were guided by the 'rule of reason' and knew quite as well as others what the rule of reason required when the court sought to ascertain the will of congress.

Did Not Grope in Darkness.

"They did not grope about in the darkness, but in discharging the solemn duty put on them by the Constitution, they stood out, with minds unmystified, in the full glare of the 'light of reason' and felt and said time and again that the courts could not and ought not, under the Constitution, usurp the functions of congress by indulging in judicial legislation."

SOCIAL CLUBS' FEES.

Must Pay $50 for Filing Articles in the Future.

St. Paul, Minn., May 30.—Hereafter all "social clubs" organized for the general up-lift and culture of members, must pay a filing fee of $50 when they incorporate, according to a ruling of Attorney General Simpson, given at the request of the secretary of state.

It is the intention to stop so far as possible the so-called social clubs in cities from so easily organizing societies which may violate state laws under guise of clubdom. A provision of a statute passed some years ago, caused the clubs to be exempt, but a more recent law is held to require the payment of fees.

VERDICT FOR $1,500 AGAINST MINNESOTA BANKER

Fort Benton, Mont., May 30.—The jury in the case of the Stockmen's bank against H. B. Larson, a banker of Halsted, Minn., after an hour's deliberation, brought in a verdict of $1,500 damages for the bank. As there have been about twelve trials in various courts of the state of Minnesota in regard to the Montana cattle that were the bone of contention, there was an accumulation of evidence that required several days to review. The evidence showed that in nearly all this litigation Larson had lost his suits.

In the suit just determined the bank sued him for $2,000 damages, alleging that the suit, wherein he tied up some of the funds of the bank, was brought without probable cause and maliciously.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Fifty years ago at this time, as spring was ripening into summer, the war between the states was taking on deadlier proportions. At first, the nation had hoped that the long-widening dissension could be settled at the polls. From the day the invention of the cotton gin made slave labor a vital economic factor in the South, however, slowly the breach had widened until the crash of cannon at Sumter made it clear, in April, 1861, that there was no way out except through war. Both sides, at this time fifty years ago, were gathering their forces for the coming conflict. Bull Run was only a few weeks away. Lincoln's call for 75,000 volunteers was being answered with alacrity, and the young manhood of the South was responding readily to its call. Both sides looked forward to a few months of war, and only a few on either side glimpsed the long years of deadly combat that stretched their woe and desolation through the next half decade.

Fifty years ago at this time volunteers were marching away in every state and from almost every hamlet and town. They were young men, mostly, men in the prime of vigorous and confident youth. Later they were joined by hundreds of thousands more. Almost immediately disease, exposure, privation and rebel lead began to take their deadly toll. At every roll call from May, 1861, to May, 1911, names have been called to which response will nevermore be made on this earth.

Memorial day, 1911, has peculiar interest because of these fiftieth anniversaries that we are soon to come up with. During the next five years there will be almost daily anniversaries of battles, great and small, of victories and reverses, of heartening hopes and benumbing fears. The little band of veterans that remains with us fought in those battles, won those victories, suffered those reverses but returned from them to pluck more victories, were made glad by those hopes and sorrowful by those fears. Mere pages of history though they have become to the generation of today, to these men they are real and living memories that nothing but the soothing hand of death can blot out.

Today the nation honors the heroic dead, but it honors no less the heroic living. It pays tribute to the dead with its tears, and to the living with its cheers. In fact, without losing any of its tenderness for those who have passed beyond, whether they laid them down to die on Southern battlefield or dropped by the wayside in the humdrum paths of peace in the years that have passed since Appomattox, of late the observance of Memorial day has carried more and more consideration for those who were willing to die for their country, but whom Providence chose for the equally honorable duty of living for their country.

This is as it should be. The new generation can hold no holier duty than that of making the last days on earth of these gallant survivors pleasant and peaceful. The burden of the observance of Memorial day, long willingly assumed by them, must be taken from their shoulders. Long the hosts on this day, henceforth they must be the guests.

While honoring the dead, therefore, the nation will take new thought for the living, and in the light of the new interest in the Civil war awakened by the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of that war, that thought will take on new tenderness and new consideration.

HARD TIMES FOR LAWYERS.

Are the corporations, which have absorbed practically every kind of industry, great and small, reaching out to absorb such things as the law business? If they are, will they not soon incorporate the doctor's practice or even the preacher's offices? Hardly the latter, however, unless the churches find it possible to pay more attractive salaries than the present average.

Says Law Notes: "Protests against corporations practicing law in the face of the recent decision of the New York court of appeals in the case of in re Co-operative Law Company, 198 N. Y. 479, were made at the dinner of the New York County Lawyers' association at its recent annual meeting. J. N. Emley said he had investigated seventeen cases of indemnity companies whose policies provide that the insured must turn over to the insuring company the conduct of his defense in cases of litigation. These cases, he said, were only an example of many instances where corporations were not only practicing law, but were practicing in a manner which would be sufficient to disbar an individual so practicing. At a meeting of the Baltimore Bar association in March a committee of five was appointed to report on 'the legislation needed to properly supervise, regulate and control bodies corporate acting in legal and fiduciary capacities in this state, and to regulate their fees, commissions and other charges as well as to limit their legal powers.' One of the speakers said: 'This association is face to face with an important situation. I have been informed that 70 per cent of the members of this bar are not making a livelihood. I do not believe 80 per cent of the 1,500 or 1,800 members are making $100 a month. Corporations doing our business are working not only to our detriment, but will also ultimately inflict tremendous injury upon the public. Slowly, but with persistence, the corporations are pushing the lawyers to the wall. They advertise, solicit and by their corporate influence and wealth monopolize the legal field.'"

It is also related that members of the Denver Bar association declare that of the 600 lawyers in that city fully a third are scarcely making a living from the practice of their profession.

It is easy to see where this is a very serious business to the lawyer. If the process of absorption of legal business by corporations is as described, lawyers are in a position to sympathize with the small business men who find themselves crowded to the wall by large, wealthy and irresistible corporations.

Of course the corporations that do a law business must have lawyers to do it for them, so that the difference would seem largely one of whether the lawyer subsists on fees or a salary from a corporation. Corporations can hardly practice law without lawyers to appear in court for them, so the trouble seems to be chiefly that the corporations are absorbing the profits from the practice of law. So far, whatever the corporations have coveted, they have gained; and unless the lawyers develop better fighting ability than other victims of corporate expansion, their protest is hopeless.

As to the number of lawyers not making a living, that is by no means entirely due to the encroachments of corporations. If there are too many lawyers for the available business, some are fated to slender practices. The schools, which ought to be making farmers and mechanics as well as professional men, are still pretty generally engaged in preparing all their pupils for professional careers. That avoidance of their greatest duty is resulting in an overcrowding of the professions, particularly that of law, which would create the conditions complained of even if there were no corporations bent on absorbing the law business.

THE TOBACCO CASE.

Differing much in form, the tobacco trust is like the oil trust in that it gained a substantial monopoly by unfair and oppressive methods. Therefore the supreme court holds it to be in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and sustains the holding of the lower court to that effect. The trust is given six months—which may be made eight at the option of the lower court—to square itself with the law.

The point of it, as it seems to us, is that the court has no wish to destroy an industry or to wreck a business organization for the sins of those who dominate it. If the case had approached the court in the proper manner, doubtless the court would have been glad to impose jail sentences on the individuals who, after all, are alone to blame.

The court, all except Justice Harlan, recognizes that it is impossible to make people compete who have no taste for competition; but it insists that those who wish to compete shall be given the opportuniy to do so, and that those who try to stifle competition by unfair means shall be punished. Enterprises which by merit and ingenuity absorb an industry do good, not harm. Individuals who use force and treachery and cunning to achieve monopoly are criminals, and should be punished as such.

Strict regulation of the large industries in the interests of the people, and personal criminal punishment of those who resort to the methods of the commercial thug, are the remedies. When the country settles down to these it will be getting somewhere.

A CHILDISH ARGUMENT.

In some of the Eastern states where the income tax amendment is still pending much use is being made of the argument against it that because it applies to incomes "from whatever source derived" it authorizes congress to levy an income tax that will include the income from state bonds.

That argument was furnished by Justice Hughes of the supreme court when he was governor of New York, and nothing in his career does him so little credit. While it is true that the amendment is broad enough to include state bonds, it is not true that even if congress applied it to state bonds the value of those securities would be affected, and it is utterly inconceivable anyway that congress would make it apply to such securities.

As to the argument that taxing state bonds would lessen the value of these securities, Prof. Seligman of Columbia university, perhaps the leading tax authority of the country, disposed of that in his testimony at a hearing before the judiciary committee of the New York assembly the other day. He said: "Under no conceivable circumstances could the imposition of an income tax affect the value of state and municipal bonds an iota. Why? Because wherever the investor turned he would be subjected to the same tax. If one of my students in an examination made the mistake, fell into the fallacy that Governor Hughes did in speaking about possible loss of value to state or municipal securities, I would flunk him without any hesitation whatever."

Debate about what the effect would be of an income tax law applying to state securities is purely academic and unnecessary anyway, because congress would not pass such a law. Though the amendment, as it was submitted, permits it, there wouldn't be a handful of votes in congress for an income tax measure including state and municipal securities.

Minnesota's legislature, at its recent session, passed a law exempting from taxation all public bonds issued in this state. No bond issued by the state, by a county, by a school district, by a township, by a village or by a city is now subject to taxation in this state. It is a very good law, too, because it will encourage the investment of home capital in public bonds, and thus will tend to keep the interest outlay at home.

Minnesota having taken this action, exempting local bonds from state or local taxes, would any senator or representative from Minnesota vote to impose a federal income tax on these bonds? Would the senators and representatives from any other state which still taxes its own public bonds, vote for a measure imposing upon them an additional tax in behalf of the Federal government? Of course not.

Justice Hughes, when he condemned the income tax amendment because it authorizes the taxation of state and local bonds, put forth a very unsound and very silly argument. Those who are using it in opposition to the ratification of the amendment are either very stupid or very hard up for arguments.

The fact is that the income tax, which is apportioned according to ability to pay, is the fairest kind of a tax yet devised outside of the pure land tax, and that those who oppose it are actuated by purely selfish motives. Either they have incomes of their own which they wish left untaxed, or they wish to keep the present system of tariff taxation under which the people are taxed according to their necessities and not according to their ability to pay taxes.

THOSE DECORATIONS.

Duluth decorated suitably for Memorial day, but the decorations needn't be thrown away when Memorial day is over. They should be placed where they can be reached easily, and put out again for June 1 and 2, when the Northern Minnesota Development association meets here, for June 14, which is Flag day, for July 4, which is Independence day, and for July 20, 21 and 22, when the water carnival will be held. If the weather dulls their splendor get some more.

THE LOST BATTLE

By SAVOYARD.

"Mother, may I go in to swim?"
"Yes, my darling daughter.
Hang your clothes on a hickory limb,
But don't go near the water."
—Champ Clark.

That is the way the Democratic house of representatives of the Sixty-second congress propose to deal with Schedule K, which is wool. At least that is the present program and it will be carried out unless public opinion shall interfere and avert the shame.

In 1910 President Taft was frank enough to say to the American people that wool was too powerful for the Republican party to contend against. At least that is the interpretation the country put upon his utterances denunciatory of Schedule K. Then up-spoke our old friend the Democratic party, in the role of Horatius at the gate, and declared its chief ambition to be opportunity to smash Schedule K or die in the attempt.

"Very well" said the country, and the Democratic party was selected for the job. The majority was sweeping and overwhelming because the G. O. P. had confessed that it could not make a tariff without a duty on wool. For half a century the Democratic party had been declaring that it was impossible to make an honest tariff if it contained a duty on wool. "Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off."

The extra session came early in April and had Schedule K been before the caucus that nominated the speaker, or the caucus that selected the committee on ways and means, a duty on raw wool would not have commanded the votes of ten per cent of the entire membership. The party went bravely on and jammed Canadian reciprocity through and then turned "piker" with the farmers' free list, which would have been all right had it not been so manifest that Bob Akers was in command and that the free list was an apology for reciprocity. Still it looked all right and nobody suspected that mischief was alert in behalf of Schedule K.

I want to make an apology and a promise. I'll never predict again. Long before the passage of the free list bill I was utterly astounded to read in an afternoon paper that it was proposed in the ways and means committee to put a duty on raw wool. I seized my hat and made tracks for the capitol, so anxious was I to have authoritative denial of it. I sent in for Oscar Underwood and asked about the surrender. In an instant I saw it was too true. He got to talking about revenue as an excuse for the blunder, and said that an expert had told him this, that and 'tother thing. Schedule K as it stands is the work of an expert, a fellow named North, and it was developed that the wool manufacturers paid him big money for it.

I discovered it was no use talking to Underwood and hunted up Champ Clark and raised the dickens with him. A Democratic successor of Morrison and Mills and William L. Wilson as chairman of ways and means was ready to levy a duty on wool, and now I found a Democratic successor of Carlisle and Crisp as speaker of the house was ready to adopt and embrace this cub of the very lion of protection. It made me sick physically as well as politically as this king of France with 20,000 men marched up the hill and then marched down again.

That night I got a little comfort. Of the fourteen Democrats on ways and means nine were with us and I looked anxiously for the bill to be brought in. Bless you, no. The tariff ring had just begun to fight. And how admirable it is in action—especially for Schedule K.

It mustered its forces like a very Napoleon and brought all its legions to the front. Lumber, steel, coal, mica, sugar—every tariff beggar of the lot was to the fore and they picked off two of our men and the committee stood seven to seven.

I have just been talking with one of the best informed men in congress and he tells me that they have a majority of the Democratic membership for a duty on wool. If that is so the battle is over and it is lost. As long as they can secure a duty on raw wool, protection is safe and triumphant. Put wool on the the free list and lay a duty strictly and entirely for revenue on woolens and the whole tariff wall will tremble and tumble. Aldrich says so, and that is why Schedule K was left in the Payne bill precisely as Dingley made it in 1897. When Mr. Underwood brings in his "reform" of Schedule K with a duty on raw wool Cannon and Dalzell will be the happiest men in congress. They will be the triumphant. They will be vindicated, for the Democratic party, as represented in congress, will have admitted that it is impossible to make a tariff with free wool, just what the Republicans have declared all the time.

Let me in one word show you what a sham is in that excuse about revenue. We imported in 1910 256,606,638 pounds of wool valued at $47,687,293, which paid a revenue of $21,128,728, or a little more than 44 per cent. That same year we imported 191,861,952 pounds of India rubber, gutta percha and substitutes therefor, valued at $106,861,475, and it paid not one cent of revenue. The same duty laid on it that wool bears would bring in $47,018,949 in revenue, more than double what would be lost if wool were free.

But then a duty on crude rubber might injuriously affect the millionaire who buys an automobile. It is Republican tariff human nature to keep that on the free list. But the duty on wool injuriously affects the poor widow who buys a blanket to protect her babe from the croup. Is it Democratic tariff human nature to continue that hardship upon the widow?

But every "interest" is as much interested in keeping rubber on the free list as it is in keeping wool in the taxed list. "And the villian still pursued her. To be continued in our next."

THE PRIVATE SOLDIER.

The histories of nations' crimes,
In ancient, and in modern times,
Give in plain prose, or polished rhymes
All honors for some battles won,
To men who shone on dress parade,
Of highest honors unafraid—
Not THEY would laurel garlands shun.

Fame, of its much sought windy hoards,
More than just due to some accords;
But Justice claims in earnest words
The men behind the guns should share

The glory, honor, and the fame,
Of some that gained a deathless name,
That would not had no privates came
With arms to strike, and souls to dare.

More times the fate of nations hung
On men unblazoned by Fame's tongue,
Or of whose deeds no minstrel sung;
Than chieftains far renowned;
For in the hell of battle fray,
That transformed men to mold'ring clay,
The private soldier cleared the way
On every battle ground.

Alas! How many are their dead—
Some lie where their friends may never tread—
In graves on which no tears are shed—
Unmarked by stone or mound.
Then drop upon the private's bier
The silent tribute of a tear—
Some reigning monarchs are less dear—
Less worthy to be crowned.

When wars were done, home was their care—
Life's joys would earn, its burdens bear—
Nor hero worship sought to share—
To serve had been their plan,
As lawyers, doctors, engineers,
On farms, in arts, their skill appears,
Their purpose strengthened with the years—
Each in his way to be a man.

If each that in a high place stands
Had as true heart and helping hands
As some in these brave soldier bands
Life's woes would be more rare;
But all were molded of God's clay,
And is it ours to judge or say
Who on that great memorial day
Should be most honored there.

'Tis not the deeds of daring done—
'Tis not the bloody battles won,
Or all the wealth beneath the sun—
Frees hours of death from fear;
"He who best loves his fellow man,
Loves God the holiest way he can,"
And helps to make a heaven here.

No Kitchen Fires to Kindle.

New York Press: A Georgia woman who moved to this city found she could not be contented without the negro mammy who had been her servant for many years. She sent for old mammy, and the servant arrived in due season. It so happened that the Georgia woman had to leave town the very day mammy arrived. Before departing, she had just time to explain to her the modern conveniences with which her apartment was furnished. The gas stove was the contrivance which interested the negro woman most. After the mistress of the household had lighted the oven, the broiler and the other burners, and felt certain her old servant understood its operation, the mistress hurried for her train.

She was absent two weeks, and one of her first questions to mammy was how she had worried along.

"De fines' ever," was the reply. "And dat air gas stove—oh, my. Why, do you know, Miss Florence, dat fire ain't gone out yit."

"So Share With Us Now."

New York Independent: Listen, brothers, for I claim your attention in behalf of your sister and mine!

In primitive forest we fought the wolves to protect your children, and when clans were born out of social chaos we founded industry in the open field and in the cave that was home. In the days of despots we sweated and suffered with you, and not less than you. We bore the taskmaster's lash on flesh made tender in your service.

In ages of intolerance and superstition we were persecuted, as you were, for truth's sake, sawn asunder, burned as witches, fed to the ravenous beasts, martyred in vile ways innumerable. Throughout all ages we have shared your poverty and your mischance, your doubt and your sorrow, your oft-thwarted passion for beauty, love, advancement, freedom and ideals.

We have borne you and suckled you, rocked you in cradles, carried you from place to place, on our backs and in our arms, nursed you in sickness, fostered you in health, inspired you in battle and comforted you in death. There has been no darkness through which we have not gone with you hand in hand.

But now you are coming into your own proud heritage, my brothers, and a new morning dawns, gladdened by freedom and opportunity. Have we no share in the morning?

By our blood and by our tears freely spent for you, by our labor and our births, by our love inexpressible, we claim fullest human rights in this your morning of freedom. Listen, brothers, for I speak for all your sisters, for the weak as well as the strong, for those who understand and for those who do not understand, and I say—

Give us a share in your democracy, that we may show you ours!

No Offense Will Be Taken.

Chicago Tribune: It has been decided finally that a scene portraying the battle of Chateaugay is to be part of the Canadian pageant in the festival of the empire which is to be one of the features of the coronation. There was thought at one time of cutting it out, from fear that it might wound the feelings of sensitive Americans, because the engagement was one in which the Americans, or, rather, the general who commanded them, cut an inglorious figure, while the Canadians and their general acquitted themselves most creditably.

Few Americans ever have heard of the battle. It was one of the minor events of the war of 1812 ignored in the school histories. Gen. Wade Hampton, the grandfather of the Wade Hampton who was confederate general and United States senator, marched into Canada with 4,000 men. His objective point was Montreal. He had not gone far before he met a strongly intrenched force of 1,000 Canadian militia commanded by Gen. De Salaberry, who was a member of an old French-Canadian family. He was a resourceful, cool headed soldier, which Hampton was not. After a little fighting, in which about fifteen Americans and five Canadians were killed, Gen. Hampton got frightened, overestimated the number of the enemy, and abandoned his forward movement.

The Canadians exaggerate when they say that the skirmish on the Chateaugay river saved Canada to the empire. They have a right to be proud of it, however, because it was so exclusively their own affair—no British regulars there to share the glory—that it has a rightful place in the Canadian pageant. No American would ask to have it left out.

Indeed, the Americans who view it in addition to laughing at the quaint uniforms of the period may draw some useful lessons from it. It may teach them that inferiority, in numbers can be more than counterbalanced by superiority in generalship. The fact that Hampton was twenty-four years older than De Salaberry had much to do with his failure. It is because age is so often a fatal handicap in war that it has become the policy of the government to push ahead the more capable army and navy officers, so that armies and fleets may be commanded by men who combine experience and the full vigor of manhood.

Heart of a Hundred Sorrows.

O Heart of a hundred sorrows,
Whose pity is great therefore,
The gifts that Thy children bring Thee
Is ever a sorrow more.

Sure of Thy dear compassion,
Concerned for our own relief,
Ever and ever we seek Thee,
And each with his gift or grief.

Oh, not to reprove my brothers,
Yet I, who am less than less,
Would bring Thee my joy of being,
The rose of my happiness.

The spirit that makes my singing,
The gladness without alloy,
O Heart of a hundred sorrows
I bring Thee a little joy.

Proving the Varnish.

Business and the Book-Keeper: A big varnish salesman, who had sent many sample gallons of his house's product to a large carriage manufacturer, whose varnish bills amounted to about $15,000 annually, only to be told that it would not do the work, walked into the general manager's office one day and asked him to sell him a buggy. He was told that while they ordinarily sold through dealers only, they would make an exception to the rule in his case. He had the buggy sent to a garage in the neighborhood, and, after having sandpapered down to the wood, had it repainted and varnished with the varnish he was trying to sell. He then drove over to the carriage factory, and inviting the president and manager out into the street, said:

"Gentlemen, here is a buggy I bought from you recently for $120. I have had it repainted and finished with the varnish I am selling. If you can produce its equal out of your stock I will give you back the buggy for a present and buy you a good dinner for your trouble. I will let your judgment in the matter be final."

The varnish account was turned over to the salesman who wasn't afraid to spend some money and time, in the right way, to get business.

•••S. L. Smith, an old Detroiter, who has large mineral investments in Michigan and Wisconsin and is well known along the lakes, was at the Spalding today. "Canada is as good as half a dozen states," he said, "and we ought to get our eyes open to the advantage of commercial union. If Wisconsin was cut off from you for all trade purposes, Duluth would understand Detroit's position relative to Canada. We had a very fair reciprocity arrangement up till 1866, when our government shut it off. Canada is quite anxious to renew trade relations with us on some equitable basis, and we must bring our own government around to do something in the matter."

THE WHITTIER CASE.

Three-Quarters, at Least.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: The assaults on Supt. Whittier have been three-quarters political, based on the desire of the New Thought Republican ring to get action on the board of control. Their failure in the legislature stimulated the desire, and the next move was to assail the board for not removing the Red Wing Superintendent.

A Political Game.

Thief River Falls News: That the Red Wing training school affair and the demand for the removal of Supt. Whittier is a political game, conducted by a number of down-and-out politicians, becomes more evident every day. The fact that Mr. Whittier has the best interests of the boys under him at heart was shown when he refused to call the hundred or more boys who are now occupying positions of trust and responsibility, and who have served their "time" at this institution under his supervision, and owe to him what they are today, because he would not make public their past to save himself.

The Meat in the Cocoanut.

Long Prairie Leader: The suspicion is prevalent that there is a good deal of politics in the whole matter, and the belief is growing that there is not so much concern over conditions at Red Wing as there is anxiety to take care of a few patriots who have been slated for jobs.

A Very Poor Joke.

Deer River News: The governor's tender heart was by an act of law saved the pang of naming the date of a criminal's execution, but he has concluded he really must discharge the superintendent at Red Wing. We suggest this to replace an old joke or two on his excellency's list.

What Johnson Would Do.

Chisholm Tribune-Herald: "What would John A. Johnson do if he was governor?" is the question some of the state newspapers are asking in connection with the Red Wing matter. We can tell you what he would do, and we can tell some of you what Knute Nelson would do, and what John Lind would do, and what the old lumberjack governor, Dave Clough, would do. If some discredited political barnacle like Andy Stephens attempted to get action on either of them in the same manner in which he has hounded Governor Eberhart to pull his chestnuts out of the fire, either of them would have booted him from the executive offces to Rice street. Remember, this is the same Andy Stephens who asked the senate to seat him after the voters of Polk county had repudiated him by a majority of more than 500 votes. Fine man to tell the governor how state institutions should be run!

His Own, or Ed Smith's?

Albert Lea Tribune: Commending the members of the supreme court in declining to have anything to do with the training school muddle, the St. Paul Dispatch says that the question should never have been submitted to them. Sure it should not, and would not if the governor had not sidestepped to get out from under a matter he stepped into of his own accord.

It Will Not Succeed.

Sauk Center Herald: It remains to be seen whether the political plot to oust Ringdahl and Vasaly from the board of control will succeed. The boss of the Republican party wants it done, and his willing tool, who sits in the big marble pile in St. Paul, is more than willing to try to carry out his orders. Wait and see what happens.

Intolerable.

Collier's: We are about to state a fact. Many readers may mistake it for a joke. If, however, they will look upon page 686 of the Congressional Record, they will realize that preposterous as it is, it is literally true. A certain senator has been put on the following committees, among others:

Agriculture and forestry, conservation and natural resources, mines and mining, public lands.

You ask who that senator is? It is Senator Simon Guggenheim of Colorado.

8 Cents.

According to the tariff board's report on the pulp and news-print paper industry, the labor cost of making a ton of paper is $3.27 in the United States and $3.19 in Canada.

The difference of 8 cents a ton is an accurate measure of the Canadian "pauper-labor" menace that reciprocity offers to American workmen. This is the 8 cents that makes the patriotic heart of Uncle Joe Cannon bleed for his about-to-be-devastated country. How can the free-born American compete with the wretched Canadian who is capable of making a ton of paper for 8 cents less in wages?

Made Pure Kept Pure It's the Brown Bottle

Cleanliness is a science where Schlitz is brewed. We filter even the air where the beer is cooled. Then we filter the beer. Then we sterilize every bottle.

We go to Bohemia for hops. Our barley is selected by a partner in our business.

The water is brought from rock 1,400 feet underground. Our yeast is produced forever from the same mother cell.

Schlitz beer is sent to you in Brown Bottles, protecting its purity from the brewery to your glass. Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives protection against light.

If you knew what we know about beer, you would say, "Schlitz—Schlitz in Brown Bottles."

UNITED WIRELESS MEN CONVICTED

Wilson Is Shown to Have Got $1,500,000 Out of Stock Sales.

New York, May 30. — Christopher Columbus Wilson, president of the United Wireless Telegraph company, and four of his associates were convicted in the criminal branch of the United States circuit court yesterday of fraudulently using the mails to solicit subscriptions to wireless stock. Judge Martin immediately imposed sentence as follows:

President Wilson, three years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

George H. Parker and F. E. Butler, two years each in the same penitentiary.

W. A. Dibell and W. W. Tompkins, one year each in some New York penitentiary.

Following a senational charge by District Attorney Wise that one of the jurors had been approached Sunday night in the interests of the defendants with the offer of a bribe, "even if it ran into five figures," and his characterization of the convicted men as "desperate prisoners who would flee the jurisdiction of the court if admitted to bail," Judge Martin committed the five men to the Tombs under a ten days stay to allow an appeal to the circuit court of appeals if they desired.

Wilson Got $1,500,000.

In summing up, the district attorney declared that it had been shown "Wilson netted $900,000 from the sale of 76,000 shares of the stock, but in all $1,500,000 went into his own pocket."

Subtracting also the profit which his associates were accused of pocketing, only $700,000 out of the $4,000,000 receipts of the United Wireless company in three years went into the treasury of the company.

Each of the defendants was convicted of four counts, three in each case charged misuse of the mails and the fourth conspiracy. The maximum sentence might have been six and one-half years in prison and fines of $25,000 each.

Free Rheumatism Cure

A Home Cure Will Be Given FREE By One Who Had It.

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism, I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bed ridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I will send a free trial of this precious remedy by mail, postpaid to any sufferer who writes for it. Just fill out the coupon below and mail it to me today.

TO TAKE DEPOSITIONS.

Attorney General Going to Washington After Evidence.

St. Paul, May 30.—Attorney General George T. Simpson and A. L. Janes, assistant, will leave Friday for Spokane and Everett, Wash., to take depositions in a timber case in which the state is interested, involving approximately $30,000. In April, 1910, the state instituted suit against the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber company, alleging that the company cut 8,000,000 feet of lumber from state school land on a contract which called for 5,027,000. Since the case was instituted, witnesses have moved away, and have refused to return to testify. One of the most important is in Louisiana and three others are in Washington.

William O'Brien of Stillwater, who figured somewhat prominently in the Lorimer investigation and F. W. Bonness, were sureties for the lumber company under fire.

MINNESOTA INDIANS WIN $1,000,000 CLAIM.

Washington, May 30.—The Mille Lac band of Chippewa Indians of Minnesota were yesterday awarded a verdict against the government for nearly $1,000,000 by the court of claims, for timber land which they claimed was wrongfully taken from them and thrown open to settlers. The government will appeal to the supreme court.

COFFIN LEAVES DULUTH Y. M. C. A.

R. C. Coffin, educational director of the Duluth Y. M. C. A., for several years, left last evening for St. Paul, where he will take up the duties of assistant state secretary to E. W. Peck.

After a conference with the Mr. Peck, he will go to his home in Pleasant Plain, Iowa, for a month's vacation, during which time he will attend a session of the American Indians interested in association work, which will be held at Niobrara, Neb., on June 15. A successor to Mr. Coffin will be appointed after the return of Secretary Phil Revis, who is now in California assisting in the raising of a big building fund. During the past week Mr. Coffin has been the guest of honor at several functions.

BOOKS MAY BE HELD UNTIL THE TRIAL.

Washington, May 30.—Settling a century's mooted question, the supreme court of the United States held that the federal statute requiring the production of books for examination "in a trial" means production "on" or "at" and not "before" trial.

The point was raised in the case of David J. Winn, a cotton yarn manufacturer of Sumter, S. C., suing Carpenter, Baggott & Co. of New York for damages for the selling without his consent of contracts for the purchase of cotton in 1896. The brokers were ordered to exhibit their books before trial, and upon their refusal to comply, judgment for $2,340 was entered against the firm in default. Justice Lurton announced the opinion.

LUMBERMEN ARE WATCHED

Special Federal Grand Jury to Investigate in the West.

Attorney General Wickersham Behind Action in Chicago.

Chicago, May 30.—A special federal grand jury under the direction of United States District Judge K. M. Landis will investigate the lumber business in the West to see if violations of the Sherman anti-trust law exist or have existed. It will begin work June 5.

Although the office of United States District Attorney Edwin W. Sims is silent, there is no disposition on the part of other officials here to deny that the move is being directed from Washington and from Attorney General Wickersham's office, in the same manner as the contemporary suits in the East. The petition for a special grand jury was presented to Judge Landis by Assistant United States District Attorney Elwood Goodman, but there was present at the time a special assistant of Attorney General Wickersham, Clark McKercher. Mr. McKercher has been in Chicago for more than a week, but he has sought to keep his presence a secret.

Landis Balks Secrecy.

An attempt was made also to have the call for a special grand jury and its subsequent work kept a secret until indictments were returned, but this was balked by Judge Landis' insistence upon having the entry of the order made in open court.

Mr. McKercher, like Mr. Sims, refused to discuss the action in any way, nor would he admit it was a part of the government's campaign begun in New York against the lumber industry. It became known, however, that more than fifty witnesses will be subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury.

Investigators' research, it is understood, has been along the line of clashes between the retailers' association and the manufacturers and wholesalers, who have sold direct to users. A bureau of information of certain officers of lumber associations, a credit agency, and a lumbermen's association are said to have been named in the reports to the government agents.

No indication as to whether the inquiry here aimed at the National Association of Manufacturers, of which Edward Hines, named in the Lorimer election investigation, was president, could be obtained, but on the other hand no one could say it was not to be scrutinized.

In addition, it was stated definitely that the secrecy which has surrounded previous government investigations will be doubled in this one.

STEEL PRICES READJUSTED

Corporation Issues a New Schedule to Be Effective on June 1.

New York, May 30.—The United States Steel corporation has decided to make a readjustment of prices. The action is in reply to the bombshell thrown into the steel market last Wednesday by the Republic Iron & Steel company, in announcing a cut in steel bars.

Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, gave out a statement last night announcing a readjustment of prices of certain commodities, effective June 1, next. The new scale was decided on at a meeting by representatives of subsidiary companies yesterday afternoon. The commodities affected and the new prices are:

Steel bars (15 cents per 100 pounds off) $1.25 base.

Plates and structural (5 cents per 100 pounds off) $1.35 base.

Black sheets (20 cents per 100 pounds off) 2 cents per pound for No. 28 gauge.

Galvanized sheets (20 cents per 100 pounds off), 3 cents per pound, 28 gauge.

Blue annealed sheets (10 cents per 100 pounds off) $1.50 per 100 pounds for No. 10 gauge.

Steel billets, four inches square and larger $21 per gross ton. Sheet bars, $22 per gross ton.

All prices f. o. b. cars at Pittsburg, effective June 1, 1911, for shipment prior to Oct. 1, 1911.

The Republic Iron & Steel company was not represented at the meeting.

MAY PUT CLAPP ON COMMITTEE

New Plan for Lorimer Investigation Evolved in the Senate.

Washington, May 30.—A virtual agreement to refer the Lorimer case to the senate committee on privileges and elections, with the understanding that the committee shall entrust the investigation to a bi-partisan and "bi-Lorimer" sub-committee of eight, has been effected in the senate. The agreement was the result of a conference of Democratic senators at which the previous decision to support the Martin resolution was rescinded and all Democratic senators released from all caucus obligations.

The bi-partisan idea was suggested by Senator Stone, and while no vote was taken, it was generally accepted as a satisfactory compromise.

When, after the conference, Senator Martin presented the scheme to Senator Dillingham, chairman of the elections committee, the latter refused formal acceptance of it, but there is no doubt that he will acquiesce in it. He said in the senate that if directed to make an inquiry his committee would be compelled to act through a subcommittee whose report would be submitted to the senate.

Meets Democratic Demand.

In general terms this proposition meets the demands of the Democrats. Their suggestion is for the selection of a sub-committee to be composed of two Republican members who voted for Lorimer in the last senate and two who did not; and of two Democrats who voted for him and two who did not, with the understanding that in case of a tie vote on the admission of testimony, it will be admitted.

The caucus release of Democrats from the obligation to vote for the Martin resolution will augment the strength favorable to the La Follette provision by about a dozen Democratic votes. It is understood the sub-committee on investigation will consist of Senators Dillingham and Gamble, Republicans, and Fletcher and Johnstone, Democrats, pro-Lorimer, and of Senators Clapp and Kenyon, Republican, and Kern and Lea, Democrats, anti-Lorimer.

The final disposition of this matter by the senate was postponed until the next meeting on Thursday.

RAIN IS NO EXCUSE FOR UMBRELLA THEFT.

Chicago, May 30.—After all, a man's right to steal an umbrella when it is raining has not been established in the courts. Municipal Judge Heap makes it known that he did not rule in favor of the man without the rain protector, as previously reported. Instead, he only smiled reminiscently at a statement of the prosecutor in the case of a man appearing for trial on the charge of stealing an umbrella. The prosecutor, sighing, said:

"It seems to be considered a sort of legal matter to steal an umbrella nowa days," to which the judge, also sighing, said:

"It does seem so."

But the defendant was fined and the act is still without legal justification.

SAFE TO CALL DRUG A "CURE"

Supreme Court Passes on Labels Under the Federal Law.

Washington, May 30.—Medicine which is nothing but sweetened water or pills composed of colored mud, may be labelled "cures" and sold as such with impunity under the national pure food and drugs act, according to a decision rendered by the United States supreme court in the case of Dr. O. A. Johnson of Kansas City, Mo. Provided there is no mis-statement on the bottle or package as to its contents, the manufacturer is free to sell his goods.

Justice Holmes announced the majority opinion, Justice Hughes delivering a dissenting opinion in which Justices Harlan and Day concurred. The court acknowledged that in a certain sense the statement on the label was false or at least "misleading," but it held that the language of the pure food law is such that the statement contained therein as to the meaning of mis-branding "is aimed not at all possible false statements, but only at such as determine the identity of the article, possibly including its strength, quality and purity."

If a label were to state that the contents of a bottle was water when as a matter of fact it was other than water, it would come under the misbranding clause in the meaning of the law, according to this opinion. But the opinion adds that if the statement on the box or bottle of medicine is "shown to be false only on its commendatory and prophetic aspect" when the contents were "undescribed and unknown." it did not come within the act.

CHAMPIONS ARE BEATEN

Duluth Easily Wins Opening Game By Score of 7 to 1.

Woodburn Holds Eau Claire Helpless—Meneice Still Clouting.

(BY BRUCE.)

They have came, in the classic words of the street, and have been conquered The Eau Claire champions were defeated by the score of 7 to 1 in the initial game and so easily was the trick turned that we are looking for more games in the present series.

Chester Randolph Woodburn was on the hurling hill for the home talent, and that very fact saves half a column of explanation leading up to the easy win. The Woodburn boy had the usual stuff, which includes some most beauti-ful curves, and until he let down in the ninth but three hits had been gathered off his offerings.

Until the solitary score of the enemy came in the witching ninth, but two Buttermakers had reached third and two second. In four innings they went down in order, and it might be added that the tall boy had them at his mercy.

After the near-disastrous experience of the Sunday game, it was deemed expedient to shift Miller to second and send Mike Kramer of no-hit fame, to the outer works. Consequently Mike gamboled in deep center, where he distinguished himself by pulling down a hard-hit fly that was wafted nearly to the fence. Doc Miller, student of herbs and author of "The Herb Diet as an Aid to Batters," performed at second and came through with but one error.

Bright features of the matinee were the beaning of the ball by Messrs. Menelce and Benrud. Large Sam had two on in the first and two were dead, when he stepped into one and smote it viciously over the left field paling. The hit was productive of a score and much sunshine.

In the second with no hands down, Benrud, sometimes called the best catcher in the league, and at other times called other things, hit one to deep center for three bags' worth. The next man went out and the next two struck out. Some playing, Clarice!

Tom Daly, whom Richard Schell calls one of the greatest baseball players that ever lived, and played behind the bat, is up on a little "tower." He is scouting for the Cleveland Naps. Heavens knows they need scouts. He was looking over the players, and took time between looks to say that Joe Jackson was the greatest natural ball player he had ever seen.

It was a sunshiny afternoon, and all that, but now for the game.

In the first after two had been led to execution Sam smote the aforesaid homer and our first run was in. That was only the starter.

In the merry fourth Mister Menelce hit a steaming one where Thomas Heine Schoonhoven was not. Johnson whiffed. Holstrom hit a dinky one and they tried to head Sam off from third, his destination, and failed. Gregory uncorked a wild pitch and our second run was over.

In the sixth Menelce angered himself by fouling out to Moore. He wanted one more hit, but Moore made it impossible for him to get more. Johnson singled through the unguarded territory around second and went to second when Holstrom's hit down the third base line took a bad bound for Moore. Altermott singled cleanly past third and Johnson was over. Holstrom went to third when Chappelle let the ball get away from him. He scored on Miller's fielder's choice. Leber beat out a dinky one to Thomas Schoonhoven in the seventh. The manager played the ball slow and Leber went fast. Little Eva swiped second and went to third on Kramer's infield out. He scored when Sam hoisted one to center field.

In the eighth Benrud, who went to right field when Snow went behind the bat, dropped Holstrom's sky brusher. Chesty going to second on the miscue. He scored when Col. Theodore Roosevelt Altermott busted one to deep left for two bags full. After Miller was down the Colonel scored when little, cute little, Danny Kick let Hargrove's offering scamper between his little footsies. Woodburn singled but the next two runners went down.

In the ninth the enemy gathered three hits off Woodburn, that gent letting down in his exertion. Benrud hit and went clear to third when Michael Angelo Kramer let the ball scamper on fenceward. Moore flew to left and Benny ran home, like a wise little boy. Snow and Callahan hit, but Schoonhoven whiffed for the third consecutive time and Gregory ended the game by going out from Leber to Meneice.

Superior found Baker at opportune times. Lippold clouted a home run and the other hits of the Red Legs came when they did the most good.

ART GODFREY TO MEET KID CURRY

Another Meeting Between Brown and Garry Is Also Carded.

Two fights are due to be pulled off in the vicinity of this city. Tommy Garry and Pal Brown are due to hook up in a return battle, the bout being scheduled for fifteen rounds. The second battle is scheduled between Art Pape, Collins and Kleinow. Umpires—Perrine and Sheridan.

Godfrey and Curry are due to hook up tomorrow evening.

Godfrey has won all of his fights in this part of the country to date, and those in the know are backing Godfrey to beat the boy Boss McNulty of St. Paul is bringing.

McNulty is the same impressario who imported Kid Carsey, who made a rather sorry showing against Pal Brown.

Godfrey is a hard hitter, a fairly clever boxer and can take a mauling and not even falter. Burrell Smith, it is understood, will challenge the winner.

A FEW OF THE FAITHFUL DOWN IN FRONT.

SOME SIDE TALKS

Yesterday Thomas Heine Schoonhoven, one of the most gentlemanly fellows in this little league, stated that large Jawn Kading will be back in the Eau Claire fold in a few days. De Haven, the fast second baseman will also join the team as soon as college closes, so that after all Thomas will have about the same team that galloped away with the pennant last season.

"Jawn was too slow for Pittsburg," said Tommy. "He was hitting out on the coast, but for some reason they wired to Pittsburg that he could be recalled, and here was my chance to get him. He will strengthen the team, and so will De Haven, one of the best infielders in the league.

"Winona is strong but they can be beaten. You fellows can beat them, if you play the right kind of ball. On the whole I think the league is faster than last season. The teams we have played so far are going awfully fast. With the Minny league moved up a class in baseball standing, it does seem as if the boys are playing faster ball.

"It is kind of funny, at that; the league has been advanced from class D to class C, and yet the salaries have been cut in reality. But with the cutting down of expenses in the league, the fans around the circuit are seeing some fast baseball at the present time.

"When my pitchers get to going right I expect to be right in the hunt. It can't figure where my team is any weaker than last season. Bailey is out of the game at the present time and Morrow is sick. Bailey is hitting great, or was, and will strengthen the team on his return. Chappelle is a swell ball player. I will be up at the top; don't worry about that."

Old Tom Daly, old in point of baseball service, though not old in years, was an interested spectator of yesterday's contest.

Thomas is scouting for the Cleveland team and is covering a wide stretch of territory. Jim Maguire is also scouting for the Cleveland team, and it is a peculiar coincidence that both men were catchers, and both among the greatest that ever lived.

"Cleveland has a number of young pitchers," remarked Tom, "who will get better as the season advances; or at least should get better. At the present time Lajoie is out of the game with a bad strain and will be unable to play until he gets entirely over it, as the doctors have warned him that any recurrence might end his baseball playing days.

"They are all hitting the ball in the big show. Lajoie was going fine and there is no reason that I know why he should not have another great year. He is a wonderful pall player; one of the greatest we have ever had.

"Joe Jackson is a wonderful youngster. I don't remember of seeing a kid who has more natural stuff than the southerner. He will develop and should become the very greatest in the world. He is one of the greatest at the present time."

PERSON BACK IN DULUTH

Wrestler Returns From Long Tour Through California and Mexico.

Weighing a trifle over 200 pounds and looking in the best shape he has been in for years, Chris Person hit Duluth today, coming in from the sunny clime of California, the dusty sand deserts of Arizona, and the cactus country of Idaho.

The big fellow wrestled Gotch in San Bernandino, Cal., and had several matches throughout the West. The climate seemed to agree with him, for he is looking the picture of health.

While down in Mexicola, in Lower California, Chris slipped over the line and saw some of the fighting between the Mexican Insurrectos and the federals. He said that the Americans fighting with the rebels did the most effective fighting, and attributes many of the victories achieved by the rebels to the fact that there were American adventurers in the ranks of the latter.

Person was with Gotch for several days and says the big fellow is confident of beating Hackenschmidt in the coming match, though realizing that he will have the fight of his life.

Out in California Chris says that some of the fans never even heard of Gotch, so little have they had to do with the wrestling game. Chris was making arrangements for one of the Gotch matches and was telling an old showman of Gotch.

"Is he an acrobat or has he a specialty act?" Chris was asked. The Los Angeles people went wild over Gotch, according to the story of Person.

C., was called off upon orders of Governor Francis McGovern in a message to Sheriff Andrew F. Stahl. Sheriff Stahl is out of the city, but his chief deputy, N. F. Fonk, ordered the doors of the athletic club closed.

MATCH FOR POLO TROPHY

Greatest Contest World Has Ever Seen, Scheduled For This Week.

Four Continents Interested in Outcome of International Match.

New York, May 30.—With only one day intervening before a quartet of British cavalry officers will ride onto the Meadowbrook Hunt club's polo grounds at Hempstead Plains, Long Island, to meet the American holders of the international polo trophy, the months of preparation for the greatest polo match the world has ever seen are practically complete.

The superlative is warranted, for not since the game began in Persia, 2,000 years ago, have as many dollars and people backed a contest of this sort.

Notwithstanding that there has been some criticism of the prodigal expense to which the American players have gone to provide the cream of polo ponies from the world over, even the English players are backed by a popular subscription fund of $50,000 in addition to what heavy expenses the individual players assume in coming here to try to take away the cup.

From all reports, interest in the match extends to four continents—to England, and all her colonies in every part of the world, but especially to India, where most of the challenging players have been famous in interregimental games and to the Western states of America and even South America if for no other reason than that the ponies are raised in those sections. The players admit that the ponies play more than half the game.

The Americans, including the Waterburys, Harry Payne Whitney and Devereaux Milburn, are idols to followers of the game. The British team will probably be made up of Capt. Leslie Cheape, Lieut. Edwards, Capt. Hardress Lloyd and Captain Wilson.

BLANCKE IN GOOD CONDITION

Will Report to the Sox in the Near Future.

Today Darby O'Brien received a letter from Clay Blancke, who pitched here last season, in which he stated that he had recovered from the severe case of tetanus, which threatened to put him out of the game and that he believed the present season would be one of the best he has ever had.

O'Brien will send the lanky one transportation, and it is expected that he will be here shortly after the first of the month. Fans who remember the work of Blancke when his arm was in such condition that it caused him torturing pain to throw the ball to the plate, have since that time believed that if his arm came back into condition, he would make a very effective twirler.

In the letter received toady Blancke states that his arm has recovered and that he is anxious to face the batters of the Minny league.

AMERICAN ATHLETES INVITED TO DRESDEN.

Cambridge, Mass., May 30.—An invitation for Harvard athletes to compete at a hygienic fair to be held at Dresden, Germany, has been received by Manager R. C. Floyd of the Harvard track team. Yale also has been invited to participate in the competition. The fair will be held soon after the international games at London. The Harvard management will forward the invitations to the Yale Athletic authorities. Owing to the expense attached to the trip, it is considered improbable that the invitation will be accepted by Harvard.

SQUABBLE OVER COIN MARS BOXING BOUTS.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—In the boxing bouts at the American association baseball park last night, Young Sayler of Indianapolis and Matty Baldwin of Boston went ten rounds to a draw.

Jimmy Clabby of Milwaukee and Paddy Lavin of Buffalo fought one round, when the referee stopped the match on account of the poor showing of both men, who were dissatisfied on account of the financial arrangement made with the management. More money was wanted by the boxers, neither fight being pulled off until a late hour.

NO DECISION YET ON PROTESTED GAME.

This morning Darby O'Brien received a letter from Frank E. Force, president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, in which the executive stated that he had not come to an official decision as yet on the game that was declared forfeited at Winona. It is expected that the official decision will be made some time the present week. O'Brien sent in a formal protest of the decision made at Winona, and Force has promised to take this protest under advisement in coming to his decision.

THEIR VALOR WELL LAUDED

W. E. McEwen Pays Eloquent Tribute to Defenders of Union.

Duluthian Speaks at Two Harbors Memorial Day Exercises.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former State Commissioner W. E. McEwen of Duluth was the principal speaker at the Memorial day exercises here today, paying eloquent tribue to the soldier dead and incidentally touching upon some of the dangers today confronting the nation.

Mr. McEwen said in part:

It is fifty years since Beauregard fired his first gun from the confederate battery at Cummings Point on Fort Sumter. That shot was heard through all the North. Honest men had differed in opinion over the method that should be adopted by the United States in settling the question of chattel slavery, but when Old Glory was fired upon at Fort Sumter personal differences ceased, political contentions were cast to the four winds of the heavens, and all patriots circled about the national flag staff over which waved the Stars and Stripes, and each pledged his life, his fortune, his all that its integrity might be maintained, and the Union preserved.

Today we meet in the northern most portion of this great union of states to pay our tributes of respect, and acknowledge with becoming reverence a people's gratitude to that great army of men whose patriotism, valor and personal sacrifice preserved the solidity of the nation, and insured the perpetuity of our free institutions.

Honor Boys of '61.

All glory to the boys of '61. Their ranks are thin now. Time, with its unremitting progress, is gradually but surely beckoning them one by one across the river of life. Their worldly work is finished. Behind them has been left a record of unequaled valor and intrepidity upon the field of battle unsurpassed in the history of the world's warfare.

When the thunders of battle had ceased and peace was restored, and a shattered nation stood sorely in need of men to rebuild what the vicissitudes of war had destroyed the loyalty and fidelity they had displayed in the discharges of civic duties was no less marked than their gallantry as soldiers.

Lincoln was the one man ordained of God to direct the crowning struggle of humanity to banish forever from the face of the earth the last vestige of that form of human slavery that gave one man a property claim over another.

It is but just to say of the men who went to the front in that mighty struggle that no age has produced men who were better fitted in character, vigor, determination, courage and patriotism for such a task than were they. "For this cause came they into the world, and to that end were they born."

Both Sides Heroic.

Now that the war is sufficiently distant it can be proudly declared that heroism was not confined to one side alone. In every battle the valor of the beseiger was no less distinguished than the spirited resistance of the defender. And while the terms of the surrender at Appomattox accorded victory to the North, and insured the permanent solidity of the union of states, it has since developed to have been most fortunate for the South. The leading statesmen of the South are as frank today in admitting this fact as are the men of the North in asserting it.

We are all under one flag now; the men of the North and the men of the South wear the same uniform, and all keep step to the same martial music, caring not whether the strains of Dixie or the enlivening notes of "Yankee Doodle" be the inspiration for their patriotism and love of their united country. The late Spanish-American war abundantly evidenced this when the boys of the South and the boys of the North marched shoulder to shoulder in defense of our nation's honor.

But why consider our duty completed by merely singing the praises of those whose heroism and valor were brought to a crucial test on the field of battle? They fought their fight—the principles they struggled for are ascered trusts committed to our charge, and by us to be handed down to our children untarnished and undefiled.

What the Nation Needs.

What the nation needs today is not a new system of ethics. It is simply a larger number of people who will make a steady effort to live up to the system we already have. There is plenty of room for heroism in the plainest kind of duty. The greatest of all wars has been going on for centuries. It is the ceaseless, glorious conflict, against injustico in every form. Every warrior who will enter that age-long battle may find a place in this army, and win his spurs and achieve honor and glory, if he will but do his best to make life purer, happier and brighter for others. Therein lies our responsibility.

There is a nobler ambition than merely to stand high in the world. It is to stoop down and lift mankind a little higher. There is a nobler character than that which is merely incorruptible. It is the character which acts as an antidote and preventive of corruption. Fearlessly to speak the words which bear witness to justice and truth; patiently to do the deeds which kindle and strengthen hope in our fellowmen; generously to lend a hand to the toiling masses to climb upward; faithfully to give our support and our personal help to the efforts of those who are endeavoring to elevate and purify the social life of the world—that is what it means to make our contribution to society. The men that have been happiest, and the men that are best remembered are the men that have done this.

Enemies of Republic.

Discussing the problems of today more concretely, it is a fact that the enemies of the republic are as evident in destroying the principles for which government stands as they were during the darkest days of the Civil war. They do not march boldly forth in military array, with banners waving and bayonets gleaming in the sunlight. They are found in the halls of legislation seeking to debauch the servants of the people. They lurk in the dark to buy a Lorimer into the United States senate. By other sharp and improper practices they use their silver and their gold to pollute the electorate and corrupt the weak and the vacillating.

They seek to appropriate to themselves the wealth of the nation by grasping its natural resources through connivance with those they put into power with their ill-gotten gains. They corner markets, drive competitors from the field of business and multiply monopolies. They then compel the people to pay the price of their plundering, to gild their palaces of luxury and licentiousness, and to increase their power and prestige for further extortions by levying monopoly tribute on the necessities of life.

They grind the faces of the poor by compelling the working classes, "whom God loved so well because he made so many of them," to toil for less than a living wage. Their greed and avarice reach into the home and the schoolroom, and childhood is robbed of its playtime, that its life blood may be coined into dollars. Manhood is depressed, womanhood debilitated and childhood destroyed to gratify their inordinate desire for gain. This mad spirit of commercialism is gradually but insiduously undermining the very foundation of our liberties.

Chattel Slavery Settled.

The men whose services to the nation we are honoring today settled forever the question of chattel slavery with all its attendant evils. Immediately after the close of the war a new era dawned upon the republic. This brought forth new problems, and another species of serfdom began to manifest itself, until it assumed such proportions that the master problem which confronts the present generation is the issue of real democracy in government and equality of opportunity in industry and trade.

It was for the boys in blue to settle finally the question of political liberty for all men in the United States. It is for the men of today to meet the task and solve the problem of industrial freedom.

This is our duty. God grant that it may be discharged in peace. May the sacrifices made by those who released the fetters of serfdom from the limbs of the black slave inspire us to play our part worthily, for with their patriotism and their steadfastness, we, like them, shall win the victory.

There is every reason to be hopeful. While at the top a privileged class is strangling justice and robbing the people, underneath there is growing and rapidly developing a general demand for a higher standard of morals in politics and in business. The pen of the age is on the side of humanity. Only hired scribblers are on the other side. Progressive men and women today are unpurchaseable, and whose souls are free, are standing with their faces towards the morning singing new songs of liberty.

These higher ideals will in time shape destiny and crystallize into new institutions. They will give to the world a new era. A new morning will dawn, radiant with the splendors of freedom, and the children of toil will come into their inheritance.

GIVING OUT

The Struggle Discourages Many a Citizen of Duluth.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."
Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.
They will cure the backache;
Cure every kidney ill.

Here is Duluth proof that this is so:

J. H. Tomlin, 112 W. Palmetto St., Duluth Heights, Duluth, Minn., says: "When I worked on the street railway in 1908, I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. At that time I said that I had suffered for two years from kidney complaint. I finally became so bad that I had to quit work for days. My back was painful and at night I was nervous. When I got up in the morning, I felt tired and worn out and I was made miserable by a kidney weakness. I have no doubt that the constant jar received while riding caused my trouble. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me and I have not had much trouble from my back or kidneys since. I always have a box of Doan's Kidney Pills in the house."

ADMITS TAKING HOLD OF WOMAN

Accused Chisholm Man Says He Was Unable to Control His Action.

Chisholm, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Karasto Brernervich, arrested on the charge of making an attack on a young woman teacher on the outskirts of town in broad daylight several days ago, put up a rather novel defense when given a preliminary hearing here. He admitted laying hands on the woman, but denied criminal intent, his irrational action being due, he maintained, to a mental ailment to which he was subject, making it impossible for him to control his actions. His flimsy excuse did not convince the court of his innocence and on the advice of Assistant County Attorney Boyle, who appeared for the state, the accused was held for the grand jury that meets in Hibbing soon. Meanwhile he is in the local jail.

MINERS ARE FINED.

Nine Are Mulcted By Judge Brady for Fighting.

Hibbing, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Brady yesterday imposed fines of $50 each on nine Lectonia miners for fighting. Six paid, and the others are expected to pay the fine rather than take the jail sentence.

The arrests were made on account of a free-for-all fight at an early hour in the morning. Axes, guns, brass knuckles and other formidable weapons are said to have figured in the battle, and some of the men were wounded, but none seriously.

Of those accused, Tony Bluch got off the lightest, with the fine only. All the others had $8 costs attached. Leniency was extended in the case of Bluch as he was the only one who entered a plea of guilty.

PARDON FOR VORBANICH SOUGHT FROM GOVERNOR.

St. Paul, Minn., May 30.—Crudely written on a piece of note paper a petition has reached Governor Eberhart, urging him to intercede in behalf of Peter Vorbanich, the "second Dietz," who was wounded in a fight with officers in Northern Minnesota several days ago. The petition was signed by about a dozen names and said:

"Known all men by those present; that the undersigned citizens of the state of Minnesota, do pray and petition the governor of said state and the most high executive to assist in obtaining justice to Mr. and Mrs. Vorbanich, near the village of Bewabek, Minn."

Worth, local agent for a tea company, was arraigned in municipal court yesterday afternoon on the charge of embezzlement and his hearing was continued to Wednesday afternoon. About $130 worth of supplies of the company is said to have disappeared from the company's local warehouse and Worth is alleged to be responsible for the loss. He has retained N. B. Arnold of Virginia as his attorney. The charge against Worth is brought by D. R. Kawson of Chicago, agent of the tea company.

CLAIMS STORIES ARE EXAGERATED

Newspaper Reports of Vorbanich Affair Said to Have Been Lurid.

Virginia, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pete Vorbanich of Waterhen river, was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Judge Carey in municipal court on the charge of felonious assault upon the person of Charles Lirette with a rifle with intent to do bodily injury. He pleaded not guilty through his interpreter, Charles Lausche of Eveleth, and the case was continued to Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, when he will be given a preliminary hearing. M. McMahon of Duluth has been retained as his attorney.

Charles Lausche, the interpreter, says the stories of the trouble between Vorbanich and the lumber company have been greatly exaggerated and when the case of the defendant has been stated he will be found to have acted entirely within his rights. Assistant County Attorney Edward L. Boyle of Eveleth appeared for the state.

HIBBING IS TO MAKE COAL TEST

Before Deciding on Accepting One of Several Bids Offered.

Hibbing, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.) — At a meeting of the water, light, power and building commission last evening, bids were opened from the following firms for supplying the village coal for the ensuing fiscal year, the contract amounting to 8,000 tons more or less: the Berwin Fuel company of Minneapolis, the Zenith Coal company of Duluth, the Carnegie Fuel company of Duluth, the Northwestern Fuel company of Duluth, C. A. Remington, Hibbing, the M. A. Hanna Coal company of Duluth, the Northern Coal Dock company of St. Paul, Pittsburg Coal company of Duluth. The bids were $3.20 per ton in the amounts asked for for Youghiogheny dock run and $3.50 for Youghiogheny screened lump. These figures would make the total contract amount to about $26,000.

The commission decided to make a test of coal from each of the different companies and for this purpose the different companies will each furnish one car of coal as follows: The Zenith Furnace company, June 1; Carnegie Fuel company, June 3; M. A. Hanna Coal company, June 5; Northwestern Fuel company, June 7; Berwin Fuel company, June 9; C. A. Remington, June 10; Pittsburg Coal company, June 13.

The bid of the Northern Coal Dock company of St. Paul was thrown out on account of its offering to supply coal from Superior, and Hibbing can accept coal only from Duluth over the Missabe, owing to the heavier freight rates on the Great Northern.

Eveleth, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Vorbanich, the "Defender of the Waterhen," has secured the assistance of the Weather Man in his fight against driving logs through his property near the Long lake, for the past few days. The recent dry spell has made the creek on his property impassable, and as a result the crew of about 100 men who have been working on the drive, have laid off. The lumber people believe they would have had all the logs into Long lake by this time but for the unruly actions of Vorbanich which caused a three days' delay. Sensible Talk About Nostrils. Avoids Catarrh And Lung Trouble.

(Dayton, O., Journal.)

"Surely, I believe the day is coming when the public will appreciate the need of caring for the nostrils—the passages which warn us of evil odors, and through which every bit of life-giving ozone should pass. Mouth breathing is dangerous and weakens the intellect. All idiots breathe through the mouth. Filthy nasal passages are common to nine out of ten. Few people daily wash and cleanse the nostrils. All should. Catarrh and pulmonary trouble can be relegated to the past if all would use daily a simple antiseptic nasal wash," says Dr. J. W. McLaughlin.

"Any one can readily rid themselves of nasal catarrh by obtaining from the druggists two ounces of antiseptic vilane powder. Use a half teaspoonful to a pint of warm water, and snuff up into the nostrils a half dozen or more times until all the slimy matter is removed. Also gargle the throat. Then make a balm by mixing a teaspoonful of the powder with one ounce of vaseline and apply twice daily until catarrh is banished."

Unexpected Guests

The farmer and his wife were about to sit down to a cold supper when they saw some old friends driving towards the house.

The good wife was equal to the occasion—thanks to her New Perfection Oil Cook-stove.

She had it lit in a moment, and her guests hardly were seated on the porch before a hearty hot meal was ready for the table—sausages and eggs and long rashers of streaky bacon, and rolls just crisped in the oven and fresh coffee—and the hostess herself as cool and neat as if she had not been near the kitchen.

She never could have managed it with an old-fashioned range. The New Perfection is the quickest, most convenient and best cooker on the market.

IRONTON VOTES TO INCORPORATE

Six Months Old Town on Cuyuna Range Shows Population of Over 400.

Ironton, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.) — This new Cuyuna iron range town voted overwhelmingly for incorporation as a village Saturday, 56 for and 2 against the proposition. More than a hundred men were not entitled to vote by reason of their not being citizens. The vote and canvass would indicate a population of more than 400 people for the town that is not six months old.

J. W. Kreitter of Duluth, superintendent of the Duluth & Missabe railroad, brought a party of mining men and others to Deerwood in his private car and, securing automobiles, visited the different mining plants. They expressed great surprise at what they saw on their first visit to the range. A short time ago F. E. House, president of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, visited the Cuyuna range and people are wondering if there is anything behind the scenes in connection with the visit of these railway men.

The colored "sand hog" poulation at Ironton has been recently increased by the arrival of a number of colored women.

FARMER CHASED BY BULL MOOSE

Monarchs of Forest in Beltrami and Roseau Counties Getting Ugly.

Bemidji, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Moose are becoming numerous and even vicious in Beltrami and Roseau counties. In Roseau, in the town of Cedar Bend, a big bull moose blocked the pathway of Cleveland Christianson, a farmer. Christianson, who was unarmed, threw up his hands in the attempt to frighten the brute, but the moose lowered his head and started for the farmer, who turned and ran for his life toward a neighboring farm. Christianson, nearly exhausted, gained the building and rushed in, slamming the door with the breath of the beast upon him.

After standing by the house for a time the animal made for the tall timber.

Commenting on the number of moose and their actions, an old trapper said:

"A man is not safe in the woods at this season of the year, where these monarchs of the forest inhabit and the settlers fear them as they would a man-eating lion."

Three full grown moose were seen on William Roberts' place, a short distance from Warroad a few days ago. The animals were not alarmed when Roberts came upon them and wandered off into the woods like so many cows.

THE CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM

Is the Rheumatic Poison in the Blood, Which Must Be Purified to Effect a Permanent Cure.

Many people believe that the twinges and tortures of rheumatism are due to cold, damp, or wet weather, and treat themselves by rubbing with liniments. This is a serious mistake, and one which allows the disease to progress to such an extent that it is often difficult to get it out of the system. Rheumatism is a disease of the blood and can be cured only by driving the rheumatic poison out of the blood. There is no medicine that will do this so speedily and surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually make the new, rich, red blood, which drives out the poison, builds up the system, and makes the sufferer well and strong.

Mrs. R. F. Browning, of No. 248 Walnut street, Lawrence, Kans., advises the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of rheumatism. The cure which the pills made in her case will interest every sufferer from this painful disease. She says:

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me of rheumatism after two years of painful suffering. The disease settled in my arms and shoulders and seriously affected the joints of my fingers which were often so sore that I could not use them. The pain was a dull constant ache. Oftentimes when walking I would have a stitch in the back. I suffered from such intense pain at night that I could not sleep. At times I would be unable to do any work but was never flat down in bed.

"Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills although I tried many other remedies. I could see improvement after taking a few boxes of the pills and used them until cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have also cured anæmia, chlorosis, general debility, after-effects of the grip and fevers and should be given a trial wherever a tonic for the blood and nerves is needed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are always the same and are sold only in packages bearing the well-known trade-mark.

A copy of our new booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," containing full information about this treatment will be sent free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent to any address, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

$500 REWARD FOR FIREBUG

Police Chief Troyer has been authorized by private owners of property at New Duluth, to offer a reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who set fire to the big bridge near New Duluth yesterday morning.

Alderman Krueger at the council meeting last evening secured an appropriation of $75 for repairs on a road, which can be used temporarily while the bridge is being rebuilt or a fill made.

The city engineer was directed to prepare an estimate of the cost of putting in a large concrete culvert and of making a fill to replace the big bridge On account of the lay of the land, it is not probable that the fill would be a level one.

BRICK WILL BE USED ON GRAND AVENUE.

Grand avenue will be paved by vitrified brick, the objection of L. A. Barnes, Eighth ward alderman, being overruled at the council meeting last evening.

Alderman Barnes wanted a tar macadam pavement instead of brick. He asked the council to reconsider its former action, when the brick pavement was ordered in, but this was voted down, the proposition only receiving one vote and that being cast by Mr. Barnes himself.

By a vote of 4 to 9, the council turned down the request of a West Duluth delegation to compel the Canadian Northern railway to leave a clear space at the intersection of its trestle with Fifty-fourth avenue west north of the Northern Pacific tracks. The street has not been used for years.

Laborer Has Bad Fall.

Frank Gilbner, 40 years old, laborer, fell fifteen feet from a scaffold at the Zenith Box & Lumber company's plant, Forty-third avenue west and Grand avenue, yesterday afternoon and sustained serious injuries.

Gilbner's back was badly wrenched as he dropped on a pile of old boards. He was taken to his home, 12 North Fifty-fourth avenue west, where he was placed under the care of Dr. Seashore. Just how serious his injuries are, is not yet known.

BADLY INJURED WHEN HORSE RUNS AWAY.

While leading a horse, which suddenly bolted, Sam Goldfine, was thrown forcibly against a box car on a sidetrack at the Elliott Packing company's plant, Thirty-fourth avenue west, and knocked unconscious. He had a severe gash on his head and scalp. The injured man was taken to the office of a West end physician. Goldfine lives at 1117 East Sixth street.

Word has been received in West Duluth of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson, aged 34, wife of Thomas Jackson, which took place yesterday afternoon at Cloquet. She was the daughter of the late Frank Roussain of Fond du Lac, having been born and raised in the suburb. Besides her husband she is survived by her aged mother and an uncle, Eustace Roussain, who is one of the oldest settlers at Fond du Lac. The funeral will be held Thursday morning from the residence at Cloquet.

CONTRACT IS APPROVED

The city council last night approved the contract let last week to Contractor P. McDonnell for the grading and graveling of East Fifth street from Fifteenth avenue east to Woodland avenue. The contract price was approximately $16,000.

The approval of the contract was laid over last week at the request of several property owners who favored the laying of asphalt. The approval came up last evening under the heading of unfinished business and went through with so little disturbance, in view of the expected differences, that a number of property owners who had come to the meeting to advocate the use of gravel, did not know that the contract had been approved. They waited until near the end of the meeting, when one of the aldermen informed them that the matter had been settled. It is expected that work will be started next week, or within a very short time.

Pulled Man Out of Bed.

Peter Olson of the West end evidently feels that if he cannot get a bed of his own in which to sleep he is entitled to somebody else's bed. Last night it seems that he couldn't get into his own place and went to a lodging house nearby, where he pulled a man out of bed who was sleeping there, crawling in himself. He pleaded guilty to trespass in police court and got $10 or ten days.

Boys Are Fined.

Carl Pearson, Roy Gonyea, Theron Bartholomew and Hjalmer Borgeson, arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Schulte and Irvine on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle, pleaded guilty in municipal court. They each paid fines of $27.50. The boys were accused of having taken the automobile of R. S. Gaylord from his residence at 5409 Oneida street about two weeks ago, late at night, with the intention of "joy riding." They went as long as the machine would run down hill, but not knowing how to start it, could go no further than the car coasted past the foot of the grade.

GLAD HE WENT TO UNITED DOCTORS

Gus Engelbart Says They Have Cured Him of a Dangerous Disease.

Gus Engelbart of Leigh, Neb., has written the following letter and asked that it be published for the benefit of others who are sick as he was.

"Leigh, Neb., May 3, 1911.

"A year ago last November while I was busy with corn husking, I was suddenly stricken with rheumatism and nervous trouble. I had to quit work right in the busy part of the year and was confined to the house. The disease affected my heart, making it rapid and weak, and what little food I could eat did not seem to nourish me so that I run down in flesh and strength.

"I went on, better and then worse, for a year without gaining any permanent relief from the doctors and treatments I tried, but nearly a year after the first attack I found the United Doctors. That was last October and I have been under their treatment only six months now, but am practically well. I do not suffer any pain, can work, eat and sleep as well as ever and it is all due to the United Doctors' wonderful treatment for rheumatism and nerve trouble.

"Yes, I am glad I went to the United Doctors; glad I went under their treatment before I got beyond help, and am glad to say a word of testimony as to what they have done for me. I cannot thank them enough.

"GUS ENGELBART."

Hundreds of such cures as the above in cases that had been given up as hopeless is what has spread the fame of the United Doctors far and wide. Their Duluth office, located on the third floor of the Columbia building, is always crowded with patients, for people come hundreds of miles to be cured.

These master specialists treat all chronic and nervous diseases of both women and men. Examination is free to all, but no incurable cases will be taken for treatment under any circumstances, though their advanced scientific methods enable them to cure many cases which are ordinarily considered hopeless.

WHERE THE FIRE FIEND RAGED AT CONEY ISLAND

NEAR THE SCENIC RAILWAYS.

THE BALLOON SWING.

"Dreamland," the big feature of Coney Island, New York, that was destroyed by fire early Saturday morning, was established as an imitator and rival of Fred Thompson's "Luna Park." It contained a large number of attractions of the country fair—baby incubators, chutes, scenic railways, animal shows. They were all good of their kind. There was a big tower blazing with electricity at the land end of the pier, which was a feature of the place. It could be seen for many miles. "Luna Park" and "Dreamland" were the big modern groupings of "midway" attractions, which in recent years have made Coney Island famous, as well as clean and decent, compared with what it was a few years ago. "Dreamland" was owned by a stock company composed of New Yorkers.

John Warrick returned home from Mount Clemens Sunday Morning, where he received treatment for rheumatism. His condition is much improved.

WHITE CATS OFTEN DEAF.

"I have possessed white cats that could hear, but they have been the exception, and that applies as much to the short haired pet of the fireside as to the aristocratic long hair of the shows," says a writer in the Scotsman. "Moreover, I have observed that the white cats dullest of hearing are those with blue eyes.

"The cats with orange eyes which I have had could hear quite well, those having odd eyes—that is, one orange and one blue—could hear a little, but not well, and those having blue eyes were quite deaf, although all have come from the same litter.

"All kittens have blue eyes until they are about six weeks old, when the eyes change to their adult or permanent color. But to show how widely the permanently blue eyes differ to begin with from the other eyes, I may say that immediately the eyes of white cats that are to have permanently blue eyes open they will shine bright red in the dark, and neither the ephemeral kitten blue nor any other color eye does this.

"One peculiarity of deaf cats is that they seem to have an exaggerated sense of feling in their feet pads. It is very difficult for a heavy walking animal such as man is to aproach a deaf cat from behind without giving it warning, and this I attribute to the extreme sensitiveness of the cat's feet, recording the slightest tremor of the ground and so to a certain extent taking the place of hearing.

"It is a belief held by some country people that white cats do not make good hunters, good mousers or rat catchers even if they do hear. I am inclined to think there is a foundation for this idea, and I would go further and say that dark colored cats make the best mouse and rat catchers because they hear best."

TRAVELING BY WHEELBARROW.

Bishop Montgomery in Mission Field:

"I must hasten on to Ping-Ying. This trip of forty-five miles was to be undertaken, to our huge delight, in wheelbarrows, but in two days, with a Chinese inn for the night. Bishop Scott and I were on one barrow, Lancaster followed on a second, the luggage on a third. We did it luxuriously with three men to each barrow—one in front, one behind on the handles, and a third with a rope in front of all.

"Are there springs to the barrow? Certainly not; it would be no fun if there were Bumps? Of course. On the first day we calculated we had 25,000 of them; the best were caused by drops of six inches or more from one stone to another. I got quite used to them and found I could sleep stretched luxuriously on my mattress.

SICK MEN
A WORD TO YOU.

The Progressive Medical Association of Duluth is undoubtedly one of the most successful organizations of able physicians ever banded together for the cure of virulent diseases. Thousands of cures covering a period of many years has established our prestige absolutely in this city. There is no reason why you should go through life bowed down under the weight of past indiscretions or suffering the agonies of some fearful malady. It is true that once having crossed that bourne from which no traveler ever returns, science cannot call you back, but while there is life there is hope, and the number of men who faltering at the very edge of the grave and filled with terrible thoughts of self destruction have come to us and gone away strong and healthy are legion. Our testimonials and references are of a peculiarly strong nature. Rheumatism, piles, nervous debility, heart disease and all skin and blood diseases are invariably cured in this office.

Don't go to Minneapolis, Hot Springs or other far away places where you will be away from your business and burdened by unnecessary expense. We can perform a cure for you without in any way affecting your ordinary mode of life. Of all the cases that have come to us at least 50 per cent have come because some friend whom we had cured referred them to us. This is the greatest endorsement that any medical association could offer and we can substantiate this claim. Men, if you are ill, don't keep putting off seeing a physician. We would naturally prefer that you come to us, but in any event, do not make a mistake of delaying as your ailment will become more dangerous every day and you owe it to yourself to be a strong, hearty man. M., in book 266 of Mortgages, on page 189; said mortgage was given to secure the payment of eleven promissory notes, bearing even date with said mortgage, made by said mortgagors, for the sum of twenty dollars each, due and payable February 1st, March 1st, April 1st, May 1st, June 1st, July 1st, August 1st, September 1st, October 1st, November 1st and December 1st respectively, in the year 1911, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum. Said mortgage contained a provision that if default be made in the payment of said sum of money or interest thereon, or the taxes or any part thereof, at the time and in the manner therein specified, it should be lawful for the mortgagees to declare the entire indebtedness due and payable, and to sell the premises therein described and convey the same to the purchaser in fee simple, agreeably to the statute in such case made and provided. Default has been made in the payment of each and all of said four principal notes for twenty dollars each, which became due on the 1st days of February, March, April and May, 1911, respectively, and the interest thereon. No part of said indebtedness has been paid unto said mortgagees, except the sum of twenty-four and 97-100 dollars paid on said 31st day of December, 1910, upon the said notes so made payable on the first days of November and December, 1911, respectively. There is, at the date of this notice, claimed to be due, and is actually due, the sum of two hundred one and 90-100 dollars. No action at law or otherwise has been commenced for the recovery of the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof. Notice is hereby given, that said mortgage will be foreclosed at a public sale of the mortgaged premises, which are described as follows, to-wit:

HEBERLING BEATS HAWLEY.

Denver Man Elected President of Switchmen's Union.

St. Paul, Minn., May 30.—Frank T. Hawley of Buffalo, N. Y., president of the Switchmen's Union of North America for eleven years, was defeated yesterday for re-election by S. E. Heberling of Denver by a vote of 107 to 92. Of the six officers elected the "insurgents" secured five and the Hawley supporters one. The other officers are:

First vice president, James B. Connors, Chicago; second vice president, L. H. Porter, Nottingham, Ohio; third vice president, Thomas C. Cholessy, Chicago; fourth vice president, F. J. Sheehan, Buffalo, N. Y.; fifth vice president, T. Meisenhelter, Kansas City.

Hawley's defeat was the direct outcome of the switchmen's strike of 1909-1910. His opponents charged that he had violated the constitution of the union and that of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor, as well as the Chicago wage agreement of 1907 in the preliminary events leading up to the strike. In a statement given out shortly after his election, President Heberling said:

"One of the laws of the union that has been adopted at this convention provides for a selective board of five members, actually engaged in yard service, that will co-operate with the international president and will be called in when an extraordinary exigency arises. It will have a tendency to obviate hasty action on questions in dispute."

The election of officers will be completed next Wednesday.

GOVERNOR ON BOAT; NEGROES WIN STRIKE.

St. Louis, Mo., May 30.—Taking advantage of the fact that Governor Hadley was a passenger on the steamer Cape Girardeau, negro roustabouts stuck for higher wages while the boat was at the wharf ready to cast off last night. FARGO FILTRATION PLANT WORK HALTED

Unsuccessful Bidder Enjoins City and Successful Contractor.

Fargo, N. D., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo may have to wait another year for filtered water as the result of an injunction suit started this morning against the city officials and James Kennedy, the contractor, to whom the construction work was awarded. The action was started by W. J. Price, a member of the legislature from Fargo and head of a local firm, which was one of the unsuccessful bidders. Price alleges the original plans calling for bids were not clear and distinct, and that the council and the successful contractor later changed the plans by getting a more economical plant and further that the city exceeded its authority in letting the contract in excess of funds on hand to pay for the work. The filtration plant has been delayed from different causes for two or three years and there is great disappointment by the public over the legal action which again ties this matter up

SETBACK IS UNEXPECTED

Stock Market, After Starting Higher, Has Very Sharp Reversal.

Tobacco Decision and Steel Trade "Open Market" the Causes.

New York, May 31.—Indications of an "open market" in the steel and iron trade and the supreme court decision in the American Tobacco case, which is regarded on the exchange as more drastic than that against the Standard Oil, unsettled the stock market to an unusual degree soon after today's opening. The setback was the more unexpected, inasmuch as a number of active issues, chiefly standard railway stocks, had made material gains over Monday in the London market and the gains were generally maintained at the opening today.

Within the first hour, however, concentrated selling of United States Steel brought a sharp reversal all around, and not only were early advances wiped out, but very substanial losses substituted.

Aside from the movement in the

RACE VICTIMS DOING WELL

Only Three Suffering Serious Injuries From Automobile Accidents.

Harroun, the Winner, Uses Mirror in Car and Rides Alone.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—The six persons injured in the 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway yesterday are getting along as well as could be expected, according to Dr. Frank Allen, who is attending them at the Methodist hospital in this city, where they were taken after the race.

The most seriously injured, it was stated at the hospital today, are Harry Knight, driver of the Westcott car, his mechanician, John T. Glover, and C. L. Anderson, mechanician, Case car. These men were all injured in the smashup of three cars near the judges' stand. Their injuries are internal and the outcome cannot be forecasted for some time.

Greiner Is Recovering.

Arthur Greiner, driver of the Amplex, who was injured when his mechanician, S. P. Dickson, was killed; Bob Evans, mechanician for the Jackson, who jumped from his seat when the car was speeding down the back stretch, and David Lewis, mechanician for the Lozier, which was in collision with a Pope-Hartford at the upper end of the home stretch, are said to be recovering.

The many thousands who were here for the race began leaving last night

NO TESTIMONY IN BRIBERY CASES

Ohio Senators Want Witnesses Imprisoned—Press Reporters Punished.

Columbus, Ohio., May 31.—Interesting developments are expected in the Ohio senate when Chairman Todd of the senate bribery investigating committee makes his report today to the effect that the committee finds itself unable to proceed, because all witnesses refuse to testify, and asking that those witnesses be summoned before the bar of the senate for contempt.

The legislature met today after a recess of two days. It is believed the session will adjourn sine die tonight, despite the effort of one faction to continue it for several days yet.

Among the senate measures awaiting house concurrence are the Edwards county tax commission bill, the Crosser municipal initiative and referendum bill and the Kimble corrupt practices bill. The Edwards bill is a part of the tax reform program of Governor Harmon. He has declared he will be forced to veto it as it stands.

The senate today barred the reporters of the Scripps-McRae newspaper league from the floor of the senate for refusing to testify in the bribery hearing.

LUTHERANS DEDICATE DENKMANN LIBRARY.

Rock Island, Ill., May 31.—The Denkmann Memorial library, the $200,000 gift to Augustana college from the heirs of the late F. C. A. Denkmann, millionaire lumberman, was dedicated today. The dedicatory address was delivered by Prof. W. McM. Smith, librarian of the University of Wisconsin. Leaders of the Swedish Lutheran church from all parts of Augustana synod were present.

LAST DAY ON RECIPROCITY

Senate Committee Calls Allen and Graham of New York.

Stone Quizzes Bachelder About the National Grange.

Washington, May 31.—What was expected to be the last day of hearings on the Canadian reciprocity bill by the senate finance committee, was featured today by the appearance of John H. Allen and Whidden Graham, of the firm of Allen & Graham, New York, who are said to have been employed to "manufacture sentiment" among the farmers of the country in opposition to the agreement.

It was at the instance of Senator Stone that they were summoned to appear before the committee to tell exactly what part they have taken in the propaganda of opposition to reciprocity.

"Not Practicing Attorneys."

Senator Stone declared that Allen & Graham were "promoters," that they were not "practicing attorneys or lawyers," thus controverting the declaration made to the committee recently by N. P. Hull, master of the Michigan Grange, that Allen & Graham had been acting as legal advisers for the National Grange. The firm, it was learned, was sending out, for some of the officers of the National Grange, literature warning farmers in all parts of the country that the reciprocity agreement would injure them and asking them to contribute to the cause. Manufacturers also were asked for financial aid.

Mr. Hull at the time he was at the department promised that Messrs. Allen and Graham would appear to state their case. Two weeks went by without any word having been heard from them. During this time Senator Stone inquired several times as to whether the committee had been notified as to when Allen and Graham would appear. Each time he was reminded of Mr. Hull's promise. As a result he moved at the committee meeting last Thursday that the two men be re-

MILWAUKEE MAN'S WIFE IS SUICIDE

Mrs. John F. Jackson Leaps From Window While Insane.

Boston, Mass., May 31.—During a period of temporary insanity, Mrs. Margaret Jackson, wife of John F. Jackson, a Milwaukee business man, leaped from the window of their room on the fourth floor of the Parker House today and was instantly killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, who arrived at the hotel last night, were on their way to a Massachusetts sanitarium, where Mrs. Jackson was to receive treatment.

As Mrs. Jackson was arranging her hair this morning she suddenly rushed to the window, threw up the sash, and with a scream flung herself out.

Mr. Jackson will leave for Milwaukee with his wife's body some time during the day.

STATE MANUFACTURES HAVE GROWN RAPIDLY IN LAST FIVE YEARS

Minnesota Figures Are Given Out By Census Bureau.

Capital Invested Amounts to $275,416,000—Gain of 49 Per Cent.

Washington, May 31.—A great increase in the manufactures of Minnesota is shown by a statement issued by the census bureau today. The summary for the state shows increases in all the items at the census of 1909, as compared with that for 1904. These are exhibited, in percentage order, as follows:

Number of salaried officials and clerks, 56 per cent; capital, 49 per cent; salaries and wages, 40 per cent; primary horse power, 35 per cent; cost of materials used, 34 per cent; value added by manufacture, 31 per cent; miscellaneous expenses, 29 per cent; average number of wage earners employed during the year, 22 per cent; and number of establishments, 17 per cent.

There were 5,562 manufacturing establishments in 1909, and 4,756 in 1904; an increase of 806, or 17 per cent.

The capital invested, as reported in 1909, was $275,416,000, a gain of $90,513,000, or 49 per cent, over $184,903,000 in 1904. The average capital per establishment was approximately $50,000 in 1909, and $39,000 in 1904. In this connection it should be stated that in the census schedule the inquiry concerning capital invested calls for the total amount both owned and borrowed and invested in the business, but does not include the value of rented property, plant, or equipment which was

AIRMEN IN ACCIDENTS

Garros, Beaumont and Frey All Get Serious Spills.

Beaumont Makes Repairs and Is First to Reach Rome.

Pisa, Italy, May 31.—Accidents of a more serious nature than any which have occurred since the flight was begun marred the Nice-to-Rome stage of the 1,300-mile Paris-Rome-Turin aviation contest.

Three of the competitors, the Frenchmen, Garros and Beaumont, and the German, Frey, all met with mishaps today which damaged their machines, and Frey himself was slightly injured.

Rolland Garros, who is being hailed as the victor of the long flight, left Cascine Di San Rossore, the estate of King Victor Emmanuel, before sunrise today, bound for the Italian capital to the accompaniment of a deafening roar of the enthusiastic specta-

NO ADVANCE PAY FOR LEGISLATORS

Governor Harmon Vetoes Bill and Lawmakers Are Angry.

Columbus, Ohio, May 31.—Governor Harmon today vetoed the Ratliff bill, which provided for the pay of members of the legislature for next year before the present session adjourned. Several members are angered at the governor's veto and threaten to hold up some of his pet measures in retaliation.

TRAIN WRECKERS CAUSE DEATHS

Pull Spikes From Rails of Michigan Central in Canada.

Detroit, Mich., May 31—Train wreckers are blamed by Michigan Central railroad officials for the wrecking, early today, of west-bound passenger train No. 9 a mile east of Ridgeton, Ont.

Engineer Quinlan and Fireman Oakes, both of St. Thomas, Ont., were killed under their overturned locomotive. No passengers were injured. The passenger cars remained on the track, but the two baggage cars were derailed.

An examination of the track at the scene of the wreck indicated that spikes and fishplates had been removed. The headquarters of a section crew nearby had been broken open and the absence of a steel bar and a wrench disclosed the source of the tools with which the work had been done.

WILL IGNORE BRYAN'S TALK

Democrats in Congress Propose Only to Cut Wool Duty.

Underwood Answers Severe Criticism By the Nebraskan.

Washington, May 31.—Among members of the house of representatives, Democrats and Republicans alike, the dispute over the wool tariff stirred up by Mr. Bryan's attack upon the Democratic leaders for drafting a revenue measure instead of putting raw wool on the free list, was the subject of lively discussion today.

The answer of Representative Underwood, chairman of the ways and means committee, to Mr. Bryan's attack, again brought the feeling in the party over the wool question to the front, but the Democratic leaders insisted that the caucus would ratify the ways and means committee recommendations, and that the bill would go before the house with the party committed to it. Though considerable hot talk is looked for at the caucus tomorrow, Mr. Underwood is confident that his position will be

HILL MAKES STATEMENT

Has Executed First and Refunding $600,000,000 Mortgage.

Must Meet Outstanding Obligations Amounting to $330,000,000.

Double-Tracking and Additional Mileage Are Contemplated.

St. Paul, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—A move that is strongly suggestive here of railroad operations on the scale of the Northern Securities company was announced today by J. J. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern Railway company, when in a typewritten statement he announced the execution of a $600,000,000 first and refunding mortgage to secure bonds for the Great Northern and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroads.

The statement follows:

"The Great Northern Railway company, as of date May 1, 1911, has executed its first and refunding mortgage, securing a total authoried issue of $600,000,000 bonds.

"The size of the mortgage is explained by the fact that the outstanding obligations of the company which are to be refunded amount, approximately, to $330,000,000. Included, however, in the figures last named, is the direct and contingent obligation of

"WHITE WAY" FOR CARNIVAL

Petition for Superior Street Lights Must Be Complete June 15.

Is Superior street going to be lighted with the new ornamental standards in time for the carnival?

The Commercial club hopes so, but the property owners have been slow in signing the petition.

The committee members hope to have the "White Way" extended from the present terminus at First avenue east to Seventh avenue west before the carnival opens. To do this it is necessary to have the petition complete by June 15. This would give Duluth a continuous white way from Seventh avenue east to Seventh avenue west.

WHITTIER CASE FILED

Governor's Secretary Puts Charges Before the State Board.

Abuse of Girls in Red Wing School Also Is Alleged.

St. Paul, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charging F. A. Whittier, superintendent of the state training school for boys at Red Wing, not only with having brutally whipped and beaten inmates of that institution with a leather thong, but also with inflicting similar punishment on girls in the girls' training school, Ralph Wheelock, private secretary to Governor Eberhart, today filed a formal complaint with the board of control, asking for Whittier's removal.

The complaint was drawn by attorneys under the direction of Senator A. D. Stephens of Crookston, and sets forth four distinct charges as follows:

First—That during Mr. Whittier's time as superintendent, he has inflicted or permitted to be inflicted, brutal, cruel and unusual punishment.

Second—That he employed in the school assistants who beat, struck, bruised, wounded and ill-treated inmates.

Third—That he has neglected his duty in failing to discharge Ernest F. Maetzold, Arthur Stopleman, Arthur C. Dorr, and W. C. Stimeling, his assistants.

Girls' School Involved.

Fourth—That during the time he was also superintendent of the girls' training school at Red Wing he caused or permitted them to be punished in cruel and unusual manner, similar to the manner described in punishing boys.

The complaint embodies all of the GOVERNMENT LICENSE IS NOT ENOUGH.

If a government liquor license is found in the possession of one charged with the illegal sale of liquor by the city officials, this fact will be prima facie evidence of guilt, according to the provisions of a bill, which has just become a law in Wisconsin.

Assistant City Attorney McIntosh drew up the bill and it is expected that it will aid materially in the prosecution of alleged "blind-piggers" and will straighten out many of the entanglements, which often occur in local court trials.

Many of the alleged "blind-piggers" provide themselves with a government license, which costs but little, and gives them protection from the federal authorities, and then disregard the $500 city license.

CLARK SILENT ON BRYAN'S APPEAL

Speaker Refuses to Mix in Contentions in His Party.

Washington, May 31.—Speaker Champ Clark today declined positively to comment on the Bryan appeal to the Democrats not to "masquerade" under the guise of a tariff for revenue only, in voting for the Underwood revision of the wool schedule, nor would he discuss the reply to Mr. Bryan made last night by the majority leader. The speaker's close friends, recognizing that his present position is difficult, have advised him against becoming embroiled in the party feud.

Chairman Underwood, smarting under the Bryan attack, is exerting every effort now to insure a two-thirds vote of the Democratic members for the committee at tomorrow's caucus. The new bill closely resembles the Wilson bill except as to raw wool, the duty on which is cut from the present rate of 11 cents a pound to about 5 cents a pound.

Mr. Underwood remained firm today in his conviction that the bill would be ratified by a big majority and that Mr. Bryan's attitude would be demonstrated at variance with the views of the Democratic house.

TWO VISIT CEMETERY

Veterans Brave Showers and Pay Their Tribute to Dead Comrades.

Did Not Know Services Had Been Transferred to Courthouse.

Although nature wept showers yesterday, causing the regular services in honor of the memory of the nation's dead to be held in Memorial hall at the courthouse, instead of at the cemetery, the ritual at the graves at Soldiers' rest in Forest hill cemetery was not entirely lacking.

Unaware of the fact that the program had been changed, two aged veterans of the Civil war met at the top of the hillock dedicated to the last resting places of the country's heroes. Standing there alone, still waiting for the others of their comrades to meet there, they were joined by a Spanish-American war veteran, who informed them that the exercises of the day were being held in the city.

With one accord they bared their heads, the old men and the young, and paid their tributes to those who had departed. With a heavy mist falling and with the dense, white fog enveloping them as the smoke of battles fought on other hills, they said the beautiful ritual for the dead. Except for themselves the large cemetery was practically deserted. While their comrades were paying their respects to those who had gone before them, in the large Memorial hall, those three observed the most sacred rites of Decoration day in the midst of the graves of those at rest in the cemetery.

The aged veterans were recognized as Henry Cleveland and Ira Coburn, but the identity of the younger man was not learned further than that he wore a captain's badge on his coat. Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Coburn returned to the cemetery early this morning where they decorated each grave with the flowers and wreaths which would have been placed on them yesterday had not the inclemency of the weather interfered.

UNCLE SAM SUES FOR TIMBER TRESPASS.

The United States government has started a suit in the Federal circuit court against the Leech Lake Lumber company demanding judgment against the defendant for $806.54 for timber which the company is alleged to have purchased from the C. E. Griffith & Co.

The government avers that the timber had been cut by C. E. Griffith and M. J. Quam, from government land described as lots 1 and 2, section 2 and lot 1, section 11, 141-21, between Nov. 1, 1907, and Jan. 13, 1908, and that it had been sawed into lumber.

"NO LOBBYIST," SAYS GRAHAM

New York Man Admits He Was Hired to Oppose Reciprocity.

Washington, May 31. — Whidden Graham of the firm of Allen & Graham of New York admitted today to the senate finance committee that he was employed by the National grange to oppose Canadian reciprocity. He declined to answer whether his concern was working for any other interests in opposing the bill.

Graham also admitted that neither he nor Allen was a lawyer, but that they assisted manufacturers and others in securing the enactment or defeat of legislation by preparing for them literature and pamphlets for circulation.

"I am not a lobbyist," he insisted, in answer to a question by Senator Stone.

"And yet you receive fees," commented Senator Williams, "for writing articles for securing the enactment or defeat of legislation?"

Graham launched into a violent attack on the newspapers of the country, much of which later was stricken from the records.

BODY FOUND UNDER TREE

Broken Necktie Gives Evidence of Suicide Committed Last Fall.

"H. O. Blogstad" Is Name Sewed in Inside Pocket of Coat.

The body of an unknown man, whose name may have been H. O. Blogstad, was found at noon today about three blocks northwest of the Thirty-second avenue east reservoir, by Grover Lowe of 319 North Sixtieth avenue west and L. R. Hunter of Hunter's Park, surveyors working on the Woodland sewer.

Evidence pointed to a case of suicide, for the man's necktie was tightly wound about his neck and was broken in the middle, the other part hanging to the bough of a tree under which the body was found.

Chief of Police Troyer, Detectives Schulte and Irvine, and Coroner McCuen were called to the scene, and the body was taken to the undertaking rooms of Charles J. Stewart, 222 Third avenue west.

The only clue which may lead to the identity of the man is the name, "H. O. Blogstad," sewed in the inside pocket of his coat. The clothes were made by J. F. Taylor of New York and Chicago, and were ordered through a man named Wise, on May 27, 1910.

The suicide must have occurred last fall, the police believe, for the locality was undisturbed, the body covered with leaves and debris. Some blocks were found nearby, and the theory is advanced that the man had stepped upon them while preparing to hang himself, and that after he had tied the necktie firmly about his neck and the limb, he kicked the blocks away, thus allowing himself to drop.

Efforts will be made to find the man's relatives, and it is believed that the order for the clothes can be traced.

TELLS ABOUT TRUST SUITS

Wickersham Says Magnates Will Be Prosecuted as Criminals.

Talks to Congressmen About Friar Lands and Sugar Cases.

Washington, May 31.—The recent decision of the supreme court in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco company cases will result in a sweeping attempt to secure criminal conviction of violators of the anti-trust law, according to Attorney General Wickersham, who appeared today before the house committee on expenditures in the department of justice.

Mr. Wickersham was questioned by Representative Beall of Texas, chairman of the committee, concerning the sale by the government of friar lands in the Philippines to the American Sugar Refining company. He said that Henry W. Taft had at one time appeared as a special attorney for the government against the "licorice trust," a part of the American Tobacca company.

Sale of Friar Lands.

Mr. Wickersham declared that after he became attorney general, John Henry Hammond represented Strong & Cadwallader as counsel for the so-called Sugar trust in the purchase of the friar lands. He added that at the time he gave his opinion permitting the sale of the lands, he did not know that Hammond represented the president of the American Sugar Refining company, Mr. Havemeyer.

When asked about the connection of the firm with Steel affairs, Mr. Wickersham said:

"I have personally advised the United States Steel corporation in one or two matters."

"Did Strong & Cadwallader ever represent the New York Cotton exchange?" asked Chairman Beall.

"Yes, Henry W. Taft was counsel for the exchange." Mr. Wickersham replied, "and I think he still continues in that capacity."

Sugar Trust Settlement.

The chairman sought particularly to learn from the attorney general why the department of justice and treasury department accepted a $2,000,000 settlement from the American Sugar Refining company as restitution for under-valuations at the port of New York, rather than enforce the severe penalties provided for by law.

Mr. Wickersham replied that the department felt the evidence at hand was not sufficient to support a claim for penalties, though it was his belief that restitution was made because the corporation feared penalties would be imposed.

"Then it was your judgment," suggested Mr. Beall, "that notwithstanding the fact that the government had access to a memorandum book showing the real weight of sugar imported and books showing fraudulent weights, if the government had attempted to collect the penalties, there was strong probability of failure?"

Inexpedient to Go On.

"Yes," Mr. Wickersham answered. "It was sufficiently dubious to make it inexpedient to go on. I think the $2,000,000 settlement was the best possible arrangement."

The attorney general denied that there was any agreement preventing criminal prosecution.

"That right," he said, "was specifically reserved to the government."

MRS. WASHBURN DIES IN WEST

Mother of Duluth Man Passes Away in California.

Word was received in Duluth today of the death of Mrs. Julia Washburn, mother of J. L. Washburn of this city.

Mrs. Washburn was 87 years of age, and had been making her home with her eldest son, F. M. Washburn, at Lodi, Cal. She was formerly a resident of Garden City, Blue Earth county, and was one of the pioneer settlers of Minnesota.

She is survived by three sons and one daughter. The sons are F. M. Washburn of Lodi, Cal.; E. W. Washburn, a merchant at Vernon Center, Minn., and J. L. Washburn of Duluth. The daughter is Mrs. Fred Webster of Los Angeles.

Mr. J. L. Washburn was in Mankato at the time of his mother's death, but will go to Lodi to attend the funeral. The body will probably be brought back to Vernon Center for burial.

FATHER AND SON ARE MURDERED

Another Son and Companion Are Arrested at Sac City, Ia.

Sac City, Iowa, May 31.—James and Matthew White, father and son, were slain at their home here Tuesday morning. Clifford Wilson, also of this city, is in jail, charged with the crime, and Will White another son, has been arrested for complicity in the affair. No reason is given for the killing.

It is charged that Wilson, a stranger and the Whites were together the previous evening, apparently on good terms. The Whites were in their room when they were killed. James White was shot three times and his brother once.

It is stated today that William and Matthew White, Wilson and the stranger were ordered out of the White home shortly after midnight for creating a disturbance by James White, the father, 80 years old. A few minutes later the aged man fell, fatally injured, and died within the hour.

Matthew, the son, was shot down at almost the same time.

BALLOONIST FALLS ONE THOUSAND FEET.

Marion, Ind., May 31.—His parachute failing to work properly, Frank Crawford, a balloonist, fell 1,000 feet or more into a tree top and then to the ground yesterday. Hundreds of persons who had gathered to witness the ascension stood aghast with horror when it was seen that Crawford had lost control of his parachute. The injured man was taken to a hospital.

MRS. CHRISTINA ANDERSON DIES

Had Been a Resident of Duluth for Twenty-One Years.

Mrs. Christina Anderson, 61 years of age, and a resident of Duluth for the last twenty-one years, died at 4 o'clock this morning at her residence, 2507 East Branch street. Death was due to injuries which she received in an accident five years ago.

Mrs. Anderson was one of the well known residents of Duluth and had a wide circle of friends and acquaintances who will be grieved to hear of her death. She was born at Largo, Scotland, where her mother is still living. Besides her mother, she is survived by her husband, David Anderson, two sons, David and William, and two daughters, Mrs. C. J. Stewart and Miss Nellie Anderson, all of this city.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mrs. Stewart, 222 Third avenue west, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Alexander Milne, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, officiating. Interment will be Friday morning at Forest Hill cemetery and will be private.

FITWELLS WIN AT AITKIN

At Aitkin yesterday the strong Fitwell baseball team of Duluth defeated the prides of Aitkin by the score of 9 to 2.

The Fitwells were met at the train by the village band and given the best the village had. The game was quite the event of the day.

Talbot and Buske worked for the Fitwells and Spalding and Peterburg for the Aitkin boys.

New Express Office.

The Western Express company, which operates on the Canadian Pacific and subsidiary railroads, has opened an office at 414 West Superior street in charge of H. S. Gallup, who has been in the service of the company for several years.

The Western Express company operates out of Duluth over the Soo Line and the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic.

OPENING FOR NEW ENTERPRISE

Spraying Trees Might Offer Paying Occupation in Duluth.

If some Duluth man with an eye to business will provide himself with a garden spraying apparatus, there is money to be made, in the opinion of Duluth business men, who have looked in vain for somebody to spray the trees around their homes.

A man in the vacuum cleaning business, or a public janitor, might be able to make a good side-line of tree spraying. A spraying apparatus may be purchased for a few dollars, and there is work for it in Duluth. Almost any owner of trees would rather pay to have them sprayed, than purchase an apparatus, which would be used by him only two or three times during the season.

RAN THROUGH CLOUDBURST

Automobile Party Has a Trying Experience Near Hinckley, Minn.

W. J. North, assistant manager of the firm of Gay & Sturgis, brokers, of this city, and H. E. Nelson and James McMahon of the R. G. Dunn company of St. Paul arrived in the city about midnight from St. Paul, coming from that city in an automobile, after some harrowing experiences in a cloudburst which took place near Hinckley last evening.

The men made the trip from St. Paul to Duluth in Mr. North's car.

While going over a low corduroy road through a piece of swampy land near Hinckley, Minn., the cloudburst came. The water came down in torrents and the swamp filled rapidly. The car was run some distance through deep water.

They finally pulled out of the swamp and got away from the area covered by the cloudburst. The rest of the journey was made to this city without accident, but the car looked like a mud scow when they arrived in Duluth.

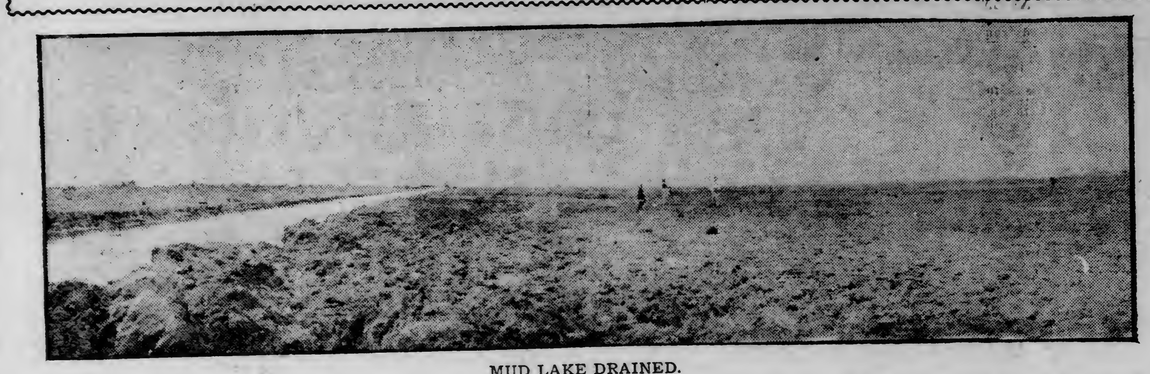
CHAIRMAN OF STATE RECLAMATION BOARD ENTHUSIAST ON WHAT DRAINAGE WILL DO



MUD LAKE DRAINED.

W. J. Brown of Warren, chairman of the state reclamation board, a member of the executive committee of the Northern Minnesota Development association, and one of the speakers at tomorrow's meeting of the association, arrived in Duluth this morning.

Mr. Brown is bubbling over with enthusiasm. Although the meeting comes just at the end of the seeding season, and it is consequently difficult for the people in the Red river valley to get away, he says that every county in that section of the state will be well represented at the meeting here. The people in the northwestern part of the state believe in the Northern Minnesota Development association and they are anxious to do their share of the work.

"I believe the advertising given the work of the Northern Minnesota Development association is responsible for the increase in development in Northern Minnesota during the last year," said Mr. Brown this morning. "The state land sales in Marshall and Roseau counties this year were remarkable. Whereas former sales were slow and usually at the minimum of $5 an acre, this year 24,000 acres of land were sold in Marshall and Roseau counties at an average of $8 an acre. Sales were made from $6 to $22 an acre and few sales were made at the minimum.

"The drainage work is responsible for the new interest in lands in that section of the state. The counties are spending money liberally and are getting results. For instance, $700,000 was spent in the draining of one lake, which left to the counties interested 600 square miles of good farming land, absolutely reclaimed. Much land, which was good in itself but was not accessible on account of the swamps surrounding it, has been reclaimed and is now under the plow.

"Such work as that is what Northern Minnesota needs. It needs drainage of swamp lands and clearing of cut-over lands, and when the state enters upon those two projects as it should, the development of Northern Minnesota will be certain and rapid."

Immediately after the meeting of the development association, the members of the state reclamation board, Mr. Brown, W. R. Mackenzie and A. J. McGuire, will start out to definitely locate the forty-acre tracts on which reclamation work will be done during the next two years.

"I don't believe this reclamation work is an experiment," said Mr. Brown. It is more in the nature of an illustration, and I believe that we will show results on the ten forties we select that will back up the claims we made in supporting the reclamation project before the state legislature.

"Of course there is one obstacle to the extension of the reclamation work. That is the fact that the money for clearing land must be appropriated out of the revenue fund, but that fund cannot be repaid while the constitution provides that the money obtained from the sale of state lands shall go into other funds. That is a problem that must be faced."

F. J. McPartland of International Falls is one of the early arrivals for the meeting of the association. He says that Koochiching county will be well represented at the meeting. Koochiching has had a prominent part in former meetings of the association and Mr. McPartland was one of the most enthusiastic workers. His enthusiasm has increased since the Brainerd meeting and he is here with the booster spirit so strong in him that he fairly radiates it.

Senator Dan Gunn of Grand Rapids is also in Duluth with as strong a desire for the development of Northern Minnesota as it is possible for one man to carry around with him. Senator Gunn is the first arrival from Itasca county, but Itasca will be on hand tomorrow morning with about twenty-five enthusiasts.

DECREASE IN SHIPMENTS

Ore Figures for May Less Than Half Those of 1910.

Only 920,000 Tons Shipped From the Missabe Docks During Month.

Ore shipments during the month of May over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern show a big decrease.

It is estimated by officials that at the close of business at 5 o'clock today the total shipments will amount to about 920,000 tons. Last year's figures for May were 2,220,758 tons.

The company has been operating daily an average of eighteen to twenty trains, while last year the road had from thirty-five to forty trains in use.

The prospects for June look much brighter, it is said, and the shipments will show a great increase. What the rest of the summer will bring in the line of ore shipments is hard for the officials to say, but they believe that conditions will improve.

EAST BOUND BUSINESS GOOD

Package Freighters Carrying Heavy Tonnage From the West.

E. F. Douglass, general manager of the Western Transit company, is here from Buffalo on a business trip. Mr. Douglass reports that business in grain and package shipments east bound is a little better than for the same period last year, but that the western shipments are less. In grain the shipments are fairly active from Chicago, and the prospect for its continuance is good. Shippers in grain are confident that this fall will see one of the most active seasons from the Head of the Lakes, for the reports received from the Northwest are very encouraging and a large crop is expected.

Shipments of corn from Lower Michigan have been very heavy during the past month, he reports, but they are now decreasing. More activity in the grain movement is expected after the May deal in grain has been closed, and this will occur today.

All lines handling grain and package business have all their boats running, although it is claimed the business could be carried on by fewer vessels. The companies believe that their patrons should get as good service during the duller times of business as they get during the most active times. In fact, they figure that they should get better service because they are not in posistion to stock up on goods as they can on other occasions.

The movement in ore is very light compared with that of other years, and agents of steamship lines do not look forward to much increase for some time. Nearly every company has some of its boats tied up in harbors, and in Duluth there are about thirty inactive boats.

MAJOR SHUNK ON CEMENT BOARD

Standards for Government Work Will Be Adopted By Engineers.

Major F. R. Shunk, of the United States corps of engineers located at Duluth, has been appointed by the war department a member of a special board, whose duty it will be to devise means for the adoption of a uniform standard for all classes of cement work on government and private contracts. Col. C. McD. Townsend, of Detroit, is the chairman of this board and the other members are Col. Crosby, Maj. Jurvey, Lieut. Rose, of Washington, and L. C. Sabin, superintendent of the American canal at Sault Ste. Marie.

This movement is regarded as an important one and has the indorsement of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the American Society for Testing Material.

On the Fourth of July the Fort William concert band will hold an excursion, bringing to Duluth about 600 people. Many others are planned.

To Employ Special Chefs.

Announcement has been made by the Pittsburg Steamship company that chefs will be employed to attend to the wants of the passengers on some of larger boats. Heretofore the help has been engaged only for the boat crews, and the chefs have considered themselves overworked when asked to wait upon passengers, and in doing so they have been accepting tips. The company believes that with the employment of a special chef for the boats that carry passengers, this nuisance will be abated.

WEST END NEWS

POLICEMEN NOT NEEDED

Lincoln School Has an Efficient Force of Its Own.

Seventh Grade Boys Guard Ice Cream While Graduates Dine.

There is no need of a blue-coated officer of the law to keep off molesters, when social functions are held at the Lincoln school—thanks to the diplomacy of Miss Franc Ensign, principal.

Miss Ensign had an idea and worked it out. She organizes the unruly and mischievous element of the school against itself. Whenever a misguided youth is wont to create a disturbance while an entertainment is in progress, or better still, to steal the ice cream at a social affair, is it necessary to call out the minions of the law?

Hardly, thinks Miss Ensign. There would be fifty willing hands to grab the miscreant and fifty willing feet to trot him off to some cool reposing pool in beautiful Lincoln park. Here the wayward one would be punished in accordance with the provocation.

This was why everything went off "lovely" at the twelfth annual banquet of the Lincoln school graduating class at the schoolhouse, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Fourth street. While the eighth grade students were attentive to gastronomic activities inside, a patrol of the seventh grade boys guarded the schoolhouse from any onslaught of underclassmen.

The banquet was one of the most successful ever held. It was a pretty affair, the decorations consisting of orange and black, the class colors. Hand-painted menu cards graced the table. Covers were laid for 160, which included the members of the graduating class and the faculty. The girls of the seventh grade served the dinner, which was a six-course affair.

After the dinner, Walter Dahl arose and assumed the duties of toastmaster. Toasts were given to the Lincoln school, the faculty, the boys, the girls, the class, and the class history, prophecy and legacy were read. These contained many puns which referred to nearly every member of the class in some way. Among the speakers during the evening were: Sidney Jensen, Sidney McTaggert, Valborg Newborg, Wilhelmena Swann, Ruby McDonald, George Jensen, Myrtle Hultquist, Edna Johnson, Guy Anderson, Sybyl Jensen, Ames Bergquist and Anna Wick.

After the dinner games were played and other amusements indulged in.

CHURCH MEMBERS WILL BURN $3,000 MORTGAGE.

All arrangements have been completed for the ceremonies incident to the burning of a $3,000 mortgage by the congregation of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, tomorrow evening.

P. G. Hanson, oldest member of the congregation will be master of ceremonies. He will give a brief history of the church. Others will also give talks. Miss Valborg Gunderson of Superior will render a violin solo, Prof. J. T. Morck, also of Superior will play the piano and vocal selections will be rendered by the Normanna Singing society.

The disposing of the $3,000 mortgage leaves an indebtedness of but $5,000 on a $30,000 brick and stone edifice built five years ago.

LARGE CLASS WILL BE CONFIRMED.

A class of thirty-four will be confirmed Sunday at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. The confirmation exercises will be at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. DROWNS IN HARBOR SLIP

West End Boy Loses His Life While Fishing.

Falls From Dock—Companion Attempts Rescue in Vain.

Marshall Sayen, aged 7, slipped off a dock on Garfield avenue and was drowned in the bay at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

A playmate, Reuben Robillard, 8 years old, tried for fifteen minutes to rescue him with a fishing rod, but the drowning boy was too weak to hold on to the pole until help could be summoned.

Young Sayen was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sayen of 1031 Cox avenue. The body was recovered two hours after the accident and taken to the J. L. Crawford undertaking rooms.

The funeral will be held Friday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. Jean Baptiste Catholic church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street to Calvary cemetery.

The Sayen lad and his chum, young Robillard were perched on a telegraph pole which extended over the water from the Northern Pacific dock on Garfield avenue. Marshall accidentally slipped, but his chum hung on. When the youngster was floundering in the water, Reuben reached his fishing rod down, but the drowning boy did not have the strength to pull himself up.

No one was in sight when young Robillard saw his playmate's body sinking, he climbed off the pole and ran for assistance. Help came too late. The police were notified and after a two hours' search, the body was recovered. The water at this point was about eighteen feet deep.

The dock is a favorite fishing spot for boys and yesterday's accident was the first that has occurred there in some time. The dock is used principally for lumber boats.

The Robillard boy resides at 816 Garfield avenue.

STATE MANUFACTURES HAVE GROWN RAPIDLY IN THE LAST FIVE YEARS

employed in the conduct of manufacturing enterprises. In the final bulletins and reports there will be a separate statement of the rental paid for such property.

The cost of materials used was $281,622,000 in 1909, as against $210,554,000 in 1904; an increase of $71,068,000, or 34 per cent. The average cost of materials per establishment was approximately $51,000 in 1909, and $44,000 in 1904. In addition to the component materials which enter into the products of the establishment for the census year there are included fuel, rent of power and heat, and mill supplies. The cost of materials, however, does not include unused materials and supplies bought either for speculation or for use during a subsequent period.

Value of Products.

The value of products was $409,420,000 in 1909, and $307,858,000 in 1904; an increase of $101,562,000, or 33 per cent. The average per establishment was approximately $74,000 in 1909, and $65,000 in 1904.

The value of products represents the product as actually turned out by the factories during the census year and does not necessarily have any relation to the amount of sales for that year. The values under this head also include the amount received for work done on materials furnished by others.

Value Added by Manufacture.

The value added by manufacture was $127,798,000 in 1909, and $97,304,000 in 1904, an increase of $30,494,000 or 31 per cent. It formed 31 per cent of the total value of products in 1909 and 32 per cent in 1904. It represents the difference between the cost of materials used and the value of products after the manufacturing processes have been expended upon them.

The miscellaneous expenses amounted to $31,517,000 in 1909 and $24,494,000 in 1904, an increase of $7,023,000, or 29 per cent. The average per establishment was approximately $6,000 in 1909 and $5,000 in 1904. Miscellaneous expenses include rent of factory or works, taxes, and amount paid for contract work, and these items, as well as such office and other expenses as can not be elsewhere classified, will appear separately in the final reports.

The salaries and wages amounted to $62,922,000 in 1909, and $44,876,000 in 1904, an increase of $18,046,000 or 40 per cent.

The number of salaried officials and clerks was 14,263 in 1909, and 9,141 in 1904, an increase of 5,122, or 56 per cent.

The average number of wage earners employed during the year was 84,768 in 1909, and 69,636 in 1904, an increase of 15,132, or 22 per cent.

The primary horse power was 297,670 in 1909, and 226,934 in 1904, an increase of 70,736, or 35 per cent. The average horse power per establishment, considering all establishments, was approximately 54-horse power in 1909, and 46 in 1904.

The comparative summary for the state, 1904 and 1909, follows:

DELEGATES GATHER FOR CONVENTION OF N. M. D. ASSOCIATION

Bemidji, Feb. 18, 1910, it was a lusty infant. It had grown when it made its next public appearance at Crookston and it had reached manhood's stage at Brainerd. It did a composite man's work for Northern Minnesota at the last session of the legislature, and it has developed in plans, policies and influence for the Duluth meeting.

Although the Northern Minnesota Development association did not get all it wanted at the last session of the legislature, it was a power to be reckoned with. It obtained legislation for Northern Minnesota that would at least have been more difficult to obtain, had not the counties affected been working in unison under the association's banner. It is a great power, and its aims are for good. It attracts to its councils the brightest minds, the hardest workers, the most sincerely public spirited men of thirty-four counties, and when it speaks it voices the sentiments of thousands of citizens of Minnesota, who have at heart the good of the whole state, as well as of the section in which they dwell.

The program arranged for the meeting this week is made up of a series of addresses on subjects of vital interest to Northern Minnesota and the state. The association will waste no time while it is in session. The speeches will all be short, but in the short space of time allotted, each speaker will cram all the information, all the reasoning, all the logic born of experience, that can be uttered. Each

W. R. MACKENZIE,
Secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development Association.

speaker has been selected with the knowledge that he has an intelligent grasp of his subject; each speaker will know that he has the sympathy of his audience—an audience that desires to know what is best for the development of a great region that sadly needs development.

Not a Mere Talkfest.

The Northern Minnesota Development association does not intend to turn its convention into a talkfest entirely. Constructive plans will be laid, as they were made at former meetings, and they will be carried out, if honest, intelligent, serious endeavor will bring about their consummation. The resolutions that will carry the ultimate results of the meeting, will be food for reflection on the part of those who doubt the association's motives. The development of Northern Minnesota is the association's object, and the plans for that development will be in entire accord with the slogan adopted by the organization, "Boost for Minnesota."

Northern Minnesota will not be alone in its deliberations. The meeting has been thoroughly advertised, by the press and by circular. Scores of people interested in Northern Minnesota development are coming from the Twin Cities and other parts of Southern Minnesota. Representatives of Wisconsin and Michigan development bureaus will be on hand to see how Northern Minnesota does it and to give the Minnesota boosters the benefit of the experience of boosters in other states.

Secretary W. R. Mackenzie of the association is convinced that his estimate of 800 to 1,000 visitors is not too high. He has received lists of delegates and requests for badges from every county in the association, while many people from outside of the association's territory have notified him that they are coming to Duluth for the meeting. The hotels have made reservations for hundreds of guests, and many will be entertained by friends while they are in the city.

The Duluth Commercial club and Mr. Mackenzie have prepared a program of entertainment to fill in the hours outside of the sessions. The delegates have been urged to bring their wives and daughters to Duluth for the sessions and the steamer rides and auto rides have been arranged especially for the entertainment of the woman visitors.

The white badges of the visitors will be conspicuous on the streets of Duluth for the next two days. Every Duluthian will recognize the white-badge wearers as good boosters for Northern Minnesota and good friends of Duluth. Duluth is hospitable, and it will stretch a point in its hospitality to its friends of Northern Minnesota. The white badge should be an open sesame to every Duluthian's friendship and the glad hand will be extended without reservation.

The Entertainment Program.

The program of entertainment will open tonight with a theater party at the Orpheum. The guests will meet at the Commercial club at 7:45. Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a steamer ride around the harbor, and at 7:30 tomorrow evening the steamer will carry visitors around the horn. At 8:30 in the evening a smoker will be held at the Commercial club. Secretary Mackenzie has prepared a good program for the entertainment of the visitors. During the smoker, the guests who do not wish to attend will have the steamer at their disposal to view Duluth and Superior from the harbor.

For Friday afternoon a double program of entertainment has also been arranged. One party will go to Two Harbors by steamer, while another will have an automobile ride around the city.

Following is the complete program of the meeting:

GREAT NORTHERN IS PREPARED TO EXPEND MILLIONS

the company on the Burlington joint 4's maturing in 1921 and aggregating $222,400,000.

Can Use $270,000,000.

"Covering a future of fifty years, approximately $270,000,000 in bonds therefore, will be available for general corporate purposes, double tracking and additional mileage.

"Since its beginning thirty-two years ago the Great Northern has expended between $350,000,000 and $400,000,000 out of capital and earnings. The provision made for the future, in consideration of the rapidly growing territory which Great Northern lines serve, would seem intelligently conservative. In no other part of the country has nature more generously bestowed those three great sources of all national wealth—the farm, the forest and the mine—and nowhere else is there more room for such development as follows the occupation of a new country by an intelligent population.

To Meet All Demands.

"The railway company evidently has made ample financial provision to enable it to keep its facilities and extensions equal to all demands that a rapidly growing country may make upon it, and, at the same time, to maintain the highest and most efficient standard of service. Future issuance of bonds against the property acquired is safeguarded by the restrictions usually found in mortgages of this kind."

tors who had waited all night to witness his departure. The aviator flew away at a tremendous speed, but after covering a few miles his monoplane suddenly fell to the ground and was wrecked. Garros, however, was not hurt and he hurried back to Pisa to await the arrival of a new aeroplane with which to resume his flight.

Machines Turned Somersaults.

Beaumont and Frey, who left Genoa this morning for Rome, both mistook the race course here, which was decorated with flags, for the aerodrome at Cascine Di San Rossore, and landed heavily. Their machines turned somersaults and were badly damaged. Frey was slightly wounded.

All three aviators are working desperately to get their machines into shape to resume the flight. The airmen met with a cordial reception on arriving here.

Beaumont repaired his aeroplane and left Pisa in the direction of Rome at 12:55 this afternoon.

Garros on hearing of the departure of his rival, said:

"There is many a slip between the cup and the lip."

Garros expected to follow Beaumont within a short time.

Beaumont at Rome.

Rome, May 31.—Andre Beaumont, the French aviator, arrived here at 3:55 o'clock this afternoon. He was the first contestant in the big Paris-Rome-Turin aviation flight to reach the Italian capital, the end of the second stage of the big race. His magnificent flight from Pisa, a distance of about 160 miles, made him the winner of a $20,000 prize.

LAST DAY ON RECIPROCITY

quested to come to Washington at once.

Quizzed Bachelder First.

Before Allen and Graham were heard by the committee, N. J. Bachelder, president of the National Grange, made a statement, declaring that Allen & Graham had "acted only under the direction of the legislative and executive committee of the National Grange."

"Are not many members of the grange," inquired Senator Stone, "women, children and others who are not farmers?"

Mr. Bachelder said he did not have statistics to show.

"Was not the membership of the National Grange in Indiana, for instance," queried Mr. Stone, "about 15,000 ten years ago and has it not decreased to about 1,000?"

"I think not," answered Mr. Bachelder.

Could Not Recall.

In answer to numerous questions by Mr. Stone as to various features of the grange's activity and membership, Mr. Bachelder said he could not recall, whereupon Senator Stone asked him to prepare a statement for the committee giving figures showing the membership of the grange. He said that members were often carried for years after they had ceased to pay their annual dues.

"Did you employ Allen & Graham as legal advisers?" asked Senator Stone.

"Yes, to a certain extent," was the answer. "I have conferred with them on matters pertaining to legislation. There is nothing on their letterhead but 'Allen & Graham.'" and today the city is practically deserted. Many of those who were here in automobiles remained over night and got early starts homeward this morning.

Had No Mechanician.

One of the notable features of Ray Harroun's victory in his Marmon "Wasp," was the fact that he did not carry a mechanician. Harroun had a mirror fastened in front of him, by which he could tell who was following him and the condition of his rear tires. In this way he was able to dispense with a mechanician and lighten his car. For several days before the race Harroun was busy in perfecting little details, including air cushions and ventilation of the inside of his car, which permitted him to come out of the race seemingly the freshest of all the pilots who went into the long grind.

The body of Dickson, the only person killed in the contest, will be shipped to his home in Chicago.

PASSENGERS SEE CYCLONE

A storm near Hinckley about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon frightened some passengers on the Northern Pacific's Lake Superior Limited.

The train was standing on a side track when a funnel-shaped cloud moved across the country in the distance. The passengers could see debris in the air. When the train crossed the path of the small tornado the passengers saw that a clean swath had been cut. The only damage was to some second growth timber.

ELOCUTION CONTEST AT CATHEDRAL AUDITORIUM.

The freshmen and sophomores of the Christian Brothers' high school held their annual elocution contest in the cathedral auditorium last evening before a large audience. Lorenzo J. Jones took first prize for the freshmen and Joseph J. Dillon for the sophomores. Joseph Windle was second and Edward White and John G. Twohy tied for third in the first year class. Vincent J. Fitzgerald took second and William J. Fitzgerald, third for the sophomores. The judges were Rev. Raymond Basil, J. D. Mahon, V. M. Grady, J. R. Kuth and F. J. Dacey. Several selections were given by the high school glee club and Edward J. Dillon rendered a violin solo.

A little one-act sketch "No Men Wanted" will be played this evening at the Young Women's Christian association by three of the girls who live there. The sketch revolves about Elizabeth Rowley and Isabel Granger, two bachelor girls and their colored maid, Prynella Abercrombie, and is full of humorous situations. The three who are to display their histrionic ability have kept their identity a secret and a great deal of curiosity has been aroused. This little event is open only to members of the association.

The membership contest which has been carried on during the past three weeks will close this evening. This morning the team representing the Bible study department was in the lead with Miss Tess McDermitt as captain. The dormitory department was second and the extension department third.

CHILDREN'S MATINEE.

Demand For Seats Greatly Exceeds Supply.

One of the busiest women in this city this week is Miss Carlotta Simonds, the chairman of the committee in charge of the school matinee of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra on Friday at 4 p. m.

The Lyceum theater holds about 1,500 people and there are at least 3,000 school children who would like to attend the concert, and through the principals and teachers in the schools are making their wants known in no uncertain manner. There is not a single school which has been able to obtain all the tickets asked for, and Miss Simonds has been having a merry time trying to satisfy all requests. Miss Simonds and the ladies associated with her take charge of this matinee for the children as a labor of love, and there is plenty of labor before the concert is over. Their satisfaction in working is seeing the huge audience of young faces beaming with delight when Emil Oberhoff lifts his baton to guide his fine orchestra through the program of the afternoon. To Miss Simonds and her friends of the concert is the greatest concert of the festival.

The interest in the festival proper continues unabated. On Monday, even with the excitement of the visit of Bernhardt, there was a continuous sale at the Lyceum and indications point to great houses. The orchestra will arrive early Friday morning and from advices received by Mr. Reyner, all the soloists are in excellent voice, and Mrs. Tewksbury is looking forward especially to singing for the children on Friday afternoon.

Sentiment Always Leads

By CARA REESE.

If you wait long enough you will find that business or wage-earning is a matter of sentiment after all.

You have heard the contrary doctrine preached all your days—namely, that business is not a matter of sentiment but a cold-blooded dollars and cents proposition. Perhaps you have not only heard the expounding but have experienced the shock of dismissal, retirement or retrograde action and to your plea for a hearing have met with, "business is business," or "business has nothing to do with sentiment."

Or, even to go further, perhaps to your appeal for leniency in time of illness, or your hesitancy to face dangers or poisonous fumes too frequently, or your plea for less stress and strain in hours of toil, you have met with the curt command, "You may quit if it does not suit you." Or the "personal" must be eliminated and all toilers brought down to a machine basis.

If you wait long enough you will find that business and toil are matters of sentiment after all! Strange, now, isn't it, how things come to pass without any fuss or flurry, and simply as a result of the tiny seed of sentiment growing and spreading in a quiet, healthful fashion? Strange now, isn't it, that the heretofore unapproachable and evidently uncaring of those in the "high seats" of influence and authority, should, without a nudge, start their humane investigations as to overwork and poor pay? Strange, and yet not strange. There is a human streak in everybody, and it starts to glow under the warming radiance of sentiment. Sentiment will accomplish the task it sets out to do, and accomplish better results than possibly any other influence.

If you wait long enough, you will find that business is a matter of sentiment after all. You will find that dangers in the giant mills are being minimized, perilous places are under guard, provision for elbow room and a chance for escape when the accident happens are now planned, while safety appliances are rapidly being installed. There are safety engineers, warning posters and "guards" of all kinds.

Sentiment plays its benign part in other regards in the workaday world. There is the care of the health, a thought for the comfort and a desire for the uplift of those who toil. Business is business, cruelly alert and driving sometimes, but sentiment eventually overtakes and lays a firm hand on the reins. This is the mission of the people after all—namely, as makers and promoters of sentiment.

Wonderful is the power of sentiment which is working quietly like a leaven in the lump. The ballot and legislation have their wise place in public affairs, efficiency in management and the close watchfulness of business interests are the requirements of these days of keen competition, but nevertheless, sentiment never sleeps. At the right time it rules and leads.

MAY RECORDS FOR THE VICTOR MACHINE.

Three "Pink Lady" records have appeared on the May special list of the new Victor records. This musical operetta has been one of the biggest hits since "The Merry Widow" and has been running in New York for some time. The biggest hits of the show are included in the series which the Victor now issues—the melodious and flowing "Beautiful Lady" waltz, charmingly sung by Miss Marsh and chorus; the lively Saskatchewan song, with its attractive refrain, and a superb medley of the principal hits given by the Victor's talented opera organization.

Among other numbers which are at the head of the list are the Lucia Sextette sung by the Victor Opera Sextette. Alma Gluck, the youngest prima-donna of the Metropolitan Opera company sings "My Laddie," a touchingly effective Scotch song, and "Habanera" by the two Cuban writers is also delightfully sung by her.

The records by Vessella's Italian band, too, will be of particular interest, his control over his band, the unusual precision and shading being shown to good advantage in the three numbers this band plays—the Oriental waltz, "A Vision of Salome," Gottschalk's "The Last Hope," and Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata."

There are many other popular and classical numbers which will be equally as well liked.

THE EVENING STORY

THE TEA CANISTER

By Fergus Hume.

"It's an utterly absurd will!" declared the young man, fuming.

"Certainly an imperative one," admitted the lawyer blandly. "Still, your late aunt always liked to have her own way."

"And everyone else's too, Mr. Brooks."

"Natural enough from a woman's point of view. Still, five thousand a year with a fine old family mansion and estate—" the lawyer coughed. "That should please you, Mr. Hastings."

"Well, it doesn't," retorted Mr. Hastings, "the moment I am told not to do a thing, I immediately want to do it."

"Your aunt seems to have guessed as much, and so—" waving his hand towards the will he coughed again, whereat Mr. Hastings swore softly.

Mr. Hastings was a nice looking young man of 25, with a tanned skin and small moustache, and closely clipped fair hair. His spotless attire showed that he owed more to his tailor than his position allowed, yet hard up as Ned Hastings was, he had never calculated that his aunt would leave him her money, as he always disobeyed her wishes.

She had left all her money to him, but with a restriction that put him in a fine rage. He would have to obey her now or lose all the fortune, but the odd part was he had never given a thought towards doing what his aunt objected to in the will.

"Just read the old will again, Mr. Brooks," he said.

The lawyer did so. It was short and to the point, and left Edward Allan Hastings, five thousand a year, an estate, and mansion on condition that he did not marry Miss Elsie Hanson, companion of testatrix. If he did, all was to go to an orphan asylum. To Miss Hanson she left an antique tortoise shell tea canister of the Queen Anne period, which she had bought in England.

"And it isn't worth a dollar," burst out Ned. "The poor girl was with her four years, and put up with all her tantrums. I never would; the old cat!"

"Well, Mr. Hastings, the 'old cat,' has left you a very handsome fortune and I congratulate you."

"Don't be in a hurry," said Ned. "I mayn't take it!"

"Oh!" Mr. Brook's face expressed great astonishment. "Then—pardon me —Mr. Hastings, but are you in love with—"

"With Miss Hanson? No, I'm not, and I never intended to be until I heard that rotten will."

"But I don't see—"

"Of course, you don't," interrupted the client, "no one expected that you should. After all, she is a deuced pretty girl, and she nursed me when I broke my arm, and kept my aunt away from bothering me, and if I choose to marry the girl, that's my affair and not—"

"But you don't want to marry her. You said as much."

"I don't, at least, I didn't until I heard that will, and now I think she's the prettiest girl I ever saw, and—"

"Take care Mr. Hastings. She will cost you—"

"It's all bosh," interrupted Ned. "I don't want to lose the fortune, but what right has Aunt Madge to tell me that I'm not to marry the girl?"

"Well, what is your decision?" demanded Mr. Brooks crossly.

"I shall tell you when I've seen Miss Hanson," he replied and went out.

Once out, he was undecided what to do. He went to the club to try and make up his mind. At a late hour he went home to bed, and when he awoke was somewhat refreshed. In this state of mind he began to think what a fool he was to give up this fortune just for the sake of managing things his own way. He sat down and wrote to Mr. Brooks accepting the money on conditions made in the will.

Then his obstinate vein came uppermost and he tore the letter into shreds, and went out, ordered a taxi and started to see Miss Hanson.

She was still staying at the mansion which would be his if he did not marry her. When he arrived he asked the butler where he could find Miss Hanson, and was told that she was under the Druid's Oak.

He went out and found her sitting under the gigantic tree with the canister in her lap, and her eyes were red from weeping. Ned said to himself that he had never seen her look so pretty, and he felt a desire to take her in his arms and kiss her. He felt a thrill somewhere about the region of the heart, but refused to call it love.

"Mr. Hastings!" cried the girl, rising so suddenly that the canister fell on the grass. "I—I—I didn't expect to see you."

Ned handed her the canister.

"And you didn't want to see me, I suppose," he observed.

"No, Mr. Hastings," she added quietly, "I certainly did not."

"I can't help my aunt leaving me the fortune," said Ned.

Miss Hanson cut him short. "I am glad you got it-" she said, "but"—here she flushed and bit her lip, "your aunt left me this thing, and a letter came with it saying I was not to open it until the wedding day."

The young man stared. "In heaven's name, why?"

"I don't know, Mr. Brooks is to give me the key after I am married. I have a good mind to break the old thing open now," she said.

"Let me help you," said Ned, but she warded him off.

"I shall obey her," she said. "She must have had some reason."

"She never had any reason except her constant desire to bully," said Ned, "and when I think how she treated you, Elsie,"——.

"Miss Hanson, to you, Mr. Hastings," was the haughty reply.

"It was Ned and Elsie when you nursed me," he answered.

"But times have changed."

"They have," he said. "You have the tea canister, and I have nothing."

"How can that be when the will——"

"Oh, hang the will. I—er—beg your pardon."

"I don't mind. Say it again," and her eyes shone.

"Hang the will!" said Ned fervently. She sighed in a happy manner.

"That does no good. It's a horrid will indeed. But I daresay you think so."

"Yes I do. I would rather you had the money."

"Oh, nonsense," said Elsie, "you require it badly."

"I require you badly."

"How dare you speak to me in that way," she stamped her pretty foot. "Your aunt insulted me, and now you do the same. Go live at the mansion on your five thousand a year, and leave me and my canister."

"I'm not going to live at the mansion alone," said Ned as she began to cry. "Don't dear—don't."

"Yes I will, you horrid thing. The will—"

"Hang the will, and da—"

"Don't swear." Elsie placed her hand over his mouth.

Ned caught and kissed it. "Oh, Elsie darling—"

The girl tore herself away. "You coward," she sobbed, and dropped on the grass to weep floods of angry tears.

Ned was distressed. He knelt on the grass. "I didn't mean to hurt your feelings, dear. Can't you understand. I-I-I-love you."

Elsie sat up with a gasp. "You don't—you can't—you shouldn't. It is impossible for you to love me in five minutes."

"I've known you five years, and I liked you a lot, and now aunt says I shan't marry you, but I jolly well will.

"You haven't my consent yet."

"But you'll give it dear, I know you will."

"How absurd you are. I'm not worth five thousand."

"And the house and estate. Yes, you are, you are worth the world to me, darling. Bother the money and becomo my wife."

"No! no! no!" cried Elsie. "I can't let you marry me. It's your chivalry."

"It's my selfishness," Ned assured her.

"I don't think its selfish to give up a fortune for—for—"

"Love," suggested Ned. "Say love."

"No, indeed I shan't. You can't possibly love me. I know quite well why you want to marry me. You always hated being told anything, specially by your aunt, and when she says you are not to marry me you—"

"No, really no," Ned exclaimed earnestly. "I know I'm obstinate but I'm not such a hound as to order you to marry me to spite my aunt. I came down to see if you would acceppt part of the money for that infernal canister, but when I saw you—" his eyes grew sunny—"I realized that you were the only wife for me."

"Do you really mean that, Ned?"

"Can't you see?" he advanced with masterful arms, but she slipped behind the trunk of the tree, half amused and half annoyed. They ran round and round, Elsie crying out breathlessly:

"You don't know your own mind. You always were silly."

"Always, save on this occasion. Ah! I've caught you at last. Dearest Elsie, do-do-say—"

"I shall say nothing for a week anyhow."

"And then darling?"

Elsie laughed and pushed him away. "Go away," said Elsie, "and if you are in the same mind in seven days—"

"Well? Well? Well?"

Miss Hanson twisted herself out of his embrace and fled. "I shall consider what to say," came floating back as she sped to the house.

Ned went away burning with affection and wrote Mr. Brooks that he was going to marry Miss Hanson in one month.

As a matter of fact he did not marry her for three. At the end of that time they were married quietly. At the end of the ceremony Mr. Brooks gave them the key to the canister.

They started to the West on their honeymoon. Suddenly they remembered the canister which had not been opened. They unlocked it and all they found was a big blue envelope addressed in the hand writing of Aunt Madge to Mrs. Edward Allan Hastings.

"Hang it," Ned murmured. "She expected I would marry you after all."

Elsie laughed and said, "My dear, she knew how obstinate you were—but what—oh, Ned, it's a will!"

It certainly was—a later will which left the whole fortune to Ned without any restriction. With the will was a letter which read:

"Your husband never would obey me, my dear, Elsie, but I know that he has done so now, for you will only read this letter on your wedding day, and when you are the wife of that mulish nephew of mine. My dear, I knew that you loved him ages ago, and if I was hard on you when I was alive, it was only because I wished to assure myself that you would make Ned a good wife. Not that Ned deserves such a one, as he is so obstinate. He always declined to obey me, and I am quite sure that even the possible loss of five thousand a year has not kept him from what he thinks is his own way. Well, in spite of being dead, I have forced him to obey me, and to marry the girl whom I trained so carefully to be his wife. My knowledge of human nature in general, and of Ned's nature in particular, has enabled me to carry out this little scheme. Ask your husband, "she asked solemnly, "how do you feel now?"

The reader broke off to look at Ned. "My husband," she asked solemnly, "how do you feel now?"

"I feel," said the happy bridegroom covering her with kisses, "that Aunt Madge has scored a bull's eye and that I am properly sold. Listen dear," he said, "can't you hear Aunt Madge's ghost chuckling?"

The Kitchen

Rice Cheesecakes.

Ingredients: A quarter of a pound of butter, a quarter of a pound of sugar, a quarter of a pound of ground rice, two eggs and a few drops of essence of lemon. Method: Well whisk the eggs, and add to them all the other ingredients. Line some patty tins with pastry, fill with the mixture, and bake for about a quarter of an hour. Tried and found successful.

Almond Rice Pudding.

The following almond rice pudding is delicious, and far above the ordinary milk puddings in both looks and flavor. The remains of cold rice mould could be used up, or sufficient rice could be boiled on the hot range the night before. Put the cold rice in a pie dish, stir into it a pint of milk, two ounces of butter, two ounces of sugar, and the yolks of two eggs (well beaten). Beat the whites separately, and add to them half an ounce of mixed ground almonds. Pile this lightly on the top of the pudding and bake for about an hour.

Banana Jelly and Almonds.

Line a mould with calf's foot jelly about an inch thick. When set, place in the bananas (sliced), and cover with cool jelly, then throw in blanched and split almonds. Do this until the mould is full. Set away for a night, or put upon ice. Turn out carefully. Surround the dish with blocks of whipped cream.

Caramel Pudding.

Mix together three ounces of bread crumbs and two ounces of crushed savoy biscuits in a bowl. Dissolve three ounces of castor sugar and a tablespoonful of water in a little sauce pan over the fire, letting it remain until it becomes a rich coffee color. Shake the pan gently to prevent any part of it from becoming brown. Add half a pint of milk (the sugar will harden as the milk is added, but will melt again in a few minutes) then strain it over the crumbs, stir well, add the sugar, the yolks of two eggs, a few drops of vanilla, and when well mixed, stir in lightly the stiff whisked whites of eggs. Smear a mould with butter, and sprinkle it with sugar, so that every part of the mould is covered. This will glaze the pudding. Pour in mixture, cover with buttered paper, steam for one hour, and serve with wine sauce.

OPEN SEASON FOR TOURISTS

Flowing White Veils and Field Glasses Again in Evidence.

Local Hotel Keepers Are Preparing for Very Busy Season.

Though the tourist season cannot be said to be open, for it has an official opening like the trout season, the tourists are already beginning to straggle in. Some of the first of the season have made their appearance, coming up the lakes on a freighter, and flowing white veils, field glasses and traveling caps are again in evidence on the streets.

In Duluth the official tourist season is generally declared on when the North West steams up to the dock and unloads a nifty bunch of people from the East. This has not happened as yet, but some of the bolder of the tourists have taken the freight boat route, and are "in our midst."

Some of the campers are getting an early start also, for the Spalding hotel has housed several Minneapolis and St. Paul people over night, who are en route to Isle Royale and Grand Marais. They are going to spend the summer there, according to the story they gave out to the hotel people, and are going early to avoid the rush.

Officials of the Spalding hotel are figuring upon a very heavy business. Today reservations for rooms were made for July and August. This is a very early date for making reservations for that time of the season, and the incident is considered one pointing to a very heavy season.

REPUTATION NOT DAMAGED

James Cummings Fails to Recover From Telephone Company.

A jury in district court has decided that James Cummings is not entitled to $15,260 for damage to his reputation from the Duluth Telephone company, and returned a verdict for the defendant after listening to his case, presented before Judge Cant of the district court.

Cummings sued the company for damages which he claims his reputation suffered when he was accused by the company of having stolen 300 pounds of copper wire.

He claims that he was accused of the theft, but the case was never brought to trial for lack of sufficient evidence. The company maintained that Cummings' actions in regard to the missing wire were sufficiently suspicious to warrant arrest.

DULUTH ELKS WILL PLAY BALL

The ball players of the Duluth lodge of Elks will lock horns with those of the Superior brethren who think they know something of the great national game, next Sunday morning.

The Duluth bunch will journey across the bay with the benevolent intention of showing the Superiorites some of the elements of the game. However, as a precautionary measure they admit in a whisper that they will not be averse to picking up a point or two themselves. The real purpose is to get into trim for the big game which will be pulled off at Athletic park Sunday, June 18, with the St. Paul aggregation.

The reports from the Capital city are to the effect that they have some real ball players in the lodge who are anxious to get the scalp of the local nine. But the Duluth herd is not so terribly hard up in this respect, having a crew which is expected to give the team from the lower part of the state a run for their money. The Virginia Elks have issued a challenge to the winner of the St. Paul-Duluth game, and the indications are that a series of games between Elks lodges in this part of the state will be played this season.

TO CELEBRATE FEAST OF WEEKS

Jews of Duluth Will Observe Shebuoth Beginning Friday June 2.

The Feast of Weeks, a Jewish recalled because it is celebrated seven annually, will be celebrated by Duluth Jews beginning on June 2.

There will be special services at Temple Emanuel Friday evening at 8 p. m. The confirmation services, at which time a number of children will be confirmed, will be held Sunday morning. Rabbi Lofkowitz will officiate at both services.

Shebuoth (the Feast of Weeks) is so called because it is celebrated seven weeks after the second day of the Passover festival. It is sometimes called the Pentecost, as it falls on the "fiftieth" day after the above-mentioned date. The days between the two festivals are ceremonially counted (Omer), and are observed by the more orthodox as a reason of abstinence, no marriages being contracted in that season. Shebuoth is the festival of the first fruits, the early harvest festival. In the ancient Temple, a sheaf of barley was presented at the altar, together with other sacrifices. The day has been associated in Jewish tradition with the Sinaitic Revelation. It is in this character that it has been selected by the modern reform synagog for the annual Confirmation day. It shares the joyous character of the other Pilgrim Festivals. It is only observed one day (orthodox custom adds a second.) It is regarded as the corner stone of the Jewish faith, the memorial of the giving of the Ten Words. The harvest character of the day is preserved in the floral offering brought by the confirmants, also by readings from the book of Ruth, the idyl of the early agricultural life of the Jew. Its deeper significance is emphasized by the solemn confirmation of the adolescent boys and girls upon the occasion.

A. A. Hobbs of Minneapolis and Duluth is in the city today after having completed an arrangement which involved the sale of $1,500,000 worth of timber on Discovery bay, Washington. It is believed that when the Panama canal is completed coast timber can be laid down in New York as cheaply as Northwestern timber.

SISTERS IN LEGAL FIGHT

Dispute Over Father's Estate Is Carried Into Probate Court.

Claimed Last Will Was Made When He Was Incompetent.

An old-fashioned contest over a will is going on today in probate court before Judge S. W. Gilpin.

The contest is between Gunhilda Bakken and Laura Alme, who are sisters, and is for the property left by their father, Jeremias Halseth, who died several months ago, leaving an estate valued at about $7,000.

There are two wills and Judge Gilpin will have to decide which one should be followed.

One will was filed in probate court March 25, 1911, and in this will he leaves his property equally divided between his two dauhters. One daughter claims that he was incompetent at the time this will was made.

The other will was made Oct. 14, 1909, and in this will he left all his property to Gunhilda Bakken and, in addition, asked that she be appointed administratrix of his estate and that she be put under bond to carry out the terms of the will, which were only that she pay his just debts and keep the remainder.

There will probably be a number of hearings in probate on the matter. More than fifteen witnesses were examined this morning.

The main question is: Was Halseth of sound mind when he made the last will? Laura Alme claims that he was and her sister claims that he was not. Several witnesses this morning testified that so far as they knew, he was capable of disposing of his property.

Halseth was an old resident of the city. He owned a tenement house on St. Croix avenue and a parcel of land behind the city. It was estimated that the estate is worth about $7,000.

Nature Required Dentists.

The teeth are the only part of the body which do not renew themselves in case of decay, accident or sickness. Flesh, skin, sinew, bone, all will build themselves when the cause of trouble is removed, but the teeth when once formed never change except by decay. Therefore nature provided its own doctor in a way for everything except the teeth. That is why dentists claim that they are the only really necessary doctor. Malt is also necessary for the digestion of the starches, and none is in such palatable shape as in golden grain belt beers, the great tonic aid to digestion. Your dealer or duluth branch minneapolis brewing company will supply you.

Mr. Panton has been for years a general favorite with the employes of the store, and the dinner this evening is a testimonial upon the part of the employes as well as the officials, to the esteem in which Mr. Panton was held.

BANQUET FOR INSURANCE MEN.

A banquet will be given at the Spalding this evening for the local and visiting officials of the Prudential Life Insurance company. E. L. Whittaker, the superintendent of the Duluth district, has been instrumental in arranging the details. In addition to the men employed in the Duluth office of the company, M. C. Johnson of Newark, N. J., division manager of the company, and W. A. Thompson of Minneapolis, one of the district managers, will be present.

Invitations are also out for other of the outside officials of the company, but Mr. Whittaker stated today that he was not at all positive that they would attend.

Mayor M. B. Cullum will be one of the speakers, and Judge J. B. Middlecoff will also be on the program.

The officials of the company, together with the men employed in the local office will get together for the purpose of discussing the affairs of this district, of hearing some of the things the men outside have to say regarding the progress of the company, and also to thoroughly enjoy themselves.

WILL BE SENT BACK TO SWEDEN.

Immigration officers will take Carl Swanson to New York this evening for deportation to Sweden.

Swanson is 20 years old and has been located in Superior for the past two years, coming directly there from Sweden. When a boy Swanson had an injury to his thigh, and during his residence in Superior he developed tuberculosis in the thigh. Several operations were performed upon him, but it was decided by medical men that in order to save his life an amputation would be necessary. The attention of the immigration department was called to the case, and it was declared that his deportation would be necessary.

SIX VETERANS ARE VICTIMS OF VIOLENCE.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 31. — Six veterans of the Civil war were victims of violence, either accidental or self-inflicted, yesterday, throughout Pennsylvania.

At Kittanning, James Summerville, aged 73, marching at the rear of the Memorial day procession, was knocked down down by a runaway horse and so badly injured that he may die.

At Beaver Falls, Henry B. Ewing, 76 years of age, accidently walked into a cellarway with his comrades, falling fifteen feet down the stairs. He is in a serious condition.

William A. Kelly fell from a train near West Newton and his mangled body was found after he had been missed by his comrades.

Joseph Reitch, a contractor of Washington, Pa., suffering from melancholia because of death in the family, shot and killed himself.

Sylvester Perkins of Greenville, Pa., was run down by an automobile at Jefferson, Ohio, and is in a serious condition with internal injuries.

Jacob Ranker of this city, who went boating after he had marched in the morning, fell asleep in his boat, which capsized and he was drowned.

About 1,000 delegates are expected to be in attendance from Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin.

OKLAHOMA MISTLETOE.

Northerners who have not investigated the subject are apt to have the idea that mistletoe is to be found only at rare intervals, and then on oak trees, with only a few sprigs growing in a place.

The traveler visiting Oklahoma City during the winter time and taking a walk out to Wheeler park will soon learn better. According to Country Life in America even a considerable distance from the park his attention will be drawn to the strange appearance which the trees present at that season of the year, when the leaves are off and the mistletoe thrives on every branch.

In the summer time when the leaves are on the trees the mistletoe cannot be seen unless it is especially looked for, and then it almost appears to be a part of the natural foliage of the tree upon which it is growing.

Contrary to general belief, mistletoe is rarely found on oak trees, and in Oklahoma is nearly always found on swamp or water elms, which are generally seen growing in lowlands and along river banks. Here it thrives luxuriantly, and does not seem to affect injuriously the trees to which it is attached.

For many years after Christianity was introduced into Northern Europe it was not considered proper to use mistletoe in the decoration of churches on account of the great reverence in which it was held by the pagans and the prominent part it played in their religious ceremonies. However, in recent years this prejudice has worn off, and it now takes its place along with the evergreen and the holly in popular and religious decorative favor.

On account of the viscid juice contained in the berries, the seeds, when carried from tree to tree by birds, adhere to any limb or branch upon which they may fall and germinate, take root and grow there and appear as if they were a part of the original tree.

In Oklahoma two or three weeks before Christmas the annual mistletoe harvest is gathered—generally by boys who don't mind the risky job of climbing into all sizes of trees after it—and brought to town, where it is packed in barrels and boxes and shipped to the Northern cities and towns.

Lord Brougham.

WELCOME, N. M. D. A.!

Delegates to the annual convention of the Northern Minnesota Development association, Duluth bids you and yours a hearty welcome. Take off your coats, hang up your hats, stick your feet up on the sideboard and make yourself comfortable. The freedom of the city is yours, and Duluth wants you to enjoy every minute of your stay.

You are here on a mighty important business, and you come in the capacity that becomes you best. You are here to work for the development of your state, and you come as boosters. "Boost for Minnesota" is the watchword; and you know how to do it.

Tomorrow and next day are going to be very busy days. The meetings at the Armory are crowded full of good things. Men are going to talk about matters of vital interest and importance, and they are men who were selected because they know best how to talk about these matters. This is not a campaign year, and probably there will be little distraction of a political nature, so that those who at previous sessions have been busy repelling the advances of self-seeking politicians will have more time to give to the real business of the meeting.

But though the days are full of important business, the need of relaxation has not been overlooked, and the program includes various excursions and entertainments to every one of which all of you are invited. You will be given every opportunity to see what Duluth is doing and what it is going to do, and your attention is especially directed to the work that is being done toward the development of near-by agricultural possibilities, and to the industrial development that is just setting in.

Here's hoping that you will stay as long as you can, that you will not encounter a dull moment, that you will realize to the full how glad Duluth is to have you here, and that when you go you will carry away with you pleasant memories of this city and of its people.

GUILT IS PERSONAL.

There are intimations that the government contemplates criminal proceedings against the rulers of the tobacco trust, which has just been found guilty of violating the anti-trust law. It is to be hoped that the intimations are correct. Guilt is personal, not corporate; and the Sherman law provides ample means of punishing the persons guilty of violating it. In fact it will be much wiser if, in the future, all proceedings under the Sherman act are against the guilty individuals. A prison sentence or two for trust presidents will go far toward solving the difficulty of corporation control.

THE RIGHT TO LIVE DECENTLY.

Beginning Saturday, there will be held in New York a national housing conference, the first ever held in this country.

This marks a step in the solution of this problem that is highly encouraging and full of promise. It has local interest, too, because one of the items in the Duluth program is better housing conditions for its people.

Not so long ago this matter of housing was left to settle itself. People lived in such homes as they could get and pay for, and they got and paid for such homes as profit-seeking landlords chose to give them for their money. The result was that thousands of people, in this land of plenty, grew rich on the earnings from ghastly tenements in which poverty, squalor, dirt and disease kept riotous company.

People have lived—are still living—in homes so dreadfully poor and squalid and vile that the humane officers would become active if owners of livestock kept their cattle in them.

Hardly any city is so small that it has not its slum. Landlords build tenements because by crowding humanity into them they can get rich dividends, and they build handsome flats and apartments for those able to pay fat rents; but they neglect the needs of the low-waged many. They are looking for profits only, and it is natural that they should build such houses as will return the largest profit on the investment. Unless society steps in, through government, and acts in the interests of the tenants, gross abuses are certain to happen.

There are plenty of accommodations everywhere for those who can pay for them. What is needed is clean, neat, wholesome and comfortable homes for those who can pay but a modest rent. There is not a city in the country that does not suffer from a lack of such homes.

It is not alone consideration for our brothers and sisters who, with ourselves, constitute the human family, though that is reason enough for being interested. There is a more direct appeal than that. Every slum, every dark and foul and reeking hovel, every unlit and unaired room, is a plague spot from which radiates danger to the community. It is in such places that disease germs thrive, and it is from such places that epidemics issue forth to consume humanity.

Every human being has a right to live in decent conditions. It is true that some, by extravagance, by vice or by folly, forfeit that right; but the right is inherent, and so long as one deserving family lives in squalor and distress without fault of its own, the fact is an indictment against society.

SPEED.

One man was killed and many were injured at an entertainment in Indianapolis yesterday. The occasion was the trial of a new automobile speedway, and 75,000 people were entertained by the affair. Doubtless it would have lost much of its piquant attraction if there had been no danger; but it is to be hoped that American audiences have not become so Roman in their tastes that this one would have been disappointed if there had been no bruised and mangled bodies along the track.

Human life is a precious thing; or at least it used to be considered so. Every human being has tremendous potentialities of good to the world, and when a life is extinguished there is always danger that the world has lost much. Yet the fact that lives are lost at practically every automobile speed contest doesn't discourage them; nor the fact that the victims are men of courage and nerve that ought to fit them for something useful. Probably so long as American audiences demand demoniac speed as a spice to their entertainment, much as Roman audiences used to demand human sacrifices in their sports, such affairs as that at Indianapolis will continue.

Yet the waste of life seems hardly compensated for by the bald and barren fact that an automobile was able to go a certain distance somewhat faster than any automobile has traveled it before.

MURDER BY NEGLECT.

"The passing of the legislative session without appropriating a cent of state money for additional hospital accommodations for consumptives has settled the question of life or death for several hundred consumptives during the next two years," says Christopher Eaton, executive secretary of the Minnesota Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis.

In other words, by its failure to act the Minnesota legislature condemned many to death who might have been saved had the state been alive to one of its highest duties.

Tuberculosis is a social disease, and the fight against it must be waged by society, through government. Though private enterprise is doing much through the aid of self-sacrificing physicians and generous citizens, it is to the state that society must look for really effective measures of relief.

The legislature at its last session became guilty of many sins both of commission and omission, but it did no act more sinful, or more pregnant with possibilities of harm, than its failure to give proper consideration to measures aimed toward the prevention and relief of consumption.

The main tuberculosis bill, which had the support of every public-spirited citizen to whose notice it came, was that providing for a state hospital for all stages of the disease in each congressional district. It was emasculated by the finance committee of the senate and the appropriations committee of the house, and then passed the senate with a very much reduced appropriation. Owing to neglect, and to dilatory tactics put forth by those interested in appropriations of far less merit, the bill died in the house without action.

The trouble with this bill was that it was general in its benefits—that it would have helped every part of the sate. If it had been for the benefit of but one section, and that section had been represented by an active and resourceful member, it would probably have passed. He would have schemed for its passage because it would mean votes for him at home. He would have traded his vote and all the votes he could command for votes for this bill. He would have watched it at every stage, he would have prevented its being unduly delayed in committee, he would have seen to it that it was not sidetracked on general orders or the calendar, and he would have put forth every effort and exhaused every scheme to get it through.

But this was not a bill to provide a state institution for some particular community which would be expected to be grateful and to respond with votes at the next election. It was a bill for the benefit of the whole state; a bill to lessen suffering and death and to bring hope to the saddened hearts of the afflicted. So it was passed by for a horde of bills of vastly smaller importance but more prolific in votes.

This condition suggests its remedy. If lawmakers are interested only in bills that make votes, let those who are interested in the winning fight against tuberculosis see to it that this bill makes votes for those who support it and against those who oppose it or neglect it. Between now and the next session there should be a campaign of education that will arouse popular interest in this measure, and that will inform candidates for the legislature that there are voters—and lots of them—who will insist that this bill be given fair consideration.

In that way this vitally important measure will be given a new standing, and the record of the next session will tell a different story.

HALF A LOAF.

Mr. Bryan is indignant because the Democratic ways and means committee has determined to cut the wool duty in two instead of providing free wool.

Mr. Underwood, chairman of the committee, explains that cutting the duties on manufactured wool in two leaves a deficit in revenue which it was deemed necessary to make up by a low duty on raw wool, which at the same time is pleasing to wool-raisers, whether they are Democrats or Republicans.

Free raw materials is a highly intelligent policy, and there is no logical argument against it. Nevertheless, Mr. Bryan should not be so hasty to condemn. The protective system is a long-standing abuse, and its roots have gone deeply into the business system. They can't be eradicated in one operation without danger of hurtful shock.

In this matter of the tariff, it is wiser to cut our dog's tail off an inch at a time so as not to hurt him too much.

LOCKING THE STABLE DOOR.

After the oil trust had achieved monopoly, it was convicted. After the tobacco trust had achieved monopoly, it was convicted. Practically all other trusts against which proceedings may be begun have achieved monopoly. Competition is pretty dead. Corporations that killed it can be punished by being inconvenienced slightly, but that's about all. No law and no court can breathe life into its dead veins. If people do not wish to compete, they can't be forced to.

The wise thing to do is to admit the situation and to get what the people need by regulation.

DECORATE THE STREETS

By the Carnival Publicity Committee.

There is a point in regard to all public celebration of the nature of the coming Midsummer Water Carnival that seems to escape the average man's mind until it is forced upon him, and that is that the whole thing is a lot of fun for him and gives a relaxation of mind and a change of view point almost equivalent to a vacation.

This generally occurs to him by way of retrospect, when he awakes to the fact that he has had a "bully time" In spite of hot weather, hard pavements and dense crowds, perhaps some irregularity in meal times and a suit of clothes that needs pressing.

If he is a real average man, he is too tired and too busy the day after the show to analyze the causes that led to his sense of well being, but the philosopher can tell him if he asks, that first and foremost it is because he has had for a day or two or three days as the case may be, the finest playfellow in the whole world; the Big Crowd.

The Crowd may not be the most elegant in his manners, the most considerate in his ways, but he is human and magnetic as a companion, ever broad in his sympathies and full of a kindly humor and good nature.

It is not conceivable, for instance, that any man in his proper senses would have the endurance and hardihood, if he alone constituted the entire audience, to sit through a ten-round prize fight, and yet such an affair with the Crowd for company at the ringside, is not, so one is led to believe, wholly without merit as a means of killing time.

Why, one can enjoy grand opera at times, if there are enough people in the theater with one.

It is a far cry from such dreary pleasures as prize fighters and grand opera, to an occasion of a cheerful sunny disposition such as a midsummer carnival; but the same principle holds true, that you are going to have twice as good a time as anything in the entertainment would warrant of itself, just because you are going to have this fellow, the Big Crowd, along for company. Now this big pal of ours has one very human failing, in that while he is willing to go the limit of sorrow or joy with you and make it twice as good or bad as you thought it was going to be, he is a bit slow at the start off and needs a good straight tip as to the conduct expected of him.

It's a virtue when you come to think of it, this caution about getting started right.

He is very susceptible to outside suggestion, and if he comes to a city with mourning emblems over the doors of the houses, he will speak low and walk on his heels and depart softly.

On the contrary if he alights from his train or boat and walks up a street glad with banners and emblems of holiday and rejoicing, he also knows the answer, and without more ado he begins his task of giving you and himself the time of your joint lives, and the farther he goes the better he gets.

In other words, and to drop metaphor, the throng of visitors that come to Duluth to our carnival is going to be very strongly influenced by the attitude that they find Duluth taking toward its own celebration.

The harbor and Boat club are the focal points of the show; but they are not visible from the railway stations.

If the incomers walk up a busy street showing no outward signs of any recognition of the occasion which they have travtled so far for, they will inevitably get an impression that the show is somehow dissociated from the real activities of the city and also a secondary and discomforting feeling that it is something that they will have to seek out for themselves.

On the contrary if they come up Fifth avenue into a handsomely decorated thoroughfare, with a distinctly holiday aspect, they will unconsciously say to themselves, "This must be the place all right," and that is just what we want every stranger to be saying to himself about Duluth from now on.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

TIME TO PLAN FOR THE FOURTH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Now that Decoration day is over would it not be a good idea to turn our attention to securing a municipal celebration of the Fourth of July? Since the city passed the ordinance calling for a safe and sane observance of the day, it seems to be that it certainly owes it to the "kids," at least, to have a display of fire works. Something was said about it some time ago, but as far as I can ascertain nothing much came of it. If the boys and girls, big and small, are not allowed to as much as vent their patriotic enthusiasm with a baby fire cracker, Duluth ought to furnish one big, central display. If each person in the city would contribute but a fraction of what he or she would spend for fire works on the ordinary Fourth, Duluth would have an exhibition of pyrotechnics bigger and better than was ever seen here before.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, JR.
Duluth, May 31, 1911.

What the Trouble Was.

Pittsburg Dispatch: A small, quiet, but sorrowful, if not disgusted, man sat by the side of a motor car drawn out of the road as a large touring car came along, driven by a man with an interrogatory aspect. The man in the touring car had seen that auto every time he passed that day, so he slowed up and leaned over.

"How long have you been here?"

"Several hours."

"Can't you find out what the matter is?"

"No."

"Inlet valve all right?"

"Yes."

"Trouble with spark plug?"

"Think not."

"How are your batteries?"

"O. K."

"How's your commutator?"

"Great."

"Perhaps your worm gear is clogged."

"No; not at all."

"Got any gasoline in your tank?"

"Plenty."

"How about your circulation? Cylinder isn't bound, is it?"

"No sir."

"Tire seem all right?"

"Never better."

"Well, maybe your vibrator isn't adjusted?"

"That's all right."

"Have you looked at your carburetor?"

"Yes."

"How about the cam shaft?"

"Grand."

"Have you tightened your connecting rod, examined your clutches and gone over the differentials?"

"Yes, yes."

The man in the touring car paused a moment and then, looking at the stranger by the roadside, said at last: "What's the matter with that machine of yours?"

"There isn't anything the matter with this machine; but since noon my wife has been in the house over there kissing her sister's first baby good-by. When she gets through, if you are not more than 1,000 miles away and will leave your address, I will telegraph or cable you the glad news."

Red Wing Indorses Whittier.

Red Wing Republican: The crusade which has been made up on Supt. Whittier by the governor and his political friends has been characterized by the short-sightedness which usually manifests itself in a game of politics.

Mr. Whittier was indorsed in his management of the school by a majority of the members of the state legislature. In his demand for a fair and full trial before any action is taken by the board of control against him he is sustained by the legal opinion of Attorney General Simpson and by the members of the board of control themselves. The governor, for reasons best known to himself, knowing all these facts, seems determined to summarily dismiss Mr. Whittier from his position as superintendent of the boys' training school, if it is possible for him to do so.

The people of Red Wing know Mr. Whittier through an intimate acquaintance stretching over eight years of business and social life, and they have found him reliable and kindly. Those who best know him realize most fully that his qualities of heart as well as of mind are such as commend him as both humanitarian and wise. They know that he is square in all his dealings, actuated by high ideals and eager to serve the wards of the state under his charge in that way which will conduce to their highest welfare. That he has made mistakes in judgment his Red Wing friends—the business men and citizens generally—would not attempt to deny. They believe—as does the state legislature—that no charges brought against him have yet been proved. They resent any attempt on the part of Governor Eberhart to displace him from the position he has faithfully filled until definite charges of misconduct or incompetency are filed against him and a searching trial is given, as required by the laws of Minnesota. If such a trial results in proving him guilty of the allegations made, then it is to be expected that Mr. Whittier would go. If they are not proved, why should he not continue his work here?

The attitude of the governor is wholly untenable because it is unjust. The people of Red Wing believe in justice. They are loyal to Mr. Whittier because they believe that under his management the boys' training school has been sanely conducted. They are indignant at the attacks made upon him because they believe that they emanate from sources whose motives are purely selfish and from sentimentalists who are biased by misstatements of facts which unfortunately are close to the governor.

Just Suppose—

J. N. Larned in the Atlantic: Suppose the spread of Socialistic opinion to be carried in this country to the point of readiness for taking control of government, and that we then find awaiting it the same political conditions that exist today. The Socialist party, in that case, would simply take the place of our Republican or our Democratic party, as "the party in power," and would exercise its power in the customary party modes. The keen-scented fortune-hunters and professional experts of politics would already have swarmed to it from the old parties; would have wormed themselves into its counsels and perfected its "organization," with a full equipment of the most approved "machines." Then the nationalizing and the municipalizing of productive industries, and the taking over of capital from private to collective ownership, would begin. Some Croker or Murphy would be found to "boss" the management of the operation in New York, some Quay in Pennsylvania, some Gorman in Maryland, and so on, throughout the land.

Trailing a Job to Its Lair.

"I was in Chicago, just out of college, and not only needing a job, but actually on the edge of want. Like the parson and the woodchuck, I had to have a job," relates an official of a big manufacturing plant, in Business and The Book-Keeper.

"In the want-ad columns of a Chicago paper I saw a place offered that I could fill. The advertisement was 'blind,' but that did not matter, for I had to have the job. I enclosed my reply in a large red envelope that could be seen at some distance, and dropped it in the mail box that night. Next morning at 8 I went down to the newspaper office where the replies were handed out. I surveyed the call boxes. Sure enough, in T24 was my red envelope. I waited around for three hours before the T24 man came. Then I followed him and his red envelope to a West side factory. In he went, I after him. He had scarcely laid the bunch of mail on the manager's desk before I interpolated, 'Well, I'm ready to go to work.' The manager loked at me, and, in terms more forcible than elegant, asked me how I knew where to come. I pointed to the red envelope. He looked at me, back at the pile of letters tagged so conspicuously with red, then back at me. Then he turned to the messenger: 'Find out who this young fellow is and put him to work,' was his order. 'We advertised for a fellow with nerve and originality, and I guess you've got both.'"

Delusions of the Wool Man.

Life: That any intelligent reader rests any weight on their ex parte declarations about what will happen when Schedule K gets the axe:

That it is the duty and high privilege of all the citizens to pay a considerable tax for the benefit of the woolen manufacturers;

That there is anybody left who is fool enough to believe that the purpose of maintaining Schedule K is to pay high wages to the employes of woolen factories;

That Schedule K benefits woolen manufacture as a business in the United States, except by enabling stupid manufacturers to avoid the competition of clever ones and make profits that their abilities do not qualify them to earn;

That the people of the country would not rather have woolens on their backs than woolen manufacturers.

Yesterday and Today.

O, yesterday I danced with glee;
The world supplied my every need.
Today upon life's stormy sea,
I'm clinging to a slender reed.

O, yesterday my little craft
Was anchored in the blissful shade.
Today I cry, instead of laugh;
The water's deep, and I'm afraid.

O, yesterday, because the sun
Shone brightly on the dark lagoon,
Did I forget the Holy One,
And boast that I could stand alone.

Dear Master, take my hand in Thine,
And lead me all the dangerous way;
And when the sun shall brightly shine
Still lead me; that I may not stray.

"You extravagant dog," says George, "I am sure one-half of it would do just as well. But let us go in by all means. She is a charming girl."

"Ah, wait a wee," interposed Andrew. "Dinna ye ken it'll serve our purpose just as well to ask the bonnie lassie to gie us twa sixpence for a shilling and inquire where Mr. Thompson's hoose is and sic like? We're no hungry, and may as well save the siller."

THE WHITTIER CASE.

A Good Man for the Place.

Bovey Iron News: That man Whittier, of the state training school for boys seems to be a good man for the place. If his tactics with the boys was as stiff as his backbone when he refused to be fired, the boys certainly could not accuse him of being a "sissy" or a mollycoddle." And boys need a man of this kind to teach them to be men and not "sissies." We glory in his grit to hold the place and refuse to resign without being shown wherein he failed. To the man who has raised boys will come the thought that perhaps Whittier was on to his job after all. Of course it is not to be thought of, cases of brutality. But a training school for boys cannot be run on platitudes and other hot air.

Should Keep His Hands Off.

Princeton Union: The governor would do well to keep his hands off and let the state board of control conduct the investigation, if charges are preferred against Supt. Whittier. We believe that a full and impartial investigation would conclusively establish the fact that the Red Wing institution has in the main been well conducted. If the evidence proves that the school has been improperly managed and that the superintendent is blamable the board will not hesitate to take the proper steps. We have faith in the board of control.

But Then ——.

Thief River Falls Times: Governor Eberhart says Whittier must go. But then, Governor Eberhart once said that if the 1911 assembly of supposed law makers failed to pass a reapportionment bill, he would call a special session.

No Fear of the Result.

Hastings Gazette: The attorney general decides that the governor has no authority to remove the superintendent of the training school at Red Wing, and it is now proposed to have the matter investigated by a commission appointed by the supreme court. Those of us in Dakota county who have known F. A. Whittier from boyhood have no fears of the result at the hands of an unbiased tribunal. The case has passed the muck raking stage.

Whittier Will Stay.

Sandstone Tribune: Shame on Governor Eberhart for his part in hectoring Supt. Whittier of the boy's school at Red Wing. "We'll get him," spoke a politician of the recent legislature in referring to Whittier. We don't know what the game is and we don't care, Whittier will stay where he is or some one will answer for it some time. The state supreme court doesn't intend to answer. It has refused to do the governor's dirty work.

A Parallel.

Walker Pilot: Yes, Governor Eberhart removed Supt. Whittier just like he called that extra session of the legislature.

They Have Failed Already.

St. Peter Herald: The state supreme court has refused to help "make the fur fly" at Red Wing, and will not be drawn into the Whittier case. All this is vastly to the credit of the supreme court. Governor Eberhart and Ed Smith must plan a new campaign if they are to displace the Democratic appointees on the state board of control.

Why?

St. Peter Free Press: There is one peculiar thing in the Whittier investigation case and that is the position taken by ex-Senator Stephens. The conditions complained of at Red Wing are not of recent date, on the contrary they existed already, partly at least, when Mr. Stephens was in the senate. Why then did he not look into the matter before?

Some Real Fiddlin'.

I've knowed a lot o' fellers who could fiddle mighty prime,
An' seemed t' me it allus sort o' settled in my toe
An' sent me "down the center" in a record breakin' time
To balance on the corners with a girl I used t' know;
I've loved it—O I've loved it!—every soul endurin' chord
Comes ringin' down through mem'ry
till I think they're playin' yet;
But my idees are changin' since the other night I heard
A feller named MacMillan when he played a minuet!

The men I've knowed that fiddled have been mostly "free-for-all"
As sayin' is, an' partial to the "Ol'
Grey Eagle" brands
Of fiddle music mostly—that's the kind
I've like t' call
The "good ol' fashioned music that a pore man understands;"
I reckon that I've loved it 'cause it's all I ever knew
An' tooth an' nail I've fought for it an' bragged of it, an' yet
The other night I weakened an' I plum surrendered to
That feller named MacMillan when he played that minuet!

I've looked for words to rhyme it but,
I swan, there's nary one
That's good enough or nowheres near entrancin'-like an' sof'—
There wa'n't no way of tellin' where the melody begun
No more than what there was a way to tell where it left off!
It sort o' started somewhere like as if a master hand
Was reachin' down from somewhere
like in fairy tales it does,
An' bowin' that 'ere fiddle for that man MacMillan and
A thousand times more sweeter than
"Grey Eagle" ever was!

The music first reminded me of somethin' like a storm—
Of like enough an Aprul storm of snow an' rain an' hail,
An' then he coaxed her down a bit until the sun shone warm
An' all the world was glad again an' chasin' of its tail!
It raillly held me spellbound, sort o'
mesmerized, for shore,
'Cause when that man MacMillan finished up his minuet
I was holdin' hands with some one that I never saw before!—
I wouldn't be a bit surprised if she was laffin' yet!

CITY LOSES $500,000 ANNUALLY BY FAILURE TO PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY IN ONE LINE ALONE

Some startling facts regarding the loss of business to Duluth through the failure to patronize home industry are contained in a letter sent out this week by a Duluth cigar manufacturer.

The letter follows:

"How is business with you? Are you satisfied with the state of trade in the cigar line? Has it ever occurred to you that there is something wrong with Duluth that we may be responsible for? We want to talk as manufacturers to you as merchants. We want to ask you to help the industry in the prosperity of which we are mutually concerned.

"I have reference to the cigar making industry. Four years ago there were steadily employed at full time in the city of Duluth 152 cigar makers. Today there are employed in the entire city about fifty-eight cigar makers, working only half time, so that while our population has materially increased in four years the cigar industry has decreased over sixty per cent, and the immense loss occasioned to our city by this decrease can best be realized when I state to you that a cigar maker's average earnings are from $18 to $25 per week.

"Estimating the decrease at an average of $20 per week we have an aggregate wage loss of $97,760 on cigars that are now manufactured in this city. You will understand that my figures have reference to the amount of money that would be put into circulation in our city from wages alone.

"Permit me to give a concrete illustration of the city's loss in one case alone. An individual agent last year sold 5,000,000 cigars of one brand made elsewhere than in Duluth. If made here the 5,000,000 cigars would have given work to seventy cigar makers in constant employment at a salary of $24 per week on that grade of cigars, and would have distributed in wages $7,360 annually.

"Taking the aggregate of cigars consumed in Duluth, and in tributary towns having no cigar factories to supply same, and of which Duluth ought to have the benefit, it would give constant employment easily to 500 cigar makers.

"These figures are not wild estimates but are based on well ascertained facts and figures of last year. You can readily see, therefore, the aggregate loss in wages to Duluth last year in one industry was not a dollar less than $500,000.

"Now, our citizens complain of the effect on business if a circus takes $18,000 or $20,000 out of the city. Just think of the effect on business if $500,000 more than there is now were distributed in wages in our city every year. These figures are so appalling as to be almost unbelievable, but they are actually below rather than above the facts.

"We submit to you that the more cigar makers there are employed in Duluth, the more consumers there will be. They will become your patrons, as well as customers to all other local merchants. Their patronage will help to stimulate other lines of business, thus giving employment to other kinds of people who in turn will again become your patrons. So you see we have mutual interests in the promotion of the home cigar industry."

THE LAW OF DUTY AND THE LAW OF SACRIFICE

Alice L. Booth delivered a lecture Monday evening on Annie Besant's "Law of Duty" and "Law of Sacrifice" before the Duluth Theosophical society.

She said in part:

"Around us on every side, we see men and women seeking for light, struggling for growth, puzzled, confused, bewildered.

"To all and each one that we meet we owe a duty.

"No one who comes within the circle of our life but we have a duty towards that person.

"The world is not ruled by chance; no fortuitous happenings come into the lives of men. If you affront your sense of right by taking that as right which in your heart you feel to be wrong, standing on another's advice and command, then you lose the very power to distinguish between right and wrong, and you put out the only light you have, however poor that light may be, and you choose to walk in darkness rather than in twilight.

"Where duty is not done, where love, compassion, purity, self-sacrifice, are not seen, there, there may be power, but, there, there is not the spirituality which enlightens the world.

"Duties are obligations we owe to those around us; and every one within our circle is one to whom we owe a duty.

"What is the duty that we owe to each?

"It is the duty of reverencing and obeying those who are superior to us, who are above us; the duty of being gentle and affectionate and helpful to those around us, on our own level; the duty of protection, kindness, helpfulness and compassion to those below us.

"These are universal duties, and no aspirant should fail in the attempt at least to fulfill them; without the fulfillment of these, there is no spiritual life.

"But even when we have discharged to the utmost the debts enjoined by the letter of the law; when we have paid and fulfilled the obligations imposed by our birth, by our family ties, by our social surroundings; there still remains our higher duty which we may place before us as the light to illumine our path.

"Whenever a person comes within our circle of life; let us look to it that he leaves that circle a better man, the better for his contact with us.

"When an ignorant person comes and we have knowledge; let him leave us a better informed man. When a sorrowful person comes to us, let him leave us a little less sorrowful for our having shared the sorrow with him. When a helpless person comes and we are strong, let him leave us strengthened by our strength and not humiliated by our pride. Everywhere let us be tender and patient, gentle and helpful with all. Do not let us in our daily path be harsh, so as to confuse and bewilder and perplex others. There is enough of sorrow in the world. Let the spiritual man be a source of comfort and of peace; let him be as a light in the world, so that all may walk more safely when they come within the circle of his influence.

"Let us judge our spirituality by our effect on the world, and let us be careful that the world may grow purer, better, happier, because we are living in it.

"What are we here for, save to help each other, to love each other, to uplift each other?"

POLO EXPERTS OF ENGLAND AND AMERICA COMPETE

International Trophy Is at Stake in Series of Contests.

Americans Regained Cup in 1909 After Long Lapse of Possession.

New York, May 31.—On two-thirds of an acre of velvety turf spread out on the dry plain of Long Island was concentrated the thought and attention of the pony polo experts of four continents in the first of the international matches between England and America.

The interantional cup, which had its birth in this city a quarter of a century ago, is again the prize for the contests between the leading exponents of the two countries in this old Persian variation of the still more ancient bat and ball game. This cup is to polo what the America's cup is to yachting, and what the Davis cup represents in tennis, and its two journeys across the Atlantic represents the expenditure of thousands of American dollars and English guineas, for polo, like yachting, is a rich man's sport.

America lost the cup as soon as it was tossed into the polo arena by the Westchester Polo club back in 1886. It remained in England until the Meadowbrook club, composed of Harry Payne Whitney and a veteran team captured it in two fast matches in 1909. This same team defends today against a collection of English cavalry officers whose fame as players is known wherever polo is even mentioned.

Unfavorable Weather.

The morning sun was obscured by clouds, to the delight of the Long Island farmer and the disappointment of the officials of the Polo association, who face a big deficit even with ideal weather. A chilly northeaster also swept the field.

Back in the stables, each with his groom by his side, were the cream of the pony polo stock of the world. For several hours before the contest every little nag was curried and groomed until his coat shone like silk.

While the grooms and other attendants were nervously discussing the chances of the afternoon's game, the players themselves had very little to say.

The American players were fairly confident and the Englishmen hopeful, although for days the odds have been ranging from 4 to 1 and 5 to 1 on America.

The polo officials announced that weather permitting the game would start at 4:30 this afternoon.

The officials selected were: Referee, Joshua Crane of Boston; umpires, Capt. F. W. Barrett of Hurlingham, and C. H. Snowden of Philadelphia.

The British Team.

Of the six cavalry officers included in the British army's expedition to this country in quest of the international polo trophy, the following quartet is announced by Capt. J. Hardress Lloyd, their team captain, to take the field this afternoon:

First forward—Capt. Leslie St. George Cheape of the King's Dragoon Guards.

No. 2—Lieut. A. Noel Edwards of the Ninth Lancers.

No. 3—Capt. J. Hardress Lloyd of the Fourth Dragoons.

Back—Capt. H. Herbert Wilson, of the Yorkshire Yeomanry.

Two extra players are Lieut. E. W. Palmes of the Tenth Hussars and Capt. F. W. Barrett of the Fifteenth Hussars. Palmes was famous as a first forward but is not in today's line-up because his team mates consider him too light an opponent for Devereux Milburn, the great American back, who weighs nearly 200 pounds, is a furious rider and drives the ball terrifically.

Capt. Barrett of the Fifteenth Hussars, who was rated as a "ten goal" man, the highest official rating ever given any player, when playing in India, came to play back for the challenging team but he seemed unable to master the different style of play of the American game or the accustom himself to playing on horses instead of the 14-hand ponies which are used in India.

Englishmen Handicapped.

Another change which has militated against the playing form of the visitors is the heavy growth of grass and soft turf of the polo field on Long Island. In India, the cradle of polo for the British cavalry, the grounds are almost barren of grass and baked as hard as a pavement by the tropical sun. Members of the challenging team say that the dead and slow turf which they find on Long Island necessitates quite a different style of play than that to which they were accustomed.

The visitors also find a striking difference in the rules of the game here. In that there is no such thing as "off side" in the American game while in all other countries there is a strict rule against what is designated as "off side" play. It is admitted by the members of the American team as well as the challengers that the game has been changed vitally by the American Polo association in this respect.

Offside Play.

The following definition of "off side" play is given by the captain of the British team: "A player is off side when at the time of the ball being hit no member of the opposing team is between him and the opposing team's goal or goal line, and he is neither playing the ball himself nor behind one of his own team who is playing it."

The idea of this rule, as explained by the visiting polo ists is to prevent the first forward from cruising around between the man playing back for the other team and that other team's goal, waiting for some member of his own team to send the ball to him for slamming it through to a goal. This way of playing, the visitors declare, robs polo of half its interest and reduces it to a series of rapid rushes first for one goal and then for the other.

But the American rules do not draw the line against playing off side and the cup is to be played for under American rules because the cup is held by virtue of Harry Payne Whitney's team having captured it in London two years ago.

Originally the international polo cup was played for at Newport in 1886 and was won and carried away from America by an English team which retained it until June, 1909. The American team that lost the cup in 1886 was made up of Thomas Hitchcock, captain; Foxhall Keen, Raymond Belmont and W. K. Thorn.

Americans Have Good Ponies.

Ten years ago Foxhall Keene organized a team composed of himself, the two Waterburys, John E. Cowdin, and Rudolph Agassiz, as an extra player, to recover the cup. But the cup did not come back until Harry Payne Whitney had spent two years in preparing an expedition of four players whose team work had been brought to a state of perfection never approached on either side of the Atlantic nor in India and who were mounted on the best polo ponies that could be purchased at any price. The fastest and cleverest of these ponies are still at the disposal of the American cup defenders and many more of the highest quality have been purchased at a great cost in England, Ireland and India, the stronghold of British polo.

"The Americans have acquired practically all the very best polo ponies developed in our country during the last five years," Capt. Hardress Lloyd of the British team said before the game today.

This policy of scouring the world for the best polo mounts, regardless of cost, has been decried by many American sportsmen, who declare it reduces the matches for the American polo cup to the basis of which team has the deepest purse. It is said that an effort is on foot to get away from this state of affairs for future international games by using only American bred ponies or horses for the American team, so that Uncle Sam may stand or fall by his own horses and men. The same American players that won the cup two years ago will defend it. They are: First forward, Lawrence Waterbury; No. 2, M. J. Waterbury; No. 3, Harry Payne Whitney; back, Devereux Milburn.

They are New Yorkers and as a team have no equal in the United States. Milburn is a resident of Buffalo and was a famous oarsman at Oxford university in England.

FREE ACCESS TO TOOTH BRUSHES

A short time ago the treasury department sent an order to the customs collectors along the Canadian boundary to paste their inspection stamps across the tops of travelers' bags instead of on the bottom as heretofore.

"We did it for a while," said a customs official who came down from the border yesterday, "but the women kicked. They couldn't get at their tooth brushes because of the revenue stamps pasted across the openings of their hand baggage.

"We are putting revenue stamps on the bottom of bags and grips now. We expect an order in the near future which will settle the question definitely."

TAFT IN CHICAGO JUNE 3.

President Will Speak There in Defense of Reciprocity.

Washington, May 31.—President Taft will make one of the important speeches of his campaign for Canadian reciprocity in Chicago June 3, before the Western Economic society, in Orchestra hall, where, in September, 1908, as a candidate for president, he made his first important speech upon the relations of capital and labor.

The president has assured Fred L. Rossbach, president of the Hamilton club of Chicago, that he would receive a committee while there and listen to their invitation to him to lay the cornerstone of their new clubhouse some time in August.

The president will be in Chicago only a few hours. He leaves Washington Friday night, reaches Chicago Saturday afternoon, will spend Saturday night there and is due in the capital again Monday morning.

CONGRESS MUST PICK TAFT'S SUMMER HOME.

Washington, Nov. 31.—President Taft will stick to Beverly and the North Shore country of Massachusetts as a hot weather playground unless congress selects a site and appropriates the money for an official summer white house elsewhere. In a letter to Governor Eberhart of Minnesota, declining with thanks the offer of a site for a presidential summer home at Wayzata, on the shores of Lake Minnetonkia, the president explained that congress alone had the authority to designate an official summer residence for the chief executive. Personally he will have nothing to do with selecting such a home.

FORMER GOVERNOR OF MOSCOW SENTENCED.

Moscow, Russia, May 31.—Maj. Gen. Rheinbot has been sentenced by the senate to imprisonment for one year and the loss of his civil rights for the misappropriation of government funds during his term as governor of Moscow.

In the indictment it was alleged that during the major general's term of less than two years in the governorship he paid "extraordinary rewards" to the police amounting to $150,000.

Riot in the Canaries.

Las Palmas, Canary Island, May 31. Made furious by the delay accompanying the decision of the Spanish parliament of a bill providing for the division of the Canary archipelago, a mob took possession of the streets here today and attempted to burn the government buildings. Troops were called out to restore order. Public excitement continues.

MAY NOT TRY TO FIX LAW

Sentiment to Amend Sherman Act Is Dying Out.

Government Will Shape Anti-Trust Policy on Trust Decisions.

Washington, May 31.—Sentiment in favor of amending the Sherman anti-trust law so as to make "every" restraint of trade a violation of the law instead of only "unreasonable" restraints, is pronounced by several senators as perceptibly reduced by the decision of the supreme court in the tobacco case.

No intention, however, of abandoning the proposed attempt to amend the law has been announced by the senators who introduced amendments in the senate just after the Standard Oil decision. It is said, nevertheless, that the forces of the discontented senators have been reduced, and that a most stubborn defense of the law and of the interpretation by the court will be made on the floor of the senate if the amendments are urged for passage.

More Faith in Law.

The drastic remedy held over the heads of the defendants in the tobacco case, in event they do not remedy the evils complained of by the court, is said to have strengthened the faith of those who accepted the majority opinion of the court in the Standard Oil case as the proper course. The decree in the tobacco case is taken by such persons as showing that the Sherman anti-trust law is an instrument by which every evil of this nature in interstate commerce may be crushed out "if the government only possesses the will and the energy to do so."

Policy of Government.

That the government means to formulate its anti-trust policies in accord with the "rule of reason" as laid down by the supreme court in the Standard Oil and tobacco trust decisions, notwithstanding the vigorous dissents of Associate Justice Harlan and the large number of bills introduced into the senate to amend the Sherman anti-trust law, is evident.

Administration officials, after consideration and study of the tobacco decision and a thorough comparison with the Standard Oil decision, were agreed that "the rule of reason" is no new feature of the supreme court's interpretation of law, and one member of the cabinet, whose views always have been regarded as reflecting those of the administration, made a comparative statement to that effect.

It is regarded as more than doubtful if the tobacco corporations avail themselves of the opportunity granted by the court before it adjourned to file a motion for a rehearing within thirty days. The attitude of the court is regarded as hostile to such a request. Chief Justice White has let the corporations understand that a delay of thirty days in presenting an unsuccessful petition for rehearing will mean that the six or eight months given them to get into harmony with the law, will be reduced just so many days.

How About Prosecutions?

A resolution calling upon the attorney general to inform the house whether he has undertaken criminal prosecution of the American Tobacco company and its officers, has been introduced by Representative Byrnes of Tennessee. If such prosecution has not been instituted, the attorney general is requested to explain his reasons. The resolution names specifically all the constituent companies of the tobacco corporation, together with their officers.

St. Paul, Minn., May 31.—Frank B. Kellogg, who successfully prosecuted the Standard Oil dissolution suit on behalf of the government, said after reading the Associated Press account of the United States supreme court decision in the American Tobacco case:

"I can find no cause for uneasiness in the recently enunciated doctrine of 'reasonable restraint.' I have not, of course, read the complete opinion in the tobacco case. I judge, however, that the government won on every contended point, and that the case is simply sent back to the court below to enable the court to enter a decree to completely sever the various properties which had been conveyed to the American Tobacco company.

Not a Holding Body.

"The American Tobacco company was not simply a stock-holding corporation, but the competitors which it had acquired in many instances had conveyed their properties and business direct to the American Tobacco company. This rendered it necessary that there should be a decree severing the various properties.

"There was no necessity for sending the Standard Oil case back, because the decree in the court below was a complete severance of the corporation. Taking the Standard Oil case and the tobacco case together, I do not see any loophole through which the trusts can escape. Any combination or monopoly, whatever form it takes, can be reached under the rule laid down in these decisions."

Act In Good Faith.

New York, May 31.—The American Tobacco company will undertake, in all good faith, a readjustment of its affairs as directed by the United States supreme court, according to an official statement carefully prepared by officers of the company and given out by W. W. Fuller, the corporation's chief counsel.

Delancey Nicoll, who assisted in presenting the case to the supreme court for the company said:

"It is probable that a general rule will be agreed upon for the conducting of the business as directed by the court. We shall prepare a plan which we shall consider undeniably agreeable to the court. This will require long planning and attention to detail, and it will be a long time before the full proposition will have been worked out. However, I feel sure that we shall be able to present a plan which will meet with approval and enable the bringing about of a new condition fully in accord with the legal requirements."

ROOSEVELT TALKS PEACE

Says It Must Be Righteous or It Will Be Intolerable.

He Declares in Speech at Grant's Tomb That Laws Are Outworn.

New York, May 31.—Theodore Roosevelt stood beside Gen. Daniel W. Sickles, the only surviving division commander of the Civil war, at Grant's tomb yesterday afternoon and aroused a Memorial throng to long applause by a denunciation of "false apostles of peace."

He recalled the days of 1861, when, he said, the veterans he addressed defied the lie told in the name of peace; he voiced his faith in peace only as the handmaiden of justice, and with vigorous gesture, he stirred the gathering to tumultuous cheers with the declaration that unrighteous peace was a greater evil than war.

New Laws Needed.

Col. Roosevelt in his address declared the laws of the land outworn.

"They were excellent laws for the flintlock period," he asserted "but they don't apply to present day conditions. Little you soldiers could have done with flintlocks in the war days. The laws must keep up with changed conditions, retaining the spirit of liberty and justice, curbing the greed of the conscienceless rich, and banishing anarchy. It is a poor thing to praise the deeds of the soldiers or the deeds of Lincoln if we don't emulate them in legislation. We must have clean politics and clean business, and we must respect the right of labor, or be recreant to the spirit of Lincoln."

Touching upon peace by arbitration he expressed his favor for it, but only in case righteousness prevailed. Peace without righteousness would be intolerable, he said.

Help Wage Earner.

"It is our business," he declared, "to help the wage earner and it is our business to put a stop to murderous violence, even if it is indulged in nominally to achieve these ends."

"I do not believe," he said, "that this country should enter into any agreement unless it is prepared to keep it in good faith. Beware of any other course. I don't believe in lying whether it be national or international. I believe absolutely without reserve that we should not enter into any arbitration unless we are prepared to make good. I believe there are certain powers with which we could enter into unlimited agreements, because of the fact if difference arose it could be easily settled by arbitration with that power.

"Arbitration is all right under favorable conditions. If I have trouble with one of you men we could readily settle it by appointing an outside party to arbitrate, because we know that man won't slap either of our faces. If he does, we won't arbitrate. It is just the same with international arbitration. I believe in arbitration only on the understanding that international slapping of faces is not included. That is genuine peace talk."

ARBITRATION TREATY UNDER UNIONIST FIRE.

London, May 31.—Rowland Hunt, Unionist member of parliament for the Ludlow division of Shropshire, who made it his special business to bait Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, on the subject of President Taft's arbitration proposal, returned to the charge in the house of commons yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Hunt suggested that the great expectations which had been raised by the president's original offer had been whittled away, as its ratification by the senate was required and that the proposed agreement could no longer be regarded as the basis for a treaty of unrestricted arbitration.

"May we hope," he asked, "that in the future the government will not allow itself to be bamboozled by foreign powers?"

Foreign Secretary Grey, as on a previous occasion, declined to comment on the proposed treaty until he had thoroughly digested it.

LA FOLLETTE WOULD LEAD

Nothing But Top Will Be Satisfactory to Wisconsin Senator.

Has Won Victory Over Those Who Formerly Hazed Him.

Boston, Mass., May 31.—The Washington correspondent of the Transcript says: From Aldrich to La Follette as senate leader is a striking change, but no one familiar with the proceedings of the senate believes that the Wisconsin senator will be contented with any place short of the highest. He is playing for it because it is in his nature to dictate and dominate. He could not stop anywhere along the route and follow. La Follette desires to be president, and the senate leadership would be a stepping stone. But even if his ambition stopped short of the White House, he would still fight for control. Aldrich was not tyrannical and La Follette is. Men voted with Aldrich on his personal request where they would side with La Follette only because his views happened to agree with theirs on the issue. Aldrich was charming in manner and delightful in personal intercourse. La Follette is too intent, to self-centered, too dictatorial to care whether he pleases. He would drive the senate before him, where Aldrich would attract it to follow him.

Contempt for the Old Order.

But that is neither here nor there, as far as La Follette's purposes are concerned. His leadership is that of the man who can see no way but his own and no good in any differing opinion. He defers to no one and he bitterly assails all who refuse to defer to him. Compromise is not in his nature. He has no use for the plans, no regard for the feelings of others. Profoundly convinced that his own program is right, morally and in every other way, he rides rough-shod over all opposition. His contempt for the old order in the senate is unadulterated. He would make over the personnel of the senate to the last man, if he could have his way. If the whip does not sting enough, he uses the spur.

La Follette has made a distinct place for himself in the senate. No one denies that any longer. He is a factor to be reckoned with under all circumstances and under all occasions; and he is reckoned with, too. When he is not taken into consideration, trouble follows. Sometimes he carries his point, and sometimes he does not. But, in a way of speaking, they always have to throw him out of a second-story window before they can convince him that he is not to have his way.

La Follette, Roosevelt and Taft.

Mr. La Follette took his seat in the senate on Jan. 4, 1906. He began to take part in affairs from the very beginning of his services. From the start he carried a chip on his shoulder for Aldrich. He set out to break Aldrich's power in the senate and break up his organization. He and Roosevelt did not get along together very well. They were distrustful of each other. They were too much alike in many respects to be congenial, and while they maintained correct attitude on the surface, they were never in complete harmony. They always felt that a room was crowded when both of them were in it. As for Mr. Taft, he and Mr. La Follette have never found a single point of contact, but for altogether different reasons. The Wisconsin senator has been to the White House a few times since Mr. Taft became president, but he rather boorishly declined a specific personal invitation to go there and talk over the supreme court vacancies with Mr. Taft. Since that time he has never been near the White House. He has no relations whatever with the president. Of course he will not support Mr. Taft for renomination, and nobody here believes that he will support him for re-election after a renomination.

Because of the attitude he assumed when he first came here, which appears to have been natural, La Follette had a harder row to hoe in the senate than has been given any newcomer in that body in recent years. He was unmercifully hazed, and he winced under it, too, but it never deflected him from the course he had mapped out for himself. He was disciplined and snubbed even worse than was Beveridge. He had no intimates and no close associates among his colleagues. He showed that it wounded him, but Ishmael was his role and he developed it until he came to thrive upon it.

Particularly Hated Aldrich.

Particularly did Mr. La Follette detest Aldrich in all of his ways. How much of his opposition was due to regard for the public welfare, as he understood it, and how much of it was due to the advantages he saw for himself in duelling with Aldrich, this chronicler will not undertake to say. Certainly, the line he took outlined him clearly before the country. It differentiated him from the body of Republican senators. From the first day of his service in the senate he could not be disposed of simply as "one among those present." He took care to stand apart, and in the beginning he stood alone, contending with Aldrich for supremacy. The changes of five years in the senate have retired Aldrich and brought to La Follett a small group of supporters, varying in number from five to twelve. He is still as bent as ever on increasing his following and making himself the master figure of the upper branch.

La Follette's Famous Prediction.

Wide publicity was given to one prediction that La Follette made in the senate. It was in his early days, when the Republican senators made a practice of leaving the chamber almost in a body every time the Wisconsin man rose to speak. On one occasion La Follette called out after their disappearing coat-tails that some of the seats then being temporarily vacated in the senate would before long become permanently vacant in so far as their present occupants were concerned. This prediction has become true. Either its fulfilment or other reasons have changed the whole attitude of the senate toward the Wisconsin senator. The broken and demoralized "Old Guard," while they do not take him into their consultations, are always eager to know where he stands, what his attitude will be, and what he intends to do. They take his course into consideration. In the open senate no man today attracts a closer, keener and more interested attention from his colleagues than does La Follette. They do not run away from their seats when he begins to speak. On the contrary, if they are out of the chamber, they begin to come in as soon as it is noised around that "La Follette is up."

A Sample La Follette Speech.

Only the other day there was a vivid illustration of this. It was the first day the senate tried to elect a president pro tempore. Senator Root endeavored to break down the "pairs" that had been arranged on the question and force the senators who were present, but "paired," to vote. La Follette was pacing restlessly up and down the rear of the chamber behind the desks. He stopped in the center aisle and asked the attention of the chair. Instantly the chamber was absolutely hushed. Either of the stock similes about the stillness of death or the dropping of the pin became literally true. Leaning easily against a desk on the back row on the Republican side, La Follette made the most effective speech that has been made in congress this session. It was listened to as if it were a verdict. It was spoken in a low tone and without change of voice, and here is the summary:

"Mr. President, if the senate shall determine to make the precedent which the senator from New York seeks to raise here, it may take notice now that such a precedent will return many times to plague it hereafter. "I do not recognize, sir, the right of any senator here, directly or indirectly, to make against me the criticism that I am voting against my party because that vote is against the action of members of this senate regarding the public business in a secret meeting held in some place outside this chamber. I deny the right of any secret caucus held outside of the senate chamber behind closed doors, with no reporters present, to dispose of the public business or anything which may exercise an important or controlling influence upon the public business.

"I regard the election of a president pro tempore of this great body as of great importance in the conduct of its business. It is of tremendous importance at times, Mr. President, in determining what measures shall pass this body. I do not propose to be read out of the Republican party because I cannot conscientiously support some man whom a number of my party associates have agreed upon in a secret meeting as their choice for president pro tempore of the senate."

Disliked Because Feared.

If the value of a speech lies in its effect, certainly the effect of this one was marked. Mr. La Follette is responsible for the failure of the senate to select a president pro tempore. He is opposed to the honor going to Senator Gallinger. He has a private grudge against Mr. Gallinger growing out of the distribution of committee appointments. La Follette is responsible for the revival of the Lorimer case in the senate, and for the demand that there shall be another investigation.

He is an uncomfortable person to do battle with. In the senate he is not "clubby." Many of the senators are afraid of him, and that is the root of their dislike for him. Whether one likes or dislikes him, whether one believes in his sincerity and genuineness or whether one regards him simply as a man working for his own political ends in his own way, he is not to be disregarded. This is the lesson the senate has learned in five years. La Follette feels that he has still more to teach his colleagues of himself.

Storm Damage in South Germany.

Berlin, May 31.—Cloudbursts accompanied by heavy hail caused great damage in South Germany yesterday. Six houses in a village in the Grand Duchy of Baden were swept away by the floods and twelve persons were drowned. Four persons were drowned near Heidelberg, where a mill was washed away.

Facts about the Leather Trust and the Bad Quality of Shoes

What under the sun is the matter with leather nowadays!

Bennie's shoes are almost off his feet again.

Mamie's and John's can't last much longer—the way they are wearing out.

And those shoes were new only a few weeks ago!

Well—what can you expect when the shoe manufacturers of this country are in the grip of the Leather Trust?

The Leather Trust is the matter with leather.

Shoe leather to-day is no more what it was when you and I were boys than shoddy is good straight woolen.

It has not the substance—the stamina to make a dependable, long-wearing shoe.

It is starved in the tanning and finishing—tanned with hemlock in place of oak, with chemicals, with anything that will cheapen the tanning.

Leather Trust's Greed for Profits

The shoe troubles of the American people are due largely to one cause—the Leather Trust's greed for exorbitant profits.

Nobody will deny that a tannery has a right to a profit.

You as a business man certainly would concede the Leather Trust a generous return on its investment and on its cost of delivering the goods.

But, as a shoe wearer, you know that it is not delivering the goods.

The ordinary shoe manufacturer cannot protect you. He has to accept Leather Trust leather, and do the best he can with it. The only wonder is that he does as well as he does.

Your shoe dealer cannot protect you so long as he sells shoes made of Trust leather.

But you can do everything to protect yourself. You can buy your shoes independent of all Trusts and middlemen.

You, your friends and neighbors, and the other folks of this town can go to the local dealer who carries Endicott-Johnson shoes.

This Firm Independent of Trust

Endicott, Johnson & Co. are the only shoe manufacturers in America who get their leather independent of the Leather Trust.

They own their tanneries. They tan every pound of leather they put into their shoes. They tan every lot of hides with an eye to the shoe that is to be made of it—perfect the leather for the kind of service it is to give.

The Endicott-Johnson plant is the one place in America where you can see shoe leather tanned by good old-fashioned standards of service to the folks who wear the shoes.

Honest Shoes at a Fair Price

Endicott, Johnson & Co. will tell you—what the Leather Trust never will tell you—that it is perfectly feasible to tan an honest leather, make it up into a stylish, serviceable shoe and sell it at a moderate price.

They will prove it to you by saving you 50 cents to $1.00 on every pair of shoes you buy—and give you leather that you simply cannot get in any other shoe.

"Hide to Foot" Policy—No Profits to Trusts

Endicott, Johnson & Co. buy their hides in the open markets of the world.

They build their shoes complete on the premises—"from the hide to your foot"—cutting out the profits of the Hide Trust, the Leather Trust and the Leather Jobber.

FAIR

The weather man lost his Memorial day gloom with the dawn of a new day, and today he is behaving very nicely. The sun is shining, there is a beautiful spring touch in the air, and those who were caught out in the woods when the sky leaked yesterday are meditating upon what might have been. The sage on the hill believes in the cause of the Northern Minnesota Development association, for he promises fair weather tonight and tomorrow.

Duluth had a beautiful spring day a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:17 and it will set at 7:54, giving fifteen hours and thirty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The disturbance centered over Michigan caused light to copious rains throughout the lake region, the Ohio, Upper Mississippi, Red river and Lower Missouri valleys and Middle Atlantic states during the last twenty-four hours. Temperatures have not changed materially in the meantime, but there has been a general tendency towards an increase in warmth, except that it is cooler in North Atlantic states. Generally fair weather is indicated during the ensuing thirty-six hours for the region surrounding the Head of the Lakes."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 31.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Unsettled tonight, except showers in extreme east portion; Thursday fair and warmer.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Thursday; cooler tonight.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Thursday.

Iowa, North and South Dakota and Montana—Fair tonight and probably Thursday.

Upper Lakes—Moderate northwest winds on Superior and Michigan; moderate variable, becoming north, on Huron. Unsettled weather on Michigan and Superior and thunderstorms on Huron tonight. Thursday fair.

MEMORIAL DAY ADDRESS OF DR. E. C. CLEMANS

Rev. Dr. E. C. Clemans, field representative of the board of conference claimants of the Methodist Episcopal church, came from Kansas City, his headquarters, to deliver the Memorial day address yesterday in the Auditorium. He formerly was presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal church in this district.

Dr. Clemans said in part:

"The writer to the Hebrews in calling the roll of the heroes of Israel speaks of one who, though dead a thousand years, yet because of the noble deeds he wrought while living, 'He being dead yet speaketh.'

"So this day, the men who gave their lives for their country, though dead for many years, because of their patriotism and loyalty are speaking to us. They speak of a great country that God set apart as the place where he would work out His great plans for the redemption of mankind. They speak of a conflict that began with the organization of the government in 1789; the conflict between slavery and freedom, the invention of the cotton gin and the agricultural development of the South made slavery a great institution. Slavery died in the North and there grew up a class of men and women who opposed slavery and began an agitation that would sweep it away as one of the relics of barbarism. To protect itself the South began to prepare for secession and when all was ready made the election of Lincoln as president the pretext for disunion, Sumter was fired upon and eleven states seceded.

"With peace, secession was destroyed, and the flag was preserved to float over an undivided people. These dead heroes speak of these things. Our heroic dead are those who died in every war in the history of our government. They died in the Revolution, in the second war with England, in the Mexican war, in the Civil war and in the Spanish-American war. This service is broad enough for all our heroes. And, after forty-five years of peace, believing the Confederate soldier was faithful to what he believed to be right, may I say, 'Let us today place one wreath of flowers to the memory of the brave soldiers of the South, who died fighting for a lost cause.' Let us place a wreath today to the memory of the loyal women of America, who bore their part so faithfully and devotedly in the cause of their country.

"This day speaks of manhood and manhood is the hardest job to set men at. For this the whole world of art, commerce and education is run. Prof. James sees in war a great school to make manhood and wonders where the world will find a substitute, if wars shall forever cease. This day speaks of a united country. From 1789 to 1865 there was a North and a South, but the soldiers of the Civil war prepared the way for a real union of the states. It came slowly, for the South suffered much and had much to forget, but today there is one nation, one flag and one God.

"Lastly this day and our heroic dead speak of progress. Today is better than yesterday and tomorrow will be better than today. Evils confront us, but they will be met in the same spirit that these soldiers met their evils and they will be destroyed. A united country can do much and the future of our nation is secure. It will last a thousand years and more. The ocean will never be dug for its grave, nor the winds woven for its shroud, nor the forests leveled for its casket, nor the mountains piled for its monument, but the republic of Washington, and Lincoln, of our heroic dead and heroic living will live on and on until time shall be no more."

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

Green Room Gossip.

For fifteen years the Empire Comedy Four, which is appearing at the Orpheum this week, has remained intact. Throughout that time these four vaudeville performers have been together, traveling over the principal vaudeville circuits of the world, and there has not been a change in the quartet. It is said to be the oldest quartet in vaudeville.

During those fifteen years the quartet has made three tours of Europe and has played in nearly every vaudeville theater in the United States. It has been booked almost continuously during that time, and the "layoffs" have been few and far between. The quartet returned from Europe last July, and will probably return to foreign fields the coming summer. Joe Jenny, the amusing little Dutch comedian, is the manager of the company, and he claims that no other quartet in the world can approach the record of the Empire Four for the length of time it has remained intact.

The little dramatic playlet, "Father," which is the headline attraction at the Empress this week has been voted by many as being the best sketch of its kind that has appeared at the Empress this season. "Father" is a highly emotional piece and contains many interesting situations. Mr. Edouard Jose, who appears as Le Bon, is an actor of much talent. He is an actor of the old school and this is his first appearance in vaudeville. Mr. Jose made his public appearance in one of Sarah Bernhardt's companies when but 16 years of age and he has been before the public ever since. The playlet, "Father," is adapted from Henri Bernstein's great play of the same name and it has met with wonderful success wherever it has been presented. This little actlet is full of highly dramatic situations and it requires the work of artists to give it a correct presentation.

"The Angel of the Slums" is a dramatic film at the Odeum theater this week that is attracting much interest among the patrons of his popular photoplay house. Another good dramatic film, which is being shown at the Lyric theater, is "The Prejudice of Pierre Marie." There is also a good comedy film, a scenic film and an illustrated song at each theater.

WILL BE GUEST OF AUTO CLUB

George W. Cooley Coming By Invitation of Local Organization.

George W. Cooley, engineer for the state highway commission will be in the city Thursday and Friday as a guest of the Duluth Automobile club.

Saturday he will make the trip over the newly proposed Tri-City highway between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. He was invited to come to Duluth and go over the proposed route by the automobile club.

By making cuts on the present road it is thought that the distance can be cut down about fifteen miles. The Duluth club members have been figuring on the road for some time and Mr. Cooley's opinion on the route under consideration is desired.

Invitations have been sent to the members of the state highway commission to make the trip of investigation. The state will bear five per cent of the cost of the road. As it will pass through several counties, it is thought advisable to have the state lay it out.

BIDS WANTED

REMOVES PAPER CLIP FROM WOMAN'S LUNG.

Philadelphia, May 31.—Delegates to the convention of the American Laryngological association witnessed a remarkable surgical operation here yesterday when Dr. Chevalier Jackson of Pittsburg, without the use of a knife, removed a brass paper clip that had been embedded in a young woman's lung for eight years. The instrument used was a bronchoscope, to which was attached a tiny electric light, a reflector and minute forceps. The tube was lowered down the patient's throat and the clip was removed after about an hour's work.

PREPARE TO COMPLETE WORKS AT SOO LOCKS.

Washington, May 31.—Secretary Stimson has given his approval to the plans arranged for the acquisition by the government of the lands adjoining the Canadian boundary line required for the completion of the works at the locks on the Sault Ste. Marie. The legal questions involved have been before the attorney-general for a long time, but it has at last been possible to make a satisfactory arrangement with the holders of the water rights, and the government will now proceed to acquire the lands.

Dies With Hand on Throttle.

Marshalltown, Iowa, May 31.—With his hand on the throttle of his engine on the Iowa Central, pulling a heavy freight train into Pickering, A. E. Ede, aged 55, of Oskaloosa, Iowa, suddenly expired. Ede was one of the oldest men in the service.

EAU CLAIRE PAPER MAN'S CLOSE CALL

Spirited Horse He Is Riding Backs Into Moving Street Car.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 31.—William L. Davis, head of the Dells Paper & Pulp company, is nursing some body bruises and mourning the loss of a valuable riding horse worth several hundred dollars. Incidentally he is being congratulated that he is alive. Mr. Davis was riding with James T. Joyce, Monday evening, and when near the old Empire Lumber company's abandoned office building below the Kaiser plant on Menomonie street, an open street car came rushing by. The highly strung horse Mr. Davis rode became excited, swerved and apparently backed on to the track. There was a crash and the rider seemed to be fairly hurled into the car over the fender and dashboard, almost on top of the motorman. In this way Mr. Davis' life was saved, although he is considerably bruised, especially about the legs and may be hurt internally. Mr. Joyce, on his horse was about 100 feet ahead. He turned quickly and came to help his companion.

Horse Has Broken Back.

It was found that the horse was terribly injured. By a telephone call, Capt. Cousins was reached at the Union National bank, and he hurried Dr. Wrigglesworth, the veterinary to the scene. The horse had his back broken and was promptly killed, that its sufferings might end. A second telephone message allayed the fears of the Davis family and a son hurried in an automobile to bring home the injured father. Dr. Davis declared his hurts were minor matters, but his friends insisted that every precaution be taken. At a late hour he was resting comfortably.

The motorman was E. Engen, an extra man, and the car was in charge of Conductor O'Brien.

LAND ENTRY STANDS.

Dickinson, N. D., Land Office Makes Important Ruling.

Dickinson, N. D., May 31.—Holding that the 120 acres involved are more valuable for coal than for agricultural purposes but that the entryman had no knowledge of it at the time of entry, Receiver W. A. McClure and Register J. G. Quinlivan of the United States land office have decided the O. P. Brandick and C. H. Wiley contest. They recommend that the entry remain intact and that the case be dismissed. The case will go to the commissioner of the general land office for review.

The land is located near South Heart and after Brandick, the entryman, had relinquished the forty acres upon which were located the buildings the government agent charged that claimant had not made good residence and that he had taken the land for the coal in it rather than for a home. The land has already passed into the hands of the third party, C. H. Wiley, Brandick having sold it to P. H. Rundle and he in turn to the present owner, and as the government has not yet issued the entryman a patent the decision of the higher court is awaited with anxiety.

Grand Forks, N. D., may 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Duluth Elevator company's elevator at Thompson was destroyed by fire last evening. The blaze had a big start when discovered and there was no chance of saving the building.

SARGENT COUNTY TO DEDICATE COURTHOUSE.

Forman, N. D., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tuesday, June 20, has been set for the formal dedication of Sargent county's splendid new court house, and to further make the day one of unusual celebration the Sargent County Old Settlers' association has changed the date of their annual gathering from June 17 to June 20. The two events will bring an immense crowd of visitors to the city and a special train will be run from Oakes.

A committee has been appointed by the Commercial club to secure some prominent speaker for the day and music will be furnished by the Forman band. The dedication will form a part of the Old Settlers' program which will be an exceptionally fine one.

Monongahela, Pa., May 31.—Charles Gibson, aged 27 years, is dying as the result of being shot through the body with a ramrod from the accidental discharge of a shotgun. Seven others were injured. The accident happened in the Monongahela cemetery when the annual sunrise salute to Memorial day was being fired.

HARVEY, N. D. BOY SCOUTS ARE BUSY

Working Early and Late in the Pursuit of Agriculture.

Harvey, N. D., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty Boy Scouts engaged in the pursuits of agriculture from the earliest hours in the morning until late at night is not a scene to be witnessed everywhere but the Harvey Scouts present it every day and will continue to attract the attention of every visitor and passer-by from now until after harvest. Through the assistance of the Commercial club which has instituted a corn contest for the children of the public schools the boys have been given the entire West Side park to break up and convert into a corn field and vegetable garden. The undertaking is a big one but the boys are making rapid progress and it has taken much muscular strength and determination to coax the sods into proper seed beds.

Each boy is given a plot and in the corn contest he is required to put in fifty hills of corn which when harvested is to be entered in the Commercial club contest. The competition has aroused great interest and none have limited their work to corn but are planting all kinds of vegetable seeds.

Dickinson Boy Scouts Active.

Dickinson, N. D., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dickinson boy scouts are not only making their activity felt in their home city but are spreading their influence to all the surrounding towns. Scout Commissioner Hacke has just sent in an application for a scout master for Beach, the local boys having aroused such interest in that town that Rev. Good is anxious to organize in connection with his Sunday school work.

The Dickinson troop has also just received notice that all the boys who took the examination in the first aid to the injured course have passed with high grades and are entitled to the Red Cross certificates. These will arrive shortly and the boys who will receive them are Cleon Auner, Robert Hill, Harold Lillibridge, Harold Parker, Frank Royston, Dewey Wiley and George Wilson.

DYNAMITE BLOWS OFF FRONT PORCH

Trouble Between Amasa, Mich., Union and Ex-Secretary Blamed for Outrage.

Iron Mountain, Mich., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dynamiting in the Upper Peninsula blamed on labor troubles is reported at Amasa, where the front perch of a building occupied by William Paulukuhn was blown off. The only explanation is made by Paulukuhn himself, who says that he has been threatened by members of the Western Federation of Labor, of which organization he was at one time secretary. It is claimed that Paulukuhn, when he was succeeded by another as treasurer of the Amasa branch of the union failed to turn over money alleged to be in his hands, and the union sued him for the amount. In justification Paulukuhn declares that the money is due him for services and rent. The members of the labor union declare that they had nothing to do with the explosion and that it is a device of Paulukuhn to win sympathy for himself.

VIRGINIA MAN SUES.

Brings Action at Iron River, Mich., for Additional Royalty.

Iron River, Mich., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.—A suit has been filed in the circuit court of Iron county by J. P. Cleary of Virginia, Minn., against the Gleason Exploring and Mining company, owners of the original lease on the mine which the Davidson Ore company is exploring and developing north of Iron River. Cleary states that about Sept. 14, 1909, Mr. Gleason made a verbal agreement with him that if he succeeded in getting someone to take over the leases he might have all royalty secured over 47 cents per ton. He sets up that a royalty of 50 cents per ton is paid on the section 23 property and 45 cents per ton on the section 14 property. He asks the court to direct that the Gleason Mining and Exploration company pay over to him 3 cents per ton for one lease and 5 cents per ton on the other.

MANDAN IS VOTING.

Election Being Held to Fill Commission Vacancy.

Mandan, N. D., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mandan has a vacancy on its commission board as a result of the resignation of John Foran. This makes the third resignation on the part of members of city commissions in this state within the last month. Mandan is holding an election today to fill the vacancy and it is possible that Foran may be reelected. Differences between himself and other members of the city commission were responsible for his decision to quit the board. One of the defects of the city commission law of the state has been found in the fact that it fails to fix a time when petitions must be filed by candidates seeking places on the boards.

TO COACH OFFICERS.

School for North Dakota Militiamen at Fort Lincoln.

Bismarck, N. D., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—A school of instruction for the officers of the North Dakota National Guard will open at Fort Lincoln, near here, Friday morning and continue for three days.

The various officers from all parts of the state are awaiting the event with great interest and preparations for their coming are occupying the sole attention of the officers of the United States infantry who are stationed at the post. Maj. Hasbrock of the Fourteenth United States infantry, who will have charge of the work, arrives today and he will be assisted by Lieut. Ferguson of the Fourteenth infantry.

This is the first time that the plan has been offered in this state and the work is a part of the general plan of the war department to promote the efficiency of the national guard troops and to better fit them for actual field service. The company which bought these bonds offered to accept more from this county at the same rate.

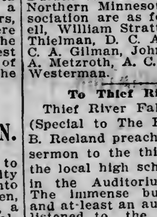
SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.



Sikeston, Mo. — "For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl." —Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

S.S.S. REMOVES THE CAUSE AND CURES CATARRH

Catarrh usually begins with irritated, inflamed membranes of the head, nose and throat, from which there is a constant and copious discharge of watery matter. This comes from inflammation of these mucous surfaces and is caused by catarrhal matters and impurities in the circulation. Nature intends that these membranes shall be nourished by the blood, but waste matters and impurities deposited into these delicate parts, sets up inflammation and the discharge is a natural result. When this secretion begins to dry it becomes thick and sticky, adhering to the back portion of the mouth and throat, causing the "hawking" and straining so troublesome to Catarrh sufferers. Other ordinary symptoms are caused from congestion of the circulation by the catarrhal impurities.

I suffered for a long time with a bad case of Catarrh. I had a continual headache, my cheeks grew purple, my nose was always stopped up, my breath had a sickening and disgusting odor and I coughed incessantly. I heard of your S. S. S. and commenced to use it, and after taking several bottles I was cured and have never since had the slightest symptom of the disease.
MRS. MARY L. WESSERMAN.
4449 Vista Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

I had all the symptoms that accompany Catarrh, such as mucus dropping in the throat, a constant desire to hawk and spit, feeling of dryness in the throat, cough and spitting upon arising in the morning, etc. I had thus suffered for five years. I commenced to take S. S. S. and after I had taken three large bottles, I noticed a change for the better, thus encouraged, I continued to take it, and in a short while was entirely cured. JUDSON A BELLAM.
211 Randolph St., Richmond, Va.

There is only one way to cure Catarrh, and that is to remove the cause by purifying the blood. Washes, sprays, inhalations, etc., do not reach the circulation, and therefore can only afford temporary relief. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impure catarrhal matter, and at the same time building up the system by its unequalled tonic effects. In other words S. S. S. cures Catarrh by purifying the blood so that the mucous surfaces and linings of the body are supplied with healthy nourishment instead of being continually irritated from the catarrhal impurities. Then the inflamed membranes heal, the discharge is checked, head noises cease, the stomach is toned up, and the throat is no longer clogged with mucus. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

RAIN STOPS MANY GAMES

J. Pluvius Cancels Four of Sox Contests to Date.

Pirates Advance While Red Legs and O'Brienites Are Idle.

(BY BRUCE.)

Weather conditions have so far played the very old hob with baseball in the Minny league. Here we are on the last day of May, and the Sox have played only seventeen games. If the adverse weather conditions continue to prevail, there will be a large number of double-headers to play off.

To start with, we failed to play two of the scheduled games at Winona. One of these games may be given to the Pirates by the forfeit route, though in simple justice it does not look as if President Force can be bamboozled into any decision of this sort.

Yesterday it was stated here that the game that is being claimed by Winona would be thrown out entirely. This is not official information, and may be wrong.

Two games were not played on the trip in which twelve games were scheduled. Then on the very first crack out of the weather box the opening game in the home grounds, for which all the festivities were planned, was called off because of the spree J. Pluvius has been on of late.

One with Red Wing was cancelled, and then came the calling off of two of the games with Eau Claire. It was hard luck, as the majority of the fans had a hunch that the Sox would grab at least two of the series, and perhaps three straight.

Wausau comes this afternoon, and weather graciously permitting, the series will be played out.

Under the leadership of ancient Biddy Dolan, one of the grandest players in minor league baseball, the Lumberjacks have been going good the present season. They look formidable, dangerous, and all that, and are picked for a fighting chance at every stage of the journey.

Biddy has made the statement that he will beat Winona out. He opines that with the rounding to of his flingers his team will set a sultry pace. The series that is due to start this afternoon will at least be interesting, as Dolan has some of the fastest players in the league on the Wausau payroll.

While the White Sox and their scrappy friends from the suburbs, the Red Sox, were standing still yesterday, the pesky Winona Pirates were continuing the climb along the gonfalon path.

Poor old La Crosse, the team, or aggregation of cripples that "Jed" pathetically warbles about, could not be expected to make much of a stand against the Killian aggregation. So far it might be said that the Pirates have had comparatively easy riding.

After the series with Wausau we go over to Superior for three games. One of these games is all we have any right to expect. The Red Legs are going awfully fast at the present time and Taylor has a team that is very hard to beat at home.

Then Comes Winona.

After the engagement with the Taylorites, Winona comes for three games and the most exciting series of the season will be on. It will be the desperate determination of the two Head of the Lakes teams to pull the Pirates down several notches in the percentage standing.

The way the Red Legs are going, and not to be modest or meek, the way the White Sox are going, it is possible that the Pirates will drop five or six games at the Head of the Lakes, which would mean a descent of the pennant ladder. Several managers have informed us that the Pirates are traveling too fast. If that is so, then it is right up to the northern teams to prove the statement and bring the race into closer lines.

To date we have seen three teams on the local grounds, not counting the playing here of Superior in the spring pre-season series. Red Wing, Rochester and Eau Claire have come and gone, and of the three teams, Tommy Schoonhoven's champs look by far the most impressive.

This, too, without Kading and De Haven in the lineup. With these two players with the team Thomas Heine will have an aggregation that should be in the jump right from that time on.

Red Wing is not any too strong and Ted Corbett's team does not look any too sure of a first division berth. The Sox showed better than either of these two teams.

Then there is the story about Woods being dissatisfied with Rochester. He is supposed to be the star twirler and trouble with the towhead will naturally impair the efficiency of the Medics.

After the fans get their lamps on Wausau and LaCrosse and Winona, we will have a pretty fair idea of the strength of the league. There will probably be some changes, but the teams are going very well at the present time, and a good line can be gathered on the strength of the eight pennant chasers.

At the present time the Sox are hitting the ball. Meneice is hitting great, and with Leber, Altermott, O'Brien, Johnson, Miller and Holstrom, hitters who have been hitting when hits meant runs, the O'Brienites are proving a very hard team to beat.

The fans of the city have confidence in the team and are supporting the boys in fine shape. There may be occasion later to retract the statement, but viewing the progress of the team since the start of the season, it is only fair to say that the chances of the Sox look great.

Other team managers are unanimous in stating that Darby has a strong aggregation. They look good, and they should be in the race every foot of the way. Such ball playing is appreciated by the fans; that is shown by the good attendance.

BROWNS AND SOX EACH HAVE VICTORY.

Chicago, May 31.—Pitcher Young of Chicago was at his best and Chicago defeated St. Louis in the afternoon game, 2 to 0. The visitors received two scattered hits. Young's support which was ragged at times, was also sensational, Corhan being the individual star in the latter department. A single by McIntyre, Lord's sacrifice and Callahan's double which was followed by a wild pitch, was responsible for the only runs. Mitchell pitched a grand game for the visitors but the batting behind him was lacking. The Chicago team left last night for their first long invasion of the East. Score:

Hayden hit in the three Louisville runs, two of them after the side should have been retired. He, Howard and Bemis each made three hits. Congalton, Downs, Perring and Bemis singled off Higginbotham in the fourth. These hits and Mahling's line from Pennox settled the game. Score:

St. Paul, Minn., May 31.—St. Paul won both games from Minneapolis yesterday, the morning game by a score of 8 to 7 and the afternoon game by a score of 5 to 2. SPORTING NOTES

The acquisition by St. Louis of Meloan from the White Sox and Hogan from Philadelphia foretold the release of Jimmy Murray, Brown's outfielder, several days ago. Fans were prepared for Manager Wallace's announcement in Detroit that Murray would be sent to Indianapolis. Lefty George also will be passed up for more training, Wallace having asked for waivers.

NAPOLEON LAJOIE SERIOUSLY HURT

Cleveland Star May Never Play Another Ball Game.

Chicago, May 31.—Larry Lajoie may not return to the diamond again this season and probably has played his last game of ball. This is the sad news given out by Manager Stovall when the Naps left Chicago to battle with the Tigers at home.

One of the greatest stars baseball has ever produced, and although in the game for many years, an accident may cut the career of Lajoie at a time when he is far from the backward grade.

The great second baseman injured himself in the game with St. Louis May 17. He rested for two weeks and got in the game against the Athletics a week ago Monday. However, Lajoie failed to regain his strength, and he has been out of the fray ever since, with doubts of returning this campaign.

The retirement of Lajoie would mean the passing of one of the kings of the pastime. He has been a major leaguer for thirteen years and in that time batted above .300 in all but two seasons. He broke into prominence with the Philadelphia Nationals and during the war days jumped to Cleveland.

VISITING OARSMEN GET THE LEAVINGS.

New York, May 31.—Visiting oarsmen from Baltimore, Philadelphia and New Haven fared poorly for honors at the forty-fifth annual carnival of the Harlem river regatta here yesterday. With the exception of the intermediate four-oared event which was won by the Fairmount R. A., of Philadelphia, all the races were won by local clubs, the New York Athletic club oarsmen being the winners of the intermediate and junior eight oared contests and the association singles. The varsity crew of Columbia university captured the senior eight-oared event, finishing half a length ahead of the Wahnetah Boat club in the remarkable time of five minutes and 58 seconds.

With the exception of the quarter-mile dash, which was won by F. Feussetel of the Harlem boat club, all of the races were rowed over a straightaway course of a mile and a quarter.

NEWSPAPER MEN DECORATE HARRY PULLIAM'S GRAVE.

Louisville, Ky., May 31.—The grave of Harry C. Pulliam, late president of the National league, in Cave Hill cemetery was decorated according to annual custom yesterday by a local representative of the Baseball Writers' association of America. Mr. Pulliam was a newspaper man before he took up work that aided much in the final development of baseball.

A floral wreath from the owners and members of the Philadelphia American league was placed on the grave of Dr. Mique Powers.

Abel and Heidel Draw.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 31.—Jake Abel of Chattanooga and "Kid" Heidel of Cincinnati, fought eight fast rounds to a draw before the Chattanooga A. C., in the Auditorium last night.

ONE KILLED AND SEVEN INJURED IN AUTO RACE

Ray Harroun Wins 500-Mile Event on Indianapolis Speedway.

Covers Distance in Six Hours, Forty-One Minutes, Eight Seconds.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—For fame, fortune and the glory of the automobile, one life was sacrificed and several men were injured yesterday in the first 500-mile race on a speedway. The greatest test of skill and endurance in the history of the sport of motor racing was won by Ray Harroun, driving a Marmon car, in the time of 6 hours 41 minutes and 8 seconds. Closely pressing Harroun for the victory were Ralph Mulford, with a Lozier, who finished second, and David Bruce Brown, who drove his Flat under the wire a good third.

Seventy-seven thousand people roared encouragement to the forty pilots that started the race at 10 o'clock in the morning and with unlagging enthusiasm cheered the leaders in the last laps of the race and watched the field pound round the course in division of the lesser honors.

In the most serious accident of the day, S. P. Dickson of Chicago, mechanician for Arthur Greiner, driving an Amplex, lost his life in an upset on the back stretch. The race had been on but a few minutes and the Amplex was in its thirtieth mile when the rim on one of the wheels flew off. The car twisted on the track in a mighty spasm, hurling the men from their seats. Dickson was thrown against a fence, twenty feet from the car, and was terribly mangled. He was killed instantly.

Greiner was unconscious when he was picked up, and it was feared he had a concussion of the brain, but when he was revived at the field hospital it was found his only injury was a fractured arm.

Series of Accidents.

A series of succeeding accidents thrilled the immense crowd, pitched high a fearful expectancy and kept thousands of eyes strained on the track for a carnival of death that seemed imminent whenever a group of cars flashed close to each other.

Men injured in the mishaps were as follows: Dave Lewis, machanician for Teddy Tetzlaff (Lozier), right leg broken near hip; Harry Knight, driver of Westcott, breast bruised and possible internal injuries; John T. Glover, sible internal injuries; body bruised; Knight's mechanician, body bruised; Bob Evans, mechanician for Jack Tower (Jackson), body bruised when he leaped from car in panic; John Wood, mechanician for Joe Jagersburger (Case), run over and badly bruised.

The crowd got beyond control of the militia and policemen posted about the grounds, and swarmed across the infield when Dickson was killed and pressed close about his body and that of the unconscious Greiner. Soldiers were obliged to use force in order to clear a space for the surgeons when the ambulance arrived.

The throng was wild with excitement after the first accident and rushed back and forth over the field when other accidents were reported from one point or another. In the stands men and women were on their feet for hours, cheering their favorites, and groaning with apprehension when cars crashed into cars or ran off the inner edge of the track.

In the earlier part of the race the track was so filled with the whirling cars of the contestants that the race seemed but an exhibition of fine automobiles. The winner was hidden in the mass.

New Record at 150 Miles.

At the 150 miles Bruce Brown had set a new record, regardless of classification. His time was 1:59:12 as against Dawson's old mark of 2:01:09. When Harroun took the lead in the 190th mile the race took form and then the crowd's interest was divided between the contest and catastrophes that were momentarily expected.

The cars began to cast tires, Steering gears began to give way. Directly in front of the grandstand Joe Jagersburger's Case car got away from him and switched back and forth across the track. Wood, the mechanician, leaped out and fell and the car passed over him. He lay in a path of death, for other cars were rushing upon him. All swerved safely by as he rose and staggered to the track side with the exception of Harry Knight's Wescott, which plunged to the inner fence, threw out Knight and Glover and careening against Herbert Lytle's Apperson, turned it over.

When the race was half over, toward the north end of the home stretch, Louis Disbrow's Pope-Hartford threw a tire and swerved in front of Tetzlaff's Lozier. A collision followed, in which the rear wheels of Disbrow's car were torn off and the Lozier turned turtle. Tetzlaff's mechanician was caught under the car and his leg broken.

Harroun Finishes First.

The roar of the motors, belching flame and smoke from the exhausts of the scorched engines and the continuous cheering of the multitude in the grandstands and bleachers, was deafening as the race grew into its last 100 miles. An overwrought woman in a box fainted and fell from her chair. The incident almost caused a panic in the nervous crowd. Hysterical screams of women in the southern grandstand when Burman's Benz cast a tire into the air and over the retaining wall, sounded out through the deeper noise of the home stretch. In the latter part of the race accidents ceased and the spectators became composed and centered attention upon the struggle that Harroun was winning. Shouts of encouragement for him rose in a speedy crescendo when he swept into the home stretch on his last lap, and when Starter Wagner gave him the finishing flag the speedway enclosure rang with applause.

Harroun, followed by a delighted mob drove into the infield and was surrounded by a horde of photographers who wanted his grimy and imspassive face as it rose just over the edge of the steering wheel. "Give me something to eat," said Harroun, as he dragged his stiffened legs from under the steering wheel.

Eight Cars in the Race.

A close study of the complete score card for the race shows plainly that not more than eight out of the forty entries were up in the lead at any stage of the long grind. These eight entries included Ray Harroun, Marmon; Ralph Mulford, Lozier; David Bruce Brown, Flat; Spencer Wishart, Mercedes; Ralph De Palma, Simplex; Fred Belcher, Knox; John Aitken, National, and Teddy Tetzlaff, Lozier. Of these eight, Aitken and Tetzlaff were forced to withdraw by accidents to their cars.

The race was between Harroun, Mulford and Bruce Brown. At the first 100 miles Bruce Brown led, Mulford was second and Tetzlaff was third. At 150 miles, Harroun had come up from the trailers and was second. At 190 miles Harroun had taken the lead, which he then held to the end of the race.

The first ten men to finish the race and their winnings follow:

Name—	Car.	Prize
Ray Harroun	Marmon	$10,000
Ralph Mulford	Lozier	5,000
D. Bruce Brown	Flat	3,000
Spencer Wishart	Mercedes	2,000
Ralph De Palma	Simplex	1,500
Charles Merz	National	1,000
W. H. Turner	Amplex	800
Harry Cobe	Jackson	700
Fred Belcher	Knox	500
Hughey Hughes	Mercer	500
Total		$25,000

In addition to this sum the leading ten drivers shared in a distribution of side prizes given by accessory makers amounting to nearly $15,000. The entrants of the ten leading cars will be given bronze plaques by the speedway management.

Has Won Many Races.

Harroun was born at Spartansburg, Pa., and is 29 years old. He holds a long list of records and has won many trophies. Harroun won more firsts than any other driver during 1910. He retired from the racing game at the close of the season but was induced to re-enter the sport to compete in this 500-mile event.

He has won, among other trophies the 200-mile trophy, the Atlanta speedway trophy, Los Angeles motordrome 100-mile stock chassis trophy, Atlanta Automobile association trophy and the two-hours' free-for-all trophy of Los Angeles motordrome.

THREE RECORDS ARE SMASHED

New Marks Made at Games of Irish-American Club.

New York, May 31.—Three new amateur athletic records were made at the track and field carnival of the Irish-American Athletic club, at Celtic park yesterday. Gwynn Henry of Eden, Tex., who ran unattached, won the special 125-yards scratch dash in 12 1-5 seconds. This is a new American record, the old figures being 12 2-5 seconds, made at Berkeley, over twenty-two years ago by Charles A. Sherill of Yale and the N. Y. A. C.

John Eller of the Irish-American Athletic club, the champion hurdler, ran his trial and final heats in the 250-yard hurdle event in 29 1-5 seconds. The former world's record, 31 4-5 seconds, has stood since 1889, when George Schwegler of the N. Y. A. C. won at Staten Island.

The third record to go was in the hop-skip-and-jump, when the world's champion, Daniel F. Ahearn, Irish-American Athletic club, beat his own figures twice, finally making 50 feet 11 inches. Just a year ago he made the old mark of 49 feet 7¾ inches.

ON THE IRON RANGES

PARADES ARE CALLED OFF

Otherwise Eveleth, Virginia and Hibbing Observe Memorial Day.

Exercises in Keeping With Day Held in Principal Range Cities.

Eveleth, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Memorial day was fittingly observed despite the inclement weather. The parade planned on, was abandoned, but the Fayal band and militia joined in a minature parade, and though it was raining rather heavily, marched through the muddy streets to the high school, where the program ws commeneed at 2 o'clock, with C. A. McNamara as chairman.

The opening selection was rendered by the Fayal band under the direction of Leader Scott. Miss Sadie Pennington's pupils recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address, Maurice Rabinzowitz delivering the preface. A patriotic song was rendered by Miss Moulton's class, while the vocal numbers given by a quartet consisting of Fergus R. Ellsworth, Raymond M. Dungan, Richard J. Coole and Cass U. Jenkins, with Mrs. R. M. Dungan as accompanist were well received and the quartet were compelled to respond to an encore.

The principal address of the afternoon was by Assistant County Attorney W. H. Greene. In a stirring address he grapically described scenes of the Civil war.

The high school auditorium was appropriately decorated with flags and emblems. The stage was also well arranged and seated on the platform were Mayor Jacob A. Saari, W. E. Greene, Rev. Phillip A. Scharz, Jr., Rev. B. D. Hanscom, Fayal band and Charles A. McNamara, Enos Rennler and John Richardson. Eveleth's sole survivors of the Civil war.

Storm Changed Virginia Plans.

Virginia, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—A steady rain, beginning at an early hour in the morning, prevented any out of doors observance of Memorial day here Tuesday, but in the evening a fine program was enjoyed by a big audience. Dr. M. S. Rice of Duluth delivered an eloquent oration on, "Abraham Lincoln, American," and there were short addresses by Judge Montague, Supt Bliss and others. Other features were a flag salute by several hundred school children, the recital of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech in concert by 100 pupils of the Eighth grades, a reading, "Memorial Day," by Miss Zadie McDonald and music by the Commercial, Boys' Military and City bands.

Before the end of the school year there will be a parade of 2,500 school children and other exercises for which the children have been making preparations for some time.

Hibbing Exercises Indoors.

Hibbing, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—In spite of the downpour of rain yesterday, some of the school children marched to the cemetery and joined in the Memorial day ceremonies at the graves. The regular program was somewhat curtailed and the original procession was cancelled, only the militia and the veterans with some of the school children marching out to the cemetery. One little fellow of 15 years of age and lame hopped out on crutches and manfully refused all offers of a 'lift' by the way. Beautiful wreaths of flowers were provided for the decoration of the graves.

The program of speeches and music was carried out as originally intended in the armory; Victor L. Power making the chief speech. Mr. Power referred to the two great sentiments of patriotism and religion, and spoke of the magnificent freedom and liberty of America. He referred to the sacrifices of the past and of the terrible price that was paid in bloodshed and in money for the freedom that we enjoy today.

The musical numbers were supplied by a mixed quartet, comprising Mrs. D. D. McEachin, Mrs. S. C. Geiser, W. R. Spensley and John Murphy, and Fitches' orchestra. All the numbers were excellent.

D. T. Collins read Lincoln's Gettysbury speech and the boys of the sixth grade rendered the "Man Without a Country."

TWO HARBORS HAS BIDS FOR SCALES

Two Bids Submitted, But Matter Goes Over Until the Next Meeting.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only four members of the council were present at the meeting Monday night.

Alderman Strand of the committee on sidewalks reported that about 30,000 square feet of concrete sidewalks would have to be laid this summer. He recommended that the city purchase a concrete mixer and lay the sidewalks by day labor, which he said could be done at a cost of about 10 cents per square foot to the city, whereas if let by contract it would cost at least 14 cents per square foot. The report was accepted, but a hearing was set for June 12, when it will be decided whether it is to be done by contract or day labor.

The appointment of city engineer was considered. Only two offers had been received, one from James G. Lawson of Duluth, and the other from P. F. Huntington, city engineer of Eveleth. James G. Lawson was appointed at his old pay, temporarily to superintend the installation of the new gyratory rock crusher. Lawson charges 1½ per cent on plans and 4 per cent on superintending work.

Bids were received from A. B. Chase & Co. and from Fairbanks-Morse company for a ten ton city scale. Mr. Baxter of the latter company was present and discussed his bid. It is planned to have the city scale in front of the city hall. Fairbanks-Morse company bid $255 for a steel frame, 16 feet by 7 feet 10 inch scale, with extension levers, the company to superintend the work, but the city to do the installation, and $175 on a wooden frame scale. Chase & Co. bid $175 for a 22 by 8 foot scale, and $150 for a smaller type, nothing specified as to the materials. The scale the Fairbanks - Morse company bid on would have extensions into the city clerks' office, so the beam would be inside the office, and the city clerk would do the weighing. Since only four members were present, no scale could be purchased and the matter was laid over for one week.

CHISHOLM LIKED SCHOOL PROGRAM

Entertainment Given Monday Evening Was Best of the Kind This Year.

Chisholm, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The program rendered Monday night in the high school auditorium was one of the best given this year.

Folk dances of the Bohemian, Norwegian, Italian, English and Russian nationalities were rendered by children of the lower grades, every one of which was well received, and called for an encore. The selection, "Shoogy-Shoo," by the Girls' Glee club was thoroughly enjoyable, and the quartet, "Moonlight," by Miss A. Johnson, Miss L. Hood, J. Madsen and C. M. Beck was so good that everyone present was proud of Chisholm's home talent musical ability. Miss A. Carolyn Johnson, principal of the school, sang "Dreamy Days"; Prof. O. A. Olsen of Hibbing rendered an excellent violin selection, and the high school band, about twenty members in all, played two pieces. There was no dull number on the entire program.

The play rendered by the class of 1911, assisted by their friends, was "The Mouse Trap." Each one in the play had his or her part well in hand, and the various scenes in the play were most realistically presented.

The baccalaureate sermon is to be preached on Sunday night, June 4, by Prof. Virtue of the Nebraska university, formerly of Winona. The class motto is "Into the Midst of Things." Miss Mabel Johnson, Arthur Hayes and Franz Talue comprise the class.

A. R. Coates, principal owner of the Euclid mine, was here Monday, looking after his interests at the mine.

Editor Rydeen Sells.

Ed. Rydeen, formerly editor and manager of the Chisholm Tribune-Herald, and later having the same interest in the Chisholm Independent, has sold out his newspaper business in Chisholm to Oscar La Franc, and will shortly move with his family to Tacoma, Wash. Mrs. Rydeen and family are at present in Hayward, Wis.

Dr. Graham of the Kirk hospital here is being relieved by Dr. Pengilly of the Rood hospital staff of Hibbing during the former's visit East for a couple of weeks.

Decoration day was very quietly observed here, due to a steady rain which began early in the day and continued all day. The stores and other business places were closed all day. Chisholm probably bears a distinction that no other town in the state of Minnesota of its size bears, in that there is but one veteran residing here. Mr. Cuss is 70 years old and last year was the only veteran who participated in the exercises.

supported by at least two-thirds of the members.

Mr. Bryan took exception to the program of his party in the house and criticized sharply the majority of the Democrats who have agreed to support the revised tariff schedule on wool and woolen goods. The criticism is contained in a statement made public through Representative Harrison of New York.

"The Democratic voters," said Mr. Bryan, "know that all needed revenue can be raised in less oppressive ways, and they know the argument that the tariff on wool, though proposed as a revenue tariff, is merely a subterfuge employed because those who employ it are ashamed to say that they favor protection."

The Nebraskan warned against the drift of Democrats toward a protective policy, which he said is most marked in those Democrats who "have among their constituents influential beneficiaries of the system."

«Not Add Hypocrisy.»

"The Republicans want protection on wool because they believe in the principals of protection," he declared. "Let no Democratic advocate of a tax on wool masquerade behind the pretense that he is voting for a revenue tariff; let him not add hypocrisy to the sin which he commits against his party."

Mr. Bryan insisted that if protection was to be accepted as a Democratic doctrine, "it be accepted openly and applied to everything and all sections."

He said there is no reason for favoritism to a few sheep-raisers at the expense of all who wear woolen clothing.

Lesson From Republicans.

"Before the Democratic party is finally committed to the doctrine of protection," he declared, "it will be necessary to consult the voters of the party, and it may be well to remember that the voters of all parties are braver than the politicians. The Republican voters were brave enough to turn out a lot of Republican Aldriches, so what reason have our Democratic congressmen to think that Democratic voters are less courageous?"

Mr. Bryan's defiance of the party leaders in the house caused intense feeling in the party, but notwithstanding this, Mr. Underwood, as chairman of the house committee on ways and means, was insistent in the prediction that the revenue wool bill will be approved by a big majority.

"In my judgment," said Mr. Underwood in answer to Mr. Bryan, "his statement is unjust and unfair to the members of the ways and means committee and to the Democratic representatives in congress who will support the bill.

Cut Duties in Half.

"The ways and means committee has cut in half the whole wool schedule. They have reduced the duty on manufactured goods as low as they were under the Wilson bill that Mr. Bryan voted for when raw wool was placed on the free list. In that reduction they have fallen short of the $40,000,000 now raised by wool by $13,000,000, and it is necessary in order to secure this revenue to place a revenue tax on raw wool imported into the United States.

"Under the high rates of the Payne tariff bill the tax on raw wool was highly competitive, nearly one-half of the wool used in this country being imported from abroad. When the rates on raw wool are cut more than one-half, it is absolutely a competitive rate, levied solely for the purpose of revenue without any of the essentials of a protective tariff."

Mr. Underwood declared that in the tariff bill the ways and means committee have gone even further than a gradual reduction in the tariff to which the Democratic party in its last platform was committed.

Compares Wilson Bill.

"If the Wilson bill, which Mr. Bryan voted for, was an honest reduction of the tariff in the interest of the people, a bill that reduces the taxes on woolen goods which the people buy as low as under the bill Bryan voted for and advocated, certainly cannot be a protective measure from this standpoint. The fact that in reducing these taxes on woolen goods we have levied a small tax on the manufacture does not in any way increase the burden to the purchasers of woolen goods."

The Democratic leader explained that the party and the committee are confronted with a deficiency in the treasury; that the government needs more money and that the income tax is as yet unratified. He said the committee, in reducing the tariff, has to so write the schedules that they would bring at least as much revenue as under the present law. The committee contends that by reducing the rate and making the tariff more competitive, more goods will come in and thus supply the revenue.

Under the Wilson bill the tariffs on wool averaged about 40 per cent ad valorem, a figure comparing closely with the average in the bill to be made public next Thursday.

Tariff for Revenue.

"The Democratic party," Mr. Underwood concluded, "stands essentially for a tariff for revenue, which means we shall collect from the custom houses the revenue required for the expenses of the government. It does not stand for free trade, and I do not believe that when this bill is published and the people understand the facts, they will be misled by the statements which Mr. Bryan has made. I feel sure the Democratic caucus will adopt the bill by a large majority and that it will be approved by the Democratic masses as a party measure."

active issues, dealings in American Tobacco securities were the most erratic. On the "curb" American Tobacco common opened at 500, unchanged from Monday's close, but by 11:30 the stock had fallen 75 points to 425, and later dropped 82 points to 418. On the stock exchange dealings in the 4 and 6 per cent tobacco bonds were the most active on the list, the 4's advancing at one time to 92½, a gain of 8½, and the 6's falling off 7 points. Consolidated Tobacco 4's, one of the American Tobacco company's subsidiaries, declined over 5 points, with declines of 3 and 4 points respectively in American Snuff preferred and American Tobacco preferred.

Further weakness continued in the afternoon. All the standard stocks were heavy. It was reckoned that at 418 the depreciation in American Tobacco shares showed a shrinkage of values of $102,000,000. Up to noon bonds sales totalled $2,750,000, largely the Tobacco issues, and stock sales were then 500,000 shares.

one drawn last week by Attorney General Simpson, and there is added to it the charge that Whittier caused or permitted inmates of the girls' training school to be treated in a manner similar to that of the boys. Mr. Whittier, from December, 1902, until August, 1910, was the chief executive officer of the Minnesota State Training School for Boys and Girls. Since August, 1910, the girls' school has been conducted separately.

It is probable that E. P. Sanborn will appear as attorney to prosecute the charges, although this has not been definitely settled. Senator Stephens said he also expected to telephone Senator J. D. Sullivan of St. Cloud, asking him to come and assist. Senator Sullivan is the big, good-natured lawyer who examined all witnesses during the legislative investigation, and showed marked ability to bring out facts.

Gives Names of Boys.

The complaint against Mr. Whittier covers nine typewritten pages. It cites names of boys who were punished and when they were punished. It describes the so-called whipping machine or spanking machine which Whittier is said to have put in use at the school.

It charges that records kept at the school are incorrect, in that they do not tell to what extent boys were punished; that the records show one boy received hirty blows when Whittier himself testified he received fifty.

It also charges that the girls were punished in the same manner as boys, "with like effect upon the bodies and flesh."

While the legislative investigating committee was at Red Wing, Senator Stephens secured the strap said to have been used in "spanking" girls, and a pair of manacles said to have been used in disciplining them. Mr. Whittier got hold of these before the party left, however, and refused to allow them to be taken away. Senator Stephens said this morning he would ask the board of parole to produce them at the hearing.

Grows With Duluth.

Among the industries that has had wonderful development in recent years is the cement block business. The tendency of builders all over the country to the use of cement blocks for foundation and for superstructure work has brought about a demand that can hardly be satisfied with the output of the various factories now scattered over the United States.

One of these, the West Duluth Cement Block works, starting in business five years ago, is recognized as one of the most prominent industrial enterprises in the western end of the city.

The factory is located at the intersection of Sixty-second avenue west and Grand avenue with the Northern Pacific tracks, and the office is located at the corner of Fifty-sixth avenue west and Grand avenue.

Besides cement blocks, the firm deals largely in tile, brick and concrete posts, the latter having come into quite general use in preference to wooden posts.

H. C. Brown, proprietor of the works, has always figured prominently in the affairs of West Duluth. He is a strong believer in the future of the city and has ever been an ardent booster for Duluth.

A great many of the homes in Duluth were built by Mr. Brown.

The firm has the exclusive right in St. Louis county to manufacture the national steel reinforced waterproof cement burial vault.

VOTERS ASKED TO EXPRESS WISHES

School Board Calls for Nominations to Fill Three Vacancies.

Interest in the election of three members to the board of education is being aroused, and petitions have been sent by the board to voters calling for their suggestions as to suitable candidates. These petitions are to be received by the board on or before 5 o'clock on June 30, if they are to be considered. The terms of Directors L. D. Campbell, E. A. Cobb and W. E. Magner will expire on August 5 and the school election will be held on July 15.

As yet no candidates have been suggested, although the retiring members have expressed a willingness to serve another term if the voters of Duluth so wish.

To Revive Shocked Persons.

New York, May 31. — The National Electric Light association and the medical profession have allied themselves in a search for means to revive persons shocked into insensibility by electricity. So far little progress has been made, but the national commission is at work on the problem and will report its findings to the association. This announcement was made at the thirty-fourth annual convention of the association here by W. W. Freeman, president of the organization. Nearly 4,000 delegates from 1,500 companies are present.

City of Mexico, May 31.—Pacification of the country, notwithstanding outbreaks here and there, is progressing to the satisfaction of the new authorities. President De La Barra regards the outlook as surpassing his most sanguine expectations. If he had doubts respecting the willingness of the scattered insurrecto bands to abide by the peace made at Juarez, they appear to have been dissipated by scores of reassuring telegrams which have reached the capital from all parts of the country.

A wire dispatch from Ely states that the 1,200-foot level crosscut from the Giroux shaft has proceeded to within about 80 feet of the old Alpha shaft. The crosscut is now in a favorable formation, encountering some ore carrying a sprinkling of native copper, and word may now be expected any time of the encountering of the main ore body. A map of the new work on the 1,000-foot level shows that in 500 feet crosscutting veins have been cut aggregating over 69 feet in width, and averging 10 1-3 per cent copper. There is also forty feet of ore on the 700-foot level which carries metallic copper.

REYES SOON TO REACH MEXICO

Madero Receives Reports of Elections of Various Governors.

Juarez, Mex., May 31.—Gen. Bernardino Reyes will return to Mexico within a few days, according to a telegram from Adolfo Reyes, his son, who is at City of Mexico, to Francisco I. Madero, Jr., today.

It is understood that the Mexican government was advised by Senor Madero that he did not oppose the return of Gen. Reyes and the government in turn so informed Gen. Reyes.

Messages today to Senor Madero report the election of Jose Maytorena as governor and Eugenio Gayou as vice governor of the state of Sonora. Both are Maderoists.

Senor Maytorena will leave here today for Hermosillo, the state capital. The legislature of Sinaloa, it was reported today, has elected Dr. Enrique Gonzales, also selected by Madero.

A message received by Madero from Ambrosio Figueroa, rebel leader of the south, assures Madero of Figueroa's loyalty.

Reports from the city of Chihuahua and surrounding districts are not optimistic.

MAY DEAL IS NOW HISTORY

Bulls Made Money But Are Loaded Up With Unwieldy "Corpses."

Shorts Run Toward Close—More Moisture Falls in Northwest.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 31.—The May deal went out of existence without any fireworks. Locally there had been no trading for two or three weeks. In Chicago the May price held firm to the close. The bulls made money on the option but are loaded up with about 10,000,000 bu of cash wheat. May wheat here closed unchanged. July and September also remained the same as on Monday. Cash was ½c over July. The cash market was active. Oats gained 1c, rye lost 2c and barley was unchanged. Durum gained ½c for July.

Linseed was weaker. A few offerings of seed kicked around in the pit and buyers backed away. May and July declined 4c. September lost 10c and October lost 4c. June-July seed at Antwerp closed at $2.08 a bu. Without including 4 per cent for impurities the close was $2.02. Winnipeg May dropped 5 cents to $2.10.

The wheat market opened soft and declined on account of further scattered precipitation in the Northwest where the spring wheat is in excellent condition. It is probable that the government's report as of June 1 will show one of the highest if not the highest percentage of condition in the history of the spring wheat crop in the Northwest.

On the other hand it is likely that the Southwestern crop of winter wheat will be less than last year's yield. The government's report as of June 1 will probably show a lowered condition that may foster a bullish condition if the June weather should be unusually dry. The report will have a tendency to make the market a two-sided affair regardless of weather conditions.

Bradstreet's wheat east of the Rockies increased 446,000 bus., in Canada the decrease was 1,460,000 bus., in the United States and Canada the decrease was 1,014,000 bus. Afloat and in Europe decreased 4,600,000 bus., a total decrease of 5,614,000 bus. The wheat crop of India has been officially estimated at 372,264,000 bus. compared with 357,841,000 bus. last year. The European visible supply at the close of last week amounted to 53,822,000 bus. A Broomhall cable reports heavy rains and hail storms in the south of Germany. Damage to wheat is feared.

King of Toledo wired the June report of Oklahoma, giving the percentage of wheat on May 25 as 53 compared with 65 in May. Since the report was made rains have fallen which have been of much benefit.

Reports from Nebraska were pessimistic. An Omaha firm wired that elevator people were getting reports claiming that heads were short and that recent rains did not benefit wheat to the extent that had been expected.

Cables were lower and the market closed heavy. Damage reports from Germany caused short covering at the opening.

Chicago May Deal.

The Chicago May deal continued to the finish. The shorts were "squeezed" but not to the extent that some people expected. Brokers acting for the leading longs fed out large lots of wheat as shorts covered, although not in sufficient quantities to break the market in the early hours. The advance in prices caused a rush of wheat to Chicago. The "corpose" is about 10,000,000 bu, one of the largest of any similar deal in May wheat and the trade will watch with interest its disposal. The shorts worked energetically to fill the longs with wheat and their efforts were moderately successful.

It was impossible to tell today how much of the short interest settled privately. Outside of Chicago the May deal was quiescent, although a fair-sized short interest existed in Winnipeg and St. Louis. Chicago stocks of wheat are more than 8,000,000 bu, not including several hundred thousand bushels which were added to stores today and in fair quantity which has been going through a cleaning operation and which was turned over at noon today.

Julius H. Barnes said today that the Duluth market is within 3c of an export basis. Minneapolis has been getting more wheat than it has been able to use, and prospects indicate a possibility of export business in the fall-end of a short spring wheat crop.

The milling demand for flour is quiet. There is no export business in American wheat, and mills are securing supplies from near at home. There seems to be no pronounced shortage of supplies. Cash wheat is in the hands of wealthy holders and the demand is at a low ebb.

Receipts today were liberal. Whether the heavy run of wheat will continue is problematical. Banks have forced the sale of a large amount of wheat, and the recent advance has been responsible for the marketing of an unusual quantity. Supplies in the country are at a low stage, but probably are not reduced to the small level that most people estimate. The adage that it never pays to bull the tail end of a short crop seems to have been true this year.

MARKET GOSSIP

Chicago Record-Herald: E. William Kalb returned yesterday from a week's examination of the wheat crop prospect in Kansas and recorded his guess that the crop of the state would be about 61,000,000 bu. He claims that about 15 per cent of the wheat acreage of the state was seeded in the corn fields and is next thing to a failure. The crop is turning prematurely yellow in the central southern districts. His estimate for the state is based on the soft winter wheat acreage of the eastern section growing 25 bu per acre, 15 bu in the north central and 9 bu in ten south central counties, with only 5,000,000 bu for the western five tiers of counties.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: The wheat market opened this morning irregular with realizing in May ¾d lower and the other months about unchanged from Monday. Following the opening there was further realizing in May while the distant months were firmly supported and advanced ¼d. Buying was largely by shorts on the fears of damage in Germany by heavy storms and the firmness in Buenos Ayres yesterday. There was an improved demand from the continent with cargoes more firmly held. Spot markets were lower and foreign crop conditions show an improvement. The market was dull but generally firm and 1d lower and otherwise ⅛@¼d higher than Monday.

Corn market was easy and ⅛@¼d lower on freer Danubian offers. Following the opening the market was neglected at the opening decline.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Bulls Early Show Control of the May Option.

Chicago, May 31.—Although this was the final day for the delivery of wheat on May contracts, and there had been much talk of a "corner" the exciting time looked for on the exchange did not develop during the early part of the session. Only a fair general trade was witnessed, the most of it being by local traders and not in the May option, but as a general rule the new crop months. A few transactions in May showed that the bulls had control of the market, but were apparently not in a mood to squeeze prices in the sensational fashion that many dealers had been led to expect. A rise of ½c to 1c proved to be the limit of advance so far as May was concerned. Other months actually showed a net decline. May touched $1.04 as compared with $1.03 on Monday night, but steadied around $1.03¾. July opened at 88⅝c to 88⅞@89c, varying from ⅛c lower to ⅛@¼c up, sold at 89c, and then receded to 88½@88⅝c. Contrary to predictions, most of the business in May was in small lots which were peddled out as required.

Subsequently May went up to $1.04¾, but other months showed relatively little sympathy. About 1,000,000 bu were delivered on contracts, an amount far under popular estimates before hand. The close was firm for May at a net gain of 1¾. July finished easy ⅜c up at 89½c.

Corn eased off because of the fine weather and big receipts. July opened unchanged to ⅛@¼c lower at 52⅝c to 52⅞@53c, touched 53c and declined to 52⅝c.

A little rush of shorts caused a rather abrupt temporary rise in May. The close was steady at 53¼@53⅜c for July, a net advance of ⅜c.

Resting orders to buy rallied oats from initial weakness due to fine crop reports. July started ⅛c to ¼c down at 35⅛c to 35½c and recovered to 35⅜c.

A liberal run of hogs pulled down provisions. First sales were 2½@5c to 17½c off with July at $14.70 for pork, $8.07½ to $8.10 for lard and $7.90 for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Early Trade Drags But Firms Come Later in Session.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 31.—While everyone was waiting to see if there would be fireworks in Chicago May, not much business was done early on a market that dragged prices lower for the Minneapolis options. Later there was greater firmness and price recovery. Good weather is the main influence in the Northwest and as crop news remains fine the market is inclined to drag downward. Minneapolis received 215 cars today against 148 last year. Shipments, 61 cars. May opened 93¾@⅞; high, 94⅝; low, 93¾; closed 94⅜. July opened 96⅜@⅝; high, 95⅞; low, 94⅞; closed 95⅞. STRENGTH AT CLOSING

Good Rallies Are Made By Stocks in the Final Hour.

Early Selling Movement on Tobacco Decision and Steel Situation.

New York, May 31.—Decided strength was shown by the railroad stocks at the opening of the market today. The metal shares exhibited marked weakness following the cut in prices of steel products. The supreme court decision in the American Tobacco case caused an advance of 8½ in American Tobacco 4's. The preferred dropped a point. The first sale of the common on the curb showed no change from the last transaction on Monday. Among the railroad stocks Canadian Pacific gained 2 points, Union Pacific 1¾, St. Paul, Erie first preferred and Northern Pacific 1¼ and Reading a point. Amalgamated Copper and United States declined a point.

Prices broke badly soon after the initial dealings, the market going off under a deluge of selling orders, induced by profit-taking sales, fears of further investigations of industrial corporations and the uneasiness generated by the violent fluctuations in American Tobacco issues.

Opening advances were converted in most all instances into substantial losses. Amalgamated Copper and Westinghouse Electric sold three points under Monday's close, United States Steel and Reading 2 and a score or more of other stocks from 1 to 2½.

Large dealings in American Tobacco 4's sent them up from 85⅛ Monday's close, to 93⅛, with a reaction to below 90. The 6's, broke 7 points to 1.03. Consolidated Tobacco 4's jumped 5 points to 90. American Snuff preferred gave way three points and American Tobacco preferred 3¾. On the curb American Tobacco slumped 50 points to 450.

The American Tobacco decision and the reduction of prices of steel products combined to upset the stock market this morning and prices fluctuated violently. Following the general rise in London, the market here opened with substantial gains in all of the prominent stocks, with the exception of United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper. By the time trading was well under way, however, the market began to show the effect of heavy selling. The pressure, which was directed particularly against United States Steel, quickly resulted in a general setback. The most spectacular losses occurred on the curb, where American Tobacco dropped seventy-five points during the morning to 425. The losses were extended during the second hour. Union Pacific fell 3¼ and Reading 2¼ below their opening prices and United States Steel dropped to 3 points below Monday's close. Bonds were easy.

With a recovery in American Tobacco to 430, the entire market strengthened, and there was a sharp rally, reaching to a point in Union Pacific.

The market closed strong. The short interest covered extensively in the closing hour and there was also large buying for the long account, which advanced the market spiritedly. Rallies throughout the list ran from 1 to 2 points with business on as large a scale as during the early selling movement.

Cotton Market.

New York, May 31.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1 poin on May and generally 3 to 6 points higher during the early trading on covering of shorts and a little fresh buying inspired by the steadiness of Liverpool and New Orleans over the local holiday. Press dispatches claimed that there had been good rains in North Texas, but the official weather map showed no precipitation of importance in the western belt, and continued drouth in the Carolinas was perhaps a factor in the advance.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: June, 15.65; July, 15.75; August, 15.16; September, 15.66; October, 13.20; November, 13.13; December, 13.13; January, 13.12; March 13.18.
